Even those who complained, even those who lacked leadership, that he just didn't know how to fight and simply could not campaign, in these post-election days have been claiming that he's exactly "right" for this particular political situation.

Furthermore, he demonstrated, even to the satisfaction of the doubters that he could campaign, and platform-to-platform, even toe-to-toe with John Diefenbaker who took to the stump touted as the greatest performer to come down the political pike in more years than anyone cared to remember.

The Liberals now are sagely nodding their heads to Pearson affability, his quiet courtesy, the sure diplomacy of the man are exactly the qualities that appeal most to the troubled voter in this present uncertain Parliamentary imbalance.

Dollar, fire, sell for the fight, daring, the belligerent or impertinent, even imagination, are precisely the things now to discount politically, the Liberals feel sure.

What is required is the firm, sure, knowledgeable hand, the balanced eye, the cool and relaxed give and take attitude of sensible statesmanship.

So Mike Pearson and the Liberal Party finally are stuck with — and on — each other.

Common Sense Is Not All It Suggests

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the reasons that psychology makes so little headway among the mass of people is that its deepest truths seem to violate what we cherish as "common sense."

It gives us offense to be told that certain of our motives and behavior are the exact opposite of what we think they are: what is gentler, for instance, could be convinced that he is really trying to lose, yet wins?

Yet everything we know, on the deeper psychological level, about addiction to drinking points to a strong desire to lose. The pathological gambler who broke because he cannot rest until he has lost everything.

In much the same way the Don Juan would be affronted to be told that his "attentions" to women is really a dislike of them; that his compulsive sexual activity conceals fear, mud and resentment of the woman, and not from affection, love and sharing of all, that his promiscuousness may be a way of fending himself against his homosexual yearnings.

Perhaps we can begin to understand this topsy-turvy world of the unconscious if the simple and common illustration: the various fears and phobias that afflict people — the most common of all being a fear of heights.

Actually, the person who nervously draws away from a high window or the edge of a cliff is protecting himself from fear of what he feels. His panic is not the height itself but his own destructive impulse — and he draws away to escape the temptation.

Almost all phobias of this kind are wishes in reverse: we fear what we are attracted to. The phobia is the negative side of the underlying desire. Unless we understand and accept this, we cannot comprehend how a person, at a certain time in his life will commit some act (suicide, arson, embezzlement) that seems so much against the grain of his character.

The typical embezzler, for instance, is a clerk who is quiet, industrious, methodical, no known bad habits, a long reputation for trustworthiness. Suddenly the alarm bells, and everyone is quite amazed.

The "worrier" is another prime example; and, the worrier who is always fretting about his children's safety, who hovers over them, who is forever tormented by thoughts of accidents and catastrophes, can would be appalled and indignant to learn that the objects of fears really represents a deep-seated wish. The worrier's secret guards against her unconscious feelings of rage and hostility toward her "loved ones" is by over-protecting them.

These are all unpalatable truths about ourselves; they go against the current of "common sense." But until we recognize their validity, we are living in dream world strangers to ourselves and to others.

"But keep thinking you're worth more money, Belle . . . I like a man who has confidence in himself."

Reporter Irks Scot

Welland Evening Tribune

A reporter for the Buffalo Courier-Express, giving an account June 30 of an alcohol revolution at the University of Buffalo, used "Bagpipe" to label Caledonia Pipe Band provided music on the occasion. Use of the bag pipe can be called music.

Now this may have been one of those calculated slips on the part of the reporter and it must be admitted that he is entitled to wondering about the kinship between bagpipes and music, regardless of the fact that as far as was to be expected, in a subsequent issue of the Buffalo paper.

The letters to the editor department was the alcohol revolution at the University of Buffalo. "Bagpipe" is a contribution from "American Scot" who has questioned the ignorance of the reporter and called his reference to bagpipe music "rude and insulting."

The ruffled reader referred the reporter to Webster's dictionary wherein it is clearly set forth that the bagpipe is a musical wind instrument with three or four sounding pipes. Furthermore, the paper went on in order to use the bagpipe properly, the player must have musical knowledge and be able to master the fine intricacies that are involved.

It would be rather foolhardy for us in these parts to plunge into a debate on the musical qualities of the bagpipe. In fact it would be foolhardy in many parts of the world, where Scots have settled and pioneered. The Irish, too, have some claims in this regard and they also have a way with the bagpipe.

It must be conceded, however, that those who fell to experience a thrill when the pipes give out with such stirring pieces as Road To The Isles, Hundred Pipers, Bonnie Dundee and Scotland the Brave, or are unable to be moved by the haunting strains of Over The Sea to Skye, Mary of Argyle, Wettering Home and Will Ye No Come Back Again, ought to start searching for a locks.

Some Cancers Not Painful, Depends on Location

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

There's reason to think that people are acquiring a more objective view of cancer, and realizing that it's not necessarily as distressingly painful as has been assumed.

One piece of new data me to "fist the kinds of cancer that are painful and those that are not. I had always thought that all were extremely painful, but have recently been informed of cancer victims who died after a comparatively short and painless period of this disease.

The "kind of cancer" isn't necessarily the important thing; rather, the location is of primary significance.

If the cancer invades areas where sensory nerves exist, there will be pain. Or, by sheer size, the cancer may press against, or otherwise stress areas in which we can feel pain.

On the other hand, there are other areas which are incapable of pain. There is also parts of the body in which cysts, tumors or even cancers can grow to considerable size without causing any great degree of discomfort — from time to time we read of the removal of tumors that weigh quite a few pounds.

You see, cancer is not, in itself, painful. Pain comes only at such time cancer is starting. This is not to say that pain indicates it early. The pain comes as a secondary result of pressure or erosion.

I would not write anything that would distract from the most serious attention to this disease and its deadly consequences. We must not lull its power to learn more about it and, eventually, to cure it.

But at the same time we should all know that certain things be done to take the terror out of the sheer word "cancer." First, we should be the knowledge that cases discovered early can be cured.

Second, cancer discovery and now drugs can be used in many instances to relieve pain of a cancer, at least temporarily, adding more and even years of normal, comfortable life.

Third, depending on location of a cancer, many cancer victims are all that are needed to have pain or discomfort with. In modest limits. Most of all more we are hearing of patients who remain comfortable and active in their business affairs right up to within a few days of the end. This is a step in the forward.

Fourth, I think it well worth remembering that cancers do not grow at a predictable rate. Some cancers, especially in old or people, progress so slowly that the patient dies from some of an entirely unrelated cause, such as heart disease, without the cancer ever amounting to a real problem.

In many cases cancer will be a terribly painful terminal disease. But in many other cases it will not.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes cold sores and how can I prevent them? They have bothered me all my life. — F.T.T.

Cold sores (technically known as herpes simplex) are caused by a virus which doubtless often lies dormant for considerable time, to flare up under our resistance is down, as after a cold.

Unquestionably some of us, for reasons unknown, are more sensitive to this virus than are others.

Local drying agents, such as camphor, seem to help keep the virus from spreading to a skin — and the virus evidently is not permanent.

Some years ago British physicians added that smallpox vaccination often help prevent cold sores and, it given soon enough, may even help improve the condition when new sores have begun. This is not a sure-fire preventive, but I read had considerable success with it. So, and no harm other doctors.

Man love honayed words, but these are not without their danger. We like such words because they proclaim our excellence, and reassure us as to our worth. But to every person there are elements of imperfection, and the praise which is undue measure may lull us into a smug acceptance of ourselves, blinding the eyes to room for efficiency, so that we cease striving to do better than we have.

Honest praise must always be accompanied by some criticism, if a friend may not occasionally administer a word of reproof does failed in one of the important kindnesses which friends can render each other. Worse than that is not counted as challenged; by the ringing voice of criticism, but by the silent weakness, is without the heaven and enables it to rise to greater heights.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What they call cafe society in the United States has no real counterpart in Canada. The vast majority of Canadians will go out occasionally to dine at a restaurant. A few will go frequently. But the average Canadian likes to eat at home. This fact doubtless accounts for the heavy mortality rate of restaurants in most Canadian cities.

In our larger cities are a few, in some cities only two or three permanently high-class restaurants. They are supported by the nearest thing we have to a cafe society, which consists of a well-heeled clientele who for one reason or another have no home to eat in, or don't want to be bothered with cooking. They are the regulars. They support the style and quality of the place, which attracts the casual customer as a source of profit.

But somebody is always dreaming up the bright idea of launching a new, smart restaurant that will rival the best in York or San Francisco, to challenge the established places. The trouble is, you can't dislodge the habits of the frequenters from their accustomed home from home. And the restaurants are usually not be counted upon to eat the day's profits for more than a few months, the smart new place is under new management; and you know what that means. The banks. And banks are rotten chefs.

TORONTO STOCKS

Industrials showed the best index rise as plus signs were liberally sprinkled among blue chip issues.

Interprovincial Pipe Line advanced 1¼ to 75¾, Distillers-Seagrams and Moore Corporation both climbed ¾, Walker-Gooderham rose ¾ and Dominion Foundries and Steel ½.

For the first time in recent sessions, banks showed slight strength. Montreal, Toronto-Dominion and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all gained ¼. Nova Scotia ¼ and Royal ⅛.

Other gainers included Bell Telephone, up ⅛, Consolidated Paper, ahead ⅛, Salada Foods up ⅛ and Consumers Gas, up to ¾.

On the exchange index, industrials advanced 3.83 to 238.48, base metals .83 at 154.36 and western oils .52 at 96.85. Golds declipped .41 to 98.75. The 11 a.m. index value of 433.06 was unchanged compared with 347,000 at the same time yesterday.

Among base metals, International Nickel rose 1¾ to 61⅜. Noranda gained ¾ and Hudson Bay Mining ⅜, while Denison slipped ⅛. In speculatives, Jamieson traded Tuesday, rising three cents to 78 cents.

In the main list, Interprovincial Pipe Line, Leland Polishing and Distillers Seagrams all climbed in a one-point to 1¼ range. Beatty Brothers, which offered to buy 140,000 shares of General Steel Wares at $11 Monday, climbed ½ to a 1962 high of 9. General Steel rose another ½ to 10¼.

On index, industrials gained 3.83 to 238.48 and golds .83 to 98.18. Base metals slipped .27 to 193.33 and western oils .26 to 96.85. Volume was 1,370 shares — lightest since July 4, 1961 — compared with Friday's 1,323,000.

In base metals, Falconbridge fell ¼ and Noranda ¼, while Denison and Hudson Bay Mining both advanced ⅛. Among speculatives, Northgate fell 50 cents to $7.65 and Lake Dufault 5 cents to 75.

Scientists must wait until lo-night before they can get an idea how successful the Telstar might be. The satellite is to be in position about 7 p.m. EDT for the first test to determine how effectively the vehicle can serve as a communications satellite. If the initial trials are successful, the three major TV television networks plan to carry the program tonight.

Other early tests will include transmission of still pictures, voice messages, phone calls and high-speed data signals between ground stations in Andover, Me., and Holmdel, N.J.

PRIVATE VENTURE

Telstar marks the first time a private industry has used its own funds to launch a satellite.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company undertook the venture and assigned the job to Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Bell purchased the Thor-Delta from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and is paying NASA for launching and tracking costs—an estimated bill of $3,000,000 payable regardless of success or failure.

Other costs, including development of the satellite and ground equipment, raise the investment in the program to nearly $50,000,000.

Packed inside the 34-inch, 170-pound sphere is an electronic system with nearly 15,000 parts. The satellite, speeding at 16,000 miles an hour more than 3,000 miles in space, will pick a signal beamed to it from the ground, amplify it 10,000,000,000 times and shoot it back to earth at a different frequency at a strength of 2½ watts—all in the twinkling of an eye.

Rotarians Hear Of Trip Around Pacific Ocean

Local Rotarians were given an account of a recent trip taken by Morris Smith, Reg. N. around the Pacific Ocean in connection with a trip as a Canadian delegate to the International Council of Nurses' Congress held in Melbourne, Australia. Miss Smith is director of nursing at Belleville General Hospital.

The International Council of Nurses, Miss Smith said, represents 485,000 nurses from 39 countries countries and is the associate member countries. Of this number 25,000 are Canadians and 37,000 nurses are from Ontario.

The council is the oldest and largest professional women's group in the world, stated Miss Smith. It held its first meeting in 1899 and holds an international congress every four years. Sixty-eight Canadian nurses attended the Melbourne convention.

The aim of the council, at a national and international level is to improve the health of a nation, increase the care for the sick and to improve training of nurses. Emphasis is especially focused on developing the newer members to full professional status, through technical assistance by providing instructors in the theory of nursing on a basis of helping those who help themselves, Miss Smith added.

The speaker also gave a descriptive account of her travels to and from the congress via Hawaii, the Fiji Islands, New Zealand, Singapore, Siam, Hong Kong and Japan.

Commenting generally, Miss Smith stated that she found Canadians to be well-known abroad that people were usually able to make themselves understood, especially on money matters. "The Canadian passport is a most valuable document," she said, noting that the maple leaf was recognized abroad as a symbol of Canadians.

Everywhere in the Orient' a vast population explosion was to be seen and she found that the people she met showed very gracious and it was the meeting of these people which could be considered the most important part of the trip, Miss Smith concluded.

The speaker was introduced and thanked by C. H. Trill and Perc McGuire respectively.

AARHUS, Denmark (AP) — Nobel Prize-winner Albert Luthuli, South African Negro leader, advised an international youth conference Monday that he could not attend because of "humiliations" by his government. RAILWAYS

The non-pool demands include a 25-cents-an-hour wage increase the same as the pool demand that amounts to a virtual job freeze.

Describing these demands as intolerable, Mr. Emerson said the wage increase would make many railway operations uneconomical, but the job freeze would prevent the railways eliminating them.

Any wage increase at the present time would "seriously hamper the progress of modernization of the railways," Mr. Emerson said.

Another railway witness before the board, Keith Campbell, assistant director of CPR labor relations, challenged the unions' estimates of the annual cost of the wage increase and the job freeze.

He said the wage demand would cost $53,487,000 a year, almost $10,000,000 more than the union estimate. The Montreal figure included extending the raise to maintenance workers not covered by the unions engaged in the present dispute.

He also said the cost of the job freeze is incalculable. The unions said earlier in the hearing it would start at almost nothing, rising gradually to an annual maximum of $14,000,000 by 1972.

Mr. Campbell disagreed with the union contention that present conciliation boards had supported the durable goods standard as a basis for comparing non-pool wages.

The standard, an average of wages paid in several basic Canadian industries, is now about 12 cents an hour higher than the non-pool average wage of $1.91 an hour.

Although the boards admitted the standard as providing some basis for comparison, all pointed to "many differences" between non-ops and durables that had to be taken into consideration.

When this was done, the non-op employee actually was better off on the average than the durable goods worker.

Brazil Finally Gets Premier

BRASILIA (AP) — Brazil's Parliament approved Francisco Brochado de Rocha,'as premier today, ending a 6-week old government crisis marked by rioting that killed 11 persons.

The vote of 323 to 3 to 2 was a stalemate between the Conservative-dominated Parliament and leftist President Joao Goulart but left unsolved Brazil's deepening economic crisis.

Rocha, a provincial official in Rio Grande do Sul state, was Goulart's third nomination in 7 attempts to form a new government after Premier Tancredo Neves and his cabinet resigned June 26 to be eligible to run in congressional elections in the fall.

On Saturday, July 7, at 2.00 pm., children from the retarded children's playground and school at 321 John St. went to the Cristiani Wallace Bros. Circus held at Zwick's Island. Tickets were donated by the Kiwanis Club of Belleville.

the job evaluation study carried out by the civil service commission in co-operation with the Ontario public service employees.

Increases have been made ranging from $200 annually for corporals to $700 for district inspectors, "considering the responsibility of the latter in operations, personnel and equipment."

A probationary constable or recruit now will enter the service at a salary of $4,000 and it will spend approximately four months training at the police college before being placed on duty with the force.

The commission indicated it was not immediately known the number of additional recruits required under the proposed five-day week.

One solution advanced by the commission is the hiring of young civilian radio operators who may be interested in entering a police career when they reach the required age. The hiring of these persons, the commission points out, will enable more constables to be released for general duty.

A cadet system is also under study.

Other policies approved include the establishment of a new detective branch and the special training now given to a segment of 17 detective sergeants this year, and a further 100 detectives next year.

PLAN PROMOTION POLICY

The commission will also put into effect a new policy of promotion on the basis of merit as well as service.

The passing of qualifying examinations will be essential to promotion in every rank and personnel evaluation by a promotion board will carry almost as much weight as seniority.

With a view to setting up "a fully up-to-date and effective means of swift communications" tackling all police forces in Ontario" and those in other provinces and nearby states, the commission has also been given authority to study the use of radio and television.

An adviser on police services will also be appointed to assist the Ontario police commission in the performance of its general supervisory duties over police forces in the province and to assist local police commissions and councils in solving problems in which they need outside expert assistance and advice.

Unscrupulous Manipulation Must Be Curbed by Papers Advertising Executives Told

MONTREAL (CP) — Newspapers face serious responsibilities in warning the public against dangerous government and business manipulation, a government leader and a newspaper publisher warned North American advertising executives' Monday.

One warning came from Premier Lesage of Quebec who told the summer meeting of the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association that dangerous techniques of persuasion are being perfected which make possible changes in human behaviour.

Mr. McClure said three factors may affect the size of the newspaper boom in the next decade — public and business confidence, how well newspapers communicate and interpret political moves adversely affecting business and better research, promotion and sales efforts by the papers.

MUST BE ALERT

"The press must be more than ever before alert to Washington and Ottawa danger signals, and certainly our industry has a more important role than ever before in alerting the newspaper readers of our countries to these dangers."

Mr. Lesage preceded his address to the association by a press conference announcement of a $50,000,000 loan at six per cent to four Canadian federal, maturing August, 1972, and 1982.

"I finished it up this morning in Ottawa," Johnson said. "I was wrong about the province's credit," said Mr. Lesage, referring to charges by Opposition Leader Johnson the legislature last week that the province was refused credits of $75,000,000 at the end of May in the U.S. and a similar sum at six per cent in Canada. The participating financial houses are the Royal Bank of Canada, the Bank of Montreal, Banque de Cie, and A. E. Ames and Co.

The premier said modern science has given man "dangerous means of persuasion"—brainwashing, conditioned reflexes, persuasion through techniques of subliminal perception.

"But are such techniques as effective as we sometimes suppose?" he asked. "I personally think they are not, if the man is well-informed."

Insurance Fund Hit Bottom During May

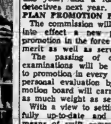
OTTAWA (CP)—The shrinkage in unemployment insurance fund hit bottom just under $30,000,000 in May but has appreciably started the normal summer comeback without emergency federal help, reliable informants said today.

The fund, heart of the federal unemployment insurance program, fell to $29,851,182 at May 31—its lowest point since reserves started piling up in 1941. In May, 1961, the fund held $310,092,000.

Figures for June are not yet available. However, a source in the unemployment insurance commission said the June statement will actually show an increase in the fund to about $325,000,000. In June, 1961, the fund contained $310,270,000.

Since then, the pressure of unemployment has become plus easier and wider conditions of qualification have pushed the reserve to the brink of bankruptcy—so close the government will table $50,000,000 in March as an emergency loan to safeguard its solvency.

Meanwhile, a special four-man committee of inquiry has been working in report-on unemployment insurance, expected to be delivered to the cabinet by late August.



The committee, established July 17, 1961, was given the job of investigating the scope, basic principles and provisions of the Unemployment Insurance Act, proposed amendments, abuses and deficiencies in the program and the relationship between the insurance program and other social security measures.

V.O.N. Holds Season's Last Meeting

The last meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses until the fall was held recently at the Y.M.C.A. with the president, Mr. Frank Folwell, presiding. Mrs. Burnside read the secretary's report which was adopted.

The regional director, Miss E. Grindley, visited the Belleville branch recently and gave a special meeting, she discussed and explained pamphlets available for the V.O.N. nurses, which was helpful.

NURSE'S REPORT

The nurse's report for May was presented by the head nurse, Miss Dorothy Connolly. There was a total of 90 patients under V.O.N. care in May. Of these, 26 patients were admitted to V.O.N. service during the month. 360 visits were medical and surgical, while 41 were maternity and newborn; 72 health instruction visits to children in school than maternity were made.

Under special activities, three visits of nurses to the Quinte Atkin School and three visits to the Belleville Normal School. A Sabin Polio Clinic was conducted by the Thurlow Medical Officer of Health and the schools on May 29th. Many infants, pre-school children and adults took advantage of the clinic at the schools to obtain their oral polio vaccine.

FIELD WORK

Miss Po-Kit Fung from Ottawa University, completed her V.O.N. field work May 25th. Miss Elizabeth Johnston, third post-graduate student in Public Health Nursing to come to Belleville for field work this spring, began her field experience May 28, to be completed June 23. Miss Johnston is a graduate of Toronto Western Hospital and took her Public Health Nursing Course at Queen's University.

On May 18, on invitation of Miss K. Abbott, the supervisor of the Belleville Department of Health, the V.O.N. staff again attended an afternoon meeting held at the Department of Health, Bridge Street east. The speaker was James E. Nelles. This was another interesting and worthwhile meeting.

On May 22nd, the monthly meeting of the Health and Social Agencies was held at 4 p.m. in the Education Building at the Belleville General Hospital. The topics for discussion were "The Visiting Housewife's Service" and the "The Victorian Order of Nurses."

The meeting adjourned until September 17th.

Weddings

DYMENT — SLAVIN

Red roses, white chrysanthemums and ferns formed a lovely setting in Tweedsmuir United Church, Belleville, for the marriage of Margaret Selena Slavin, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Slavin, to John Ross Dyment, of Kirkland Lake, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dyment. The Reverend M. A. MacFarlane, pastor of the church, officiated.

The church organist, Mrs. Ledingham, presided at the organ for the bridal music, the processional, "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven", and solos, "Because" by Miss Jean Gay MacFarlane, in their version of "Always in Your Heart".

The radiant bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. W. J. Slavin, wore a bridal gown of white embossed cotton in street-length featuring a fitted bodice having a cowl neckline and long sleeves ending in tiny points. Her coronet of seed pearls held the silk illusion tulle veil, and she carried a bouquet of red roses mingled with Shasta mums.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Ruth Slavin, of Belleville, as maid of honor; and by Misses Jean Ledingham and Kathleen Slavin, sister of the bride, both of Belleville, as bridesmaids. Flower girls were Misses Penny Dyment of Kirkland Lake, sister of the bridegroom, and Elizabeth Slavin, sister of the bride, as junior bridesmaid. The attendants' gowns were gowned in printed Arnel and lace, with matching shades; the maid of honor in pink; the senior bridesmaids in light green and the junior bridesmaids in blue, with matching cotton organdy caps and contrasting floral hats. They carried nosegays of matching flowers and wore gifts of white Shasta mums.

Mr. Peter Dyment, of North Bay attended the bridegroom as groomsman, and Mr. E. Dyment, of Kirkland Lake, and Mr. Leslie Fayle, of Toronto, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the Sunday School rooms of the church, where the bridal table was prettily appointed in the traditional nuptial fashion with linen damask, centred by the wedding cake, and complemented by the bridal bouquets.

The bride's mother received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, the former wearing a white linen gown embroidered with rosebuds, hat in pink, and a corsage of sterling roses, while the latter was in mauve crepe, with black hat, and corsage of coral pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Kirkland Lake, by motor, the bride wore a blue and white check dress of Arnel and cotton, with white flowered hat, white gloves and shoes, and a corsage of pink roses, and single mums.

Guests were present from Toronto; Kingston; Saskatoon; Ottawa; Oakville; Chile; Plainfield; Angola, N.Y.; Madawaska, Ontario and Belleville.

Showers honoring the bride were held by Mrs. Anderson and Miss Leslie Anderson, of Wellington Drive, Belleville, and by Mrs. Wilmot Sherit, of R. R. 5, Belleville. A trousseau tea was held at the bride's home prior to her marriage, when interested friends and neighbors viewed the prousseau and gifts. Mrs. John Darvell and Mrs. Joseph Chapman poured tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Dyment will reside in Carenville, Newfoundland.

U.C.W. Holds Successful Tea, Bazaar

WELLINGTON — A gala event was enjoyed on Saturday afternoon when the U.C. Women held their annual summer tea and bazaar on the lawn in Wellington. Several small tea tables circling a bed of prally red geraniums made a pleasing setting for the tea room with Mrs. Max Grec the convener.

Under the convenership of Mrs. W. Adams and Mrs. W. Jackson, respectively, the apron and fancy work tables did a thriving business, while the candy table, with Mrs. Ross Pierce convening, drew many customers.

Mrs. C. Hicks convened the domestic table which was laden with all good things to eat and it was completely sold out.

Mrs. B. Crook was the tea hostess.

Everyone agreed it was an enjoyable and profitable afternoon.

WASH KILLS CHILDREN

FOGGIA, Italy (AP) — Two little girls died Monday after their mother shampooed their hair with insecticide. Police said Antonietta Resica, 26, told them "What's good to clean the fields should be good to clean my daughters, dirty from playing in the mud." The two girls, Angela, 3, and Maddalena, 5, died after developing headaches and black spots on their bodies.

Bride-to-Be Honored With Many Gifts

WELLINGTON—Mrs. J. B. Lavender opened her lovely home on the evening of July 7th when her daughter, Mrs. William Lott, and Mrs. Ron Bailey, both of Belleville, were co-hostesses at a delightfully arranged linen shower for Miss Carol Marvin, a bride to be on July 14th.

Fifteen friends were present and helped to make a bridal shower souvenir book which contained recipes and some good advice.

Miss Bessie Webster received the prize for having the most correct answers in the village banns contest. Carol was presented with a corsage of pink roses to compliment her pretty blue dress.

Orlene Lott, after a brief address to Carol, presented her with the many lovely gifts, which were passed around and admired by all.

Carol voiced her appreciation to all her friends for their gifts and hoped they would all call and see her in her new home in Kingston.

The hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Lavender served a buffet lunch, which consisted of delicious gelatine desserts, sandwiches and coffee.

Anniversary Marked by Gifts, Party

PLAINFIELD — On a recent evening a party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boldrick, Plainfield, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The room was decorated with pink and white streamers and bells, and the table covered with a white linen cloth, centred with a three-tiered anniversary cake and candles.

Mrs. Alton Goodman read an address from the neighbours and a presentation was made of a lovely hassock.

The honored couple were also the recipients of other lovely gifts and messages of congratulations for the occasion.

Lunch was served and a social time was enjoyed by all.

RCMP Dress Is Favorite Of Contestant

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP)—A brilliant costume based on the uniform of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police proved a favorite here Monday as the one-week Miss Universe pageant got under way.

Marilyn, Canada's representative in the pageant, made the costume, and about half the other clothes she will wear in the contest.

One hundred young women from around the world are competing for the Miss Universe crown. The winner will be named Saturday night.

Monday was get-acquainted day for the contestants. There was a rehearsal of the pageants and official photographs were taken.

BUYS A HAT

"I bought a most gorgeous white hat that might compliments from all the girls," she said.

The Canadian girl was impressed with Miami Beach's new Lincoln Road Mall, a street several blocks long from which auto traffic has been banned.

"I could spend days just going from shop to shop," she said.

Marilyn hopes to spend time after the pageant relaxing and sightseeing. Florida sun, provided she can find other girls to stay ever with her.

She said she hopes one day to open a modeling agency of her own and offer self-improvement classes for young girls and women. She says that step is a few years away.

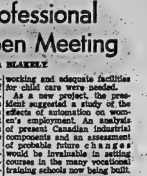
Business, Professional Women Open Meeting

By EDNA BLAKELY

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—The 18th biennial convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs got under way with a warning from its president that there is still discrimination against women working outside the home.

Una MacLean Evans of Calgary told the 400 women delegates Monday that the intangible discrimination which exists is much harder to remove than legislation which discriminates against women.

"We do not flick an eyelash, say more at the thought of a flight to space but the thought of the flight of a woman from the dishpan to the factory seems to arouse consternation and sometimes hostility among too large a part of our populace," Mrs. Evans said in a keynote address.



She said women haven't changed, but society has. Women used to make certain things in the home—such as bread and clothes — but now women earn the money to buy them.

Mrs. Evans introduced several topics which delegates discussed during their five-day meeting:

The results of a survey on the implementation of equal pay is to be revealed later in the week. Mrs. Evans gave a preview of its results when she said it "shows that generally the laws are not being observed."

She said the federation must stand "foursquare" behind the principle that every Canadian is entitled to work. The working mother received unwarranted criticism. It was not possible for many young couples to raise a family without both parents working and adequate facilities for child care were needed.

In a new project, the president suggested a study of the effects of automation on women's employment. An analysis of present Canadian industrial components and an assessment of probable future changes would be invaluable in setting courses in the many vocational training schools now being built.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Ethel H. — His former wife has agreed to support herself. He's free.

Rae H. — My sister is on the verge of throwing her life away and I want to try to stop her. She's 22 and for three years she's been going with a married man. He finally got a divorce and now Ethel is making plans to marry him.

But it was a bitter divorce. There are three young children and, although Allen's wife made things easy now, she has vowed vengeance upon him and Ethel for later on. She claimed she was glad to get rid of Allen and, since she is part-owner of a restaurant, would support herself and the children. She said she wanted to forget him completely.

Ethel forgets one thing. If Allen's first wife gets sick or loses her business she can call him into court to support her and the family again.

Ethel H. — When two people are meant for each other they will Allen and I are, we can meet and overcome any obstacles in the way.

There are no obstacles to our marriage at present. Allen has his divorce. His wife was quite willing and co-operative. Since she is making far more money than he is right now, she made no claims for support for either herself or their children. In fact, Allen says she signed that she would never take him to court for money. She always high-hatted him and now acts as though she wants to wash her hands of him forever. Once she started to earn money of her own, she treated him like dirt.

My family is trying to scare me about the situation. But I we'll face each problem when it arises. There are none at present.

* * *

The Council's future certainly gives us an aresenal of weapons with which to protect ourselves. We have eyes, for example, to see what's ahead, and brains to prepare for meeting it. But in refusing to look further than her nose, Ethel is being deliberately near-sighted as well as shortsighted. Rae, speaking in behalf of the family, is wise to try to force her sister to see the clouds which will hover over the proposed union.

Over 2,000 years ago a tyrant named Dionysius showed a fellow named Damocles how to look. At the whole picture instead of merely the nice part. He seated Damocles at a sumptuous banquet, but immediately overhead was a sharp sword suspended by a single horsehair! Similarly, Allen's first wife's threat is the "sword of Damocles" for Ethel.

In this picture is an aggrieved wife who wants to hurt. Her present generosity may be merely the grand gesture as she awaits the most telling hour to strike where it will really hurt. And strike she probably can!

In the State of New York, as in most states, a man remains responsible for the needs and necessities of minor children. That probably means Wife No. 1 can entangle her mind and make trouble up to the time the youngest of her three children reaches the age of 21.

"probably" because the exact wording of the divorce decree must be examined and studied by a lawyer. Our comment is based upon our general feeling here. In some extreme cases, we are informed, a man is even saddled with the support of an over-21 offspring if said offspring is, unfortunately, indigent and "a public charge."

So, Ethel, open your eyes and look, say, a year ahead. Picture yourself with your own infant. You're unable to work. Allen's first wife hurls her dart. How long before Allen starts to eye on the Foreign Legion?

If you turn a deaf ear to Rae's plain talk, listen at least to a lawyer who can clarify the legal complications to which you and Allen may be heir.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: I've been invited to visit some friends — a young married couple — for a week end next month. I'd like to bring my best beau with me. We're not yet officially engaged, but expect to make the announcement in the Fall. My friends have not met him, so would it be proper to ask that he be invited, too? The trip is only a few hours by train, and, of course, we'll be suitably chaperoned during our visit. My mother doesn't think it "looks right," since we're not engaged. What do you think? — Miss G.S., Trenton, N.J.

Answer: Ordinarily it wouldn't be altogether correct to try to include a date in a weekend invitation, but in your case it is an official announcement in the offing. It would be perfectly alright in this instance. A married couple certainly may chaperone for a visit, and your mother doesn't have no need to worry about appearances on that score.

Question: My fiance's mother has just given us a list of friends and relatives she wants invited to our wedding in September. There are many more relatives his family sees only on special occasions. My fiance hasn't even seen a number of the cousins in years. If it's permissible, I'd prefer not using the names off and using these invitations for friends who might have gifts for us that are not invited to the reception. Would it be improper to tamper with his mother's list? — Miss S.A., Bridgeport, Conn.

Answer: The bridegroom's mother should have been told to agreed number, then it would be discourteous to edit her list. All relatives must be invited, top priority when wedding invitations are sent out. Even if you don't agree with several of her choices, the wishes of the bridegroom's mother should be respected in this instance.

Question: A friend recently had a baby. I'd like to send a present, but I've no idea what she needs for the baby now. Since several showers were given in her honor, practically all baby arrived. I'm sure she has all the necessities and many of the luxuries. Would it be tasteful to send a cheque, so that she may buy something she needs at a later date when the baby is a bit older? — Miss J.F. Fisher, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Answer: A cheque may be sent, or a Savings Bond may be purchased so the parents may put it aside for the child's use at a later date.

Question: I'm not a very good bridge player, and rarely take part in a game. My husband enjoys bridge occasionally, and would like to have us play with a couple visiting us the other evening suggested a game after dinner he was willing to play but I vetoed the idea. After they left he said it was discourteous of me not to play, since our guests wanted to. Do you think hostess shouldn't be a wet blanket. Must a hostess be obliged to join in all guests' suggestions, especially since, in this case, it would have ruined everyone's "game anyway"? — Mrs. L.B., New Haven, Conn.

Answer: A hostess should put her guests' wishes before her own. If they were insistent, it would have been more gracious to join in, even though you might have muffed a few hands. Usually, though, it's bad form for guests to try to overrule a hostess and take over the entertainment. But when his does happen the hostess should try to go along with their suggestion for the sake of party harmony.

Retarded Children to Hold Campaign in November

At the June meeting of the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children it was announced that the annual campaign for operational funds would coincide with National Retarded Children's Week in November. It was felt that advantage should be taken of the extensive publicity given at that time to the Hospital Bazaar as well as the materials and help rendered to all locals by the Ontario Association.

Of the many reports given by committee members, the following items were of special interest.

The 23 children, who attended the special school in Belleville, have completed another successful year. Each pupil proudly departed with a report card in one hand and a folder of some of his year's accomplishments in the other.

SUPERVISED PLAYGROUND

A supervised playground for the children will again be held at the school under the direction of the Belleville Recreation Committee. All children from the district, who are on leave from the Ontario Hospital in Kingston, are welcome to attend these playgrounds. Thursday and Friday playground activities during July and August.

CAMP

Two Retarded Children were guests of the Kiwanis of Belleville at camp which opens on Zwicki's Island on July 5th.

The Shabby Club Ball and an enjoyable June party where once again Mr. Bill McKay of the Belleville Legion kept the group with several musical numbers.

BOWLING

The Cub Pack, the 21st Belleville, participated in a wiener roast for their last meeting of the season and each was given a Good-turn token to be worn on the sleeve.

CONFERENCE HELD

The Institutions committee reported on a conference held at Lincoln Falls where a newly organized parent association for Simcoe area was in connection with the Hospital School. It is hoped that the two parents from Belleville and district will attend the rallies being planned by this group for there is much to be done for the welfare of these institutionalized children.

At the Home Care Workshop held at Guelph, representatives from Belleville and district addressed the group by a Dr. Koegler of London, Ontario. He emphasized that mental retardation is more of a tragedy for the parents, than for the child. He told of the many steps that should be taken to help parents adjust themselves to the problem.

NEW TREATMENTS

The research program on mental retardation is producing new treatments for such as P.K.U. treatment, the detection with low intelligence quotients which can result in premature babies and retardation, and the discovery that mongolism is less common if the mother has family before she is thirty.

The president, Mr. Al. Parkhurst, reported with regret that the Executive Director, Ontario Association, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ward, and Miss Carrie Chatman, Mrs. Lorne Johnson, will be leaving the city to reside in Toronto.

HANDIWORK VIEWED

After an enlightening talk by Dr. D. Blakely on the subject of "The Field of Special Education in the Belleville Public School," the members and friends of the association enjoyed refreshments while viewing the many articles of clothing, woodwork and metal craft that the speaker had on display from the opportunity classes of the public school.

Cookie Bakeoff

Chocolate-Coated Cookies — Almost a Confection

Another big cookie baking contest has brought out the best in summer 1962 cookies up to ten.

The dough of the one I am giving you today is patterned on shortbread — a rich crisp dough containing no eggs. But it includes some quick-cooking rolled oats. It is moulded into various shapes and chocolate coated. As a consequence, I don't resist the pun of calling them

Cool on rack. When cold decorate by dipping in melted chocolate and nuts, etc.: Melt 4-oz. of semi-chocolate pieces or semi-sweet bar chocolate with 2 tablespoons of milk. Dip cookies of your fingers. To keep cookies in refrigerator in warm weather if dipped in bar semi-sweet chocolate.) Melt the chocolate of chocolate pieces with the milk in a measuring cup over hot water. Note: A narrow deep container brings the surface of the chocolate high and facilitates dipping — our measuring cup was ideal for this. Pick up the cookie in tongs and dip both ends of logs in the melted chocolate. Then dip chocolate-coated part in some chopped nuts in a cup. Place on waxed paper. Do same with cole shapes but dip only the tips. A variation is to dip in chocolate then in a little chocolate shot instead of nuts. This variation was immensely popular.

Bride Feted With Many Fine Gifts

A recent bride, Mrs. J. Williamson, nee Marilyn Huddleston, was the honored guest at recent bridal presentations and showers given by Mrs. R. J. Owens, Dundas Street, West, when she was the recipient of a nest of tables; at a presentation of miscellaneous gifts sponsored by Mrs. Leigh Meadmore and Miss Barbara Payne, of Chanda Street, Mrs. Harold Mott, of Queen Street entertained and a presentation was made of a lady lamp and china, and Mrs. J. Donaldson, of Craig Street, held a bridge get-together when the bride was presented with a complete bridge table set including chairs and cover. The neighbors of Crestview and Rosewood Avenue presented her with a white satin bound wool blanket; and, as a lovely finale, a tea was held at the home of Mrs. Phil Huddleston, Crestview Avenue.

Sunday School Picnics

FRANKFORD UNITED

FRANKFORD — Frankford United Church Sunday school picnic was held at Oak Lake on June 29. The bus left the church at 2.30 p.m. On arrival at the lake they divided into two groups for games. "

After the races and games swimming was enjoyed and supper time. Eighty-five sat down together for supper. All report a happy day.

Sheer Delight

BY TRACY ADRIAN

Fashioned for wear during the hot months, a frothy frock is made of sheer cotton chiffon in a brown and white diagonal plaid pattern.

The dress is designed with a sleeveless, boat-necked, fitted bodice, a wide self belt and a full, very short skirt bordered at the hem with the same material.

Dinner Menu

TUESDAY

Broiled Minute Steaks or Broiled Ground Beef Cakes; Steak Sauce; Oven French Fries; Shredded Cabbage Quick-Cooked in Milk; Relish tray: Celery, Hearts, Radish Roses; Gooseberry Meringue Pie; Tea;

CHOCOATS:

2 cups sifted "all-purpose" flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup soft shortening (half butter), ½ cup icing sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats.

Cream together shortening, sugar and vanilla until light and creamy. Sift together flour and salt and add to creamed mixture, blending thoroughly. Mix in the rolled oats. The dough will be quite stiff but do not despair. Do not chill dough. The warmth of your hands will help you to shape this into logs, cones and balls. It takes patience to sit down to do it. The cones, about 1½" high, by 1" wide at the base, are the most unique and professional-looking and stole the show, the tips being dipped in melted chocolate then in chopped nuts to shape them, and a piece of dough rolled into a 1" ball between your palms. Flatten one side and then peak up opposite side between all of your fingers' tips until it is a true cone shape. Don't worry about them drooping when baked — these cookies keep the exact form you shape them into. As you shape the dough, place cookies on ungreased cookie sheet, then bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 20-to-22 minutes. Time depends on size of cookies. From this amount of dough I made 50 cookies of various shapes (cones, logs and coin shapes) and baked them 21 minutes.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

BY C.A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Dept.

Each year a number of married women are deserted by their husbands and find themselves in the position of having to earn their living and support children when the whereabouts of their husbands are unknown.

When the time comes to file their income tax returns they are at a loss to know what exemption they should claim. In this article we will endeavour to outline the procedure, they should follow to obtain the greatest advantage in regard to the income tax payable.

If the husband deserted his wife during the year and she had no support from him since then, she will be treated as a separated person. She should claim the same exemption as married status $1000 on one child and the others for the ordinary exemption allowable which is $250 for children under 16 years of age and $300 for those that are 16 or over. She should bear in mind that she will apply only in the case where she has received nothing whatsoever in the way of support for herself or children, from her husband since he deserted her.

If she receives anything at all from him, no matter if it is insufficient for support she cannot claim the equivalent to married status ($1000) any of the children. She can only claim the ordinary child's exemption. On the other hand she will not have to show on her income tax return any money she may have received from the husband. Such income from a husband is only taxable in the wife's hands where there exists a written separation agreement or by court order for the husband to make payments to his estranged wife.

Questions

Question 1 — My husband deserted me last spring and I have a 4 yr. old child to support. I get nothing from my husband as I do not know where he is. Can I claim $1000 for the child or just the $250.

Answer: If you attach a note to your return explaining all those of the circumstances, you should be allowed the $1000 on behalf of your child.

• • •

Question 2 — My husband deserted me in May last year, and I have two children to support. Periodically I get a few dollars from him through the mail. If I show this money on my return as income, can I claim $1000 on one child.

Answer: No. You are not taxable on the money you receive from your husband. Your exemption will be that of a single person with two dependents.

• • •

Question No. 3 — I make double the required contributions to my employers' pension plan, in order to get a larger pension on retirement. Can I deduct these additional contributions? If not do I have to pay tax on the full pension received?

Answer: You may deduct up to but not exceeding $1,500 in any one year. You will be liable for tax on the entire amount received when you start getting your pension, subject of course, to your normal personal exemptions.

• • •

Question No. 4 — My costs to recover per die me were more than the amount of the wages. Can I deduct all I paid out to collect?

CAMPBELLFORD
Snorkel Not Allowed on Lions' Beach

CAMPBELLFORD — The Lions Club announced this week that no snorkel apparatus would be allowed at the club's Beach on the west River Road. The Club learned such equipment last year after several deaths in Canada and the United States were attributed to the use of defective or poorly made snorkel breathing tubes.

No inflated toys or rafts of any kind will be allowed at the beach according to the club announcement.

Lifeguards at the beach are now on duty daily Monday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays Sundays and holidays.

By DAVE McINTOSH

But there was no thought for the stifling conditions as the crowded, sweaty, smoky room—every eye was on the witness—was tuned to the tall, slender witness summing up his case on Bill C-44 before the Senate banking committee after nearly 14 hours of testimony.

The witness's icy calm of the two previous days almost, but not quite, shattered in this agonizing finale. He finished. Senator Lynn, the chairman, sat stroke from the room.

There were tears in his eyes. His wife looked after him down the marble corridor and caught him in the bank gave to the building. Their arms around each other's waists, they walked down the broad front walk of Parliament Hill.

Thursday, July 13, 1961, did Governor James E. Coyne of the Bank of Canada become a chapter or a footnote—who can say which even now?—in Canada's financial history.

PROMISED TO RESIGN

Seldom, if ever, had one man so dedied the edifice of national government and won for himself the verdict that he sought.

Mr. Coyne had been invited to fire him. Hardly anybody was on his side at first. But the people who gave their views to him—something the Commons, the press, the public.

In his summation, Mr. Coyne said he would resign at once if the bill to sack him was killed so that he could "retire honorably and take up my place among my fellow citizens." Otherwise, he said, "I shall be compelled to fight."

"I regret having said certain things, since May 30," he said.

I felt I was fighting for important principles, and fighting very largely alone against an extremely powerful adversary—so powerful, indeed, that it was hard to see how I could win.

"But it was important to fight against the methods adopted by the government, against the abuse of power, against the attack on the integrity of the Bank of Canada, whoever the holder of that office might be."

WRITTEN STATEMENT

The next day, the preponderantly - Liberal Senate struck down the special pension plan by a vote of 33 to 16 and less than an hour later Mr. Coyne resigned as he had promised he would. It was the first time since the 1938 - 27 session of Parliament that a government measure had been erased by the Senate.

Where did the "Coyne affair" begin?

Mr. Coyne was born July 17, 1902, in Winnipeg, where his father was a justice of the Manitoba Appeal Court. He became the $50,000 - a - year governor of the Bank of Canada on, 1, 1955, at the age of 54.

Quiet and almost shy, Mr. Coyne had been hesitant to speak out strongly in public on his belief that Canada was living beyond its means. He said Canada alone should take an increasingly larger role in development of their country, lessening Canada's dependence on foreign capital—"other people's money and savings," as he once put it.

CALLED FOR CURBS

The first main exposition of his economic argument was made in the 1956 annual report. It sounded the keynote of subsequent speeches—that the balance - of - payments deficit indicated "excessive rates of spending for consumption" and that Canadians were using too much foreign capital which brought with it increased imports of capital goods.

This annual report, Mr. Coyne proposed that all savings institutions be directed into mortgages, government bonds and other long - term investments. Liberal Finance Minister Walter Harris flatly rejected this proposal.

In the middle of the 1958 election campaign, Mr. Coyne's annual report for 1957 denied there had ever been a tight money policy and that the then Conservatives were taxing the economy to death. Finance Minister Donald Fleming rebuked the governor.

Then all went on. Mr. Coyne's statements came more and more in conflict with the Liberal government policy—though he later disputed this on the grounds that the government had no policy.

DISSENSAL URGED

In December, 1960, 17 university professors signed a letter to Mr. Fleming asking for Mr. Coyne's dismissal.

Earlier that year, in February —this later became a bitter point of controversy — the central bank's board of directors unanimously approved a increase to $25,000 from $15,000 in the governor's (any governor's) annual pension.

On March 18, 1961, Mr. Fleming made this public.

On June 12, the Bank's board of directors met at Quebec City and voted 9 to 1 for Mr. Coyne's resignation. He refused.

On June 20, the bank gave to The Canadian Press a statement that Mr. Coyne had just arrived from Quebec.

In it, the governor disclosed Mr. Fleming stated flatly there would be no committee hearing.

The minister said "I have no hatred toward anybody in my soul."

On July 3, the Commons voted 133 to 43 to give second reading to approval in principle of Bill C-44.

As the debate waxed hot in the Commons, with insult and counter-insult, Mr. Coyne let go another statement. He called Mr. Diefenbaker "the evil genius back of the whole matter." He accused the prime minister of "unbridled malice and vindictiveness" and said Mr. Fleming had "deceived and misled Parliament."

On July 7 the Commons finally passed the Coyne-enactment bill. Mr. Coyne called the "torrent of vituperation" from Mr. Coyne was proof of an irreconcilable split between governor and government.

Mr. Martin said Adolf Eichmann had been given a trial by Israel, But the government denied a hearing to Mr. Coyne.

Concerning the special $25,000 pension, Mr. Coyne later said: "Is it impugning a man's integrity to say that he sat, knew, listened and took?" Mr. Coyne had hidden the increase from the government.

Later, in the Senate banking committee, Mr. Coyne produced a copy of a confidential letter to Mr. Fleming from J. E. Bryden, chairman of the Bank of Canada director who had resigned in April.

In it, Mr. Bryden said he had "continuing misgivings" to Mr. Fleming at Muskoka, Ont., in August, 1959, that pension increases for Mr. Coyne and other bank employees were ragging the attention of the board directors.

Mr. Fleming had contended he did not find out about the increase until the spring of 1961 and that Mr. Coyne had been derelict in his duty in not reporting the increase at the time, the day after Bank Council cleared the Commons, it was taken up by Mr. Diefenbaker. Under pressure from the Liberal majority, the upper chamber committee did give Mr. Coyne a hearing—his "day in court," as it turned out.

The history-making hearing began two days later before the banking committee.

PRINCIPLE ARGUED

"It does not matter what happens to Coyne," the governor said. "But it does matter that certain principles must be upheld or at any rate fought for, or we will have no principles left on which to rely in the future."

Mr. Coyne was in complete control nearly all the way. He put some 9,000 words an hour on the record. Some senators quailed at the mountains of testimony.

The governor said the government had not charged him with misbehavior, the only lawful grounds on which he could be dismissed as an officer of Parliament.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker himself had obtained a legal opinion from the justice department that matters pertaining to bank pensions need not be referred to the Queen Privy Council.

Mr. Coyne again pulled no punches.

He accused C. Bruce Hill of St. Catharines, Ont., a bank director, of being a political henchman" of Mr. Fleming and of "double-dealing." It was Mr. Hill who moved for Mr. Coyne's resignation at the June 13 meeting of the Quebec City.

Though the Liberal senators had some sympathy for Mr. Coyne's position, at the same time it had become obvious that the governor could not continue in office. The governming didn't want him, and his own board of directors didn't either.

Mr. Coyne himself found the situation impossible. He presented his resign. He coupled the promise with a request for a "verdict of not guilty."

Liberal Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot said: "He is a man of honor, a man of courage, who never backed down. He merited not touch the bill. I find it shameful."

And the Senate acted as Senator Pouliot suggested. Bill C-44 died on the order on the statute books.

Even so, it was expected to become a hot political issue in the 1962 election campaign as the pension bill was in the 1957 election. It didn't.

Not unexpectedly, Mr. Coyne had the last word. But his last word surprised everyone.

"I have only one more last words:" a reporter asked him outside the Bank of Canada as he was leaving it for the last time.

"Not for another 40 years," said Mr. Coyne.

Poison Pen Alienates Friends

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I am a married woman with a wonderful husband and three lovely children.

We own a beautiful farm home.

Through the years we have gradually felt the sting every some of our neighbors. We have tried to broaden our circle of friends, only to have them suddenly fall away with such a vengeance that it seemed unnatural.

When I asked them what had come between us they informed me that they, as well as a lot of other people in the community, have received very nasty letters supposedly written by me. One person allowed me to read the letter she received. It was nicely written, definitely similar to my writing, but not mine!

What should I do? Should I try to prove it was not me who wrote them? Is there such a thing as handwriting specialists and where would I contact one? My husband says that I shouldn't get upset. He claims there are a few people who always like to believe the worst, but the majority hardly give it a second thought. Both he and his mother have a wonderful philosophy of life.

Not me! I get down-trodden easily and some people are taking advantage of my weakness. I need your help soon.—PERPLEXED.

DEAR PERPLEXED—Nasty letters, nasty enough to make enemies of your friends, are a definite case of defamation of character. The vindictive writer should be stopped.

• • •

RCMP police (or RCMP, where you are) has ways of stopping this. Get the letter you saw and show it to them. You may need to involve a lawyer, but see the police first.

Philosophy is all right in its place, but if you lose all your friends first, it's poor consolation.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO CONFUSED TEEN-AGER—You could fall out of love too. Measles often break out much later than 17 and 18, with both parties finding marriage mates later that they are crazy about. This could happen to you.

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP)—Eskimos are helping federal experts prepare a 250-page book of Wisdom aimed at introducing natives of the North to the complexities of civilization.

By enlisting the aid of the Eskimos themselves, federal officials feel, the book will be prevented from being too patronizing, a common complaint about previous editions.

There won't be any "Great White Father" phrasing like this caption below an aerial photograph of Ottawa in a 1931 edition:

"A view of the great encampment of Ottawa where dwell the Canadian ministers of the King, seen as it were through the eyes of a bird."

At a meeting on Eskimo affairs in Ottawa recently, Eskimo Ann Padlo, 28-year-old CBC program producer, said such a book could do more harm than good.

Alex Spalding, a welfare officer in the northern affairs department, told the same meeting that previous editions were "alien to the Eskimo child and they felt like children."

Phyllis Harrison of Ste. Adele, Que., a free-lance writer and photographer hired as editor of the new book, said in an interview a special effort is being made to avoid a patronizing approach. Eskimos were being invited to submit articles.

A graduate social worker, the 44-year-old native of Brandon, Man., worked with Eskimos at Frobisher Bay in the Northwest Territories for 17 months.

Elijah Erkloo, an Eskimo translator and interpreter in the northern affairs department, is her chief helper in writing the book to be printed in Eskimo and English.

"There are a lot of things we don't know about," said Elijah, 24-year-old father of two children who learned English during three years in a tuberculosis sanatorium. "Eskimos don't know anything about laws, life insurance and taxes."

The book will be called Qaujivaallirutisat, which in Eskimo means "a book to help you know more things." To avoid the tongue-twisting title, officials refer to it as the "Q book."

Aimed primarily at the less developed eastern Arctic Eskimos, its topics will range from boats, safety and housing to health, the law and taxes.

It will explain federal services available to the Eskimo such as welfare, health care and family allowances. He will be told that for these services, like all Canadians, he has to pay taxes.

It will contain instructions on the use and handling of guns and equipment such as outboard motors.

"When we have trouble with something like that we can whip it into a garage," said Miss Harrison. An Eskimo would have to ship his motor out for repairs and wait as long as a month. This could be tragic because "his summer lasts only a few weeks."

A problem will be explaining to the Eskimo why white experts are experts. She will tell them, for example, that a doctor, like a hunter, spent years learning his occupation. They listen to a wise hunter."

The hard-cover book will be illustrated with photographs and drawings and brightened by cartoons.

"They will remember better if it amuses them."

Special care has been taken with its size—8½ inches by 11. "It must be a book that is easily packed and durable enough to stand up to wet weather now and then."

The first 2,000 copies will be ready in about a year.

U.S. Govt. Drops Charge Against Teamster Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government has dropped the criminal assault charges lodged against Teamster boss President James Hoffa after the reported beating of a union employee.

The charges were laid last May 17 on complaint of Samuel Baron, a Teamsters official, who claimed that Hoffa knocked him down twice and shoved him over a chair at the union's headquarters here.

The U.S. attorney's office announced it is unable to prosecute the misdemeanor charge against Hoffa because of serious conflicts between accounts of the incident given by Baron and by six eyewitnesses who also are union employees.

CLAIMS PRESSURE

He said threats were made against him and pressure brought to get him to drop the charges against Hoffa. The department of justice assigned two deputy U.S. marshals to stand guard at Baron's home the night of the incident. The marshals kept an eye on Baron up until a couple of weeks ago, the U.S. attorney's office said.

Baron said behind the incident was a difference between Hoffa's "conception of the labor movement and mine."

"I never became part of his machine," Baron said. "I avoided him as much as I could."

UNDER INDICTMENTS

Hoffa himself is under two indictments, one in Florida alleging mail fraud and the other at Nashville which charges him with taking more than $1,000,- 000 in illegal payments from a trucking firm.

Baron at one time was associated with the Canadian attache in the Canadian Embassy here. Conroy quit as secretary - treasurer of the old Canadian Congress of Labor in 1955, because the CLC convention refused to endorse an executive decision to give Baron a job on the CLC executive.

Earlier Baron put in a stormy period as union organizer in Canada. He told a reporter in May that he was selected in 1945 as Canadian director of the Textile Workers of America, affiliated with the old Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Baron ran into union factional struggles in 1950 and lost his job as a result.

LIVING COSTS AT RECORD HIGH — Canada's cost-of-living index reached a record high of 130.5, June 1, up two-fifths of a point from 130.1 a month earlier. Increase was due to a rise in the costs of food, clothing and housing.

Are You Good Borrower?

By HA LEOTLE

NEW YOR (AP)—Are you a good borrower?

Borrowing in the average business office today has been raised to the level of a fine art.

The general palloosphy is to lend and let lend, to borrow and let borrow. If you don't lend a fellow worker a paper clip today, he may refuse to let you borrow one from him tomorrow—when you need it most desperately.

Here are a few typical borrowers you may have noted in your own firm:

Feamont Baron: "Let me have ten bucks now, and it'll be well worth your while later," he says importantly. "I've got a big deal cooking with the boss and want to take him to lunch, and when I get him softened up I'll be sure to put in a good word for you." Later you find he needed the dough to make an emergency payment to his ex-wife.

Freddie Pfil—This is the compulsive borrower. He has to borrow to be happy. He'd prefer to borrow the shirt off your back, but if you just lend him at last year's commuting timetable he'll go away content.

Willie the Weeper — It isn't your money he wants to borrow, it's your car. And if you lend it to him, he'll return it to you an hour later full of all his woes and the trouble he's been having with everybody from his wife to his landlady.

Ambrose the Abstainer—He's trying to save dough by cutting down on his smoking. So he borrows half a pack of cigarettes a day from you. "In a way, I'm doing you a real favor," he remarks lightly. "Now you're not smoking so much either."

Roundabout Robert — He begins by inquiring about your health, your views on motherhood and atomic fallout. After a 15-minute buildup of your ego, he asks casually as he gets up to leave: "Oh, by the way, how'd you let me have $5.27 until Friday? I need it to pay for my laundry."

His Omnipotence — The boss himself isn't after your wallet himself. All he wants to borrow from each employee is about an hour from his personal daydreams during working hours so that somehow the firm can get the job done. "I lost too much to ask!" he wails.

PARIS (Reuters) — Defence Minister Pierre Messmer of France is quoted today as saying that France may have an H-bomb by 1970. The answer per Le Figaro says Messmer told aviation journalists this at a meeting Monday.

Helpful Hints for Students Planning to Visit Britain

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP) — Students planning a soggy semester in soggy Britain are warned: Bring along an extra blanket for your bed and, above all else, an umbrella.

You don't need to bring food with you and the water here is fit to drink.

Girl students—if they can find a shop that still stocks these little numbers — are urged to pack at least three "warm vests" and three pairs of "warm knickers."

These tips and many, many more are included in a 36-page booklet issued by the British Council, How to Live in Britain —a handbook for students from overseas."

The council gives lists of overseas clubs and students' organizations, advice on money, travel and customs and tips on entertainment, accommodation and public services.

WOMEN'S FREEDOM

Sprinkled throughout is advice to the innocent abroad in an amusing, almost maternal tone, the council apparently working on the theory that students from distant parts have precious little idea of life, love and feelings in Britain.

On men and women, for instance, the booklet offers this:

"Women enjoy much freedom in Britain; for example, they may go out unaccompanied and dine alone in a public restaurant. An unmarried woman may live alone and entertain either men or women friends."

But this freedom, it adds with a wag of the finger, "should not be taken for licence."

And, on "manners and customs," it explains:

"When British people are introduced to each other, they give a faint smile and say: 'How do you do?' The answer to this question is also 'how do you do?'"

"The British may occasionally shake hands, especially if formally introduced, but they do not shake hands with men and women they see often; instead they smile and say 'good morning' or 'good afternoon' or 'good evening'."

A few other nuggets selected at random:

"The telephone directory is a good place in which to find the address of people and organizations—provided they have, telephone."

"It will not be long before you can recognize the police. The ordinary 'constable' is familiarly known as a 'bobby' though he likes to be addressed as 'officer'."

"While your national costume, if you have one, is always appreciated—and the more colorful the better—people are apt to be intolerant of men who adopt a flamboyant imitation of British male attire."

"If you must save money do not try to do so by going without food."

There is plenty of food in Britain, so it is quite unnecessary to bring any food with you at all. If you insist on bringing food with you, remember you can import only 30 pounds."

"In any part of Great Britain, tap water from the 'cold tap' is perfectly safe to drink."

"If you have a gas fire in your bedroom, see that it is turned off at the tap before you go to bed, otherwise you might be gassed in your sleep. On no account blow out the flame."

"Remember that laundries take one or two weeks to return garments sent for washing."

And one final warning:

"You will find that the only permanent thing about the English weather is that it is always changing. You must be prepared for everything."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

If, the "laid plans"—rare, medium or well done—of hockey men do not "gang agley" too much, we are going to have more hockey in this cooled-off hotbed next season than you can shake a stick at.

The Eastern Professional Hockey League, up off the deck after a near-knockout when four National League managers voted against providing financial backing—or at least the Kingston-Hull-Ottawa remnants—are planning their hopes of survival on Maestro Wren Blair's glorified junior "A" (up to and including 23 years of age) plan.

The plan which includes dollar support by NHL clubs has been submitted for approval to the owners of the major league organizations. And Blair is quoted by supporters of his plan in Kingston, 50 miles east of here, as saying the prospects are bright.

Optimistic as Blair may be, it seems to me he has to hand the torch of hope over to three Western Ontario hockey representatives who on Sunday backed a plan to revive senior "A" hockey—and with salaries yet!

Windsor manager Sam Fox submitted the plan to the Ontario Hockey Association meeting in London, which apparently agreed on a policy of split senior divisions next season. The senior "A" body will pick up weekly salary cheques. The senior "B" brigade will share the wealth.

The three magi from Windsor, Chatham and Kitchener want to adopt the salary idea. They plan to meet later this week after discussing the new senior "A" setup with "other interests dreams."

The Canadian Press wire story covering the London meeting quoted Mr. Fox as saying he "will approach hockey interests in Toronto, Belleville, Kingston, Trail BC, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie on the possibility of senior 'A' entry."

Apparently backing the plan, OHA president Lloyd Pollock of Windsor, told the meeting he is sure the Eastern Pro League will disband since most of the clubs suffered financial losses. He said, adding insult to injury, should provide a boost to the proposed senior "A" League.

Windsor's Mr. Fox, who it appears is the chief instigator of the new senior "A" salaried set-up, said in his proposed plan that National Hockey League or American Hockey League teams would provide players for the nucleus of each senior "A" squad and help subsidize them. He said several pro clubs have told him they are agreeable to it.

The senior "A" group, as outlined by Fox will include Windsor, Chatham, Kitchener, Belleville, Kingston, North Bay, Sudbury and the Soo. Assuming all clubs enter, it is shuddering to think of transportation costs alone.

I do not believe for a minute that "Kingston and Belleville hockey interests," whoever they are, would be interested in a set-up like that. I'll go a bit further and say that I do not believe Kingston and Belleville "interests" will be interested in the proposed set-up at all. The sad experience of intermediate hockey here last season would scarcely warrant any of these senior salaried ranks unless the age of miracles is not past and somebody finds an Aladdin's Lamp on the shores of Zwick's Island.

Kingston and Belleville and Chatham, Windsor and Kitchener, too, for that matter have had experience with salaries and salaried players in the not too distant past.

But then Messrs. Fox et al, of the senior "A" plan, may come up with something brand new. They may have a new detergent that will eliminate the forces that after a brief blaze of championship glory sent senior "A" salaried hockey into its grave. In Eastern Ontario at least.

Meanwhile as the Joplin cowpoke said, "I'm from Missouri . . ."

Used Players To Win

By JOE REICHLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rival managers Ralph Houk of the American League and Fred Hutchinson of the National voiced the same sentiments as they led with their aces in the 32nd all-star baseball game today.

"I'd like to use as many players as possible," said Houk, whose last encounter with a National League rival led to a New York Yankee world series triumph over the Hutchinson-led Cincinnati Reds. "But the presence of the All-Star game league is at stake. The most important thing is to win. After all, we have lost four of the last five."

"If the players who are good enough to be chosen to appear in the all - star game," said Hutchinson, "then they should be given an opportunity to play. However, I don't intend to put them in for the sake of publicity. Only if they are an integral part in winning the game. That comes first."

President Kennedy planned to be among the 45,011 fans packed at the new D. C. Stadium to witness Houk's and Hutchinson's third all-star game. He will be the first president to attend an all-star game since Franklin D. Roosevelt threw out the first ball in the 1937 game here.

The game, scheduled for 2 p.m. EDT, will be carried on network radio and television and by the CBC in Canada.

HELEN PAY DIVIDENDS

Six per cent of the proceeds go to the player pension fund. Tomorrow's game will be played in Chicago's Wrigley Field, Monday, July 30.

Houk and Hutch lead in the roster-league summer series, 16-14, with one game ending in a tie.

Houk named Jim Bunning, one of the most successful of American League pitchers in all - star history, to open for the junior circuit. Hutchinson countered with Don Drysdale, who leads the majors with 13 victories.

Bunning, with a 9-4 record for Detroit Tigers this season, was the pitching star in last year's two All - Star games when he worked five perfect innings, striking out four batters. He also was credited with the winning case triumph in the 1957 game. Drysdale pitched in both 1959 games, retiring all nine batters he faced in the first contest. The 25 - year - old Los Angeles Dodger righthander was not so fortunate in the second game, giving up three runs on four hits in his three-inning stint.

Houk said he planned to follow Bunning with Minnesota Twins' Camilo Pascual and Cleveland Indians' Dick Donovan, who are tied for the most victories in the American League at 12 each.

HAVE GOOD RECORDS

Hutchinson also leaned toward the pitchers with the most impressive won and loss records. He said he planned to use Bob Purkey (12-3) of the Reds and Juan Marichal (12-5) of San Francisco Giants, as his second and third pitchers.

The American League's first baseman will be Colavito into left field," Houk said "I also intend to keep Earl Battey behind the plate at least through the middle innings to catch Pascual with whom he has worked all season. Then I may let Romano (Cleveland's John Romano or Howard Ave York's Elston Howard) do the catching."

Hutchinson did not reveal any of his contemplated changes but he indicated he would use Stan Musial in a pinch-hitting role. In Sunday's game against the all-star squad for a record 19th time.

Moyer Verdicts Sugar Ray

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Unheralded Phil Moyer of Portland, Ore., upset fading Sugar Ray Robinson Monday night, winning a 10-round split decision after world featherweight champion Davey Moore knocked out Mario Diaz in the other feature of an all-star boxing card.

Moyer, 159½, had the 42-year-old former middleweight king from New York in distress in the ninth round and was what appeared to be a convincing victory. Robinson weighed 160½.

Referee Jimmy Wilson scored 6-4 for Moyer and Judge Dick Young had it 5-4 for the underdog Oregonian. The other judge, John Thomas, had Robinson in front, 5-4.

There were no knockdowns but the 33-year-old Moyer staggered Sugar Ray with a solid left hook to the head in the ninth round. In the melee that followed, Moyer backed Robinson into the ropes and the Sugar man was hanging on to avoid further damage.

Runnels Leads American

Clemente Streaks for Top

NEW YORK (AP)—Outfielder Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh Pirates, slumping with a .283 average a month ago, has streaked into an excellent position to defend his National League batting title.

He zoomed from eighth place to second as a result of an 18-for-38 (.474) performance last week that lifted his average 33 points to .347. Last year he captured the championship with a .351 mark.

Clemente would have moved into the lead if Tommy Davis leader's percentage by a hot bat. The Los Angeles Dodgers' outfielder was 7-for 31 (.516). Davis's average 24 points to .353.

Hank Robinson of Cincinnati Redlegs advanced from sixth to third with 16 safeties in 38 times at bat and a 11-point increase to .342. Veteran Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals, who slammed three homers against New York Sunday, dropped one place to fourth despite a three-point gain to .339.

A 14-point drop by rookie outfielder Manny Jimenez of Kansas City Athletics enabled Pete Runnels of Boston Red Sox to take over the American League lead. Runnels fell two points to .360 with eight hits in 25 trips while Jimenez managed only seven-hits in 31 attempts and slumped to .339. Norm Siebern of Kansas City moved from sixth to third on a 10-point pickup to .336.

Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants took over undisputed possession of the Nationals' home run lead by hitting four homers last week. He has 25, three more than Chicago's Ernie Banks, who only connected once.

Tommy Davis drove in nine runs to remain tops in RBI with 90, Mays is second with 77.

Leon Wagner of Los Angeles continued to set the American League pace in homers with 22. Mays slammed four while Floyd Robinson of Chicago White Sox deadlocked Wagner for the RBI lead. Each has 65. Robinson drove home seven runs and Wagner four last week.

WINS 16TH LEG

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France (AP)—Belgium's Emil Daems won the 165-kilometre (103-mile) 16th leg of the 23-day Tour de France endurance bicycle race for professionals. He covered the distance from Montpellier Monday in four hours, 28 minutes and 12 seconds. Joseph Planckaert of Belgium retained the yellow sweater of the overall winner.

LONDON (CP)—British track fans will watch their first glimpses of Canada's Bruce Kidd during next weekend's British track and field championships.

The 18-year-old University of Toronto student, making his first appearance outside North America, will be up against Britain's bare-footed botanist, Bruce Tulloh of Portsmouth, in the three-mile event.

Tulloh, who set a British record for three miles last year of 13 minutes, 12 seconds, is out to crack the world record of 13:10 held by Murray Halberg of New Zealand.

Kidd's fastest time for the three miles is 13:26.8. He'll have a tough job matching the 27-year-old Tulloh, one of the best distance runners Britain has produced.

Besides running the mile in less than four minutes this year, Tulloh is currently the specialist British runner at two miles, three miles and six miles. Physically frail, he pads along in bare feet even on a cinder track because he says it makes him feel freer.

Don said Bill Crothers of Toronto, a specialist in the 880 yards, will miss the meet because of a slight leg injury suffered in practice last week.

Raiders Purchase Heinrich

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Quarterback Don Heinrich former all-American who helped lead New York Giants to the National Football League championship in his first pro season, 1956, has been purchased by Oakland Raiders from Dallas Cowboys.

It was an outright cash deal, price not reported.

Heinrich will replace Tom Flores as No. 1 quarterback of the American Football League club. Flores, who guided the Raiders both of their seasons in the new circuit, was ordered into temporary retirement after a physical checkup Monday. He has a chronic lung infection—bronchiectasis—but hopes to be able to rejoin the team late in the season.

Heinrich was backfield coach for the Giants last season, under an agreement with the Cowboys, but as a player remained the property of the Texas club.

He was the starting quarterback for the Giants 1954 through 1956, to which time the team won four Eastern Division and one NFL championships.

All-Stars Get No Pay, Just Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP)—American and National League all-stars play without pay in the 32nd major-league baseball game at the new District of Columbia Stadium today, but they won't go home empty handed.

Each major league representative, player, coach or manager receives an expensive, gift, $25 for hotel and expenses, plus round-trip transportation and two tickets to the game.

For example, members of the American League squad get their choice of seven serving pieces matching the pattern of last year's gift, a gun cabinet, a covered barbecue, an engraved sterling silver tray, a 14-piece punch set or a 76-piece stainless steel flatware set.

Sixty per cent of the game's proceeds, after expenses, go to the pension fund for major-league baseball players.

Favor Twin All-Stars

Players Want Game Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The major league baseball players have decided unanimously to ask for a cut in the all-star game schedule and voted also to continue the two all-star games at least through 1963.

The players' request for the schedule reduction will be forwarded by letter to baseball commissioner Ford Frick who will then relay the request to the presidents of the American and National leagues. The league heads are scheduled to act on the request at the major league meetings next winter.

Judge Robert C. Cannon, legal counsel for the players' group Monday: "The players feel the present long schedule causes undue hardship in travel and playing conditions and want some relief."

They suggested 153 to 154 games.

Frank Scott, director of the baseball players' association, said the players feel the two all-star games are necessary in order to provide additional money for the players' pension fund, which was increased last year to include managers in addition to players and coaches.

They re-elected Bob Friend of Pittsburgh as the National League player representative and Bob Turley of New York Yankees as the American League representative.

Leafs Zero Syracuse, Suns Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto's Orlando Pena fired his fifth shutout of the International League season Monday night as the Maple Leafs blanked Syracuse, 6-0. In other games, Richmond blanked Columbus, 4-0, behind Jackie Collett's six-hitter, league-leading Jacksonville slipped Atlanta, 2-1, and Rochester trimmed Buffalo, 3-2.

Neil Crisley provided the batting support Pena needed for his eighth win in 14 decisions. The leftfielder drove in five runs with his 10th homer and two singles.

It was Pena's second straight shutout and third in the last four starts.

Cullen, who had lost five straight, pitched a six - hitter against the Jets as Richmond opened a 13-game home stand. The Virginians jumped ahead against loser Bob Veale in the fifth on a walk to Don Lock, Jack Davis' triple and a bloop single by Alan Hall.

Jacksonville maintained its 7½ game lead behind a five-hitter by Ron Taylor of Toronto. Taylor and Atlanta's Paul Toth were locked in a pitching duel with the score tied 1-1 in the sixth. Then with two out Duke Carmel singled and moved to third on Harry Bright's hit. When Cracker third baseman Jim Baumer booted Larry Brown's bouncer, Taylor scooted across with the winner.

Bob Saverine led the assault with four singles and Joe Durham contributed a two - run homer. Herb Moford, with help from Alex Carras in the seventh was the winner.

Big Man Almost Got Away

ALGONAC, Mich. (AP)—Oscar Blalock of Detroit said he was fishing in the St. Clair River Monday when a five-foot sturgeon jumped into his 12-foot boat.

Blalock scrambled toward the bow and was about to jump overboard when a nearby fisherman, John Starr of Royal Oak, called at him to stay in the boat.

"I vowed there is a jitty," said Starr. "When I got alongside I managed to stick an oar into the sturgeon's gills and push the big fish under the middle seat of the boat.

"By this time other boats had gathered around, but nobody would get into Blalock's boat as long as the sturgeon was there thrashing his tail."

Starr and another boater sandwiched Blalock's boat between them, brought it to shore and beached it.

The 60-pound sturgeon is now in deep freeze. It will be mounted with the legend—"the only fish that was never caught."

MAKES LIVING A PLEASURE!

Three times of American golf fiasco be nerve shattering assignment today of breaking par or catching the next plane home.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Phil Rodgers went into the second 18-hole qualifying round of the British Open championship with an anchor around their necks.

Masters' champion Palmer, defending his 1961 British Open crown, and U.S. Open king Nicklaus stumbled around Old Troon Monday in 76 strokes. Today they tour neighboring Lochgreen and if they fail to beat par 72 comfortably they are in serious jeopardy. Rodgers, with his first-round 71, is scarcely any better off.

By tonight an original field of 155 aspirants will be reduced to 120. The Open itself, 72 holes of medal play, gets under way Wednesday.

Palmer, the 2 to 1 favorite to retain the championship he won at Birkdale, England, is complaining of indigestion and a sore shoulder muscle.

Sam Snead and 1961 U.S. Open champion Gene Littler are back in the most comfortable of positions. Snead at 50 hasn't any right to aspire to this one. But all he did was crack around lengthened Troon in 69, with three birdies on the first four holes, Littler toasted around in 71, as did Gary Player, the mite-sized South African.

Top Women Fail to Qualify

TORONTO (CP)—High winds and scores soaring in qualifying rounds of the Ontario ladies' golf championships.

Two favorites failed to qualify for the championship flight, Lou Crocker of York Downs, defending champion, carded an 89 Monday, one over the 18 needed, and Ada Mackenzie, winner of the tournament seven times, had a 90.

Sixteen of the 128 entries in the medal play qualifying round will get the championship flight.

Three tied for low medal honors with 84, 11 over par. They were Kay Hellenr of Toronto, Mrs. Barney Morris of Oakdale and Mrs. J. Dalrymple of St. Catharines.

Miss Mackenzie's failure to qualify for the championship flight marked the first time she has missed a place in the event's career.

Other scores included: Mrs. J. Ough, Barrie, 89; Mrs. N. Marchment, Georgetown, 90; Mrs. Patricia Culhane, Napanee, 90.

Defeat Juniors 12-4

Bobcats Clip Loss String

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

The Bobcats broke a nine-game losing streak last night when they thumped Rollins Construction Juniors 12-4 to grab a two-point lead in their battle for the final playoff spot.

Rollins still have a game in hand and the same clubs meet again Thursday night. Joyce host the second-place RCAF Flyers at the Fairgrounds Friday night.

Bobcats turned in one of their top efforts of the year. They played errorless ball afield, got good pitching from Bob Green and helped themselves to ten hits.

The winners broke a scoreless tie with five runs in the third inning and were never seriously threatened. St. Louis singled to start the rally and Crawford hit Mr. Murrey for a double. Two errors and "Shiner" Murrey's fly ball plated the first three runs. Green and Doug Murrey contributed singles around a walk to fill the bases again. Bovay's infield hit drove in the fourth run and the fifth scored on a passed ball.

The Juniors cut the lead to 5-3 in the fourth, Green's second inning, when he walked two and wild pitched the runs home amid doubles by G. Duggan and Zakos. The losers scored again in the seventh on Ethier's base hit and wild pitches.

Clapp's safety, two errors and a passed ball plated two for the Cats in the fifth. Doug Murrey singled two across in the sixth after Wright's hit and an error. "Shiner" Murrey slammed a bases-empty homer in the eighth while Green's hit, a fielder's choice and a wild pitch made it 11-4. Walks and Crawford's ground out closed the scoring in the ninth.

Bob Ethier allowed five hits, whiffed two and walked seven in a losing effort. Six errors did little to help his cause.

Doug Murrey, ejected in the eighth and Bob Green led the winners with two hits apiece. Frank "Shiner" Murrey had the game's only home run and Floyd Crawford poked a double. Singles went to Ab Wright, Earl Clapp, Wayne Bovay and Gord St. Louis.

Griffith, Dupas Friday

A physician for the Nevada State Athletic Commission pronounced both in excellent physical condition.

Commission chairman Jim Deskin, meanwhile, said he had rejected a proposal to stage the match in a novel, four-rope ring. It had been suggested as an extra precaution against fighters injuring themselves by falling through the ropes.

Deskin said it was a good idea, but the contracts stipulate the old-type, three-rope rings, and it would mean too much red tape to change now.

TORONTO (CP)—Hill, a 7-year-old brought from the United States, scored his first victory in Canada when he took the featured sixth race at Woodbine Monday but he needed an assist from his trainer.

The race was actually won by Pentathlon by a slight nose, claimed by trainer Elmer Kalensky for $25,000. However, Hill had been bumped by Pentathlon during the stretch drive. After a film study, the stewards agreed and Pentathlon was moved to second spot while Hill took the winner's share of the purse. Credit Fuji finished third.

STARTED YOUNG — Danny Pickett started his career with Montreal Alouettes as the Eastern Football Conference as water boy at the age of 14. Now 23, he is director of development for the club. Danny stows football gear into trunk for a road trip. (CP Photo).

Sports Snapshots

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Danny Pickett started his pro football career in blue jeans and sneakers, lugging a water bottle across the field stripes.

That was 13 years ago when he joined Mcgiteal Alouettes as a water-boy.

At 23 now he is the club's director of development and, probably, the youngest front office mad in football, Canadian or otherwise.

Hayman, sporting a freckle-faced wide - eyed kid hanging around the Als practice field day after day, took him aside, shoved the water bottle into his hands and barked:

"Keep your eyes and ears open and your mouth shut."

Says Danny reflectively: "I took the bottle and the advice."

He took over as director of development — the job that mainly public relations and office management—at the close of last season from Wyoming-born Ken Brown who went to Toronto Argonauts as Hayman's assistant.

In an interview Danny said he has his own ideas about football. But he tries to "steer clear of suggesting any moves to the coaches."

"What I know about the players—I was pretty close to them for so many years—can sometimes be of help, though.

"One guy might work all the harder when he gets ball. Another responds differently. He slackens off, maybe sulks. By keeping up this like this, it sometimes averts trouble."

As a kid Danny used to lead the players in sing - songs, strumming a guitar in the dressing room after a big win. But he stopped playing two years ago.

"That's my big failing," he said. "I'm not interested in anything else besides football."

WANTS TO BE GM

Robert Daniel Pickett was born in Saint John, N.B., the son of an office manager for a steel works company.

He came to Montreal as an infant when his dad was transferred and played a bit of football in high school as a quarterback.

He left school in 1955 to take over the full-time job as equipment manager of the Alouettes and the club hired a private tutor for him later.

Engaged to Heather Holland, a pretty brunette who once worked in the Alouette office, the two are to be wed in January.

How are the Als going to make out in the forthcoming season?

"It could be I've been brainwashed," said Danny, "but I can't see us finishing any worse than second."

King Of The Boos!

'Marvellous Merv,' Mr Met!

By JIM BECKER

NEW YORK (AP)—As Merv Throneberry goes, so go the New York Mets.

Generally, that is pretty awful.

"Marvelous Merv" Throneberry, as he is known in Polo Grounds circles, is a first baseman who has been described as a poor fielder but a weak hitter. Ordinarily he's pretty sad in the clutch, too.

Perhaps because these attributes so perfectly match those of the new National team, which is making a drive for the worst 10th-place finish in baseball history, Throneberry has become a sort of symbol of the inept Mets.

All the frustration of the fans is centred on him. His every move, at field, at bat or just standing around holding up the batting cage is greeted with a soaring chorus of boos.

ALSO UNLUCKY

Merv gives them something to boo about too. Bad as he is, he is also a little unlucky.

Merv has been known to triple with the bases loaded and forget to touch first base on the way around. He has been picked off first base. A runner has taken two bases on him when he missed a pickoff throw from the pitcher. A pop fly he called for once fell 15 feet in front of him, just to the left of the pitcher's mound.

He has made three errors in one game.

Ordinarily you can get away with a lot of that sort of thing in the peace and quiet of the major cellar. But the Mets are new and their fans are wildly rabid. Down 13-5 in the eighth, they chant for a rally. A base on balls, a topped roller and a hit batter can move them to a state of frenzy.

And then when nothing useful ensues, they turn on Throneberry.

He is a handy target because if he hasn't done anything lately, it usually is only a matter of waiting a little while.

TURNS TABLES

However, it must be reported that some confusion has entered the ranks of the Throneberry boosers.

In a contest against St. Louis Cardinals, marvelous Merv advanced to the plate as a pinch hitter in the last of the ninth with a man on base and the Mets a run behind. He stroked a homer to win the game.

Castro with a crew cut wouldn't have been any more startling.

In the second game Throneberry hit another homer to tie the score and tripled in the bases-full and we were the Mets, who were beaten 15-1.

But there is no doubt that he had shaken the fans' faith in him. If he isn't careful he might become just another Met. There's not much future in that.

Minor Softball

The "Tyke" softball regimen play last night, after a week off for the holidays with the Leads, Rangers and Canadiens chalking up victories.

The Leads defeated the Beutins 14-8, Rangers took a 13-7 decision over the Wings and the Canadiens buried the Hawks 27-3.

Pointers Top Horlocks by 6-5 Score

The Point Anne Centennies held a one-run margin in the last two innings to pull out a tight 6-5 victory over the Woods-Horlock Juveniles at CNBA Park last night.

The clubs were tied 2-2 after five innings. The Pointers scored two runs in each of the sixth and seventh innings while Woods-Horlock managed one in the sixth and two in the last of the seventh to drop the one-run decision.

Denny Hull pitched the victory, scattering eight hits, striking out eight and walking but one.

Bobby Boyle was the loser. He allowed just five hits while striking two and passing five.

Jones and Hall hit baseample homers for the Juveniles while Jones also had a single. Chitland and Jury each singled twice and Boyle once.

Point Anne — 011 0032 - 6 5 2
Woods-Horlock 000 0012 - 5 8 1
Batteries — D. Hull and Sheridan; Boyle and Turner.

Quinte Trap, Gun Club

Handgun Results

Jim Reid, Bert Waters, Dick Charlton and Dave Cuthbert had the top guns at the Northern Electric Belleville Handgun meet at the Shannonville outdoor range last night.

Reid was first and Bob Burke second in the timed fire 20 yards event. Waters won the 25 yard event while Charlton took the 25 yard slow, Duffus was top shot firing at 2" by 1 1-2" swinging targets at 50 yards.

Members and visitors are advised that there will be no shooting shoot during the next two weeks.

Louis Nye Making Good In Hard Field of Comedy

By BOB THOMAS

That was the way the soon went in the Phil Silvers show Top Bananas, and it is proving true for many a lesser television decision.

Look at the former second bananas who are now making it on their own—Art Carney, now starring on Broadway and in television specials; Carl Reiner, Emmy-winning writer-producer of the Dick van Dyke Show; Don Knotts, double Emmy winner of the Andy Griffith show; and Tony Randall, once second fiddle to Mr. Peepers.

All this leads up to Louis Nye, one of the funniest men around. He had difficulty shaking his reputation as second banana to Steve Allen, especially in the guise of the unctious ad man, Gordon Hathaway.

IT WAS RUGGED'

"Let me tell you, it was rugged," says Louis. "You'd be surprised how many producers would say 'no, we can't use him — he's too Madison Avenue'."

The comic, whose agile face can range from sour to sweet, had to convince them he was not a one-joke performer. He did a night club act in which he played everything from a hipster, applying for a loan at a bank to a rich young Arab who doesn't like sand.

As Louis Nye, he is doing fine. He is playing a magician who publicizes Joanne Woodward in A Woman in July. He'll return to the night clubs next month. He plans to make a television pilot for Peter Lawford's company. And he just finished a guest spot with Jack Benny for a fall show.

DAUGHTER'S DEBUT

Melinda Marx, 15 - year - old daughter of comedian Groucho Marx, makes her film debut in Columbia Pictures' Bye Bye Birdie in 1962.

"Does it send you into a romantic frenzy?"

Astrological Forecast

For July 11

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Fondest hopes along personal lines can be fulfilled. But if you put business ahead of consideration for loved ones you are due for emotional fall. Strive for domestic harmony.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Old ties from the past. Best bet today is to stress original ideas, get around, see people, make new social, business contacts. But be willing to listen as well as talk.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Could be tendency to "run yourself down." Instead, try positive approach. The more cheerful you are the more likely you are to attract success. Consider "money-making" idea.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Speculation for the "fun" of it could prove costly. Better check facts, figures. There is likelihood of deception, mainly self-deception. Practical, conservative course favored.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Pinpoint hopes, ambitions. A rather spectacular experience could climax the day involving achievement, fame, publicity. Let Leo showmanship prevail. Never be petty.

Virgo (Aug. 21 to Sept. 22): You have many factors which remain unknown. But this should not hold you back. Others look to you for indication of which way to go. Make up your mind and act!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Running away from unpleasant fact is not the answer. Strive to do your best and then you may find that problem is really a minor one. Finances spotlighted. Check budget.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Cycle up . . . meaning today good for self-improvement, advancement, putting across point of view. Don't hold back on doubt. If authority asks questions, have right answers ready!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): No, this is not time to pull in horns." Instead, seek to expand. This is done through reading, traveling, writing, absorbing knowledge. Review personal puzzle nears solution.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Consider effect your comment to associate might have; then think twice before making it. Friendship highlighted. It may be necessary to "work" at keeping valued friend.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Today overcome tendency to get "back up." Otherwise, you find yourself fighting one who has your best interests at heart. Go slow, especially in forming decision on legal matters.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Get out tonight and relax. Remove yourself from situation which has been "pressing" emotionally. Much opportunity for constructive pleasure. But you have to meet others at least halfway.

If today is your birthday . . . this could well be year for expansion, and for realization of some of fondest hopes, ambitions. Year, too, in which you finally feel "settled."

Gonzales Coaches Cup Team

CLEVELAND (AP)—The chairman U.S. Davis Cup tennis squad, Jack Kramer, Los Angeles and the Wimbledon champion Santana, begin workouts today with coach Edward (Pancho) Gonzales.

"Pancho will get out there and play against the team," said captain Bob Kelleher. "I figure that after they've faced Gonzales a few times, everyone else will look easy."

The American zone matches open July 20 with the Davis Cup to be Replayed.

Kelleher won't ready Monday to name his singles lineup for Thursday's matches and Dennis Ralston "appear to be our best doubles team — they are the national champions."

This Day in Sports

JULY 10,1953

Ben Hogan capped his greatest year in golf when he shot a closing 34-34-68 to win the British Open by four strokes with 282. Hogan had won the Masters and U.S. Open

Picton News

Pr. Ed. Flying Club Active Over Weekend

PICTON — Prince Edward Flying Club activities over the weekend included a wiener roast with more than 100 in attendance. A corn roast is next on the agenda.

Two barns at Belleville hospital for the past two years, Fran Johnson and Helen Lewis, took advantage of the club's facilities to see the district from the air. They are scheduled to leave for England this week, giving an opportunity to see more of the world before returning to their home in Australia.

A group of pilots flew in from Montreal and plan to return to spend a longer vacation. "The Outlet Beach is really wonderful," they told manager-instructor Murray Clapp with no less opportunity to boost Prince Edward to visitors.

Local club member, Frank Verity and his wife were among 300 who participated in a breakfast fly-in to the Kitchener Club.

A group of pilots flew in to Ottawa next Sunday and after breakfast visit the Aviation Museum in the capital.

The club is planning a fly-in to August.

Warm Weather Sends Many To Beaches

PICTON — Sunday's warm weather saw crowds flock to the beaches, or any spot where it could be expected to be cooler than in the towns and cities. Several Sneyong invaded the county of Prince Edward to enjoy the beaches and picnic spots which abound around the 500-mile shoreline or along the inland lakes.

At Outlet Provincial Park, on Sunday, some 9,000 persons congregated. The previous day, around 2,000 were on the mile sandy-bed long area of beach.

All the 356 campsite-sites were filled and others tents set upon the dunes.

Other beaches such as Sleiter's Dory Beach also drew crowds, while the Glen-the-Mountain was an especially popular place.

Rangers at Outlet Park reported three children lost and made-last-year drownings.

Bruce Martin's Cedar Park on Outlet was likewise jammed both days and continues to be the entertainment centre for a wide area.

Driver Charged After Accident $800 Damage

PICTON — Two sections of plate glass windows in the Bata Shoe Store were broken early Sunday morning when a parked car, struck from behind, mounted the curb, crossed the sidewalk and struck the store front. Damage to wire down and cars exceeded $800.

Just after midnight Mrs. Mrs. Doug Meslow, R. R. 2, Picton, left their car single-parked on the north side of Main Street while they went into a cafe for coffee. A car driven by Victor Prazza, 33, of 160 Raleigh Ave., Toronto, proceeding west, struck the rear of their car, causing it to shoot forward and strike the store front. Travelling at about 90 feet, the Prazza car nicked the bumper of another parked car before pulling into the curb. Town police were driving east in the vicinity at the same time and have laid a charge of impaired driving.

Damage to the Meslow car was about $400; to the Prazza car, $300; and to the store front $200.

Pr. Ed. County Orange Lodges Plan Parades

PICTON—Members of the Orange Order attended the morning service at the church of St. Mary Magdelene, on Sunday. The Frankford pipe band headed the parade.

Next Saturday, Prince Edward County Orangemen will go to Brockville to participate in the 120th of July Commemoration parade.

On August 12, a County church parade is planned at Wellington.

Vandals Damage Mailboxes

PICTON — Vandals ripped a mail box from a post in front of the home of Albert Lowder on the Ridge Road a few days ago. It was thrown away in a field. A name plate on Norval Lowder's mail box was twisted and ruined. A mailman reported that at least three mail boxes on the Picton to Milbury crossroad had been damaged by vandals.

Warm Weather Sends Many To Beaches

PICTON — Sunday's warm weather saw crowds flock to the beaches, or any spot where it could be expected to be cooler than in the towns and cities. Several Sneyong invaded the county of Prince Edward to enjoy the beaches and picnic spots which abound around the 500-mile shoreline or along the inland lakes.

At Outlet Provincial Park, on Sunday, some 9,000 persons congregated. The previous day, around 2,000 were on the mile sandy-bed long area of beach.

All the 356 campsite-sites were filled and others tents set upon the dunes.

Other beaches such as Sleiter's Dory Beach also drew crowds, while the Glen-the-Mountain was an especially popular place.

Rangers at Outlet Park reported three children lost and made-last-year drownings.

Bruce Martin's Cedar Park on Outlet was likewise jammed both days and continues to be the entertainment centre for a wide area.

Extensive Grass Fire Controlled

PICTON—About an acre of long grass on Joe C. Kingsteaber's place at West Lake was burned over Saturday afternoon. Residents of the neighborhood and tourists helped get the outbreak under control before it spread to a wooded section. Fire Chief Donfield fire department also responded to the call. The tinder-like grass burned with great fury. Shovels and sand were a great help in subduing it. The fire followed dumping some garbage.

Senior Golfer Gets Honors With a 75

WINNIPEG (CP) — Arthur Jones of Vancouver captured medallist honors in the 18-hole qualifying round for the senior golf championship of Canada.

Johnson, playing in the event in the 50-59 group, shot a three-over-par 75 Monday.

Tied for second in the field of 76 were Ed Saville of Saskatoon, Ont., and Matthews of Vancouver and Ben Merwin of Sudbury. Matthews had a 77, Saville plays in the 35-39 age group while Dr. Matthews and Merwin are in the 60-69 section.

Other leaders are Jack Matthews and Merwin quality to play in their own age group flights, they elected to compete in the championship flight, which consists of 35-39 age golfers.

The Royal Canadian Golf Association tournament, which moves into match play today, consists of 76 championship and four other flights.

Trying to Forge Links Of Cash Between Crooks, Officials Frustrating Task

By JOHN LESLANC

TORONTO (CP) — Tantalizing glimpses into the half-world of bigtime organized gambling flicker before Ontario's royal commission on crime, but chiefly in spasmodic and often unrelated flashes.

In public hearings since March 21 the commission has accumulated massive evidence that illegal gambling is a well-organized business on a multi-million-dollar scale and that in the past there have been payoffs for official protection.

But trying to forge links of cash between crooks and officialdom has been a frustrating task for the tribunal, beset by evasive or downright balky witnesses, missing records, faulty memories and legal roadblocks.

As the commission rose for a mid-summer recess, action toward perjury and other charges against one bookie and alleged protection peddler had been launched publicly.

But the evidence appears to need considerably more to bind together if the commission is to get much further in sailing down wrongdoing than police have already done by themselves.

BIG BOOKIE PROFITS

In the still - unfinished first chapter of a three - to - five inquiry, the commission headed by Mr. Justice Wilfrid Roach has been looking for corruption on the part of officials, specifically in the provincial government, in hopes evidence calling for later explanation is on record.

Untouched are the field of crime generally and the efforts of Ontario law enforcement agencies to cope with it, one of the main terms of reference of the commission. All trails so far have led in the direction of gamblers.

A magistrate calculated a single Toronto bookie establishment was making $1,000,000 profit a year. There was evidence that a short-lived gambling place at Peterborough (pop. 46,500) was bankrolled at $60,000 a night, and that a fortress near Windsor had an investment of $250,000

The commission still has to come to grips firmly with the men supposed to sit atop the heap of money. These are Joseph McDermott, 42, who cultivates flowers on his estate at nearby Port Credit, and Vincent Feeley, 46, a former hotel waiter who now flies his own plane.

Principals in a string of gambling houses, they were under the gun of the Ontario Provincial Police before the royal commission was appointed. Early this year they were convicted along with former OPP Const. Robert J. Wright of conspiring to obtain police information (raid tipoffs) illegally. The three, sentenced to 1½ years, have appealed.

DENIED EVERYTHING

Before the commission Wright has denied everything. McDermott is still to be called. Feeley appeared, testified that in 1956 (when he and McDermott were reported to be really rolling in reported taxable income of $3,130, then clammed up on the ground of self - incrimination.

By the time the case had made its way to the Supreme Court of Canada — which ordered that he must talk — the commission was off on new tangents, and Feeley has not yet been recalled.

He and McDermott will have many questions to answer. One or another has been reported by various witnesses as:

1. Bragging of having an in at Queen's Park, seat of the provincial government.

2. Having at times an uncomfortably close working knowledge of events taking place among the higher levels of the provincial police.

3. Offering bribes ranging up to about $25,000 to policemen.

4. Having an association with James A. Maloney, Ontario mines minister, who died last year.

5. Telephoning assorted politicians and political hangers-on, including Mr. Maloney, from a secret phone listing.

One witness even reported that, after looking over the field of legal gambling in the Caribbean, they made an approach to Canadian industrial magnate E. P. Taylor, who has holdings in that area but who was not interested.

LAUNDRY MYSTERY

Attorney-General Kelso Roberts will share top billing with the gambling partners when the commission resumes sittings some time after mid-August. His department — responsible for the OPP — and the names of some officials have been mentioned in testimony. One was on the list of those telephoned from the McDermott-Feeley number, secret until the OPP dug it out.

Intervention of the attorney-generals department in the reinstatement in 1957 of provincial charters to three "social" clubs in the McDermott-Feeley string was described as "extraordinary" by Liberal party counsel B. J. MacKinnon at the inquiry.

The official reason was that this gave the provincial government a tighter control over the clubs, which previously had federal charters. But the provincial secretary's department officer who normally would recommend the or against the charters found that in this case they had been approved before he reached his desk, and was waiting for the customary OPP anti-gambling squad report on them. The O.K. he expected never turned out to be unfavorable.

The clubs, in fact, closed down one at a time over the next 4½ years, but as a gambling front in which was said the provincial charters were not to blame for that.

CHECKED ON LAWYER

More recently, Attorney-General Roberts looked into the picture again when it was disclosed that he had called on Frederick Hall, Q.C., to investigate a lawyer who was described as "corruption" to the inquiry.

Welsh-born Eric Scott of Toronto, Hall became the first junior counsel in an initial "unravelling" operation that year of McDermott, Feeley and Wright. When he came upon evidence of his client's guilt, subsequently has been before the commission, he tried unsuccessfully to see then premier Leslie Frost about it.

Balked there, he turned to Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer. When a memorandum on his findings got delayed in the mail from Mr. Wintermeyers office to his, he told police after it, suggesting gamblers may have tampered with his mail.

But when he mentioned to police that he was "investigating" the alleged "corruption," the attorney-general found this out and promptly had the investigator investigated. Scotland Yard's finding: "Above reproach."

MP's MENTIONED

Mr. Frost lit a brief political bonfire over the incident, complaining that the reasons for his refusal to see Mr. Scott had been "suppressed" by the Liberal counsel. These were read into the record, consisting mainly of his declaration that relevant information already was in the hands of the appropriate authorities.

His former cabinet colleague, Mr. Roberts, has denied that he have interfered consistently in court cases and with police in his/home county of Renfrew and to have dispensed departmental favorites to McDermott and Feeley, owners of hunting claims.

A signature purporting to be that of Ellis P. Morningstar, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Welland, was on a letter of reference for a bookie who now is a fugitive from a U.S. smuggling conspiracy indictment. Mr. Morningstar said he did not recall writing the letter, found in an OPP gambling raid at Cornwall in 1944.

PERJURY CHARGES

Arthur C. Jolley, former Conservative MPP for Niagara Falls, whistled signing reference letters for McDermott and Feeley while he was legislator in 1958 but said they contained only routine phrases. The commission did not act on a suggestion by Mr. MacKinnon that Mr. Jolley be charged with perjury on the strength of an earlier declaration that he did not know Feeley at all and had a bare acquaintance with McDermott, his telephone was on their list of calls.

But perjury action, and possibly other charges, were proposed to the Crown by the commission's counsel Stanley (The Ball) Balsom, a St. Catharines bookie reported to be wholesaler of police protection for a stable of joints in the Niagara area.

Balsom denied everything except being a small-time bookie but landed in hot water when the OPP revealed that for about a fortnight before his commission appearance a plot - sized

Radio Telescope Took Five Years to Build, Is Largest, Latest Instrument in World

By ROD CURRIE

MANCHESTER, England (CP)—The famed Jodrell Bank radio telescope looks like a giant saucer—at any place in the middle of the beautiful Cheshire countryside a few atomic reactor at a county fair.

And if there is any thing that will rile the hand(s) of tweedy-type scientists who dote on the saucer-shaped, grey object it is the general public impression that its main purpose is tracking of interplanetary rockets and satellites.

"Satellites occupy our attention only about five per cent of the time," said public relations officer Bernard Lovell recently. At present, among other things, the telescope is tracking a cherry 976—or, rather, ear—out for Venus.

The radio telescope, completed in 1957, cost £700,000, its five years to build and to the latest, largest and most penetrating astronomical instrument of its kind in the world.

Its father is Sir Bernard Lovell, the University of Manchester professor who began his research into meteor and radio astronomy after the war, working on the accepted theory that man could hear the universe much better than he could see them.

UNAFFECTED BY CLOUD

When he decided he needed more room away from the electrical interferences of the city, the university got a row of with "the strawberry growers," the latter objecting to doing research on part of a large plot of university - owned land in Cheshire about 20 miles southwest of here.

It is basic advantages, plus the fact it can move freely in both horizontal and vertical planes while most others were fixed to the earth and aimed only by the earth's motion in space—that makes the Jodrell Bank telescope the most important such device in existence.

The saucer is 250 feet in diameter, made of welded steel plates and carried in a lattice steel cradle. The whole thing, including the railway track on which it revolves horizontally, weighs 10,000 tons of reinforced concrete.

Its construction is considered an engineering feat. With more than an acre of wind-catching steel area the structure had to be steady in storms, withstand accumulations of snow and rain and move as slowly as the hour-hand on a watch under any climatic conditions.

MODEL FOR FUTURE

It stands as a model for all future such constructions and the Americans plan to build an even larger one within the next five years.

It is dedicated to pure astronomical research on the vastest cosmological scale and is used to follow the course of long-held theories and experts at Jodrell Bank envisage nothing less than a new map of the universe.

Driving through the countryside, home of the famed Cheshire cheese, amid the hedged picture-post-card cottages, the old - fashioned flower gardens and the rolling hills dotted with stately English oaks, one comes upon the telescope suddenly, sticking out like a sore thumb.

Within yards of its base, slick black-and-white Holstein cows graze in pastures flecked with wild bluebells and buttercups. Black - faced sheep pause to bah-ee at the few whose official business takes them beyond the only sign on the road leading to the station, a red-lettered warning to "keep out."

Telestar Brings World New Ears, Eyes And Voice

Satellite Orbiting In Space Relays Pictures

NEW YORK (AP) — Telstar, the communications satellite, orbited in space today on its pioneering mission to bring the world a new voice, ears and eyes.

In triumphant baptism Tuesday night, it sent television pictures spanning the Atlantic to France and England. It relayed a telephone call from Maine to Vice - President Johnson in Washington. It heard and clearly as the best of local calls.

Then for an encore, the versatile Telstar — only a yard wide — simultaneously transmitted news stories at a 1,000-word - a - minute clip, relayed photographs perfectly, and sampled two - way telephone calls with perfect ejaculti from a 3,000 - mile height in space.

Remarkably clear TV pictures were received in France. Word were to be relayed by tape into French homes today.

French TV officials planned to beam a return program to the United States late tonight or early Thursday French time, which is five hours ahead of ours.

A Paris dispatch said this program would be a tribute to Yves Montand, several views of Paris and a message from Jacques Chirac, head of the command, cations minister.

SEE IN BRITAIN

In Britain, faint and fleeting pictures were picked up at Telstar received, amplified and re - transmitted the program beamed into space from a powerful horn antenna in the little town of Andover, Me. The first pictures were of the Atlantic coast, a view of the American flag ripping in the breeze.

British viewers stayed up late for the event of instantaneous TV from abroad. But the brief reward coming after 1 a.m.

Telstar's first feats were a prodigious d ow n a number of things to come in future workings of communications systems to meet mounting demands for telephone, news, business and TV traffic between North America, oceans and continents.

The project, a private venture of private industry and government—American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and associates, the $4,000,000 cost of building, launching and tracking Telstar —Newton Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, remarked:

"Now we have increased opportunities for the free flow of information among all nations, to surmount barriers of space and distance and prejudice and to use mass communications hopefully to promote international education."

Only for 10 to 15 minutes on some of its orbits each day will Telstar be in line of sight vision between Europe and Maine to permit TV exchange. Otherwise, it will be busy relaying a series of 30 to 50 similtaneous telephone calls — more or more always would be in po-

GOVT. INTENDS TO SUSPEND TOLLS ON CANAL

United States Has Been Notified

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has told the United States it intends to suspend tolls on the Welland Canal in the St. Lawrence Seaway, reliable informants said Tuesday.

A formal note on the toll suspension — first announced last month by Prime Minister Diefenbaker at an election rally — was delivered to the United States.

Since the Welland Canal is technically part of the international seaway, Canada must notify the Americans of toll changes on the waterway—even though it was built almost 30 years before the seaway and is entirely in Canada.

Sources here do not anticipate any delay or difficulty in receiving American approval for suspension of Welland tolls on traffic between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie. The Welland produced $2,460,461 in toll revenue in 1961, all of it going to the Canadian Seaway Authority treasury, to help cover the capital costs of developing the waterway to seaway depth.

NO ON ST. LAWRENCE

Tolls on the St. Lawrence River portion of the seaway are not affected.

Once American approval is obtained, sources here expect Welland tolls to be dropped—perhaps by mid - July. There would be about a month after Mr. Diefenbaker told an election rally at Welland that the payment of tolls "is to be suspended immediately."

However, there is no indication that when the tolls are finally suspended, the action will be made retroactive to June 15, when the Prime Minister made his affirmative declaration.

Such a step would mean the Seaway Authority would have to pay back all toll revenues it has collected from shipping lines using the Welland Canal in recent weeks.

Mr. Diefenbaker coupled his election announcement of the toll suspension with a promise that territory of single lock in the 27-mile waterway around Niagara Falls would start soon.

AUSTERITY MAY HIT

Sources suggest the plan to tackle the multi-million-dollar twinning project, a massive engineering feat, may be put back in the wake of the government's Austerity measures to protect the Canadian dollar.

In the meantime, negotiations are under way to wind up the expropriation of 320 acres of land to permit the twinning.

The expropriation plan was announced May 26 in Ottawa. The seaway authority has since sent out formal notices of expropriation to about 120 property owners involved in the line-over acquisitions now under way on cash settlements.

An unofficial estimate placed the total financial settlement in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

The expropriated land is in the St. Catharines and Thorold areas on the four single locks in the eight-lock waterway.

Thieves Steal 35 Paintings From Gallery

LONDON (Reuters)—Thieves stole 35 paintings valued at nearly £400,000 ($1,200,000) from an art gallery overnight in what was believed to be British history's biggest art theft.

The paintings included 10 by Degas and seven by Pissarro, Monet, Toulouse - Lautrec and Bonnard.

Police said the thieves broke locks and forced a fire escape door leading to the O'Hara Art Gallery in London's swank Mayfair district.

Jacques O'Hara, owner of the gallery that specializes in modern and impressionist works, estimated the value of the stolen paintings at nearly £400,000.

The raid was discovered about 8 a.m. and detectives immediately launched an intensive search of flat roofs in the area.

It was the biggest art theft in England since the theft of a Goya portrait of the Duke of Wellington from the National Gallery last August.

The Goya, valued at £140,000, still is missing.

London has had a wave of art thefts in recent months. A Monet and two Renoirs were stolen among 12 paintings stolen last December. But the paintings were recovered a week after-

An anonymous letter writer last week asked the National Gallery to buy over a ransom equal to the value of the Goya Wellington if the gallery wanted it returned. The letter declared what appeared to be an identifying label from the back of the portrait as proof the writer had the painting.

Part of Treatment for Winnie Is Enjoying Films of War at Sea

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill was watching movies in his hospital sickbed Tuesday night and called this morning for the London papers to check the racing news.

He complicated by a blood clot in the leg, spent a comfortable day, his physician and family officials said.

Churchill was propped up with pillows in his bed to watch the special movie show.

"It's all part of the treatment," said a spokesman for a film company which arranged the program. "He's an ardent fan so we sent him a batch of films. The operator will go to the hospital at a moment's notice whenever Sir Winston wants a show."

The show included two wartime features—The Battle of the River Plate and Above Us the Waves. There also was an American western and a Walt Disney animal documentary.

Hospital officials said Churchill was specially interested in the morning newspapers because his horse Nostlake was due to run at Salisbury later in the day.

The blood clot condition, or thrombosis, was disclosed for the first time in Tuesday's medical bulletin and indicated that it had been present with the phlebitis he has been suffering since Saturday. Phlebitis is a more general term covering inflammation of a vein.

Federal Deficits Blamed For Financial Atmosphere

OTTAWA (CP)—The big and influential Investment Dealers' Association of Canada today blamed a string of federal government deficits for a financial atmosphere of "apprehension and uncertainty."

The IDAC in a brief to the royal commission on banking and finance called for an immediate return to "fiscal orthodoxy" — deficits only in occasion periods, with budget balanced in other years to help retire federal debts.

The association said that neither tight books nor tradition shed much light on why the government ran up seven deficits in eight years—with another one forecast this year—regardless of highs and lows in the economy, and despite "stifling" levels of taxation.

It urged a study leading to a sweeping revision of the Canadian tax structure and listed these two consequences—among others—of the government's taxing and spending policy:

1. The deficits, along with the money supply increase to pay

Chinese Communist Troops Dig in Around Indian Post

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters) — Four hundred Communist Chinese troops today were reported digging in around an Indian Army outpost as India hurried reinforcements to the beleaguered garrison.

Informed sources said the Chinese apparently were trying to isolate and capture the outpost in the Galwan Valley in the disputed Ladakh area of Kashmir.

The sources said the garrison still was in radio contact with army headquarters, but since the Chinese encirclement was complete, it would be difficult to supply the outpost by land.

There are no roads in the area of the outpost. Sources said the Chinese appeared to be using pack animals for transport.

The sources declined to disclose how many Indian troops were surrounded, but termed the Chinese action "a most serious provocation."

The alleged Chinese encirclement was disclosed Tuesday night in a protest note released by the Indian external affairs ministry that branded the Chinese action "unwarranted aggressive activity."

The note said the Galwan Valley — the deposits Aksaichin plateau was 20 miles from the Rival Leaders in Algeria Settle Their Differences

RABAT, Morocco (Reuters)—The opposing camps in the Algerian nationalist leadership have reached agreement on healing their split, it was disclosed today.

It said the agreement, reached after two days of negotiations both sides agreed not to make any statements.

The agency said it learned of the agreement from sources close to dissident leader Mohammed Ben Bella and the emissaries of provisional government Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

The agency also said eight Algerian nationalist army leaders who arrived here today from Algiers have reached agreement with Ben Bella for a meeting of all Algerian military regional leaders.

Ben Bella left Rabat for the Algerian frontier on his way to Tunisia, where a dissident Algerian camp site of the heavily armed troops faithful to him.

Western Algeria prepared a hero's welcome for his return to Algeria for the first time since the North African territory became independent of France eight days ago.

Ben Bella supporters control virtually all of western and eastern Algeria, principally through the 45,000-man national liberation army returning from exile in Tunisia and Morocco.

Ben Khedda's control is limited largely to the Algiers area. Of the six guerrilla zones in Algeria, only one is supporting Ben Khedda.

Ben Bella split with Ben Khedda on the eve of Algerian independence. The immediate dispute was Ben Khedda's action in firing Col. Houari Boumediene, chief of staff of the Algerian liberation army, for allegedly planning a military dictatorship.

SENATOR BRUNT LAID TO REST AT HANOVER

Prime Minister, Friends Attend

Mr. Diefenbaker stood solemnly at the head of the line of honorary pallbearers and Mrs. Diefenbaker stood with her arm supporting Mrs. Brunt, an intimate friend.

The 59-year-old Progressive Conservative senator killed instantly in a car collision near his home here, was accorded the biggest funeral in Hanover's history. His, and his family's, name is a legend here.

People began arriving at Trinity United Church nearly two hours before the service when the body lay in state. Rev. E. G. Owens of Toronto conducted the service and Dr. John Heisbergen, of Knox Hill United Church, Toronto, delivered the oration.

Senator Brunt needed no eulogy, he said.

CONTRIBUTION LARGE

His contribution to the community, the church and to the state had been large, he said, and though now dead, his spirit would continue to live in principle in which good citizenship in all fields should be founded.

At the family's request there was no mourning flowers along the front, sides, and back of the church and richly colored light shielded from the church's huge glass windows. Prime Minister Diefenbaker members of the federal cabinet, Senate leaders Walter Aseltine, W. Ross Macdonald and Paul Le Blanc, Mark Drouin, and district members of Parliament and legislature formed one contingent of honorary pallbearers.

Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay, Premier Roberts, former Premier Leslie Frost and the Conservative party president, Senator G. S. Thompson of Winnipeg were included.

Another list of honorary pallbearers headed by Mayor Vera Burgiss of Hanover included the late senator's close friends. Among them were Joseph Sedgwick of Toronto, representing the Bar Association and Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto, who worked in the federal Senate for Brunt for 25 years.

Flags on Parliament hill, Canadian Legion Hall and other public buildings were at half mast. The Hanover Progressive and Retail Merchants' Association asked all business establishments to observe two minutes silence and to stop business during the funeral proceedings passed down the main street.

Mrs. and Mrs. Diefenbaker spent the day quietly — Mrs. Diefenbaker with Mrs. Brunt, and the prime minister at the private home which was put at the disposal for the day.

Reminders of the Brunt influence on the community were everywhere.

On a meadow south of the church, a group of children with their trolling horses near the Brunt barn. During the funeral, the music of cheers was heard, cast in the main street, reminiscent of the senator and his family had installed in the church in memory of their parents.

Five Hamilton Children Drown At Long Point

Believe All Caught By Strong Undertow

LONG POINT BEACH, Ont. (CP)—Jayne Patricia Williams, 11, ran over to two passing friends Tuesday to give them her ring so that it would not get wet.

She went back to the water's edge at this Lake Erie beach, where her brother and sister and two other Hamilton children were playing.

About an hour later all five children were found drowned. They were caught 20 yards from shore by a strong undertow, which develops in strong winds. They were playing alone and no one witnessed the accident.

Dead are Jayne, her sister Catherine, 8, and brother, Harold Thomas, 9, Robert Ellis, 9, and Kenneth Valchuck, 10.

Coroner Dr. A. A. Archibald said there has been no decision on an inquest.

WERE VACATIONING

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Williams brought their three children on Saturday to this resort spot, on a narrow peninsula about 75 miles southwest of Hamilton, for a week-end holiday. With the children and their cousin, Kenneth Valchuck, Robert, a friend, joined them Tuesday.

The children went to the beach, 300 yards from the Williams' cottage, at about 3 p.m.

A vacationer spotted the body of Robert Ellis floating in the water at about 3:30 p.m. An artificial respiration was given, another body was seen.

Two human chains of about 60 people, including women and youths, were formed to search for other victims.

Two doctors, two nurses, firemen, police and vacationers tried for more than two hours to revive the children as they were brought in. Dr. A. S. Brown of Tillsonburg said only Catherine seemed to show signs of life when she died.

TREATED FOR SHOCK

Mr. and Mrs. William Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ellis stood in the sand and watched as hope of reviving their children left the life faded. The Williams later were taken to hospital in Hamilton for treatment of shock.

Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. Ellis, said the parents of the two victims — was under constant care of a doctor. Mr. Williams is expecting another child soon.

The children were all good swimmers. They had been at the beach since Saturday but had been forbidden by their parents to go swimming until Tuesday because of the waves.

Const. James Sirba of the provincial police said the five children were knocked down by the waves before they were caught in the undertow.

The scene of the drowning is about half a mile from the closest lifeguard at a supervised provincial park. The nearest beach is about five miles long.

SAYS DE GAULLE RED

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Robert Welch, founder of the right-wing John Birch Society, told about 1,000 East Texans Tuesday night that President de Gaulle of France "is a Communist."

He charged de Gaulle said out Algeria and France to the Communists by backing Algerian rebels in their fight for independence from France.

Sees American Tourists Spending More Than Canadians This Year

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian earnings from travel may hit a record $690,000,000 this year, but there is no sign that Americans will have spend more here than Canadians spend in travel in the United States.

Alan Field, director of the Canadian government travel bureau, made the forecast today in supporting claims to the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association at the rise in advertising costs in the last decade.

The bureau's advertising campaign to attract tourists—at $1,700,000 larger than any other national travel office in the world—played a significant part in boosting earnings to $472,000,000 last year from $357,000,000 the year before.

"Canada's tourist industry could not have been better timed," he said.

Mr. Field's prediction that there will be a record year for dollar earnings was based on the conviction that by the end of 1962 the total income for our tourist industry may reach the figure of $650,000,000."

Partly responsible were favorable weather and a pegged dollar which gives the U.S. visitor an additional 7½ cents on his travel dollar.

BRITISH DOCTORS BOLSTER SASK. MEDICAL SERVICE

Thirty More Are Expected Saturday

REGINA (CP) — Amid last-minute plans for a mass rally here to protest the government's Medical Care Insurance Act, more doctors arrived by air from England Tuesday night to bolster Saskatchewan's medical service.

The nine were the first of the more 30 United Kingdom doctors expected by Saturday.

They are being brought by the Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Commission, administrative body for the act which went into effect July 1 and brought with it cessation of doctors' services by most of the province's 700 practising doctors.

Early today cars started converging on Regina for an afternoon protest meeting in front of the legislative building. Reservations for various groups cautioned against any action which could touch off violence.

A group of clergymen representing United, Anglican and Roman Catholic churches, meeting in Regina with the government and doctors, said Tuesday they failed to bring the two sides together for a settlement.

HOLD TIRED GROUND

The deadlock issued by the group said each party to the dispute had held to its earlier position. The clergymen expressed their refusal to practise under the CCF government's compulsory, prepaid Medical Insurance Act and the government refused to suspend the act.

In London, a doctor - peer asked for the provincial government to lend assistance said whether he can be of help in Saskatchewan depends on Saskatchewan's doctors.

Lord Taylor, prominent in drafting the U.K. national health plan, was to arrive here Wednesday. He said he was making the trip as an advocate, not as a spokesman for the striking normal medical services of doctors.

RAISE $40,000

Earl Danzchek, head of the county Sitmed Bigger and District Citizens' Medical Health Association, said more than $40,000 had been raised for the job and more is coming in.

Mr. Danzchek said money has put up a clinic with doctors willing to work under the province's act. Posters have been sent out to doctors in other provinces.

In Regina, drug store groups and pharmacists said during a spot-check that prescriptions for drugs have dropped 50 to 75 per cent since July 1.

Prior to the arrival of nine British doctors by air Tuesday, night, a government spokesman said there were 40 doctors now practising under the government plan. Seventeen came from outside the province.

Fire Rating of Tweed Forest District

A brand new fire hazard was responsible for a blaze that swept over four acres in the forest township yesterday. Cause of the fire is attributed to a group of children playing with firecrackers in a dry wooded area.

The blaze was one of the eleven fires that are burning in the district. An Effingham township blaze was extinguished yesterday. All are under control and patrol by fire rangers.

While a "tick and a promise" of rain did little to dampen the dried out areas, the fire rating was quoted as medium today by department officials.

The total rainfall over the entire Tweed forest district since July 1st has been a near record low of .13 inch.

This morning the sky was sullen and overcast with a threat of rain and an extremely low ceiling.

Rev. W. Clarke, 50 Years in Ministry, Dies

Former United Church minister in the Belleville district and well known throughout the Bay of Quinte Conference area, Rev. W. E. Clarke, died at the home of his daughter Mrs. Arthur Ellis, Madoc on July 1st. He was buried in Belleville Cemetery.

Rev. Clarke preached most of his life in the Bay of Quinte conference area before retiring to ministry at Shannonville, where he retired in 1937. He later lived at Deseronto.

The year 1962 was a banner year for Mr. Clarke when he celebrated the 50th year of his ordination. The year also was marred by moved, while their son was still young to the Oak Hills, near Stirling, to the old Clarke farm, one of the early Canada settlements established up in 1837. There the young members of the Clarke family attended the Eggleton Methodist Church, in which his father was an active worker as preacher and his first sermon in the home church. He attended high school and later taught school and was accepted in 1895, as a student for the ministry.

Sent to Maynooth and Port Stewart in the Ottawa district he also served a year as assistant minister at Orono, in Durham County.

Finishing with two years at the Methodist Theological College in Montreal, winning the special prize offered by the Sunday School of Montreal for proficiency in leadership training in Sunday Schools, Rev. Richard Clarke, as he was known to some, or "Herbert" as he was known to others, received the "Reverend" to his name and was ordained at the Port Hope Conference in 1900. Other members of the class were Sidford Ziff, Arthur W. Crane, S. H. Eugene Curts, Charles H. Sheppard, Arthur W. Cosse, S. T. Archibald R. Delve and Herbert W. Foley, B. A.

MARRIED TIVERMOUNT GIRL

Mr. Clarke was married the same year to the former Mary Ann Tivermount, of Kitchener.

During the years in which the Bay of Quinte Young People's Summer School was held in the old Albert College, in Belleville, Mr. Clarke was for 10 years one of the leaders, as a teacher, two years as business manager and finally as president of the School.

In the work of the Deseronto United Church, Mr. Clarke had been active for 25 years. Sunday School, was an elder, secretary of the official Board, trustee, chairman of the Deseronto Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society and active in the financial operations and fund-raising of the church.

In the Bay of Quinte Presbytery he served as secretary of the Presbytery Committee on Property.

CHILDREN INTERESTED IN CHURCH

Their four children, all living are three sons and a daughter. The three boys, Gerald in Millbrook, Ontario, Rodney in Douglas in Windsor; are all in the automotive business. The daughter, Mrs. Claude Martin, (Helen) lives in Selby. There are also 12 grandchildren.

SPECIAL CRAFT

The goodbuns used on roads in Venice are about 3 feet long, four feet wide, flat-bottomed and tapering at bow and stern.

Joy Riding Cost Accused Month in Jail

TRENTON — In magistrate's court in Trenton, yesterday, Aadie Gagne of Montreal, who was charged with theft of money from an automobile on Front Road on July 2, On July 4, Gagne was apprehended and questioned. Following which he had given the accused permission to sleep in the cells at night but no permission to drive it around. Police said that Gagne had got the ignition keys by inserting a silver foil paper between the keys and ignition.

Pacey had appeared earlier on a charge of committing a public nuisance, causing actual bodily harm.

"Same men," he said, "Some times drunk. Sometimes sober. Sometimes you're the plaintiff.

(The two cases had no relation to each other.)

Norman LaGree, charged with Gagne, was remanded. LaGree will be represented by solicitor Robert Temple.

Clifford McCamon, charged with driving while impaired and also with driving while disqualified, was remanded to 9 days on the first charge and seven days on the second, to run concurrently.

OBJECTS TO SENTENCE

McCamon objected to the jail sentence. He asked that a fine be imposed because he said that he was afraid he might lose his job if he was forced to serve the jail sentence.

Magistrate Wills said that he had no other alternative than to impose a jail sentence.

"Well, I know a man who got a fine instead of a jail sentence on these charges," insisted McCamon.

"I've never allowed a fine for these offences," the magistrate answered, explained the accused, "it would be against the law, and I've never broken the law."

Mervyn Lawson, 18, charged with July 1 theft, pleaded guilty to the charge and was remanded until Thursday, when he will appear at Belleville. Constable Jack Graham testified that he had been called to a house from the Market Square and stated later that he had taken it because he had had an argument with the owner and wanted to sleep it off. Lawson was found asleep in the back of the vehicle on the side of Highway 2 in the east end of Trenton.

Wesley Brooks, 18, charged with supplying liquor to a person under 21, also with obtaining liquor by false pretence, both of 21, pleaded guilty to both charges and was fined $25 plus $13 costs, on one charge, and $10 plus $3 costs on the other Magistrate Wills said that he had guilty to consuming liquor under the age of 21 and was fined $15.

Evidence revealed that Brooks had supplied beer to Alkenlin and two juvenile companions.

House-Cleaning Merchant Finds Old Newspaper

TRENTON — On Monday, Vic Augur, local merchant, decided to "housclean" his Dundas St. store. In the course of sorting up process, he chanced to move a heavy mirror. The wooden backing on the mirror fell out, and with it came a folded copy of the Quinte Daily Sun of March 12, 1923.

Wonder of the front page was a report that the Trenton Horticultural Society (by then in short supply) was already had planned a town-wide canvass for funds. Campaign chairmen were J. A. Sutcliffe, E. L. Fraser and J. C. Gillan. Front page picture of Trenton was given to a speech to members of the Trenton Lodge, A.F. & A.M., by J. Owen Herlihy of Belleville. The occasion was the visit to the lodge of the District Deputy Grand Master, John Mallon, also of Belleville, and present at the meeting were the district secretary, Very Wor. Bro. Stevenson, Rt. Wor. Bro. Jess Barlow and Wor. Bro. Chapman of Belleville.

Reporting a meeting of the Murray Township council, clerk E. M. Wesacis, said that wage rates for road work in the township had been set for 1923. Teams came at 40c an hour, trucks at $1.25 and laborers would receive 22½ cents an hour.

Wesley Hubbs of Trent Theatre, were Ben-Hur (in sound) Monday and Tuesday; Charlie Chan's Chance, with Warner Oland, Wednesday and Thursday, and Hank and Frank, with Smith and Dale, Winnie Lightner and Charles Butterworth on Friday and Saturday.

Visits in Trenton

TRENTON — Jack Wilson, well-known Trenton boy and former volunteer fireman and part of the family singing group is spending two weeks in town, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wilson, and other relatives and friends. He has completed one year of a two and a half year assignment to the Canadian Embassy in Washington.

Catch Turtles

TRENTON — Sixteen hundred pounds of snapping turtle is the way snapping turtle in anybody's language.

But that's the poundage Ivy Shaffer, Joe Hunt and Ken Harris from Canton, Ohio, were shipping to restaurants, hotels and interested spectators at Gamble's Fishing Camp on Consecon Lake, last week.

Every year for the past seven Mr., Mrs. Hunt and their wives have been coming up to Gamble's and returning home with several turtles. This catch nicely cleaned, is placed in deep freeze for winter eating.

Dope Bigwig Gets 40 Years In Prison

NEW YORK (AP)—John (Big John) Ormento, a bigwig in the narcotics underworld since 1937, was sent to prison for 40 years Tuesday as the prime leader of a big international dope ring. Twelve other men were sentenced to terms of 15 to 35 years.

Among those sentenced with Ormento was Carmine Galente, 54, reputed headman of the Genovese, an important underworld figure in opium trade following a narcotics conviction, 20 years ago.

The 13 defendants were convicted by a jury June 26 of operating a dope smuggling operation into the U.S. from Canada and beyond for five years, during which Charlie (Lucky Luciano) directed the illicit market. They were arrested in a 1960 crackdown.

Ormento and Galente were fined $20,000 each. The others and their prison sentences were:

Joseph Fernandez, 48, 35 years; Samuel Monastersky, 51, 30 years; Charlie di Pietro, Frank Mancino, 53, Anthony Mirra, 49, Salvatore Panico, 36, Anna Angelone, 36, Joseph Cusack; William Bennerson, 39, 15 years and Carmine Paniccia, 46, Salvatore's brother, Salvatore Schreammanno, 37, and William Schreammanno, 31, 12 years each.

All the defendants live in the New York area.

Quotas Sought On Canadian Timber Exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressure for restrictions on Canadian timber imports is mounting in the face of growing problems of the skumping U.S. lumber industry, Senator Warren G. Magnuson (Dem. Wash) said Monday.

Magnuson said he expects quotas on Canadian lumber imports to be discussed at a meeting of senators from timber states today.

The recent Canadian announcement of plans to boost tariffs on most imports has created concern in the plastered lumber industry, hard-hit by Canadian competition, he said.

"They are telling us they are doing everything they can to protect their industry," Senator Magnuson said. He is chairman of the Senate commerce committee which held other extensive hearings on lumber industry problems.

The Senate committee was told Canadian lumbermen have taken over 72 per cent of the U.S. east coast timber market.

Council Refuses to Accept Resignation of a Member

PICTON — "This town is not in any trouble. We would welcome an investigation at any time," was the publicity arising from this matter is do-Daily meeting.

Councillor Jarvis' resignation was offered in a letter and was unanimously not accepted by council. "We are electors of this office and we do not intend to escape our responsibilities by resigning," stated Councillor Robert Walmsley.

After the letter of resignation had been read, Councillor R. Clapp, said "I just don't understand it," and Councillor James Bird, chairman of finance, said "I cannot understand that Jarvis' reasons referred to the Spencer Street extension. This street was the terminal of town engineer Herman Smith. He did not refer to these but referred to "procedure."

STATEMENT READ

In his statement, Jarvis said: "It is obvious that decisions made by council are not supported by the local press, stating that is usually associated with governments. The methods of controversy it is not been unusual to find the resolution of such matters to be the product of subjective influences, rather than the objective study of the problem. Self-interest and self-exaltation have produced results other than the conclusions rather than the conclusions.

"When procedure has presented itself as an obstacle to my work and progress in well-termined decisions, procedure has been thrown to the fence.

The councillor further charged that action had been taken on planning problems on an emergency basis, legislating from expediency and convenience, rather than from wisdom.

Acting by council members revealed that Jarvis was referring to the Spencer Street appeal, when he claimed the first vote had been against firing, and by a close vote was for dismissal. He also differed with council over purchase of the entire Spencer Street extension, favoring that part only as far as the railway industry. No charges or other differences of opinion were expressed.

REVIEWED ENTIRE ISSUE

Councillor Bird reviewed the entire matter of the street extension and said that as a result of the controversy, the town might have to purchase the property at greater expense than that now proposed to be raised. The street was extended on property owned by the Mayor and Mr. Bird, in the interest of industry. He detailed steps taken to obtain the property, its entire cost being $22,700. He pointed out that all members of council had voted for it. He stated that the engineer had been fired because he had refused to carry out the arrangements as requested by council. Mr. Clapp said that he felt he could not act on anything which he did not approve. Regarding the Bird statement, the effects of the town engineer is not to make decisions as to what should be done; only the representatives of the people, the council can do this if they are to govern. If the electors feel council has not governed wisely they will state so at the polls. Mr. Gray was dismissed because he would not carry out the orders of council, his employers".

Mr. Bird pointed out that the road was built from the area was annexed by the town and purchased by the municipality to purchase the street extension property.

DISTURBED BY HEADLINE

Mayor McFarland said he had been disturbed over the headline in the Kingston paper, influenza in Picton in the USA, asking what the trouble was in Picton. "I want it known that there is no trouble in Picton".

The mayor said he felt the matter had arisen through jealousy and that it might represent an effort by Kingston to lure industry away from Picton, "but I will keep up my efforts to secure industry for Picton", he said in mentioning a prospect.

Councillor Jarvis said he would leave the matter of resignation up to council members and they would accept accepting it.

Afterwards, Mayor McFarland shook hands with Councillor Jarvis and the council session ended on a harmonious note with some aspects of the topic a bit clearer.

J. Sibbett Falls From Moving Truck

PICTON — John Sibbett, 19, is in the Picton hospital recovering from serious head injuries as a result of a fall from a moving half-ton truck on Monday night. He fell from the vehicle driven by Martin Fraine, R. R. 2, Picton, as it rounded a curve on Northport Rd. He had been standing in the rear of the truck. The youth was employed at the farm of Ewald Bazinet, Northport. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sibbett, Sr., who came to Picton from the son's bedside, reside at 4384 Kingston Road, Toronto

J. Bongard Holds Perfect Cribbage Hand

PICTON — A perfect hand in cribbage was held by Jerry Bongard, 7 Bowery Street, Monday night. He held the jack and three fives, two aces and two hearts turned up to make the 29 points.

He was playing with Arnold Clarton. "I have been playing cribbage for 15 years, but this is the first time I have ever held a perfect hand. It was quite a thrill", Mr. Bongard commented.

Infant Falls Four Floors, Slightly Hurt

Mrs. Janet Morris said the son and a daughter were playing in a room with a screened window when the two-and-a-half-year-old fell.

The father, in adjoining room, said he looked in on the children just as his son disappeared out the window.

Public Vote Urged on Medicare Issue

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Angus Campbell said today he has sent telegrams to Premier Woodrow Lloyd of Saskatchewan and the province's College of Physicians and Surgeons asking a public vote on the medical care issue.

He suggested that "the Saskatchewan government suspend the Medical Insurance Act and hold a plebiscite to determine if the will of the people."

CNR Changing Color Scheme to Black and White

TORONTO — Canadian National Railways Super Continental will be in black and white, a new exterior color scheme on its run from Montreal through Western Canada to Vancouver by July 27.

The 2,900-grade transcontinental train will give CN passengers a clear view along the route, a preview of the color scheme to be applied to the railway's passenger trains itself by early next spring, white paint job is completed.

A modern black and white color scheme will replace CN's traditional drab green, gold and black scheme. Trimmed will have orange-red fronts and black sides with bold white flashes behind the cab.

Sides of the cars will be white with a wide, black, horizontal stripe spanning full length. Hoods and underbodies will be black, also. Roofs will be aluminum. Most low-slung appearance.

The new CN symbol will be painted on each side, in the right end of each car beneath the black stripe.

The railway has now adopted the new color scheme for its passenger equipment and is starting it for several months on Ocean Limited between Montreal and Halifax.

Completion of the big repainting program is expected in about two years since, to avoid unnecessary expense, no crash painting schedule is planned. Each piece of equipment will receive the new colors when its normal repainting date comes up.

Application of the new colors will also cut the cost of painting from $70 to $100 per car, at the same time giving CN passenger trains the brightest look on Canadian rails.

Decision to adopt the new color scheme for CN passenger trains comes after more than two years of experimenting. Hundreds of color combinations were considered before designing was chosen for the choice by Pres.

Models were constructed and viewed from every angle before an actual train was painted. Then two blue and white daytime cars were triple-headed passenger cars operating on short runs. These were later checked in favor of the black and white color scheme after approval of management and the public was assured.

The new design was sought as part of CN's extensive visual redesign program, the first step of which was the railway's award winning new symbol.

Miss P. J. Vintner, Toronto interior decorator, discusses decor of new Tropicana Room at Quinte with Ernst Knieset (left) hotel co-manager, and Maitre d'Hotel John Hegan. New exotic tropical foods but regular dishes will also be served.

Two members of Belleville's legal fraternity, Robert Temple and John O'Flynn, enjoy the southern atmosphere of the Tropicana Room at the Hotel Quinte. Waitress dressed in Polynesian attire, complete with flower in hair, is Joan Poillit.

Tropicana Room at Quinte Has South Sea Setting

Belleville and district residents don't have to even leave town to enjoy a South Sea atmosphere while they are dining.

And in the bargain they can have the dinner of their choice served by attentive waitresses dressed in the accepted Polynesian mode.

The Tropicana Room replaces the long established Pinnacle Room at the Quinte. Beverages served include a variety of domestic and imported wines and beers.

The Quinte Hotel example toward the exotic is specialty restaurants was designed and installed by Miss P.J. Vintner of Toronto who has had considerable experience in the general background of interior decorating. The theme is essentially Polynesian with liberal borrowings from other tropical areas.

MANY TEMPTING DISHES

Materials used in the decoration of the Tropicana Room include stone, cocoanut bark, bamboo, reed matting, plastic, leopard skin, ebony and palm leaves all of which have been completely flame-proofed.

Dishes served are largely Polynesian emphasizing the use of cocoanut bananas, mangoes, papayas, avocados and pineapple, while meat dishes tend to be mostly pork and chicken, the only two animals in common with the economy of the islands.

In addition to special items, the regular menu will include many of the traditional dishes for which the Pinnacle Room has been noted.

The Tropicana Room will be open nightly until 11.30 except Sunday.

Noon luncheon will be served in the upstairs dining room, as usual.

Missing Tot Found Three Miles Away

TORONTO (CP) A three-year-old girl disappeared from the bedroom of her home at midnight Tuesday night and turned up early today several miles away at a shopping plaza.

The tot, Janet Marie Alexander, appeared uninjured although police had feared she was the victim of foul play.

Janet's mother tucked her in bed Tuesday night and looked in just before midnight. When Mr. Alexander returned an hour later, Marie was gone.

Police questioned a 40-year-old carnival worker who had been in the Alexander apartment earlier in the evening as well as Mrs. Alexander's estranged husband.

Should Have Knowledge In Two Years

OTTAWA (CP)—In two years, the defence research board should have the necessary technical knowledge for building a space communications system based on light waves.

Dr. Gerry Williams of Rosetown, Sask., head of the solid state physics section of the Defence Research Telecommunications Establishment, said Tuesday that by that time current experiments in this field will determine how such a system can be built.

The experiments are based on synthetic ruby crystals known as LASERS, the letters standing for light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation.

Ordinary light waves coming from a single source, such as a flashlight, becoming quickly dispersed. But light waves from a LASER are concentrated in a single frequency and can be focused as sharply as a needle on a single spot.

These ruby-red light waves from a LASER can be modulated to carry information in the same way as radio waves or television microwaves.

Light waves as a communication channel have application only to space, where some day they may be used to pass information among satellites and from satellites to planets.

Dr. Williams said that light waves cannot readily be used on earth as a means of communication because of interference from cloud, rain, snow, fog and the like.

Canada Packers To Close Plant At Peterborough

It was announced today that the Peterborough plant of Canada Packers Limited will close on September 7.

In making the announcement Lionel Browne, Peterborough Plant Manager said, "The decision to close this plant has been reached very reluctantly. We have tried hard to make Peterborough profitable, but without success. Heavy losses have been suffered for a number of years and it is now clear that it is not economical to process and distribute products from this plant."

The company has offered to provide employment for most of the 184 employees wishing to transfer to other company locations.

The Peterborough plant was originally constructed as an export plant. It was built by George Matthews & Co. and became part of Canada Packers Limited in 1927.

The plant continued to be an important supplier to the United Kingdom until 1949, when the British Bacon contracts were discontinued. Since that time the plant has been used to supply the local domestic market.

The processing of cattle, calves, sheep and lambs was discontinued in 1959 and since then the plant has continued purely as a pork operation.

The company will continue to maintain facilities in the Peterborough area for the purchase of livestock.

There will be no disruption of service to Peterborough plant customers. They will be served by the same sales force as in the past and product will be supplied by other company plants.

Pinnacle St. Train Amuses American Gals

The unusual sight of a freight train passing down the street in front of the hotel drew laughing comment yesterday from a bus load of women from Pittsburgh, Penn., who stopped off at the Hotel Quinte for noon luncheon.

Luncheon completed, the women emerged from the hotel to see the freight passing along the Pinnacle Street tracks. There was a flurry to get movie and still cameras into operation to record the event. It was the third year in a row in which the Pittsburgh group had stopped at the Quinte.

And their bus driver also had a trip highlight at Belleville. Just before the bus was ready to leave he found he had received a parking ticket - - - for illegal parking.

Spots Satellite Drifting Across Sky

Observant residents in the Belleville area still spot manmade satellites drifting across the night sky.

The latest to prove his eyesight is Mr. Maurice Callaghan, Albert Street who last night shortly before midnight, spotted the starlike object overhead from west to east.

"I thought it was just another bright star until I noticed the distance between it and another star was widening," he said.

The object was in sight about ten minutes, Mr. Callaghan said.

Time For Another Brush-up Drill on Double Talk

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It's time we had another brush-up drill on double talk, the modern art of saying one thing while you're thinking another.

Double - talk has one great social advantage: It enables you to use your mouth and your brain at the same time—but without getting yourself into trouble.

For those wishing to polish up their skill in double-talk, here are a few typical examples—followed by their literal meanings:

"Oh, what a lovely new coat you stole!" (Those poor rabbits sure died in vain.)

"Mother says she never worries about me when I'm out with you, John." (Mother would rather have me bored to death than thrilled to pieces.)

TWO-FACED

"There's no doubt of it—that boy of yours really has a head on him." (Too bad he doesn't have another one just like it; then he could at least count on steady work with a carnival.)

"Of course I don't hold any grudge about it, Bill. After all, business is business." (Just turn your back on me once, old buck—that's all I ask.)

"No, Madge, I really don't think the soup is too cold. (That is, not if you were planning to go ice skating on it.)

"How did a child her age ever learn to play the piano like that?" With a hammer . . . or the startled object overheard from west to east.

"No, Jim, I could never bring myself to marry a man just for his money." (Nobody the kind you make anyway, buster.)

"I'm not very hungry, Bob. I think I'll just have a club sandwich." (I'm starved, but if I order the steak the cheapskate is likely to faint.)

HARMLESS ONES

"Why be self-conscious about it? Most women find bald men fascinating." (Most bald women do, anyway.)

"Frankly, I've always regarded her as one of my dearest friends." (She doesn't like me either.)

"I'm not the kind who likes to go around whispering gossip." (It's more fun to shout it from a rooftop.)

"Why, Mabel, darling, your hair looks so lovely. Whatever did you do to it?" (Four molasses over it, and run it through a clothes dryer?)

"Now, let's be sure to keep in touch with each other." (Don't call me—and I won't call you.)

Will "Study", Not "Mediate"

Some cynical remarks may be made about the choice of Lord Taylor, former British Labor parliamentarian, to study Saskatchewan's medical care plan. It may be suggested that a man who was largely instrumental in establishing Britain's system of "state medicine" is hardly likely to win friends and influence doctors in the prairie province.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd, though, is in a difficult position. The opposition of the medical fraternity, both inside and outside the province, has been so stiff, and the measures which the doctors have seen fit to take have been so vigorous, that he cannot help considering what effect an outright victory for the doctors would have on the right of governments to enact legislation dealing with other particular groups.

Under circumstances like these, Premier Lloyd may well feel the need of expert advice on how the features of the Act to which doctors object most vigorously could be amended without defeating the purpose of the Act itself. It is worthy of note that Lord Taylor's task will be to "study" the Act, not to mediate between the doctors and the government. As it so happens this point was emphasized by an error; the first Canadian Press despatch from London stated that Lord Taylor had accepted an invitation to "mediate" but a correction later changed this word to "study."

Though Lord Taylor's background makes it evident that he will be sympathetic towards the Saskatchewan Government's objectives in the medicare dispute, the fact that he is himself an eminent physician should give him an insight into the viewpoint of the doctors and will at least enable him to "talk the language" of both sides in the dispute.

No matter where sympathies may lie in the controversy, all will join in hoping that he is successful in his avowed purpose of gaining the co-operation and confidence of the doctors during his stay in the province and that this may assist him in suggesting what now appears almost impossible to attain, a reasonable compromise which will satisfy the legitimate desires of both doctors and politicians.

Kennedy's Hopes

How far President Kennedy's dreams are shared by the average citizen of the United States is a moot point. Despite the manner in which his personal popularity has risen since his close victory over Republican Richard Nixon, Kennedy's background differs so greatly from that of the mass of the American people that it would be strange indeed if there were not some wide divergencies in viewpoint, particularly in the field of long-range objectives.

Nevertheless, the President's recent remarks about the advantages which could accrue to the world from Britain joining the European Common Market provide an interesting insight into the psychology of at least an influential minority in the world's richest and most powerful nation.

Kennedy frankly sees the Common Market as merely a tool to make easier the eventual development of a United States of Europe—a United States of Western Europe if we are to retain touch with reality, for there is scant reason to suppose that communist-dominated countries in Eastern Europe will be permitted to participate in any such union in our generation.

There is an adequate answer to all, communists and capitalists alike, who regard the U.S. as having imperialistic ambitions. A United States of Europe, Kennedy says, would no longer want to be dependent on the U.S. This is a double-barrelled observation. It recognizes as a fact what some Western Europeans would like to deny —that today these countries are, in large measure, dependent on the U.S. Then, too, by accepting the logical conclusion that these countries would want this dependency to cease if they united, and yet urging the advisability of such a union, Kennedy is saying, in effect, that the U.S. dislikes its present position of pre-eminence.

There may be some who would be tempted to suggest that Kennedy is dreaming of the impossible, or, at return to those days when the U.S. could mind its own business in splendid isolation. Kennedy, however, is too much of a realist to harbor such a vision. But he is not only willing, but eager, for the day when his country will have an equal partner in the struggle against communism—despite the fact that such equality will inevitably produce hazards, not the least of which will be creation of a third nuclear force of power in the same class as Russia and the U.S.

Minister Turned Sleuth

By Editor Andrew Collard in The Montreal Gazette

The Medford of the inn was troubled. One of the guests had lost his pocketbook. And there seemed to be some suggestion that the honesty of his establishment was in question, for suddenly he recollected that Rev. Lorenzo Dow was staying the night in one of his rooms, and he was a married pastor. Would Mr. Dow come down and help with the situation?

At once Mr. Dow sent for the landlord and made two requests. He wanted a five rooster from the barn, and he wanted the largest cooking pot in the place. They were brought to him. Mr. Dow placed the rooster in the pot, and asked that all the guests who had been in the inn at the time of the pocketbook's disappearance be assembled.

"Let the doors be fastened and the lights extinguished," he said. Then he gave instructions that the guests should march forward in the dark, one by one, and rub their fingers on the pot. When the guilty one touched the pot, the rooster would crow.

In the dark, the guests shuffled about the room, but there was no crowing from the rooster. Rev. Lorenzo Dow ordered the windows to be thrown open.

"Let us now examine everyone's hands," he said.

Every man in the room was seen to have sooty fingers, except one man. He was found to have not a bit of soot on his hands, so he was the guilty one, and gave up the money to Lorenzo. Dow went back upstairs to bed.

• • •

Rev. Lorenzo Dow who could preach for three hours in a stretch and hold every listener's attention, was the man who said: "I quit of tobacco, forgot to chew, and it's great sigh of regret" when he got at the conclusion of one of these long contortionists' sermons. In Connecticut, in 1799 a Methodist conference in Massachusetts sent him across "The Canada line" to begin work in an area stretching from around Dunham in Missisquoi County, in as far as "Missisquoi Marsh Lake."

Conditions were appalling, many of the settlers there were "as sheep without a shepherd," but Rev. Lorenzo Dow began a work that was the foundation of the church in that area with ingenuity and a fine, broad hand work.

Over the years a number of churches have been linked with what is now the Cowansville — Dunham pastoral charge. There were Wesleyan Methodists, and New Connection Methodists; there were Congregationalists, and Presbyterians; and there were Free-Will Baptists.

Old record books, where available, have been used to compile this historical sketch, and they furnish interesting pictures of the times. The accounts of the Ladies' Aid Society, organized in 1886, have been preserved. The particular concern of this organization was to look after the requirements of the Cowansville parsonage, and the lists of articles of furnishings, and of the costs of renewing such articles, are a comment with today.

When, however, in 1893, a minister's wife (Mrs. Brundage) wanted two bedrooms papered, the ladies declined to accede to her request. The members thought the parsonage, as it was, should would be of more practical use to the congregation. They, instead, voted $15 for a year's telephone service. The bedrooms were to remain as they were.

But Mrs. Brundage wanted her bedrooms clean and bright; and, at the next meeting, she reported that she had bought the paper herself, for $2.76, and had done her own papering. The Aid Society added it over, and decided to reimburse her to the extent of the $2.76, and to accept her paperhanging labor as a donation.

Must 'Sell' Community

Guelph Mercury

Many people today are disturbed over the fact that their community seems to remain dormant while metropolitan areas, such as Toronto continue leaping by bounds and leaps.

The result is that some of the residents of Ontario's smaller communities have a feeling that they were not benefiting for an economic breakdown.

We do not believe that such an expanding metropolitan area as Toronto can be blamed for its growth. The combined effort of its officials, professional men and businessmen over the years to make the Queen City not only the finest in Ontario, but the whole of the Dominion, has reaped its reward. It will, no doubt, continue to expand industrially and in population.

The many smaller Ontario communities, which express alarm at what Toronto holds, should wake up to the fact that they must sell themselves. Take the example of the Industrial Development Association in the Georgian Bay area. Its representatives went into Toronto, to tell industrialists about their potato crops, and how current products could be made right in the area where the potatoes were grown. One of the firms approached as a result established a branch manufacturing plant in the area. The Regional Development Association did the like.

There is no doubt many other smaller Ontario communities that have something to offer. But they must get behind industrialists and manufacturers, or other groups interested, and some knocking at the door of their community to see what it has to offer. The community must sell itself, as Toronto has being done down through the years.

There are many Industrial Development Associations across the Province today, but too many of them lack the support of the residents of their communities. Unfortunately the majority of the associations lack sufficient financial backing to put forth the effort needed today to bring new industries within their boundaries. This the community itself must remedy.

Off the Ground

Sherbrooke Record

Air travellers know that in some cases it takes longer to get off the ground after the airport at one end of the line and from the airport to the city at the other than it does for the trip itself.

A British engineer says that if 10 minutes could be cut off the highway time at each end of the run, it would be equivalent to increasing the speed of airliners on the London-Paris route from 400 to 1,000 miles an hour.

But Now U.S. Navy Is Dry

(From an address to the 43rd annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association in Winnipeg by Whitney North Seymour, 1960-61 president of the American Bar Association).

I think there's a kind of feeling outside United States that Americans are generally a little bit more boastful than they should be, and I suppose that may be true on some occasions. But I want to cite an example of the kind of boastfulness research which gives some support occasionally to a sense of achievement.

Down in Georgia in June I came across the results of a piece of scholarly research which I thought showed a good deal of light on one American quality which many of us take great pride in. This is the discount of the early voyages of the U.S. Navy. Continuing:

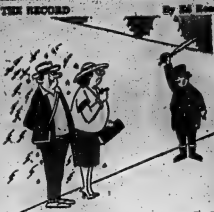
"On Aug. 23, 1779, the Constitution set sail from Boston. She left with 1,000 men, 52 cannon, 48,600 gallons of fresh water, 7,500 gallons of rum, 600 pounds of black powder, and 79,000 gallons of rum. Her log states among other things that Troy English shipping.

"Making port again on Oct. 6, she took on 838 pounds of flour and 88,300 gallons of rum. Then she headed back to sea, and on Nov. 12, where she took on 1,000 more gallons of beef and 64,300 gallons of Portuguese wine. On Nov. 18, she left for England.

"In the ensuing days, she defeated five British warships and captured and scuttled 12 English merchantmen, emptying only their rum. By Jan. 27, her powder and shot were exhausted.

"Unarmed, she made a raid up the Firth of Clyde. Her landing party captured a whisky distillery and transferred 40,000 gallons of it aboard. Aground by dawn — then headed for home.

"The ship arrived in Boston in February, 1780, with no cannon shot, no powder, no food, no rum. She had 34 men — but 46,000 gallons of stagnant water."



Moral?

Penticton Herald

Nuclear weapons, apparently, have their own brand of morality. It is too horrible to even contemplate dropping a 50-megaton bomb on a city. It is, however, quite moral to drop, or contemplate dropping 2,000 bombs of varying weights up to 10,000 pounds, on the same cities. The nuclear bomb slays many thousands, the conventional bomb (What a wonderful word conventional is) slays only hundreds. Thus with a peculiar twist of the human mind, one bomb is moral, the other immoral.

The formation of a volunteer auxiliary fire force in Belleville to assist in any possible fire emergency that might arise, has been announced by Fire Chief William Lynch, who for the present is conducting the organization. Members will be asked to train one night per week. Volunteers will be given the necessary fire force training will not be called upon to assist in fighting ordinary fires in the city, but only at such times as when the fire fighting department members are unable to cope with the situation.

Belleville Girl Guides have returned from camp after a very enjoyable and profitable two weeks during which time took part in all kinds of camp sports; and for the benefit of those who are stressed Red Cross activities. Thirty girls attended camp, and the majority of these bicycled over to Hillcrest, and made the return trip the same way. This was not the only innovation. This year, the girls dispensed with the services of a cook and took turns preparing the meals.

To Your Good Health

D. and C. Is Valuable Procedure in Diagnosis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What are some of the reasons for a D and C? How many times can this be done? Is it serious? — Mrs. C.H.

A D. and C. (meaning "dilation and curettage," or scraping) is a valuable procedure of diagnosis of female disorders.

Under anesthesia, the cervix (opening of the uterus) is gently widened. Then the surgeon, with a curette, gently scrapes the lining of the uterus. The tissue scrapings are placed in a fixing solution and taken to the laboratory for further examination.

Incidentally the D. and C. is brief and the discomfort is virtually nil if it could be, it is done without anesthesia. The whole thing requires no more than a day or two in the hospital.

There are times when a D. and C. alone will put an end to bleeding; if this is due to something which can be corrected. Bleeding due to the wall of the uterus, A D. and C., for example, is essential after an incomplete abortion — that is, where the placenta has not been completely emptied of its contents.

It is used also in severe cases of menstrual pain, and in many instances affords relief. It may be used in correcting some types of sterility.

Yet for all of this, keep in mind that the D. and C. is first of all a diagnostic procedure, rather than a treatment, in most instances.

It is an imperative procedure in cases of irregular bleeding or bleeding that occurs after the menopause. Microscopic study of the scrapings can also give clues to glandular disorders.

The D. and C. is, likewise the best step after a positive "Pap" smear, and it is, naturally, an urgent procedure if for any other reason bleeding is suspected. Still further, it is the method of removing polyps if they are causing trouble.

Where it is used as a treatment for some disorder, as is cited above, and it doesn't succeed, there is nothing to prohibit repeating the D. and C. It can, indeed, be done as often as deemed necessary, but the great value is in diagnosis.

A woman with unexplained vaginal bleeding should not hesitate for a moment when a D. and C. is suggested. It may provide life-saving information. And with the above outline of how simple and painless it is, I hope that all readers will be reassured.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have spent most of my life in mental hospitals. When I had my son they operated on me and tied my tubes so I couldn't have any more children. A lady I have told me that seven years after the operation the tubes can untie and I can again have children. It's four years now, and I am scared. — N.S.

No, the tubes will not "untie" in seven years — or at any other time.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a normal amount of spices, including some exotic ones. Some of my friends are convinced that these, as well as meat, are sexually arousing. I consider this an old wives' tale. What is your opinion? — R. N.

I'm inclined to agree with you, on grounds that in checking reference works on spices, literature I find no mention of spices, nor can I find any such indication in nutrition references. As to meat, it promotes vigor and well-being. Sexuality depends on many contributing factors, important ones being a healthy outlook, and the psychological state.

Face to Face

Calgary Herald

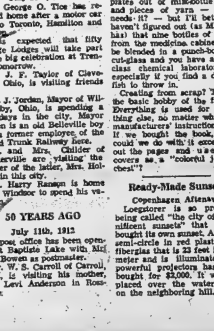
The evidence is certainly plain that political candidates today are relying more and more on face to face public relations and mass communication, and less and less on public meetings.

This fact, however, does not in the least destroy the equally plain truth that the public meeting is still the best measure of the candidate from the voter's standpoint.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It has always been a puzzle to me why men go into politics? What is there in it? Among the thousands of men who are a member of our press gallery at Ottawa you don't find rich.



"For a smart man, making a million dollars is no longer even a passing prospect if it ever to be. Apart from the work, which is not the risks involved, there are all the nuisances of taxation, superannuation, governmental intrusion, and a dozen other reasons why, if you are not politician, they are all trying to take it from you; and when you die, you do take most of it. I grant you there is tremendous satisfaction in handling dollars in millions that must appeal to all men, and especially to smart men.

"But why bother with all the troubles now involved in personally owning millions for your brief lifetime if all you have to do is go into politics and have millions beyond your wildest dreams of avarice with which to play? The best politicians I know don't seem rich. They are entirely honest men. They don't want any millions. Can't you devise a brand-new tennis-prize into a clever little trick that will make them to play with them."

Horns Do Trick

Family Herald

Horns are rather unfair considered a liability on cattle, but a British farmer, Jack Colling-ridge of Somerset, Devon, has an other angle. He bought five Highland cows to brighten holiday-makers off his farm. "Highland cows are docile but the vicious-looking horns do the trick," he says.

Strictly Personal

Your Scrap May Vary From Mine

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A press release from a New York book publisher floated across my desk the other day, posing a question I can't imagine anyone would want to answer. The release said:

"Why not use the scraps and odds-and-ends around the house to make practical and pretty objects like a fruit bowl from an old cigar box, or a jewelry chest from an old cigar box, or hot plates from milk-bottle caps and pieces of yarn?"

You can learn to do all this, it went on, if you buy the book called "Creating From Scrap" by Lillian and Godfrey Frankel, $2.50 in a hard cover.

My instant reaction was "Doesn't everybody?" It took a book for this? If my own extensive domestic experience is at all typical, the average American family has been creating from scrap from the day the wedding presents began to tarnish or crack.

Especially with little children in the house, practically everything is "creating from scrap." The buttons are in an old tea tin; the ceramic ash-trays have long been broken, to be replaced by the plastic tops of ice-cream tubs; and the cloths are lovingly concealed in a bandage.

Then, the next time you make a fruit bowl from an old record (although this is my hearty recommendation for the album "Along With Mitch" record), you'll be chiding your children for scrap soldiers, and transforming Dad's study into a Boy Scout camp, complete with lopes, arrowheads and smoke signals.

Really, Lillian and Godfrey Frankel owe turned a challenging pair of scissors for subtlety. Try converted a brand-new tennis-press into a clever little trick that will make them to play with them."

TORONTO STOCKS

Industrials were dominated by mines sigma; base metals and western oils eased moderately.

In the main list, Alberta Gas, Aluminium, Atlas Steel and Walker - Gooderham all declined in a ½ to ¾ range, while with Moore Corporation fell a point, Consolidated Paper ⅛ and Dominion Foundries and Steel ⅝.

Banks lost Tuesday's strength with Montreal and Royal each dropping ¼, Toronto-Dominion ⅜ and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ⅛.

Other losers included Distillers Seagrams, off ⅜, Canadian Breweries, down ⅛ and Bell Telephone, down ⅜.

On the exchange index, industrials fell 1.50 to 538.19, base metals .57 at 182.42 and western oils .41 at 97.11. Golds rose .34 to 98.34. The 11 a.m. volume was 348,000 shares compared with 433,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Top Figures Of Medicare Didn't Speak

REGINA (CP) — Premier Woodrow Lloyd and Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, shook hands Tuesday night but did not say a word to each other.

The incident took place after they had appeared on a CBC news-magazine telecast on the Saskatchewan medical care dispute filmed at the studios of CKCK-TV in Regina.

It was the first time the two men had confronted each other since the Medical Care Act came into force July 1 following the breakdown of talks between the government and the doctors.

H. G. "Joe" Jones receiving gift from Syd Silliton on behalf of the management when he was honored on retirement after forty years and two months with the Northern Electric Co. Mr. Jones' will retire at the end of the month.

H. G. 'Joe' Jones Honored By Northern Electric Co. After 40 Years of Service

A recent evening was a memorable occasion for H. G. (Joe) Jones of the Northern Electric Company.

Mr. Jones will complete 40 years and 2 months service on July 30th, 1962, and is presently on four weeks' vacation. He will then proceed on 52 weeks' leave of absence prior to pension.

The Shrine Club was the scene of a farewell party to honor Mr. Jones and approximately 150 of his fellow workers were present to wish him a happy retirement.

Joe, as he is popularly known, started work in the Northern Electric Co. in 1923 as a power board fitter, a trade he was apprenticed to in 1913 at the Autocratic Telephone Co., Liverpool, England.

Working his way up through the ranks at the Northern Electric Co. he was successively assistant foreman Moveitone Assembly, foreman General Assembly Dept., foreman of Radio Equipment for Lancaster Bombers during World War II, foreman of the Radio Department, general foreman of the Assembly Shops and assistant superintendent of the Assembly Shops at the time of his retirement.

CHARTER PRESIDENT

Joe has always taken an active part in community affairs and was the charter president of the Quinte District Personnel Association in 1953. He was also active in the Canadian Council of Foremen's Clubs and was appointed president of that body in 1958. Since that time he has been actively engaged on the advisory board of the national body.

Always interested in sport as a participant in soccer, cricket and running he has kept up his interest as a spectator and supporter of basketball and hockey since his arrival in Belleville in 1947. Two of his sons, Peter and David, are well known in local sporting circles.

E. R. Valcour was in charge of the arrangements at the Shrine Club and F. A. Derby presented pictures of Joe and his family over the years and gave a resume similar to Ralph Edward's "This is Your Life."

GIVEN WORK BENCH

Leo Desaulniers made a presentation on behalf of the section chiefs of a work bench for Joe's basement.

Fred Fisher made a presentation of a 13" diameter solid brass, chrome plated ash tray, suitably inscribed for the occasion and a pipe on behalf of the Northern Electric Department Chiefs' Conference Group.

E. R. Valcourt presented a Minolta CSM movie camera, a flash gun for the camera and an orbital sander from his associates.

Joe was also presented with a beautiful testimonial scroll signed by all service and signed by all who participated in the evening.

Your Golden Years Showing If You Can Remember When

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Your golden years are showing if you can remember when . . .

A father didn't have to work his son's way through college. The boy did most of it himself.

The only sure way to find out the exact time was to go down to the depot when the evening train came in and ask the conductor.

The best biscuits ever made were cooked on a coal stove.

One of the chores every motor car owner hated was buttoning up the isinglass curtains on his auto during a frigid spell. There was always a crack that let the wind in wherever you put it.

The biggest juvenile hero was the kid who could race down a hill on his bike without holding on to the handlebars.

The prize possession of every girl under 20 was a cedar-lined hope chest in which she collected items for her future home.

The greatest ordeal a small boy faced was to be ordered by his mother to go out and cut a switch off the peach tree himself — when he knew it would be used to give him a whipping.

Vitamins came in foods — not bottles.

It was the learned verdict of many elderly doctors that cigarette smoking was practically certain to lead to tuberculosis.

You could always tell a low-class saloon by the fact that it never kept its brass cuspidors brightly polished.

An old maid was any woman over 30 who lived "by herself and kept a cat."

A man who bought a suit with only one pair of pants was regarded either as a speedskrift or a showoff.

Kiwanians View Highway Film

Local Kiwanians viewed a film on the highways of the future at their meeting yesterday afternoon in the Kiwanis Centre. The film, a Walt Disney production was provided by the local Ontario Provincial Police.

The film gave a historical account of the building and development of highways in the United States and detailed the needed differing types of highways in the future; the methods used to determine these needs, various construction methods used in highway building and the features which highways of the future will have to offer.

Indian-Chinese border, according to Chinese maps.

This was a "serious violation of Indian territory," the note said.

The Communist Chinese control about 14,000 square miles of Ladakh, which they claim as Chinese territory.

The note gave the Chinese the opportunity to pull out gracefully by saying:

"If any Chinese patrol has erroneously infiltrated into the lower reaches of the Galwan River, it must return to its bases.

"At the same time the government of China must also announce that all members and guests had attended the annual visit to the Salvation Army camp at Robbin Lake.

Elderly Man Injured in Car Accident

Roy Thrasher, 78 years old, was admitted to Belleville hospital yesterday with multiple fractured ribs. The injuries were the result of an automobile accident within 100 yards of Mr. Thrasher's home, on the Campbellford road, from Stirling, about one mile east of the county line.

Provincial police said Mr. Thrasher's car left the road for no apparent reason, sideswiped two trees, and struck a telephone pole, about 2 p.m. yesterday.

Dr. K. M. Douglas, of Belleville hospital, described Mr. Thrasher's condition this morning as "much better".

Rednersville W.I. Plans Future Event

ALBURY — The June meeting of Rednersville W.I. was held recently at Centre Church hall with Mrs. Don Spencer and Mrs. Douglas Redner as hostesses. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Mac Wallbridge.

A minute of silence was observed for the late Mrs. Jean Leak, who had passed away since the last meeting.

Mrs. Wallbridge extended a welcome as this was a program for the 4-H Homemaking Clubs, and several mothers, with over 40 in attendance.

Plans were made to entertain all County W.I.'s and the Quinte Institutes on July 26 at 8 p.m. Each member to bring a card table, cover, plates, bouquet, silver, and cream and sugar—each member to furnish a loaf of bread in sandwiches and three dozen cookies.

Mrs. George Roblin gave her report of the district annual.

Mrs. Wallbridge presented Mrs. Don Spencer, who had been secretary for several years, with a lovely white sweater. Taken by surprise she thanked everyone as she had enjoyed being secretary.

Mrs. Winston Pulver took charge of the program: Nancy and Beverly Doxtator sang a duet; Evelyn Bedford commented on "How to Choose Meat Wisely"; a piano solo by Barbara Stavely; an exhibit "Savory Dishes from Left Over Meat," by Eleanor Wannamaker; Mrs. Smith, the home economist, gave a short talk; a demonstration, "Look Right for Summer" by Sybil Walker, Linda Shepard and Margaret Kizer.

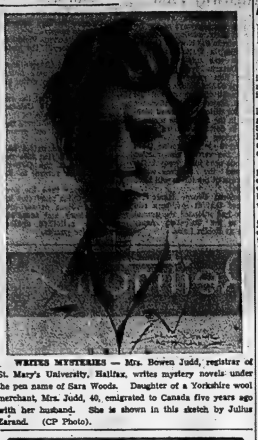
Mrs. Doxtator presented a spoon to each girl for each project completed for the last two projects.

Mrs. Clarence Vanclief presented the leaders, Mrs. Pulver, Mrs. E. Young, Mrs. Doxtator and Mrs. Bedford. Peck with lovely cups and saucers.

A vote of thanks was extended to the hostesses, program convenors and everyone who helped with the good program, also the lunch committee.

Simple Treasure

By VERA WINSTON



A real find is the disarmingly simple frock that can be dressed up or down.

The dress is available in two shades of rose, gray and white or beige and white, as well as in two shades of blue.

Nice in town on a warmish day, good in the country any time.

Mrs. Bowen Judd, Halifax Is Rising Mystery Author

By DAVE PIKE

HALIFA X(CP)—Sara Woods is not the sort of woman to murder lightly. She only does it when it's necessary.

"My aunt, a mild woman, likes poisoning and clean, hygienic methods like that," says Sara, a mild sort herself who likes reading history, walking and everything to do with the country.

"Personally, I'm not terribly particular," she chuckles. "I don't mind shooting or stabbing with lots of blood. If it's got to be done you do it the most convenient way."

Sara can't recall immediately just how many victims she has dispatched to an early end, although if you'll give her a moment she'll list the corpses with the fond remembrance of old friends gone to their final reward.

Sara Woods is the nom de plume of Mrs. Bowen Judd, who divides her time between being a happily married woman of 40, registrar of St. Mary's University here, and a rising mystery author.

Mrs. Judd, who had never had a book published in her life, was eating breakfast one morning a year ago when a cablegram arrived.

WRITING SIXTH BOOK

It was from Collins, the London publishers. They were going to bring out her first mystery and wanted options on three she had sent. Eventually she mailed off a fifth, also quickly accepted.

"We've got a banana out there in Nova Scotia," chortled Collins. And so they have. Mrs. Judd is working on her sixth mystery and has another "simmering." She turns them out at about nine-month intervals.

The publishing firm already has said it is thinking of her in terms of those formidable female giants of the field, Agatha Christie and Ngaio Marsh.

"I feel terribly honored and flattered by this comparison," Mrs. Judd says modestly.

Mrs. Judd's first book, Bloody Instructions, came out in England in June. It appeared in Canada in early July and will be released in the United States this fall. Her fifth appears Oct. 22 in England and Canada.

The Taste of Fears, Error of the Moon and Trusted Like the Fox are due to be published at six-month intervals.

Central character in all six is Sir Nicholas Harding, QC, who sits in his inner sanctum in London's Inner Temple legal chambers pondering briefs, doodling ducks and solving crimes. His brilliant legal mind really comes to the fore in court where most of Trusted Like the Fox is set.

WORKED IN LAW OFFICE

The other two main characters are Antony Maitland, barrister-detective and nephew of Sir Nicholas, and Jenny Maitland. They all live together in a house in Kempenfeldt Square in London with Gibbs, "the disgreasable butler."

Mrs. Judd is the daughter of a Yorkshire wool merchant and received a convent education from the French Sisters of Charity, worked in a bank in London during the Second World War and spent some time raising pigs.

Her background as a secretary in a Yorkshire law office and her voracious appetite for reading law have enabled her to bathe her books in an authentic, knowledgeable legal atmosphere.

Mrs. Judd and her husband, an engineer she married in 1946, came to Canada five years ago. She has been registrar at St. Mary's for three years.

"I write mysteries to amuse people," she says. "I like books about ordinary people in queer circumstances. I don't write detective stories because of any satisfaction from brooding over corpses. In fact, there's only one murder in the first book. The raison d'etre is the legal background and the problems that arise from it."

SUPPORTS CREZD

LONDON (CP) — Hubert Houghton, president of the Advertising Association, has given his support to a suggestion that advertising executives should take an oath similar to the Hippocratic oath of the medical profession, to suppress abuses in advertising.

Mr. and Mrs. John George Plumpton are shown following their recent marriage in Canadian Martyrs' Church, Canadian, Ontario. The bride is the former Miss Ruth Eleanor Luxton daughter of Mrs. George Luxton of Corbyville, Ontario, and the late Mr. Luxton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Plumpton, also of Corbyville. (Photo by William E. Riley, Belleville).

PLUMPTON — LUXTON

Canniffon United Church was tastefully adorned with baskets of white mums, white gladioli, and blue carnations, and the altar pews designated by white satin bows, on Saturday, June 30, at 3.00 p.m. for the marriage of Ruth Eleanor Luxton, of Corbyville, daughter of Mrs. George Luxton, and of George Plumpton, also of Corbyville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Plumpton. The Reverend George G. Ambury, assisted by Reverend Gordon Mc. G. Dawson, officiated at the ceremony.

The wedding music was provided by the church organist, Mrs. Oliver Fensham, who accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Robert Hough, in her rendition of "The Lord's Prayer," before the ceremony, and "The Wedding Prayer," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. George Luxton, the bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Sheldon Homan, wearing a lovely bridal gown in full length white silk organza over taffeta fashioned in bell shape, with lace bodice having a three quarter length sleeves and scalloped neckline. She wore a pillbox white silk organza headdress with shoulder-length veil, and carried a bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses mingled with white pompons and trailing ivy.

Miss Jean Luxton, of Corbyville, was the bride's sister and maid of honor; while Miss Nancy Plumpton, sister of the bridegroom, also of Corbyville, and Miss Ball Parvianen, of Port Arthur, Ontario were bridesmaids. All were gowned alike in peacock blue, peau de soie, featuring sheath design, in short length and sleeveless, with scooped neckline. The overskirts were of matching silk organza. Matching peacock blue pillbox hats with matching circular veils and bouquets of white Shasta daisies to complement shape completed their ensembles.

Mr. George Graham, of Corbyville, was groomsman, and Messrs. Fred Furnidge, of Corbyville, and John Duckworth, of Hamilton, ushered.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Homan, of Corbyville, where the bride's table was appointed with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a cluster of flowers, and flanked with white candles in silver holders with white damask cloth and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother, wearing a gown of printed silk in tones of brown and yellow, with matching yellow straw hat, yellow accessories and white and mauve tinted orchid corsage, received the guests. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, attired in a printed silk green and white two-piece ensemble, with green shoes and accessories, white flowered hat, and corsage of a white orchid.

For travelling through the 1000 Islands, the bride wore a powder-blue sheath with matching three-quarter duster, white straw hat, white accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained in Kingston at a kitchen shower given by Miss Marion Tilden. Carol Wynyard, and Reid Parvianen, attended by her university friends, at a miscellaneous shower given at the home of the bride, Corbyville, by Miss Beverley Urch, at a party held recently at the home of Mrs. Fred Furnidge, Jr., with Mrs. Fred Furnidge, and Mrs. George MacDonald Jr., as co hostesses, and at a presentation by the bride's co-workers of the Bell Telephone, when Miss Dunnigan, presented with a set of towels. The wedding party was also entertained at a rehearsal dinner given by the mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Ralph Plumpton.

Guests attended from Toronto's Yale; Massachusetts, U.S.; Montreal; Hamilton; Niagara Falls, Ontario; Kitchener; Petersburough; Bridgeport, Carrollbford; Ottawa; Hamilton; St. Catharines; Port Arthur; Hallowell; Cannington; Colborne and Belleville.

POROPAT — BOMMARITO

TRENTON — St. Peter-in-Chains Catholic Church, Trenton, was the scene of a very pretty summer wedding on Saturday, June 30, when Agata Bommarito and Emilio Poropat were united in the bonds of holy matrimony by Rev. Fr. W. Weagle. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Giuseppe Bommarito, of 199 Marmora Street, Trenton, formerly of Randazzo, Sicily, and the bridegroom is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Giuseppe Poropat, of Porec, Istra, Jugoslavia.

Pink and white gladioli decorated the altar for the double ring ceremony, and white satin bows enarked the guest pews.

Mrs. Marie Rose, Trenton, played traditional wedding music, and the soloist was Robert Burke, of Belleville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length wedding gown of heavy white satin, imported from Sicily, with a full train. The bouffant skirt was enhanced by the fitting waistline and bodice. Lace appliques accented the scoop neckline, and three-quarter sleeves added to the charming effect. The bride's finger-tip veil was held in place by a crown of imported orange blossom bude. She carried a bouquet of white Sweetheart roses and ferns.

Miss Josette Scuccato, of Trenton, was the maid of honor, and Miss Luigina Leone, also of Trenton, was the senior bridesmaid. Both wore floor length gowns with bouffant skirts and "V" necklines with matching hats. They carried matching bouquets of pink flowers.

Miss Isabella Marchese, cousin of the bride, and Miss Maria Milani were junior bridesmaids. They wore white frocks, matching pink and white hats, and carried matching bouquets of white and pink flowers.

Following a custom of the bridegroom's country, there were two groomsmen. First groomsman was Mr. Gino Spada, Toronto, and the second groomsman was Mr. Frank Besanzar, of Trenton and Toronto, the bridegroom's cousin.

More than 100 guests attended the reception at the Skyline Restaurant, Trenton, which was followed by dancing in the evening. The bride's table was centred by a wedding cake made and decorated by Mrs. Louis Pope, of Trenton, a friend of the bride's family.

The bride's mother received her guests wearing a blue and white sheath dress with navy duster, navy and white hat and white corsage. She was assisted by the bridegroom's aunt who wore a white two-piece suit, white hat and white accessories and pink corsage. His parents were unable to be present owing to the distance.

For the wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride wore a figured green sheath dress and green velvet three-quarter length coat with three quarter length bell sleeves and white accessories.

The couple will reside at 189 Marmora Street, Trenton.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored by a miscellaneous bridal shower given by co-hostesses Miss Josette Scuccato and Miss Luigina Leone.

Trousseau Tea Honors Bride-to-Be

A charming trousseau tea was held recently at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Johy, Shannonville, in honor of her daughter, Gail's approaching marriage, with 75 guests attending from Belleville, Foxboro, Trenton and Shannonville.

Mrs. Johy attired in a flowered dress with pleated bemline, and pink rose corsage, received her guests in the living room, which was profusely decorated with pink roses, Madonna lilies, and white Shasta daisies. She was assisted by her daughter, Gail, who wore a dark cotton over crepe sheath with red rose corsage.

The wedding gifts, including the gifts from showers held in Trenton and Shannonville, were displayed in an adjoining room, with Miss Betty Grills and Miss Carolyn Payette, both of Belleville, in charge as well being in charge of the trousseau.

After signing the guest book, the guests were invited to the tea room with its pretty tea table appointed with an exquisite cut-work linen cloth in rose shade, highlighted with a dainty floral centrepiece of pink roses, candlelit and lattys' breath, flanked by tall elaborately decorated pink candles in silver candlesticks.

Thos who presided at the silver services during the afternoon were: Mrs. Olga MacDonald and Mrs. Kenneth Vivian; Mrs. Malcolm Little and Mrs. Garnet Little.

Serving were: Miss Beth Robertson, of Belleville, assisted by Mrs. Ted Thrasher, of Trenton, and Miss Ruby Pigeon and Miss Olga MacDonald and Mrs. Malcolm assisted in the kitchen.

The bride-to-be is a secretary in the Belleville Utilities Commission.

Moody Husband Walks Out

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—My husband is fifteen years older than I. He is 58. He flies into rages over nothing. To make matters worse he goes into a silent state that lasts for several days, hardly speaking all the time.

Then he goes off without saying where he is going and stays as long as he likes. Our doctor says he is not a medical case. What should I do?—LONELY LADY.

* * *

DEAR LONELY—You are separated not only by years but by failure to communicate.

Does he ever know how you feel, with or without anger in the way you express yourself?

Silence after a rage may be a sign of shame, or exhaustion, or moodiness, or hopelessness.

To bridge a gap of 15 years you need better-than-ever ability to talk things out, not less. Perhaps he now feels old, and even more frustrated as your partner. You cannot rule out physical causes.

But if you are to have any satisfactions in the coming years, you must both start talking to each other. A counsellor might help you get started.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—Could you please straighten out a disagreement between my mother and myself. I am to be married in August. My fiance has asked a friend of his whom my mother has only met twice and whom she absolutely detests.

She says that she will not have him in the house and that she thinks my fiance should tell him that he can't be an usher. This is causing a great deal of heartbreak.—ENGAGED.

* * *

DEAR ENGAGED—Mother's the boss, I guess. It's her house. The alternative would be to have your reception some place else. Can she name one good reason why your fiance's friend rubs her the wrong way?

She sounds unreasonable. Slowly your wedding is the time you and your groom may surround yourselves with your best friends. Weddings are for joy and good will and a happy send-off for two young people who are starting a new life together.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I have just returned from a trip to England. I flew back, TCA.

On the plane the stewardess was just wonderful with me and my baby. She seemed to know just what to do. Prepared formuls, changed diapers, took him from me to relieve me.

And acted as if I did her a favor to let her hold him. She was adorable. I wanted to show my appreciation in some tangible way but she refused any money.

What can I do? I know her name and where she lives. Should I send her something anyway?—GRATEFUL MOTHER.

* * *

DEAR GRATEFUL—It's all in a day's work for a stewardess to handle Baby, or Junior. She also pampers Granny or talks with a bereaved husband. These girls are Hostesses of the Air.

Tipping is not the answer. Write to the air line, expressing your appreciation of fine hostessing, and identify your girl. This gives her a boost with the boss, which counts most, believe me!

(Ask Doris about what's bothering you. Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Women Want To Get Into Politics

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—The possibility of supporting members of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs who seek office in provincial and federal elections was brought up at the federation's biennial convention here Tuesday, but discussion was deferred until later this week.

The 170-club federation lent its support to women seeking office in municipal elections, but has refrained from entering party politics.

In a report for the commission on federation aims and objectives, Margaret P. Hyndman, a Toronto lawyer, said the commission felt the objectives of the federation could not be achieved without using politics to achieve its aims whenever legislation was required.

The commission report noted that civil servants within the club would have to refrain from such activity.

"But if it is one of our aims to get more trained women into public life . . . we cannot lose opportunities of accomplishing this objective by rigid adherence to the no-party - politics rule."

The Experts Say

Great Variety Toe Shapes To Be Seen This Fall

By PATRICIA RUSAK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Women should think of shoes not as an accessory but as an integral part of any costume, says Mrs. Elizabeth Hammond, director of the Shoe Information Bureau of Canada.

The right shoe makes the budget - priced garment seem more expensive and becoming, while the wrong one can ruin the effect of the most expensive couture creation, she maintains.

Mrs. Hammond says that for the coming fall season the feature of the shoe fashion field will be the great variety of toe shapes.

For dressy and late-day wear it will be pointed toes. For daytime there will be many variations of the soft crescent toe—ranging from the narrower "fingertip" to the wider "oval."

The square or "shipped" toe on a high heel, popular in the United States, will be of little consequence in Canada, Mrs. Hammond predicts.

A new look for closed pumps will be achieved through many dressy interpretations — fine pleating, delicate stitching, dainty cutouts and in some instances broken toplines.

Shoes with closed toes and sandal backs will be seen and are expected to be more popular next spring.

There will be a trend towards open-toe sandals, especially in black suede, gold, and print for after-dive wear.

The majority of fall shoes will be on illusion or lower heels in a curved or wingiass shape, although there will still be a place for high slim heels for cocktail and after-seven wear.

Stacked heels and spectator and strap pumps will be in vogue for daytime and street wear.

Suede, far more popular than it has been for the last few seasons is second, then comes patent leather, frequently combined with smooth, suede or reptile leather trims.

Colors for fall are far more subdued than in the past with the main accent on blending. A new avant guard shade which will be seen occasionally is called "tween', a blending of green and brown that looks like green tea.

Pretty Playsuit

By VERA WINSTON

This new fabric blend is used here in a neat two-piece print outfit of halter boy shorts and overblouse.

The shorts, narrow but not too confining, are most comfortable. The sleeveless overblouse is slightly shaped and has slits at the sides.

There's a pleated skirt to match, which makes it fine for the travel-light voyager. Count in tones of gray and orange on white or in blue and green on yellow.

Second. A few styles will be shown in red, and antiquing treatments or color - on - color effects will be featured for suit and tailored shoes.

For the luxury look, shoes of brocade, satin, silk, metallic and embroidered mesh will be shown, and there will be continued use of gold.

In bootwear, a European influence will be detected in the high knee lengths in smooth calf or suede leather and frequently with patent leather trims.

Most knee-high boots, which should be worn only with short coats or jackets, will have flat heels, while lower dressier boots will have cuban or illusion heels.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Emma J. — I let my son go to the movies every week no matter what.

Frances A. — My boy says to go along, but I'm funny about what he sees.

Emma J. — My friend Frances and I keep arguing about her strictness over telling her son Burt to go to the movies Saturday afternoons.

Burt and my son Josh are best friends. And Josh has twice as good a time at the movies when Burt is along. The trouble is Burt isn't along very often. Frances only lets him go to pictures which she herself, or her husband, or someone she knows has seen. She insists it makes a tremendous difference in how a child turns out. She really believes that boys get ideas from certain movies.

That's ridiculous. Josh just laughs at them all. He knows they're all make-believe, just put together for entertainment. He knows they could never happen in real life. If Frances impressed that on Burt, she'd have nothing to worry about and the boys could enjoy more shows together.

• • •

Frances A. — Maybe Josh and his parents are more hard-boiled and less impressionable than I am. But I get nightmares from some movies. And others are dangerous because they twist things completely, to make it all sound so true and convincing that a young person who doesn't know life can well believe it all.

It's bad enough for Burt to waste his eyesight and his attention on some of the TV trips I give him anyway there, when his homework is done. After all, it's usually only a half-hour, broken up with commercials. And he can turn to me or his father for quick explanations and reassurance.

But at the movies, alone with Josh, he'll swallow the bogwash without question. He has movie idols and whatever comes out of their mouths is gospel to him. And Technicolor and music and he's "hooked." That's why I must know exactly what Hollywood is filling his head with.

• • •

The Council: Here's another one of those chicken-or-egg topics where discussion can go on endlessly unless limited to one specific issue. We offer one, even though it is reminiscent of the old song title, "Who takes care of the caretaker's daughter while the caretaker's busy taking care?" We ask, "Who helps a parent train a child to see the right movies?" True, there are listings in some magazines and newspapers. But since the classifications are prepared by special interest groups, some parents have reservations about accepting them and fall back upon their personal knowledge of the film in question.

Emma's position, that of preparing son's children at home for anything, has long been the comfortable one of permissive parents. The fallacy, however, lies in the "anything" of that tone. Parents who haven't been to the movies in a long while had better check up on th's! they may know whether their children really are being fortified for the emotional and intellectual assaults they encounter in "The Children's Section." We'd soon wonder Emma's claim that everything just rolls off her back. The newspapers revealed that it was a 1943 picture, "Wake Island," which changed the course of Astronaut Carpenter's life, inspiring him to become an astronaut.

Since Frances admittedly can't get to as many movies as her son would like to see, she may want to obtain some measure of guidance from a private bulletin, "The Green Sheet," which offers a complete of 10 highly respected lists.

NEIGHBORS' AID

2ND THURLOW — The Neighbors' Aid held the June meeting at the home on Wednesday afternoon with a fair attendance.

The president, Mrs. Bruce Pertt was in charge. Mrs. M. Dent read the minutes and correspondence and a short business was conducted. Mrs. Ronald Aiking gave a report on the recent ice cream and strawberry party. Mrs. Arnold Mitchell gave the group's financial standing.

Mrs. Archie Greatrix arranged the following program and displayed several souvenirs which were most interesting. Readings were given by Mrs. B. Pertt, Mrs. R. Greatrix and Mrs. M. Kirk. Mrs. M. Mitchell was the pianist for community singing. A contest was conducted with Mrs. Kirk and Mrs. J. Stratton, the winners.

Lunch was served and a social time was spent.

New Twists - - - Seedy

by Mary Moore

A short cut to a cooking reputation is to make hot rolls. Other items in the menu may be nectar and ambrosia but what your guests will taste first will be hot rolls straight from the oven.

If your ego requires a little bolstering, make some of these little poppy and sesame seed twists, timing the baking so that you carry a basketful, swaddled in a big linen napkin, to the table, while the carver is beginning to operate.

On a hot Sunday afternoon I started making these twists at 2.30 p.m. and carried them hot to the dining room table at 6.00 p.m.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Chilled Apple Juice; Veal Scallopini; Mashed Potatoes; Spinach with Mushrooms; Raspberries and Cream; Chocoate Cookies (see Tuesday); Coffee.

POPPY SEED TWISTS (and sesame):

1 package granular yeast, ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoons salt, 2/3 cup milk, scalded, 1 egg, 3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour.

Add the 1 teaspoon sugar to the lukewarm water and soften yeast in it for 10 minutes. Add shortening, sugar and salt to scalded milk in large bowl. Cool to lukewarm and add yeast liquid and beaten egg. Stir. Stir in flour until dough is smooth. Turn out on floured board and knead until satiny and smooth — 8 to 10 minutes or 300 kneads. Return to greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down. Roll dough out to ¼" thickness. Cut into strips ½" wide and 6" long. Cross three strips in the middle and braid from centre to each end. Press ends together and fold under. Brush up so well. The sesame seeds tops with melted butter, then are just as good if not better sprinkle generously with poppy seeds (see note). Place on greased baking sheet and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes.

This amount of dough will fill 1 cookie sheet with twists and one 10-cup muffin pan with rolls or other shapes.

NOTE:

I had help of a sort with these. Pete and Margy were wandering around the kitchen looking for food and when they saw me shaping raw yeast dough they got into the act. Pete twisted foot long narrow strips of dough into surgeons' knots and fleurs-de-lis and Margy brushed the tops of all with butter and sprinkled on the seeds. Poppy seeds ate better than sesame because they show

The item in our picture which we are featuring today is poppy seed twists —little hot rolls Mary Moore recommends for cooks ambitious to earn a cooking reputation. If you have not baked with yeast before, try this easy recipe and extend your cooking repertory.

Versatile Loafer

By TRACY ADRIAN

A new type of sneaker designed on loafer lines with the new pointed toe is a big hit with the teen-agers.

A versatile style, it can be worn outdoors with any number of casual costumes and can also step right inside for lounging and TV viewing.

The top is made of cool hopsacking in a range of six colors. Soft elasticized side gores and crepe soles are other details.

Women Must Protest Against Discrimination

By EDNA BLAKELY

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—A survey among members of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs shows that women workers are being discriminated against in regards to both pay and pensions.

Mrs. M. E. Fewtrell of Cobourg, Ont., chairman of the employment conditions committee, said this interview at the federation's biennial meeting that the federation's provincial organizations must encourage women to protest against discrimination. Some clubs were considering inserting advertisements in newspapers to notify women of their rights to equal pay.

Saskatchewan, British Columbia and Ontario showed the least discrimination.

At a seminar on the role of working women in Canada one group agreed that it should be compulsory for women to join pension schemes as soon as their incomes are great enough to warrant it. Some schemes were compulsory for men, but optional for women.

The same group suggested a counselling service for women about to retire.

NEEDS UPGRADING'

Irene Hempseed of St. James, Man., reported for a group which discussed married women. The group suggested that the profession of marriage be upgraded.

"Why can't we make homemaking just as respected a profession as plumbing?" Mrs. Margret Ashdown of Toronto asked.

Marion Royce of Ottawa, director of the federal labor department's women's guild, told delegates that in future business and industry would require a higher proportion of highly skilled personnel and many would be in technical fields.

"Our rights need changing to fit what women can do in mathematics and science and occupationally as engineers and technicians," she said.

U.C.W. Group Entertains Messengers

RAWDON — On July 5th, over 30 women and children gathered at Mount Pleasant Rawdon Church hall for the annual children's party. There were 23 ladies in attendance, several teen-agers, the Messengers group and a few small children.

Mrs. Milford Wrightman president of the U.C.W. welcomed the members, guests and the children. The service opened with a hymn and prayer. Mrs. Ross Jeffs reported the June business and Mrs. Don Knight gave a resume of the recent sale which was a success. Mrs. Ernest Spencer gave the financial picture to date. A letter was read re the August leaders' school to be held at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby.

The messengers were in charge of the program and the president Brenda Campbell opened with a hymn with Jean Jeffs as pianist. Carolyn Meadick read the Beatitudes and Brenda Williams read a story entitled "Servant All" which had an excellent moral. Nancy Johnson favored with a number. The leader Mrs. Garth Joslin accompanied several of the songs and choruses.

The offering was gathered by Gordon Hoard and Randy Scott and was dedicated with the new hymn for that occasion. At the close of the worship, Carolyn Johnson gave prayer. Donna Knight was in charge of the roll call of paid members. The senior messengers contributed a number and Janet Spencer and Janet Scott rendered a vocal duet. Jim Scott read an appropriate selection; Gordon and Jeanette Spencer sang a duet and Betty McAdam rendered a piano solo. The junior Messengers sang a number by all the Messengers "Sing Your Way Home".

Jean and Sally McAdam were in charge of the fish pond when a large array of small gifts were sold to the children. These had been donated by the ladies and the proceeds will go to the fund of the Messengers group.

The July group of the U.C.W. served cups of ice cream and a variety of cookies, and all enjoyed a social half hour of fellowship.

The assistant leaders of the group are Mrs. James Hoard and Mrs. Clarence Scott.

CWL Formed On Indian Reservation

KINGSTON (CP)—The Catholic Women's League of Canada now includes an all-Indian council on a reservation in the Fort William diocese.

News of its formation Tuesday night highlighted reports from the 13 diocesan presidents of the league's Ontario provincial council, holding its annual meeting here.

Earlier, Most Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan welcomed about 75 women who registered Tuesday. More are expected today to pass resolutions, elect a new executive and hear reports of various aspects — including social action, education and citizenship and immigration—of the provincial group's work.

The league's provincial director, Most Rev. R. I. Webster, Bishop of Peterborough will celebrate mass today.

Elegant Simplicity

By TRACY ADRIAN

Frosty white roses are brilliantly embroidered on Swiss organdy of petal-pure whiteness. An underlay of iced green enriches the dress, making a handsome combination for a superbly simple short formal sheath.

AIR CADETS TO TRAVEL

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of 38 Royal Canadian Air Force Cadets from across Canada will travel abroad this month under an international exchange plan announced by the Air Cadet League of Canada and the RCAF. While the Canadians are abroad, cadets from the 11 countries will visit Canada as guests of the Air Cadet League and the RCAF.

CONTINUES VOYAGE

PANAMA CITY (AP) — The Greek freighter Demetrius, halted by U.S. authorities because its overload cargo of Cuban sugar for Red China caused a take-both overdraft, cleared the Panama Canal Tuesday night after a two-day delay. A shipping surveyor pronounced the ship safe for transit and the U.S. officials allowed the ship to proceed.

Farewell Gift Presented To Residents

TWEED — On Saurday evening a social evening was held in the Legion Club rooms by members and their wives of the Royal Canadian Legion No. 428.

During the evening a purse of money was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Higgins, by Mr. Arnold Dale, on behalf of those present. Mr. and Mrs. Higgins have taken up residence in Whitby.

While living in Tweed, Mr. and Mrs. Higgins were both active in Legion and Auxiliary activities, Mr. Higgins holding the office of treasurer and Mrs. Higgins Sergeant-at-Arms.

Dancing, cards and refreshments concluded the evening.

Teacher Honored On Retirement By Staff, Board

TWEED — Miss Gussie Mc. Naughton has retired after 40 years of teaching during which she taught at Sulphide, Flinton, and for the past 26 years, at Actinolite.

On Thursday evening she was honored at her home by the teaching staff and members of the School Board.

Mr. Speck, a former student during her early days of teaching, presented her with a set of luggage. She plans to enjoy her retirement with her sister, Mrs. Alice Parks, with whom she has lived for several years.

On Sunday relatives gathered at her home for a social evening during which she was presented with a gift of costume jewelry, inset in garnet.

TELESTAR

Ultimately, the instantaneous, continuous circuits might be provided by three satellites, orbitting 22,500 miles high so they appear "to remain stationary over the same points on earth. Telstar's task is first to prove the capabilities, and help determine what problems still lie ahead.

Telstar is a forward step from Echo, the shiny balloon satellite which simply reflected radio signals beamed to it. Telstar is an active repeater—its special antennae pick up faint signals, its gear amplifies them 10,000,000,000 times, and the signals are re-transmitted for the sensitive antenna ears on the ground to pick up and amplify again.

French technicians said they received remarkably clear signals for 17 minutes, as though the broadcast had originated only 25 miles away rather than having slipped thousands of miles through space.

All that British viewers saw was flickering pictures of a man in a business suit.

RELAYS AP PIX

During about 25 minutes of workout on the first usable pass, Telstar relayed a picture of itself supplied jointly by The Associated Press and United Press International. This was transmitted by land lines to Andover, up to Telstar and back from Telstar by land lines to the receiver in New York.

On the seventh orbit, 158 minutes later, Telstar was switched from broad band to narrow band channels for triple duty.

By high speed data transmission, it relayed two wire service stories, one from AP correspondent Don Gog in Andover; relayed three pictures, and gave newspaper men and officials the thrill of talking really long distance between Andover, New York and Washington.

Telstar is not a sometimes chatterbox. It also is equipped with 315 channels of telemetry to relay reports it is gathering on temperatures in the satellite, voltages, effects of protons and electrons in the Van Allen radiation belt, and effects of cosmic rays and tiny meteorites on its solar cells and many of its 15,000 working parts.

For TV, it acts as a microwave relay station in space. TV signals travel only in a straight line, and hereabove have not been able to span the oceans due to the earth's curvature.

Officials hope Telstar will continue to work for two years as it swings in orbit ranging from nearly 600 to 3,500 miles above the earth.

By GRACY ADRIAN

From Vera Maxwell, eminent American designer, comes this versatile frock that is a perfect example of understated chic.

The frock is made in glowing white, satin-striped Swiss voile. Devoid of fuss and frills, it is fashioned with a bateau neckline, short sleeves and a shaped waist from which yards of the fabric are released in soft fullness.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO SIGHT-SEE?

If you're planning to do some sight-seeing on your vacation this Summer, here are some tips on how to be good-natured and polite about it.

First of all, dress sensibly. A waiting bus through a museum or gallery, or down intriguing little side streets, loses much of its charm when your tootsies hurt. Sturdy walking shoes and a skirt that permits striding are comfortable and correct for browsing.

If the tour is guided, keep up with the group, so you can keep up with the running commentary. It's discourteous to lag, then ask catch-up questions when the subject has already been changed.

If you do have a raft of questions to ask the guide, make notes as you go along and corner him for a fuller explanation once the tour is over. Often a tour gets bogged down when one of the group insists on undivided attention in a quest for information. Pertinent questions, of course, may be posed as the tour progresses, but it's impolite to bring it to a stand-still while you probe too deeply. The rights and desires of others should always be respected in a group activity.

When riding in the sights of town, remember you're a visitor and gauge your manners accordingly. Show interest, but don't gawk at the "natives," especially if their dress or customs are unfamiliar.

Before travelling to an out-of-the-way spot, take time to learn about what you'll see and observe. This is particularly beneficial when you have children along. The trip will be more educational for them if they know in advance what it's all about. Explain why the food and the costumes differ from what they are accustomed to, so they'll appreciate other cultures and not make inappropriate comments or, worse yet, laugh or snicker at sights that might seem strange.

If you have your camera along, it's always more polite to ask permission before photographing residents, especially if they're on their own doorsteps. Owners of an unusual house, for instance, might not mind having the exteriors put on film, but it's still more courteous to ask. Just in case they might take offence at having uninvited guests hanging around the premises.

"Natives" in pursuit of their daily bread often make interesting camera material, but they, too, should be respected to pose. A driver of a hansom cab in New York, for instance, or a fisherman in Malta are used to being "shot" by camera-bugs. If a workman takes time out to pose willingly, offer a tip may be offered. It depends on the circumstances and the time involved. If offered, naturally such a transaction should be handled diplomatically and with tasteful discretion.

What you get out of a sight-seeing trip depends largely on what you put into it. An investment in courtesy pays off in enjoyment and good will.

for them, have led to "widespread and growing distrust" in government long-term bonds as their price stability — normally the main attraction for investors — had been sharply reduced.

3. The Bank of Canada, "as the government's debt manager, had been put into a "troublesome conflict of interest position" in which objectives of sound monetary policy —including the fight against inflation— had been sacrificed or delayed from time to time. Monetary policy had become "quite ineffective."

Presumably, the association said, the government was trying to alleviate unemployment when it set out a few years ago on an enlarged spending program and broader welfare payments.

"Evidence of success from this policy is inconclusive," the brief said.

In recommending overhaul of the tax structure, the IDAC raised the possibility of using indirect taxes—such as sales and excise taxes — as an alternative or partial alternative to income taxes.

Taxes now are too high and too complicated in Canada, the association said. They were destroying incentive. Simplification was badly needed.

No reference was made by the IDAC to Prime Minister Diefenbaker's May 2 pledge during the election campaign of a royal commission to examine tax structure.

Rather, the association suggested that the job be handled by a select committee made up of representatives from business and finance along with "practical economists," officials of the Canadian Tax Foundation, and lawyers and accountants.

Among the other IDAC recommendations:

Debt management for the federal government should be taken away from the Bank of Canada and given to the finance department.

Repeal of the statutory six-per-cent ceiling on lending rates for the chartered banks and Quebec savings banks.

Legislation to clarify the Bank of Canada's relationship to the government.

An improved procedure of resignation of the central bank governor, to avoid "the unhappy events of 1961" — James E. Coyne's departure.

Condition Good After Operation

HULL, Que. (CP) — Gilbert Rondeau, 34, new Social Credit member of Parliament for the Quebec constituency of Shefford, was operated on here early today for appendicitis.

Officials of Sacred Heart Hospital said Mr. Rondeau's condition was good following the operation. They described the operation as a "simple one."

Mr. Rondeau was one of 19 Social Credit members who gathered in Ottawa Tuesday for a caucus meeting and to be sworn in as members of the Commons by Clerk Leon J. Raymond.

Woman Senator Left 2 Million

OTTAWA (CP) — The late Senator Catrine Wilson of Ottawa left an estate valued at $2,012,734, it was revealed when her will was filed for probate today.

Mrs. Wilson, granddaughter of a pioneer Quebec lumberman and daughter of a Montreal wholesaler, died here March 3 at the age of 77. She had been a Liberal senator since 1930.

Bequests of $5,000 each were left to a number of Presbyterian Church organizations, the Salvation Army, YMCA, Carleton College, the Victorian Order of Nurses and Acadian University.

Walking Cases Make Up Most Hospital's Work in Regina, Number Not Heavy

Patients sit for a while, enter the emergency room, explain their ailments and then are routed to the proper department for treatment. The number of waiting patients varies from one or two to a dozen, but there is never much delay.

Other patients are brought in by stretcher or wheelchair and rushed directly to a doctor. It is the walking cases, however, which make up the bulk of the hospital's work.

The Regina hospital is one of the 35 emergency centres in Saskatchewan where doctors are providing free medical services during the medical care boycott. This is not only the biggest hospital in the province, but it also operates the largest emergency centre.

Eight to 10 volunteer doctors are serving at the Regina hospital and they are assisted by an equal number of interns. The smaller emergency centres have only one or two doctors. While some doctors are serving outside these centres, many areas have no other medical service except that offered by the centres. Sometimes it is necessary to travel 100 miles or more by car or by ambulance to reach a hospital with doctors on duty.

TALKS TO PATIENTS

At the Regina hospital, this reporter talked to a score of waiting patients and found only one from outside Regina. She had come 100 miles by ambulance for treatment of complications resulting from an operation performed before the doctors withdrew their normal services July 1.

One man had been hurt while water skiing. He thought he had some broken ribs. A mother brought a three-year-old daughter who had hurt her arm. Another mother was there with a little boy who had an ear ache. An old man had an empty pill box in his hand. He said he had come to get a doctor to write him a fresh supply.

A pregnant woman came and sat for a moment. Normally maternity cases are sent directly to the maternity ward but this patient had not come for delivery. A nurse approached her.

"Is anything wrong?" the nurse asked. "I'll not be long, take you."

"No," the woman replied. Then she continued: "My doctor told me before he left that I might have to have an injection. I want to see a doctor."

"Okay," the nurse said and led her into the emergency room."

The patients answered questions good-naturedly.

ONE IS LUCKY

One man, however, spoke out angrily about the medical impasse. He was Thomas Aldrindell, an Italian immigrant, who had brought in his three-year-old daughter, Clara, to have her sore throat treated.

"Imported Cigs, Pipe Tobacco, Cigar Prices Up

TORONTO (CP)—Prices of all imported cigarettes, pipe tobacco and cigars are being increased by as much as 15 per cent following the higher tariff announced in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's recent austerity program.

The increases also apply to cigars manufactured in Canada from imported leaf.

Spokesmen for the industry said Monday the higher prices will affect about 10 per cent of all beer sales and 20 per cent in Canada every year.

A spokesman for Murray Company Limited of Toronto, wholesalers and importers, said his firm has already announced increases in imported cigarettes. They include two United States brands—Salems rises to 32 from 30 cents and Camels to 46 from 45.

Windsor Region Truck Drivers Still on Strike

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Truck drivers at Windsor and Chatham are sticking to their decision not to end a strike against southwestern Ontario trucking firms, despite threats of legal action by the firms and a union leader's hint their action may be illegal.

The drivers, members of Local 880 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.) last week were alone in rejecting settlement terms for a six-week, province - wide trucking strike. The over-all result of the vote by the five Teamster locals involved favored acceptance.

The threat of legal action was contained in telegrams sent to the teamsters by several Windsor - area transport firms Tuesday when the drivers did not join a general return-to-work movement across Ontario.

Spokesmen for the companies said that so far none of the men had returned to work but many had visited employers to find out how much time they had until the legal action would be taken.

MAIN DRIVERS

Kenneth MacDougall, president of Toronto-based Teamster Local 938 earlier warned dissident drivers that anyone who refused to return to work would deprive himself of union protection should the companies take legal action.

Mr. MacDougall said picket duty in Toronto would be illegal and would not be recognized by the Local 938 leadership. However, he also said he will ask the International's president, Jimmy Hoffa, to call a mass referendum on the settlement before the contract is signed.

Local 880 has about 600 members in the Windsor, Chatham and Sarnia area, was the only one of the five locals to oppose the settlement, which was approved by a vote of 1,900 to 1,634.

Meanwhile, elsewhere in the province trucking operations were brought almost to a standstill for the first time since the walkout began late in May.

Canada Had Outflow of Canadian Capital

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada had an outflow of capital on current account—but not foreign money — during May from international transactions in new and used stock and bond issues, a bureau of statistics report indicated today.

Dealings in Canadian securities resulted in an inflow of $2,400,000 in foreign capital as new issues were sold on that score, $15,300,000 in stocks in Canadians and bought a net $15,100,000 in bonds and debentures—mostly federal government issues.

Meanwhile, during May, Canadians bought a net $21,400,000 in foreign securities—resulting in a capital outflow. This included about $20,000,000 in new stocks and $1,000,000 in United Kingdom bonds.

The net purchase balance of $11,900,000 on both Canadian and foreign securities—a capital outflow—was slightly more than offset by transactions in government treasury bills, other short-term issues and commercial and finance paper.

The capital flows resulting from the outstanding securities is one of the forms of capital movement affecting the Canadian dollar on foreign and the country's reserves of foreign exchange.

The drying up of the normal net inflow of foreign capital, which eventually developed into a capital outflow, was one of the main factors behind the government's May 3 move devaluing the dollar's exchange rate. And its later hike June 24 imposing new austerity measures to support the dollar.

The bureau said that in the first three months of the year there was a net capital outflow of more than $66,000,000 from dealings in outstanding securities, compared with a capital inflow of almost the same size in the first five months of last year.

FIRE HITS COMMUNITY

HAWKSTONE, Ps. (AP)—Fire destroyed a log cabin that was the Mifflin County community and boarding house of 30 Puerto Rican migrant workers. Fire Chief Harry Schaeffer of Lewistown said 4 dwellings were destroyed and 73 persons from 13 families were made homeless. These included 50 children. He estimated the loss at $100,000 in buildings and $10,000 in contents.

Liberian President Given Warm London Welcome

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The enthusiasm of the welcome extended to President Tubman of Liberia on his state visit to London reflects the importance the British government places on his country as an example to leaders of younger independent Africa states.

Since Liberia became the first all-Negro republic in Africa 115 years ago Anglo-Liberian relations have remained good, although there have been some serious temporary disagreements. Generally the Liberian tendency to negotiate calmly and with diplomatic cordiality—unlike some of their neighbors—has been highly profitable.

In the Liberian view, trade with Britain could be even better and no doubt Tubman will touch on this during his London talks. But in fact, with the whole of Africa in the throes of an economic upsurge, trade between the two countries is expanding and the prospects for the future look bright.

For Tubman, then, the visit is more of a sentimental journey than a business trip.

SCION OF SLAVES

The 64-year-old president is one of the descendants of the handful of Negro slaves and freedmen who went to West Africa to establish their country. Queen Victoria helped the nation into being and recognized it.

A year later, in 1848, the first president visited London to discuss trade links. But it was not repaid until the royal couple visited Liberia on their honeymoon last November and invited Tubman to London.

The British, American and native influences have brought forth a strange country where descendants of the American Negroes, although outnumbered by the local tribesmen and Africans, pretty well have the upper hand.

Tubman, a devout Christian and an anti-Communist, has been in office 19 years with no opposition worth mentioning in that time. His main task has been to unite his complex country and bring in new capital to develop its booming economy, dependent on the two basic industries—iron and rubber.

In these he has been notably successful particularly in recent years. But Liberia still is poor and in need of financial help.

TURN OVER TO CANADA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defence department said Tuesday a total of 80 U.S. military installations and facilities in 39 states and Canada have been declared surplus. Six air force bases built in Canada for the North American Air Defence Command will be turned over to Canada, the department said.

Tobacco Co. Not Guilty of Causing Cancer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A federal court jury deliberated 50 minutes Tuesday and found the Philip Morris Company was not responsible for a cancer contracted by a cigarette smoker.

John T. Ross, 62, a former officer of the Kansas City Better Business Bureau, had sued Philip Morris for $250,000.

Ross lost his voice box and other organs of his throat in an operation for removal of a cancer in 1962. He contended his long and exclusive smoking of Philip Morris cigarettes caused the cancer.

Norman Kouth, foreman of the jury, said the 11 men and one woman agreed from the outset that neither tobacco nor medical science can say with any certainty what is the cause of cancer.

Contradictory medical testimony featured the three-week trial.

Two of the specialists who treated Ross, one the head of a research program who removed the cancer, said they were convinced smoking probably caused it.

Specialists testifying for the company said there has been no proof smoking causes cancer. They made the point the Ross cancer was in the pyriform fossa area of the throat, an area largely inaccessible to smoke.

Ontario Masons Will Convene At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Some 3,400 delegates and past masters are expected to register when the 105th communication of the Grand Masonic Lodge of Canada in the province of Ontario meets here July 16-19.

Grand Master R. W. Trivett, of Brockville, will preside over the second year of his two - year term, will preside. Business sessions will be held at the Royal York Hotel and at the Central Technical School.

Highlight of the social program will be the grand master's dinner wednesday, July 18, when Lieutenant - Governor J. Keiller Mackay and wives will be guests and members will attend.

The Grand Lodge of Canada in the province of Ontario is made up of 630 lodges with a total membership of about 136,000. It ranks 11th in membership among grand lodges of the world.

Only five past grand masters are living. Of these the dean is T. H. Simpson of Hamilton.

406 DEFERRED PLAQUES

This year 406 of the lodge's members have been awarded their deferred plaques for 50 years in Masonry—and 16 past masters have been awarded the long service medal for 30 years a past master. The 60-year pin was awarded to 14 members.

Two of the members, Lou Johnston of Brockville and Thomas Ivey of Campbellford, were honored during the year with a unique presentation of the craft. Both are well over 90 and attend lodge regularly.

Four Prisoners Make Escape From Burwash

SUDBURY (CP)—Four prisoners who escaped from nearby Burwash industrial farm are being sought by guards and provincial police.

Watter and Hamel escaped Monday while working at the quarry. Watter was serving 15 months for breaking and entering. Hamel was serving one year definite and 10 months indeterminate for breaking and entering.

Phillips and Hartford escaped from a scotts gang at Camp Spruce. Phillips was serving 18 months for breaking and entering. Hartford, also serving a term for breaking and entering, was due for discharge in October, 1963.

Diefenbaker Has No Right To Represent Canada at London Parley Says Martin

CORNWALL (CP) — Liberal Paul Martin says Prime Minister Diefenbaker does not have the right to attend the forthcoming Commonwealth conference without first having Parliament of the position he intends to take at the London conference.

Mr. Martin made the statement Tuesday night before about 200 persons at a rally in support of Leslien Lamoureux, liberal candidate in next Monday's Stormont election.

The veteran House of Commons member for East Essex questioned whether the government was on firm legal ground in instituting the current austerity program without reference to Parliament.

The question had also been raised by constitutional authorities but the cabinet has the right to "impose taxation" without first obtaining Parliament's consent, Mr. Martin apparently was referring to the tariff surcharge placed on a wide range of imports following the June 18 federal election.

BALLOTING DEFERRED

The balloting in Stormont, a Montreal and Ottawa suburb riding facing the St. Lawrence Seaway, was deferred because of the death of the original Liberal candidate. He place has since been filled by Mr. Lamoureux.

Mr. Martin, perspiration streaming down his face in the hot meeting hall, hammered at Mr. Diefenbaker for refusing to call Parliament before Thanksgiving—September is often mentioned as the likely opening date.

"Under our constitutional practices Parliament should be convoked at the earliest possible moment to deal with the very critical (economic) situation," Mr. Martin said.

He accused the government of hiding the facts of the country's economic position in the campaign leading to the election.

Mr. Martin said that as the head of a minority government Mr. Diefenbaker has no right to go to the prime ministers' conference without having summoned Parliament to meet. Parliament must attitude he is going to take at the conference.

The Commonwealth conference is to open in London Sept. 10. It is expected to be dominated by the question of British entry into the European Common Market.

Mr. Martin, spokesman for his party on foreign affairs in the Commons, said that Ivor Dean Powell, Diefenbaker's Secretary, is "overplaying" the government's role in the Common Market.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITY

He said a minority government's first responsibility is to "govern" and it is up to it to decide whether its policies warrant its being kept in office.

He gave a clear hint the Liberals might be prepared to cooperate with the government for at least a time, in the interests of "the welfare of all responsible courses."

Mr. Martin spoke in both English and French.

Mr. Lamoureux told the rally Canada's economy has suffered under the Conservative government. He spoke briefly in French.

Unemployment and generally French-speaking audience.

Alexis Caron, Liberal member of Parliament for Hull, also spoke briefly in French.

He charged that Mr. Diefenbaker is trying to camouflage the spiraling unemployment would be eliminated and that the country was moving toward prosperity.

Drew Pearson Sees Signs of World Peace

MONTREAL (CP) — Pessimists peering over the shoulders of President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev represent a danger to peace, American columnist Drew Pearson said Tuesday.

Mr. Pearson, addressing the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association annual meeting here, identified these elements as a extreme right wing in United States politics, German Chancellor Adenauer, French President de Gaulle, the Stalinists led by former Soviet foreign minister Molotov, and the Communist Chinese.

The Stalinists and the American right wing have in common the belief that war is inevitable between the West and the Communist world, he said. The rightists argued that capitalism cannot survive through war with Russia, thus displaying a complete lack of faith in the capitalist system.

Mr. Pearson said there are encouraging signs for world peace—the amicable meeting of de Gaulle and Adenauer, the election victory of the moderate group in Japan, Italy's economic recovery and the trend away from prostration and communism, achievement of neutrality by Laos and Burma, the first critical comments of the Russian system by an American had been distributed throughout Russia by the official news agency Tass.

"He suggested that the view of the Soviet people throughout the world is headed for a prolonged period of peaceful economic competition with Russia is the correct one.

"Perhaps I'm not like the walls of Jericho," he said: "It's not going to come tumbling down with seven statements from Senator Barry Goldwater."

BREWERY TALES GO ON

TORONTO (CP)—A conciliation board called Thursday to settle a contract dispute between Ontario brewers and their employees, but the two parties agreed to meet privately and continue negotiations themselves next week. Another dispute in 1958 resulted in a 61-day strike.

Goes to Jail Won't Pay Fine

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King, Negro civil rights leader, and a fellow minister were jailed for 45 days Tuesday for leading a street demonstration without a permit.

King and Rev. Ralph Abernathy, both of Atlanta, were given the choice of paying $178 fines upon being convicted of a December violation of a city ordinance on street and sidewalk assembly.

The two Negro leaders went to the city jail to await the issuance of prison garb and assignment to a street work detail.

Hotly-Disputed B.C. Timber Contract Awarded to Co. Previously Rejected

OTTAWA (CP)—A hotly-disputed timber contract in the British Columbia Indian reservation has been awarded to a company previously rejected, Citizenship Minister Fairclough announced Tuesday.

The reservation's band has approved the decision.

The award touched off a short sharp March storm in the Commons when Conservative Liberal MP Judy La Marsh, and others that political discrimination was associated with it.

Tuesday's announcement said the contract goes to Eurocan Industries Limited of Victoria —which bid $1,670,286 for timber on the Tsimpsean Narrows Indian Reservation No. 2 on the northern B.C. coast.

The original 1961 award went to Shoreline Lumber Company of Vancouver with a $782,000 or smaller acreage than now is involved.

The award of the contract to shoreline was cancelled March 13.

Miss La Marsh said Shoreline had been formed only a little while before and its directors were John C. Clinton, an American, Thomas Lacher and Frederick J. G. Gibson. She said she had been informed that Mr. Lachar was a son of a prominent West Coast Progressive Conservative, Leon Lachar, and that another company headed by Mr. Johnson had been employed previously by the Indian affairs branch in the same timber potential in B.C. from 1956 to 1960.

Miss La Marsh said Mr. Johnson had tried to sell timber limits immediately after his government contract ended and more than 50 per cent of the reservable and spoking breaches of confidence I have known.

Mrs. Fairclough accused Miss La Marsh of "smear tactics."

The contract announced Tuesday does not mean that the $1,670,286 bid is approved. Still, those bidder also would pay $30,000 annually over the 10-year term of the contract.

Director H. M. Jones said later this meant a payment toward personnel who would save the Indian affairs branch in hiring in the lumbering industry.

He said the bid covered about 20,000 acres. Information revealed in the Commons said the original bid by Shoreline covered 4,780 acres and that Beaufort applied originally in 1961 on that area plus another 8,000 acres regarded as non-commercial.

Ottawa Will Never Drive Me From My 'Home' Says Defiant Irish Owner of Land

OTTAWA (CP)—"They can't shoot me through the heart with a rifle or hang me by the neck until I'm dead, but they'll never drive me away from my land."

The defiant remark was made today by Roger Finnerty, 60, embittered by a six-year struggle to keep his home in the modern suburb of Alta Vista.

The tent was pitched 10 days ago by the two Finnerty sons, Chris, 20, and John, 22, after city crews demolished the family's small two-room tarpaper shack under a court order. The cross marks the spot where the shack stood. The city moved in after Mr. and Mrs. Finnerty and both were jailed briefly for contempt of court.

Mr. Finnerty, who left Ireland in the 1920s "still speaks with a thick brogue, built his home by himself 38 years ago on what was then an abandoned farm in the south end of the city.

Since then the Finnerty property has been surrounded by row upon row of modern homes. The tall, weather-beaten handyman picked up the land for a few hundred dollars but now a city official says it is worth $20,000 with room for at least four new homes.

The new neighbors began complaining about the property in 1956 and the city launched prosecutions under housing standards regulations.

The Finnertys refused to bring their tarpaper home up to standards. In court, they said, saying they have no savings, no pensions, no wealth, fines and more prosecutions followed, but the tarpaper shack stood.

Finally the Supreme Court of Ontario last month ordered the shack demolished. It was demolished immediately. When no action was taken, Mr. Finnerty was jailed for 14 days in jail and Mrs. Finnerty to seven days. Both were released as she was leaving St. Patrick's Catholic Church, which she attends daily.

City officials thought the long siege was over when the shack was torn down and the rubble hauled away to a city warehouse, Not so.

Hidden in the lush vegetation are two shrines to the Virgin Mary, a clothesline, wooden chairs, a table, pieces of a stove pipe, pails and the family's pets, a dog and a cat.

Since housing regulations say nothing about tents, the city has shifted tactics and now threatens to prosecute the Finnertys under the Public Health Act unless suitable sanitation facilities are provided near the tent.

Brothers Parlay Initial Investment of $400 Into a Payroll of $3,000 Monthly

By KEN CLARK

KENORA, Ont (CP) — In a little more than two years two brothers have parlayed an initial investment of $400 into a commercial printing firm and weekly newspaper with a monthly payroll of $3,000.

Gurnich Printers Limited was started by Guy and Richard Desjagne in January, 1960, in an old shack in this northwestern Ontario town of 11,000.

Today the firm has a full-time staff of nine and prints everything from wedding invitations to its own newspaper on offset equipment valued at $30,000.

And the firm is still expanding. It moved into larger quarters this spring, adding a retail stationery and office equipment shop.

Prime mover in the enterprise is Richard, 30, president and majority shareholder. Guy, 26, is secretary and plant superintendent.

They put up $300 to get the venture started. The money was used as a down payment on a $2,400 reconditioned offset press which neither knew how to operate. Guy learned from a book, instruction from the company that sold it to them and then were in business in a shack formerly occupied by a meat-market.

WORKED AT JAIL

The brothers weathered a series of early financial crises by holding down other jobs while working at the business in their spare time for the first year.

Richard was working as a guard in the district jail. "My wife and two daughters ate macaroni for three days once," he recalled. "All my pay from the jail had to go to meet payments."

When they were able to devote full time to the business, they put in as much as 18 hours a day for several days in succession.

Richard stresses that from the first the whole operation has been on a trial — and error basis. Although Richard had worked as a newspaper advertising salesman before, neither had any direct knowledge of the mechanics of commercial printing.

Each time Gurnich bought new equipment the seller would provide perfunctory instruction in its use. Later when assistance would come around the brothers would pump them for additional information.

ANOTHER OUTLET

Richard said his original purpose in starting the enterprise was to provide another advertising outlet for the community. The Kenora Miner and News, a daily newspaper, and radio station CJRL are under the same ownership.

To fulfil this early aim, the first issue of the weekly Retailite came off the press last November and now has a circulation of 2,000.

The paper is an offbeat mixture of political discussion, chit-chat, advertising and local news.

It is printed on a 24,000 press which, like almost everything else in the firm's basement quarters, was bought on installment.

Richard says lack of working capital has been the firm's big problem. Both brothers have mortgaged their cars as has one of three other partners taken into the business. Richard's furniture is also encumbered but he insists it's well worth it.

Govt. Recalls Doctor From Bigger Post

SASKATOON (CP)—Dr. Ida Fisher, one of a number of British doctors recruited by the Saskatchewan government in recent weeks, has invited the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons to investigate allegations against her medical conduct.

St. Margaret's Hospital at Biggar claimed Dr. Fisher was recalled after the hospital board held a complaint with the medical care insurance commission.

Dr. Fisher said she is licensed to practise medicine by the Saskatchewan college. "I invite that body immediately to hold a proper investigation into the scurrilous allegations which have been made against me," he said.

"At least one physician has, so I am told, publicly attacked my competence and has at least implied that my purpose in leaving my family and my practice in London was to 'steal the practice' of doctors in a small Saskatchewan centre."

ANCIENT TRADE

Disarmament Negotiators Review Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western disarmament negotiators plan to complete shortly an intensive review aimed at determining how they should proceed when the Geneva disarmament conference reconvenes July 18.

U.S. sources indicated the Western delegation may advance some new arms cut approaches; when the Geneva session recesses, but they will not basically change the U.S. proposal calling for ultimately complete disarmament by stages and under effective controls.

However, U.S. experts were considering as important revision in the Western plan for a ban on atomic tests. This may be advanced later this year after further studies of recent experiments indicating underground tests can be detected more easily than previously thought.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Mrs. George Moore and daughter, Wanda, of Greenwood, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spencer.

Wallbridge Sunday School held its picnic at Tweed, on Saturday, with a good attendance. Games, bathing, were enjoyed after supper was served by the parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laughbeer on a week's holiday to the north. Combining home by Toronto, they spent a couple of days with the former's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Finkle and son, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrioch spent the weekend at the cottage of their son, Mr. Don Garrioch, at the Cox Lake, Thalia area north. Combining home by Foxboro, they spent a couple of days at the cottage on Sunday afternoon and spent the tea hour together.

Mr. Don Kelly's new home here, that he is building, is progressing rapidly. They expect to move to their new home by August 1st.

Balsam Tree Sinks in Well

PERTH, Ont. (CP)—A startled Mrs. Richard Mills stood on her front porch and watched a 60-foot balsam tree sink part way into the ground.

As the tree went slowly down, water gushed up over her lawn.

Officials of this town 65 miles south of Ottawa said Monday the tree had grown over a logged-over well used by firefighting in pre-waterworks days.

Town workmen removed the tree and pumped out the hole, which was about 30 feet square and eight feet deep.

SUE HOTEL

NEW YORK (AP) — Singers Eydie Gorme and her husband, Steve Lawrence, have asked $115,000 in damages as a result of a hotel elevator fall. The suits, filed Monday in state supreme court, grew out of a March 23 accident at the Hotel 14. Newy accounts at the time said the elevator skidded 10 floors to the basement.

Mother Taking Bath, Baby Born Under Water

HEYTESBURY, Ireland (AP)—Mrs. Doris Barnett, 34, said today she believes she's the only mother in Britain ever to give birth to a child under water.

"I had been in the water only a few minutes," she explained, "when I realized my baby was being born."

"He ran to my aide," said Mrs. Barnett, "took the child from under the water and handed her to me.

"I lay back in the bath and kept her head above water."

While Mrs. Barnett was doing that, the husband aroused for a neighbor and ran to the telephone.

COMES TO RESCUE

Mrs. Winifred Bray, the neighbor, came to the rescue. She wrapped towels around the baby and mother.

All the while, Mrs. Barnett was lying in two feet of tub water. Nobody thought to pull the plug.

"My husband gave the baby's bottom a slap," explained the mother. "It seemed the thing to do. The baby cried and we knew everything was all right."

The baby was named Helen. She weighed seven pounds.

Mother and child were doing well.

First French-Iroquois Dictionary in 100 Years Being Assembled by Author

GEORGE FRAZIOS

MONTREAL (CP) — Batting out a dictionary in his spare time is no trouble for Robert Hollier. He did it in the spare time left over from the spare time he was using to write a novel.

Hollier's dictionary isn't likely to be snapped up by the average Canadian, but to historians and linguists it could be useful.

It's the first French-Iroquois dictionary in 100 years and the only one that takes account of the changes in the Iroquois tongue since Canada's pioneer days.

Hollier works full-time as director of the French government's tourist bureau in Montreal. By training, this energetic intellectual is a linguist. By preference, he is many more things.

Born 40 years ago in Bone, Algeria, he was studying at the University of Dijon in France when the country fell to the Nazis. He escaped and joined the Free French to fight in Africa, the Middle East, Normandy and Germany.

At 22 he was a captain in the tank corps. By the end of the war he had collected four wounds and the Legion of Honor with three citations.

RAILWAY JOB

Back at the Sorbonne after the war, Hollier devoured as many courses as he could—history, economics, administration, English civilization—and finished with a master's degree in English and Spanish.

Seven years with the French tourist office in Spain whetted his appetite for languages. He practised his Spanish and learned Basque and Catalan. Then to Canada in 1954, he got a PhD at the University of Montreal in general linguistics.

His 25th teaches at the university, in his spare time. He also preparers a weekly TV program, writes articles on language and travel and composes songs, also in his spare time. He has also written two novels and more than 200 plays that have been produced on the CBC's French network.

He conceived the idea of writing a book about the Carignan-Salieres Regiment, sent here by France in 1665 to pacify the Iroquois.

"I thought I should get the Iroquois point of view so I went to the Caughnawaga Indian reservation to get it. I also thought it would be better if I knew their language so I began looking for Iroquois dictionaries and found there was none that was good in the present day. So I thought I would make my own."

PUBLISHES IROQUOIS DICTIONARY

corder he compiled a working vocabulary of 5,000 items. He mentioned this to Prof. Jean-Paul Vinay, head of the U. of Montreal's linguistic bureau. Prof. Vinay told the National Museum of Canada, which promptly bought the manuscript for $1,000.

The dictionary will appear later this year. The novel, Manitouch ou Creve, Carignan, came out in May and is on sale in France and Canada.

The Iroquois language, he says, has survived and grown with the times. Until this century it was being diluted by French, since then English.

The word for sheep, for example, is timouton—an obvious derivation from the French petit mouton.

The modern term television has been absorbed in its English form although there is correct Iroquois for it, oshaskadaka, meaning "the machine that makes images."

Hollier's next project, aside from a novel on modern life in Montreal, is more language research, probably on the more obscure Algonquin dialects such as Abenaki or Montagnais.

"Algonquin in general has been pretty well studied," he says. "But the dialects are not so well known. It like to do something no one has ever done before."

Thousands of Africans Being Moved Back Home

By HENDERSON GALL

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) Over the years, the lure of "big money" has drawn hundreds of thousands of Africans vast distances from their homes in South Africa and its "golden city", Johannesburg. Now they are in trouble.

Late last year, the government decided that it would repatriate as many as possible of the estimated 1,000,000 "foreign natives" here. Many of them have been in South Africa for years, and consider it their home.

Details are still being worked out, but pro-government papers in Johannesburg reported that a "comprehensive campaign" is under way.

Most of the "foreign" Africans come from three British protectorates of Bautoland, Bechuanaland and Swaziland, which border on South Africa, and from Nyasaland, the Rhodesias and Tanganyika.

TWO REASONS

There were believed to be two main reasons for the government's move:

1. To tighten security by preventing Africans from independent or near-independent African states from entering the country.

2. To increase the employment prospects of South Africa's own Negroes.

Last January, officials made the first move, shipping 36 Tanganyikans home at government expense and despite all protests. While officials declared the Africans were leaving voluntarily, the party's spokesman claimed they were being forced to go.

Hundreds of Africans working in good jobs round Johannesburg have been advised by government officials that they must leave the country. Many of them have large families. But they cannot afford to move them hundreds of miles.

CONSIDERS IT HOME

One Nyasa, Norman Phiri, found himself in this dilemma. He said that he was 46 and had been in South Africa for 30 years. "I just made this country my home, and have no future at all in Nyasaland," he explained.

South Africa has a whole battery of legislation which controls the movement of Africans about the country, and particularly in and out of the towns. Influx control and the pass laws provide a tight net for keeping unwanted Africans out of the urban areas.

But the pressures which drive the Africans to the cities is so great that many slip through the net, and start on a shadowy existence outside the law—as the crime rate in Johannesburg demonstrates.

There are hundreds, even thousands of natives scrounging a living on the edge of every city in South Africa.

But still they come, from all over southern Africa to take their chance of a job with good money, in spite of the difficulties and dangers.

Plattsburg Air Force Base, Missile-Launching Pits Did Not Create Boom

By ROY SOUTHWORTH
Plattsburgh Press - Republican
Written for The AP

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — A $100,000,000 U.S. Air Force base and a $50,000,000 - plus, missile - launching complex do not necessarily create an economic boom for a community.

Plattsburgh has both the base and the missile project and is regarded as a depressed area.

Six per cent of the labor force of Clinton County, which grew in population from 50,000 to 70,000 between 1950 and 1960, is unemployed.

County residents are not as disturbed by the possibility of enemy assault on the Strategic Air Command base or the dozen rocket-launching sites as they are by the spectre of unemployment.

"The most depressing problem . . . is the need for diversification of industry," says Dr. Ernst Wiener, professor of social studies at Plattsburgh State University College. "We have unemployed now. What will it be like when the project is finished?"

He referred to the missile pits, the first of which will receive within a few days its deadly Atlas rocket, capable of unleashing a nuclear bomb that could go a quarter of the way around the earth in half an hour.

JOB ENDING

Employment is dwindling on the missile project, which has given jobs to 2,500 persons at its peak and provided a total payroll of $30,000,000.

The thinking has given birth to the Champlain Development Corporation, a non - profit organization with public and private funds. The aim is to attract new industry, particularly from nearby Canada.

Three firms have moved in within the last six months. The corporation is dickering with several others.

A missile project means a boom, but it has both advantages and disadvantages. Here are some of Plattsburgh's experiences:

1. New jobs are created for a limited period, but local residents do not necessarily get all or most of them.

Arthur C. Tilton, Plattsburgh manager of the State Employment Service, said 4,000 workers and their families in the county totalled 4,000 to 5,000 persons and strongly affected retail trade and housing.

MANY OUTSIDERS

"But it doesn't mean jobs for our own people," he explained. "A while ago, the Bechtel Corporation (a prime sub-contractor) laid off about 200 but my office got only 15 or 20 of them looking for jobs. Most of the most probably came here from outside the area and went back home to do job-hunting."

2. A missile project doesn't have any noticeable effect on the wage level.

Karl Schweitzert of Peru, president of the Plattsburgh Building Trades Council says of it: "The labor contracts we sign with the missile contractors are not at all the going rate of pay. If wages are higher in this area than they were three or four years ago, they would have been higher anyway. Most of the missile people had never come here."

3. The project results in an upsurge in job education. Schweitzert considers this the most lasting contribution to the local labor force.

Plumbers, steamfitters and electricians have set up schools to train new technicians, with help from international headquarters. New adult education shop classes at the Peru Central School also have begun.

"This missile project has taught us that a man just can't get a job anywhere unless he has had a high-class education," Schweitzert said.

4. A missile project has direct and indirect effects on the housing industry, but the chief beneficiary probably will be the tourist industry.

BROUGHT TRAILERS

Many blue - collar workers and here with house trailers expect no intention of building homes because their work was temporary. Blue - collar bachelors moved into country hotels and rooming houses in hamlets close to the missile bases, easing pressure on Plattsburgh housing.

But housing facilities in and around Plattsburgh were expanded. An Oklahoma City contractor built a 122-unit, $1,000,000 motel on the main street. A Glens Falls man built a $250,000-motel of 25 cottages at Mooney Point, Lake Champlain, eight miles north of the city. When the Corps of Engineers began working on the missile project move out, the structures will be used for the tourist trade.

Rents have gone up 10 per cent in the last two years, to a point where Bennett Clute, secretary of the Clinton County Real Estate Board, said they were during the airbase boom, which lasted until 1958.

"But I'm not sure that wouldn't have happened anyway, without the missile project," he said. "It's a natural growth area. New families keep forming."

Blind Winnipeg Teen-Ager Wins English, Maths Prizes

By KEN CLARK

WINNIPEG (CP) — A determined blind teen-ager has confounded official scepticism to become a top student at a Winnipeg high school.

Lawrence Hyschuk, 16, schooled at Sister High but fall and now says going to a regular school is "easier than I anticipated."

The lanky, fair-haired youth has become an award-winning student in English and mathematics. He got top marks among the boys in these subjects in his Grade 11 class.

He won a school merit award and the Institute of Chartered Accountants prize for his performance.

In a province - wide math competition among high school students he placed 13th in a field of 500.

School authorities admit they had their doubts about allowing Lawrence to enrol. Although poised and well-spoken, he had been blind since the age of two because of cataract growths.

Principal John Fraser said he was slightly upbeat at the prospect but all that is changed now. Lawrence is an amazing boy, he said. "He is so independent. He hates having people fuss over him."

CAME FROM ONTARIO

G. T. MacDonell, assistant school superintendent, said the whole thing has proved to be a successful experiment.

"He is a very exceptional boy. If it hadn't been for his outstanding academic ability we wouldn't have agreed to enrol him."

Before enrolling at Sister, Lawrence spent six years at the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford. He said he decided to switch in order to complete his education at a school with higher standards and also to get closer to his Winnipeg home.

In mathematics classes, a student sitting beside him is permitted to tell him what is being written on the blackboard. He writes his homework in braille and they're typed out for marking. Or on occasion he may dictate answers to a teacher.

He studied an average of three hours a night using braille textbooks and listening to tapped recordings of texts.

Last October he found he was having difficulty with French authors because of the lack of textbooks in braille. There was nobody at home to read to him so he got school approval to switch to physics. Two months later he got the highest mark in the class in the subject.

ENTOMBED CHARIOT

A chariot and skeletons of four horses were found with human remains in a tomb at ancient Salamis on Cyprus, believed dating from the 8th century BC.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Miss Brenda Peterson is spending the week in Belleville with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wadsworth.

Miss Margo Reid is holidaying with her aunt, Mrs. Lorne Organ.

Mrs. W. Jeffery was a visitor last week of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Sickle.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Houghton of London, England, are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. William Yeates.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Annesley and family were Sunday dinner guests of her sister, Mrs. George Diamond, Mr. Diamond and Jeff.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Westfall and Miss Betty Westfall were Saturday evening visitors in Clayton, New York, of their cousin, Mrs. Harry Patterson, whose husband's funeral service will be held on Monday. Mrs. Westfall and Miss Betty Westfall will attend the service.

Miss Janet Lamb of Toronto, is holidaying with her cousin, Miss Lynn Foster.

Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. George Hillman, Mrs. Albert Jones, Mrs. William Jeffery assisted Mrs. William Yeatman with a quilting on Thursday.

Mrs. George Hillman was soloist at the morning service at White's Church contributing "All I Need," with Mrs. W. Jeffery at the piano. In the Sunday School service, Mrs. A. Jones, temperance superintendent, was in charge of a short program. The junior choir contributed a number.

A baptismal service for Jeffrey Thomas Diamond, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Diamond, was held.

Master Gary Millar is spending the summer months with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock and uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sandercock, assisting on the farm.

Mrs. Ross Sickle had the misfortune to sever the end of a finger on a hay elevator which necessitated a grafting operation.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Larsen were Thursday visitors in Ottawa.

Play Tonight In Rochester

All-Stars Versus Birds

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The International League all-stars go after their fourth straight victory over major league opposition tonight when they tangle with Baltimore Orioles in the 15 seventh annual all-star game.

A sellout crowd of more than 15,000 is expected.

Right-hander Robin Roberts, one of baseball's veterans, is expected to start for the American League Orioles. He will probably be opposed by Columbus lefthander Don Rowe.

Frank Herrera, Buffalo's hard-hitting first baseman, may be replaced by Rochester's Lobe Easter because of an injury. The rest of the all-star infield has Atlanta's Phil Gagliano at second base, Toronto's Steve Demeter at third and Terry Martinez of Jacksonville Suns at shortstop. Phil Lopata of Buffalo will be behind the plate.

Two all-stars, Davalillo and Easter, warmed up Tuesday night with home runs in winning causes.

Davalillo's homer drove Atlanta starter Dick Gregory from the mound and helped in a 7-3 Jacksonville win over the Crackers. The victory stretched Jacksonville's league lead to 9½ games as the second - place Leafs dropped a 3-2 decision to Syracuse Chiefs in 10 innings. The winning run scored for the Chiefs on a balk by Toronto relief pitcher Ron Piche of Verdun, Que.,

Easter's two - run homer evened a game between Rochester and Buffalo. The Wings broke the game open with five runs in the 10th inning for a 9-4 victory.

Columbus got a doubleheader victory over Richmond Virginians 7-6 afld 4-2. A three-run homer by Johnny Powers was the big blow in the first game. Bob (Hoverbout) Smith pitched a three hitter in the second game.

WILL MISS GAME

TORONTO (CP) — Steve Ridzik, Toronto Maple Leafs pitcher who was picked for tonight's International League all-star game against Baltimore Orioles in Rochester, N.Y., won't make the trip. Leafs announced Tuesday that Ridzik has pulled a muscle in his side and has been replaced on the all - star squad by teammate Carl Greene.

Sara Barber Tries Comeback

Mermaid Eyes Australia

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sara Barber, at 21 an old woman in terms of today's swimming champions, is seeking another trip to Australia where she competed in the 1956 Olympic Games.

The Brantford mermaid will get the trip if she can fight off the youngsters and catch the eye of the British Empire Games team selectors at the Canadian swimming and diving championships opening today.

At least 70 and possibly 12 individuals will be named to represent Canada in swimming and diving at the Games in Perth Nov. 30-Dec. 1.

Miss Barber will be among more than 100 from across Canada seeking berths at the meet. She is making a comeback after being out of competition since the 1960 Rome Olympics.

"This year, for the first time, there are some good backstrokers entered," she said on the eve of the championships.

Miss Barber had the backstroke field in Canada almost to herself in the previous seven years when she won selection to Canadian teams for the 1954 and 1958 Empire Games, the 1955 and 1959 Pan-American Games and the 1956 and 1960 Olympics.

SITUATION CHANGED

She faces tough competition in her favorite stroke from Mary Stewart of Vancouver, world record-holder in the 110-yard butterfly, and Donna Carlin of Montreal, both 16.

That age bracket—14 to 16 years — dominates the world swimming scene today, a fact that Miss Barber says makes her feel somewhat ancient when she's around the pool.

Asked why, in view of this, she chose to come out of retirement, she said:

"I'm not ready to quit, though I was after Rome, but I've changed my mind. I was pretty discouraged after Rome. I guess I was bitter. But I'm not any more."

An arts student majoring in psychology at the University of Toronto where she will complete her degree next year, she came to Vancouver in mid-May to begin concentrated training for championships.

NOT SATISFIED

She has been swimming two hours a day, six days a week and running two to three miles daily around a golf course here to get back in swimming trim, but she says her times aren't back to her best.

Immediately after the national championships she will work during the summer at a children's summer camp in Ontario.

Miss Barber said she will compete in the freestyle and individual medley races here, but hopes for team selection rest primarily on the backstroke.

Soccer Secretary Suspended

TORONTO (CP) — Angelo Serrentino, secretary of two soccer teams in Toronto - area leagues, has been suspended for one year from organized soccer for faking player transfer forms.

The suspension was announced Tuesday at the conclusion of a five-hour meeting of the Toronto and District Soccer Association, which also fined one of the clubs $100.

Serrentino doubles as secretary of Italians in the Ontario National Soccer League and Pascino of the Toronto and District League. Pascino handed him guilty of faking transfer forms of two players from Abruzzi, another Toronto-area team, to Paschino.

Abruzzi lodged the protest against Paschino because the association felt officials aided Serrentino in the deal.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Wise Command, 8, Belmont mainstay finishing second and trained by Lou Lear of Calgary, raised his season's earnings to $29,355 when he won the Seagram race at Woodbine Tuesday. Wise Command defeated Windy Ship by one - half length. Prompt Hero was third.

Wise Command ran the 1 1-16 miles over the grass course in 1.44 4-5, paid $4.30 straight and combined with Windy Ship for a quinella of $10.20.

Round the Horn, Conn Smythe's good two - year - old colt, made his first start in more than two months and was an easy winner of the fifth race. Round the Horn ran five furlongs in 58 2-5 seconds.

Clara Bow Lapses Back Into Her Secluded Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A wave, a faint smile from the cupid's bow lips, and Clara Bow lapsed back into the secluded life that has enveloped her for a dozen years.

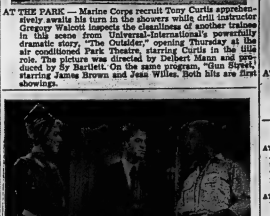
She emerged Monday to attend the funeral of Rex Bell, whom she married in 1931 when both were screen stars. After the services, she returned to the high-ceiling Beverly Hills estate where she has lived quietly for the last seven years.

Before that, she was in a sanitarium in Culver City, trying to conquer a nervous condition that plagued her as a result of longtime insomnia.

"Clara always had trouble sleeping," recalls her onetime leading man and still a friend, Richard Arlen. "I made five or six pictures with her back in those flamboyant days and I remember doing a lot of work at night."

Clara, who had been the symbol of the flaming youth in the 1920's, retired shortly after her marriage. She made a couple of pictures in the 1930s but wasn't happy. She retired once and for all to devote her to Mrs. Rex Bell and mother of their two sons.

But sleep still eluded her. Bell attributed her trouble to the high-strung days when she was the nation's "It Girl."



Since proper facilities were not near her home, she moved back to California while he remained behind. Bell said he and the sons visited her often.

Her oldtime pals from the studio days get handwritten Christmas cards from her every year, but their requests to visit her are politely turned down.

One thing is certain from having viewed her this week: That old Bow magic is still there. At 56, she is still a looker.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Eleanor Parker, Dana Andrews and Eddie Albert in a moment of crisis in "Madison Avenue," fast-paced drama of love and intrigue in the power-hungry canyons of New York's Fifth Avenue. Also starring Jeanne Crain, the 20th Century-Fox CinemaScope production closes tonight at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. 2nd action-packed feature is "Konga," filmed in color and features Michael Gough and Margo Johns.

AT THE BELLE — Elvis Presley sings five new songs, homesteads a strip of land in present-day Florida, and route a pair of 20th-Century outlaws in "Follow That Dream," his latest comedy, in Color and Panavision, opening today at the Belle Theatre. Anne Helm, Arthur O'Connell, Pam Ogles and Jack Kruschen are co-starred.

First To Swim Channel Under Water

DEAL, England (AP)—Fred Baldzasare of Cape Canaveral, Fla., battling stiff tides which at times held him to a standstill, was reported to have reached the English shore at Folkestone early today, the first person to swim the English channel under water.

Baldzasare, 38, used an underwater breathing apparatus and swam 20 feet under the surface. He carried lead weights to keep him down and was guided by an underwater marked towed by trawler. A relay of French frogmen changed his air tanks during the crossing.

Alouettes Like Connor

JOLIETTE, Que. (CP) — At 22, home-bred quarterback Cal Connor looks like a real find.

No one will say so officially but it appears the grey-eyed blonde youngster from Berthier, Ont., has won a job with Montreal Alouettes this season. His work has been one of the features of the club's training camp in this community 35 miles northeast of Montreal.

Coach Perry Moss won't commit himself outright at this stage of the pre-season camp but it's apparent he plans to work Connor into the lineup as a supporting quarterback.

"All he needs is experience," says Perry.

Connor is an outspoken young man with an engaging grin whom the Als plucked from Queen's University, Kingston, in the off - season intercollegiate draft.

Upsets In Women's Golf

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Ed (Izzie) Creed scored a stunning upset over fellow Torontonian Kay Hefferon in the first round of match play for the 47th annual Ontario ladies' golf championships.

The young mother of five, who began concentrating on golf five years ago, advanced into the quarter-finals by defeating Miss Hefferon 4 and 3 Tuesday.

Miss Hefferon, twice a finalist in the last three years, was one of three medallists ousted in the opening round. Mrs. S. J. Dalrymple of St. Catharines and Mrs. Barney Morris of Toronto, who tied Miss Hefferon with 84's Monday, were both beaten.

Mrs. Morris was beaten on the 19th hole by Mrs. J. H. McCarter of Toronto. Mrs. Dalrymple lost 3 and 1 to Mrs. J. C. Whitelaw of Toronto.

Two of the four juniors who made the championship flight eliminated the other two. Defending Ontario junior champion Sue Hilson, 18, of London, had defeated Sandra Post, 14, of Trafalgar 3 and 2, while Scarborough's Gail Harvey, 18, 1960 Ontario ladies' champion, ousted Susan Penrose, 16, of Windsor Beach Grove 6 and 5.

First flight results included: Lesley Bull, Oakville, defeated Mrs. C. E. English, Midland, 2 and 1; Mrs. T. Nonnedorf, Toronto, defeated Mrs. H. E. Smith, Barrie, 2 and 1; Mrs. Linda Deeton, Toronto, defeated Mrs. J. Ough, Barrie, 5 and 4; Mrs. N. Marchment, Georgetown, defeated Mrs. Patricia Culhane, Napanee, 4 and 2.

Race Driver Found Shot To Death

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—Pioneer auto race driver Tommy Milton, 68, the first to win the Indianapolis 500-mile race twice, was found shot to death Tuesday at his home near Mount Clemens.

Macomb County sheriff's officers said there were two bullet wounds in Milton's chest, apparently from a .22-calibre pistol found beside his bed. Milton had been in poor health since suffering a heart attack several months ago.

The body was taken to hospital in Mount Clemens for an autopsy to determine whether it was suicide.

Milton lived with his brother Homer in a $100,000 mansion at the mouth of the Clinton River.

Homer Milton said his brother had made funeral arrangements for Friday of this week.

In his racing career from 1913 to 1925, Milton won more than $500,000 in prizes and competed in every phase of the sport—on brick, on the boards, on dirt tracks, in road races and in straightaway speed trials. At one time he held 30 titles.

He won the Memorial Day race in Indianapolis in 1921 and 1923.

Palmer Chip Away From Loot Record

Palmer's earnings stand where they did last week at $70,236, according to the list of top money-winners released by the Professional Golfers Association. His record was set in 1960 when he earned $75,262.

Looks Like McDougall For Argos

TORONTO (CP) — Managing director Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts is "optimistic" that halfback Gerry McDougall will line up with the Eastern Football Conference team this year.

Hayman's comments were made Tuesday after McDougall informed him in a telephone conversation from Hamilton that he had only one factor of h.s family problems to clear up before signing. He said he hoped to do this today.

McDougall, 27, with Hamilton Tiger-Cats the last five years, was traded recently to the Argonauts for backfielder Bobby Kuntz. Kuntz signed with the Tiger-Cats but McDougall, who earlier told Hamilton he wouldn't be around for the 1962 season for personal reasons, has been mulling things over.

Hayman and the former University of California at Los Angeles star are to meet again Thursday morning.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo H. Carver, Sports Editor

This is the night almost anything—baseball-wise—can happen at the Fair Grounds.

Tonight is the night of the invasion of the Kingston senior baseball squad which will take on the Kenmore in the game that was not supposed to materialize.

The four Big F's of the Limestone Saddbucks will be on hand and you can add another "F" for pyrotechnics if, according to Kingston standards, the officials do not assume Jesse James' roles.

The four Big "Fs" in the pod are the Pettitt Freres, Tony and Tommy; one Charles Pestor and the top brass man, Frank Paige, who announces to all and sundry from the figurative dugout housetop what he thinks of Belleville officiating.

After the last clash of the Kingston-Kenmore clubs, when one former boy "Tony" developed a set of goat's horns by dropping a game-losing third strike, Mr. Paige blasted off to the effect his team would not play here again under similar arbiting circumstances.

Tut, tut, Mr. Paige, you exercised your managerial prerogative by blasting off at the officials, right or wrong, but you can scarcely blame them if your catcher and infielders stand around and let pop flies plunk into the greensward all around them. Why another foot or two and any of those fellas might have gone home with cranial contusions.

In ady event the immediate past may be forgiven if not forgotten, and Mr. Paige and his squad will be here tonight to battle the Kenmies for the Lakeshore Baseball League's senior division top slot.

Both have six victories to their credit but Kingston has played two more games—and lost both of them. Their record at the moment is 6-4 with the Kenmors enjoying a 6-2 mark.

It seems at the moment that the Peterborough Fannings, who developed a more or less elongated losing streak at the hands of the "K" squads, suddenly turned on their erstwhile conquerers, mixed some clutch clouting with adventurous enemy bobbles, and sent the leaders down to defeat.

They nosed out the Kenmore 5-4 by a bare whisker and on Sunday last turned in a sterling defensive effort while watching the Paige-boys kick the ball around seven times, to bost them by a 7-4 score.

Bill Crowley's Liftlockers now have three wins and six defeats on the books for six points and have proven they are opportunists if the opposition gets careless and starts to turn the game into a croquet exhibition.

It is not known at this writing who will get the starting assignment for the Kingston crew. The big boy, Charles Foster, has hurled a couple of two-hitters and a three-hitter for a 3-2 record while Joe Kolowies turned a fine fiver against Port Hope last Saturday for my victory.

Manager Ken Seden said this morning that Larry Seden would get the pitching nod against the Limestoners tonight. Larry is the top hurler of the league to date with three wins and one defeat and if he is at peak form the Kingston sluggers may be in for trouble.

The old Kingston-Belleville baseball rivalry blazed anew when the teams met here the last time and the officiating at that time didn't exactly create any Alphonse-Gaston situation.

In fact the Kingston mentor took the matter to Ontario Baseball Association president Jack Carson, with long and prolonged emphasis on the "double-play" call at first base that sent two Kingston runners to the dugout.

A lot of this umpires' wailing depends on whose diamond ox is being gored. Paige was serious when he said he would not bring his club back here on account of the Belleville official, but on the other side of the picture Kenmore' mentors say that Paige could do a little housecleaning himself as far as local officiating is concerned.

So it should be quite a battle tonight. The squads are in there battling for the league's top spot, thanks to the points and not percentage system. So dpn't miss it. Anything can happen.

Stan The Man Starts Rally

By JOE REICHLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Second-guessers were questioning manager Ralph Houk's early removal of the starting players in the American League's 3-1 all-star loss to the National League and wondered today whether he would employ the same tactics in the second mid - summer meeting in Chicago's Wrigley Field July 30.

Houk's questioned strategy took place in the seventh inning Tuesday when he took Roger Maris, along with three others, out of the lineup and replaced last year's home run king with Chicago's Jim Landis in centre field.

As a result, Landis, a less distinguished long ball hitter, came to bat in the eighth with a man on base and two out. A Maris home run would have tied the game, Landis struck out.

"I thought six innings was about right for Maris," Houk explained in the losers' dressing room later. "I wanted everybody to play."

CAME CLOSE

Don Drysdale, the National League starter, struck out Maris in his first time at bat but the major league home run king nearly knocked the ball out of the park in each of his next two times at bat. Facing Juan Marichal in the fourth, he drove Willie Mays to the centre field fence for his 400-foot drive. In the sixth, with Bob Purkey on the mound, Mays made a spectacular catch of Roger's bid for a three-run homer. Wondrous Willie crashed into the fence in deepest right centre as he made the leaping catch, his glove reaching above the eight-foot fence.

Rich Rollins, who had singled and gone to third on Billy Moran's single, scampered home after the catch for the Americans' only run. Bob Shaw held them to one hit in the last two innings.

Mays, the defensive star of the game shared hero-honors with Stan Musial and Maury Wills, the mercury-footed shortstop who hails from the nation's capital.

Mays didn't get a bit but he was tremendous afield. Besides his long runs to haul down blasts by Maris, he cut off a potential run with a fine play on Moran's long single to left centre in the sixth, and closed the game with a catch of Lula Apodaca's smash to the fence in deep right centre.

STARTS RALLY

Musial, who watched Drysdale and Whitnal at the National and Jim Bunning and Pascual of the Americans pitch scoreless ball through five innings, came off the bench in the sixth and slashed a pinch - hit single to ignite a two-run rally. It was the 30th hit in the 22nd all - star game for the great St. Louis Cardinal.

Wills, sent in to run for Musial, gave the American League the first taste of his famed speed by stealing second, then scored the first run of the game on Dick Groat's single. Groat advanced to second on Roberto Clemente's third hit, a single to left, reached third on Mays' fly to deep centre and scored on Orlando Cepeda's infield out.

Still Wills was not finished. When Felipe Alou fouled out to Colavito, playing left field, Wills tagged up and scored, giving him a run batted in. Catcher John Romano's tag.

MARICHAL WINS

Marichal, a San Francisco right-handed pitcher, was the winner. He succeeded Drysdale, who gave up one hit in the first three ruinless innings, and permitted only a walk in the next two innings.

The loss was charged to Pascual, who allowed four hits and two runs in his three - inning stint. Donovan gave up two more hits and the final run in his two innings. Bunning stretched his all - star ruuless string to eight consecutive innings, giving up one hit, a double by Clemente in the first. Milt Pappas finished up, retiring three straight batters in the ninth.

The crowd of 43,480 which jammed the new D. C. Stadium witnessed the second National League triumph in three all-star games in Washington. The Americans won in 1937 and the Nationals in 1956.

Each manager used 19 of his 25 players. Aside 9rom pitchers, only Richie Ashburn of New York and John Roseboro of Los Angles in the National and Elston Howard and Tom Tresh of New York in the American did not see action.

Out pitching was good all the way," said National League manager Fred Hutchinson, "but in the final analysis, it was Willie's legs that won it for us."

It was the Nationals' 11th victory in the last 12 games but the American still leads in the overall series, 16 to 13 with one tie.

And Casey Had A Field Day

Ball Fan Kennedy Musial Rooter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball's elder statesman, Stan Musial, triggered the winning rally for the National League in the 32nd annual all star game with a pinch-hit single.

When told of the president's cheers after the game, Musial reporters in on what he and the president talked about in their meeting just before Tuesday's game.

"When I shook hands with him before the game today," Musial said, "he was telling everybody what a good job of campaigning I did for him.

"I reminded him of the time we first met. It was Milwaukee in the summer of 1960. He was shook hands, he said, 'They tell me you're too old to play ball and I'm too young to run for president. I have a hunch we'll both fool 'em.'

"The president remembered all right," Musial said, "and he laughed when I added, 'and I think we're both doing a good job.'"

The capacity crowd of 45,480 at D. C. Stadium gave Musial an ovation before and after the hit. The National League scored two runs in the sixth inning after Musial's pinch-hit single and went on to win 3-1.

Over in the American League dressing room, manager Ralph Houk thought pitching was the key to the game, but added that it always is "when you get this kind of pitching. Those guys are really pitchers, on both sides."

Leon Wagner of Los Angeles, Fred Hutchinson of Cincinnati, leading homer hitting in the American League with 25, disagreed.

"The pitching wasn't that good," he said. "None of them was over-powering. I just hit the ball at somebody all day."

STENGEL HAS FUN

Casey Stengel may have had the best time of anybody at the game. The former New York Yankees manager now managing the last-place New York Mets, was American League manager in 10 all - star games. Monday he coached at first base for National League manager Fred Hutchinson of Cincinnati.

Toward the end of the game, Stengel said American League president Joe Cronin summoned him to Kennedy's box.

"I shook hands with the president but then I told him I'm working for Mr. Hutchinson and I had to get out on the line, so I left," Stengel said. He added:

"I really enjoyed the game. Of course, I was handicapped all day by the players coming up and trying to get on my Mets. They tell me I did all right as a coach, too. Maybe I can work my way around to third - base coach soon."

'Move Of A Snake'

Wills Threat To Ty Cobb

By JACK HAND

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maury Wills convinced doubting baseball fans that his blinding speed is a long-shot threat to Ty Cobb's base-stealing record.

The fleet Los Angeles Dodger shortstop stole a base and scored the first run in the National League's 3-1 victory over the American League in Tuesday's all-star game and impressed one and all with dashing base running.

When Rocky Colavito of Detroit Tigers fielded a single by Jim Davenport of San Francisco Giants in the eighth inning and threw behind Wills, apparently trapping him between second and third, Wills shifted into high gear and beat the relay to third base. Seconds later he sped home on a foul fly to short right field.

Manager Casey Stengel, whose New York Mets have been made aware of Wills' speed all season, said he wasn't surprised.

"He's got the move of a snake when he slides," said 72-year-old Case, who spent the day on his feet coaching at first base. GOES OUT TOO

When a reporter asked Wills why he would risk injury with a headline play in a game that didn't count in the pennant race, Maury said: "I don't think they would have asked me to play if they didn't think I'd go all out."

Wills made the big time only after Detroit, aching for a shortstop, passed him up and returned him to Spokane, Wash., in 1959. He starred with the pennant-bound Dodgers in 1959 and led the league with 50 stolen bases in 1960 and 35 in 1961.

Wills has stolen 46 bases for the league-leading Dodgers in 89 games this year. With 51 games to go in the regular schedule he has a fair chance of beating Cobb's modern major league mark of 96 set in 1915. He has a better chance of topping the National League mark of 80 set by Bob Bescher of Cincinnati Reds in 1911.

"Speed is not enough to be an efficient base stealer," Wills said. "I have to study the pitchers moves and learn to get a good jump. Base stealing is something you have to work on and hard.

British Open U.S., Australia Battle

TROON, Scotland (AP)—The 1962 British Open championship, one of the real prizes of golf, opened today in an atmosphere suggesting it was a match between the United States and Australia.

With the ever dangerous qualifying rounds behind them, the big galleries of modern golf took on Old Troon's 7,045 - yard, par-72 layout in search of glory which by American standards is about all they get out of it. First prize is only £1,400 pounds ($3,920) but as defending champion Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., said:

"You can break even on expenses but the point is this is a matter of prestige. That is why I come here and my wife and I also enjoy the trip."

Palmer led a contingent of eight Americans into the championship as a 2-1 favorite to retain the crown. He had to contend with Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., who qualified with 142 against Palmer's 143, old Sam Snead, U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus and Gene Littler.

There were Kel Nagle, who won the 1960 title at St. Andrews, beating Palmer by one shot, Bruce Devlin, an amateur turned professional who was the key to Australia's defeat of the United States in the Eisenhower World Cup play at St. Andrews in 1960, and the "reliable Peter Thompson, four times British Open king.

Nagle served notice in the qualifying rounds he is to be reckoned with by breaking the Lochgreen course record with a 67 and tacking on a 76 at Troon for 143.

After today's 18 holes and Thursday's repeat, the field of 119 qualifiers will be reduced to the low 50. They go the final 36-hole route Friday.

WINS 17TH LEG

ANTIBES, France (AP) — Rudi Altig of West Germany Tuesday won the 17th stage of the 22-day Tour de France bicycle race for professionals, a 201-kilometre (125 - mile) run from Aix-en-Provence to Antibes. He was timed in five hours, 27 minutes, 26 seconds. Joseph Planckaert of Belgium held onto the yellow jersey symbolic of over-all leadership.

Joyces Defeat Flyers

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

Joyce Real Estate took a stranglehold on their second straight B. and D. softball league title last night when they defeated the second-place RCAF Flyers 6-4 at the Fairgrounds.

The clubs meet at Trenton tonight at eight and the Flyers must win to stay within range. Joyce are eight points up and the league schedule ends July 19.

Joyces built a 5-1 lead after five frames last night but the RCAF roared back with three runs in the top of the eighth. The victors added an insurance marker in the bottom of the eighth to wrap it up.

Veteran pitcher Pat Maracle ran his season record to 5-0 in a duel with Mike Ratushniak. Maracle gave up six hits, while striking out 11. He walked a pair.

Ratushniak allowed five hits, whiffing four and also walking two. It was his second loss of the year, both to Joyces.

A bit batter and a couple of wild pitches gave Joyces a brief 1-0 lead in the first inning. The Flyers tied it when Cole doubled in the second and scored on an overthrow.

Joyces got their first hit in the fourth when they scored three 3-1. Kingston's double and an error put two on. Davis hit a ball in the left field foul area, one run scoring after Cole made the catch and the other coming in when Cole's hurried throw went into the dirt.

The Flyers missed a great chance in their half of the inning when they loaded the bases with none out. Maracle bore down to get the next three men.

Maracle helped his own cause in the fifth when he led off with a base hit. Ted Batchelor promptly tagged a long home run to make it a 5-1 lead.

In the eighth Drake beat out a roller to ignite the rally. Alexander singled and Drake scored all the way from second as a passed ball before Don Cole blasted a long home run. Cole led to 5-4.

Carr singled in the bottom of the inning and rode home later on Faulkner's base knock to close the scoring.

Ted Batchelor pitched and Chuck Kingston doubled and Don Cole had singles to account for the Joyce safeties.

Now They Can See Everything

CHICAGO (AP) — Two harness racing mares were fitted for eye glasses at Sportsman's Park Tuesday and there wasn't a horse laugh in the place.

Dr. Irving P. Pelser, an optometrist, examined the eyes of Calico Agnes and Gladys Vole with a retinoscope and made eye glass prescriptions.

Said Pelser:

"In the case of racing horses, glasses might be good for several reasons. Most horses are hyperopic or farsighted. Glasses also would reduce troublesome glare (such as in night harness racing) by use of tinted lenses. They also could protect the animal's eyes from mud on a wet track."

The glasses are cup-like and are strapped on.

OILERS START

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A squad of 48 players, including 40 rookies, report to coach Frank (Pop) Ivy today as the champion Houston Oilers of the American Football League start preparations for fall training.

Ivy was a successful head coach with Edmonton Eskimos of Canada's Western Conference before becoming coach of St. Louis Cardinals of the National League. That job failed to last when the Cardinals couldn't get off the ground last season.

Bout 'Unsatisfactory'

Williams, Machen Draw

HOUSTON, Tex. (CP)—Eddie Machen and Cleveland Williams, each with high hopes of a heavyweight championship right ruined their chances for the time being with an unsatisfactory and cautious 10-round draw Tuesday night.

Machen, rated No. 2, and Williams, ranked No. 5, battled to the stalemate before a crowd of 10,000 that appeared to see a hard-hitting, vicious bout.

Machen weighed 198 pounds, Williams 215½.

The fighters agreed they were not satisfied with their showings. "I want a rematch, Machen said.

"I'd like a rematch: I think I can beat him," said Williams.

There were no knockdowns. Machen was unmarked while Williams had a mouse over his right eye and a cut on the mouth.

CALL OFF ROMANCE

LONDON (AP) — Christine Truman, one of England's better tennis players, lost in her most major matches this year, said Tuesday she had broken her engagement to Jeremy Bates, 28 - year - old dental lecturer. They were to have been married this fall.

Reide's Defeat Pepsi's 3-0

Reide's Excavating took an early 3-0 lead and went on to defeat Pepsi's in CNRA Park last night.

The winners plated two in the first and single runs in the second, fifth and seventh frames while Pepsi's scored both markers in the fifth.

Bob Swan worked the first five innings in defeat with Joe Harvey finishing up. They gave up five hits, fanned five and walked a pair.

Patterson sparked the Excavators at the plate with a home run and a single. Davis collected two singles and Bradley Lee a double.

Reide's	210 010 1—5 7 2
Pepsi's	000 020 0—2 4 3

Batteries: Howard and Lee; Swan, Harvey (6) and Moon.

In an exhibition game in Trenton last night Lightfoots Construction topped Trenton Weiss Motors 13-4.

Lands Big Muskie While Bridge Fishing

It was a case of "the mountain coming to Mahomet" when Mr. Arlie Sickle, of 4 Fourth Street, went fishing with his 15-year-old son, Ian, on Monday night.

Mr. Sickle landed himself a 28-pound muskie measuring three feet and a half long, while still fishing from a bridge north of Marmora.

It drove young Ian's gear travel up and down enemy a river and bay in a boat without even sighting a muskie!

Mr. Sickle was using a June bug and a worm when he made his prize catch.

WINS FILLY TITLE

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Dingle Dey, romping as part of a long-shot entry, won the three-year-old filly championship of Hollywood Park with a head victory in the $50,850 Hollywood Oaks Tuesday. Wish a Wait was second and Table Mate third in the field of 11.

Dingle Dey, trained by Johnny Longden, ran the 1½ miles in 2:28.4. With her running mate, Naa-Shabal, she returned $37.20, $13.80 and $8.60. Her victory was worth $34,150 to owner Howard S. Keck.

Wish a Wait paid $10.20 and $8.20 and Table Mate $5.60.

Social Credit Going All Out In Stormont

CORNWALL (CP) — Social Credit is going all out in the Stormont "prestige" election to maintain the momentum that carried the party to its successes in the June 18 federal general election.

It was in the French-speaking province of Quebec that Social Credit scored its greatest triumphs in last month's election, winning 26 of its 30 seats there.

Balloting in Stormont was deferred because of the death June 8 of Liberal candidate Albert Lavigne. A new Liberal standard bearer, Lucien Lamoureux, has since been nominated.

CONCEDED FEW VOTES

Before Social Credit's surprising show of strength in the June 18 balloting, the party was not considered an important threat in Stormont. Political observers conceded the party a few hundred votes at the outside.

It did not even have a committee room established for the riding. Its effort in the abbreviated campaign suspended with the death of Mr. Lavigne was virtually non-existent.

The outcome of last month's voting brought the riding organization to life.

Now the party is working hard to make up for lost time and build up its candidate, Melvin Rowat, identified in Social Credit campaign literature as an economist.

Thursday night, Mr. Caouette and National Leader Robert Thompson will speak at a Social Credit rally here.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

Thursday, July 12

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Put cards on table. Play no pretending games. Let others know you have power, assets, determination. Otherwise, there will be those who attempt to control your activities.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Greatest fault today is "running yourself down". This applies literally and figuratively. Face facts as they exist. Be willing to wait. Let caution be key word.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Details must be attended to no matter what temptations present themselves. If you are superficial, you block your own success. If you're thorough, efforts bring profits.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Yes, harmony seems to prevail, following days of tension. Make amends to those you may have offended during "tense" days. Tonight, excellent for romance, theatre, relaxation.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Desire to be "liked" could put you so far out of bounds that you have offended during "tense" days. Tonight, excellent for romance, theatre, relaxation.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Much in your favor if only you will realize it. Tendency is toward self-pity. But, be constructive, analyze needs, desires, and resolve to present your best side.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Financial matters remain in spotlight. Today you should be able to arrive at proper decision with regard to finances. Be practical, accept responsibility. Be "big" in all ways.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — Moon in your Solar sign means stress on personality, independence. Your influence can spread joy! Avoid one who attempts to discourage you. Key word is generosity.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Be willing to gamble on your abilities. No time for false modesty. Check sources. Make sure you know the facts. Then act with assurance, confidence. You will win!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Today's answer does not lie in excess caution. Friends who encourage you should be thanked, appreciated. Come out of "shell". Tonight relax, be friendly.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — To brood over recent indiscretion is a waste of day. Let the past be the past. Look toward the future. Live today and let yesterday blend into the past.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Favorable lunar aspect today means aspirations are within "reach". Give a little extra and you might receive a surprise. Check details, finish job at hand. Relax tonight.

If today is your birthday . . . year for new starts, meeting new people, breaking from past. You are restless, emotional, and your saving grace is sense of humor!

General Tendencies: Emotion-charged day, with cycle up for Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn. Women dominate news. Prominent women could make decision to enter national politics.

Cavalcade Asks Suspension Of Medical Insurance Act

By SCOTT SCHELL

REGINA (CP) — The third province - wide motor caval-cade was due at the legislature building at 2 p.m. today with the strongest message yet.

Deputy Police Chief Tennes Lyttle said he expected 10,000 persons at the legislature grounds. An estimated 500 persons attended each of the first two rallies, held the first two weeks in June.

The cavalcade today is backed by businessmen and city and town councils throughout the province. It seeks suspension of the Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Act that went into operation July 1, resulting in withdrawal of normal medical service by most of the 700 practising doctors in the province.

The first two cavalcades, numbering 112 and 300 cars respectively, sought by petition to delay the plan until agreement between the government and the doctors could be reached.

This one "demands" suspension of the act, followed by a turn of the doctors to normal practice. If the government does not suspend the act, the Keep - Our - Doctors Committee seeks dissolution of the legislature and a general election.

SUPPORT PLAN

Labor groups, which under the Saskatchewan Federation of Labor have supported the government's compulsory medical care plan, are not planning any counter demonstrations.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd refused to meet the June 25 cavalcade, but did meet the cavalcade two weeks earlier when he urged calmness and asked the doctors to give the medical care plan a trial.

Mr. Lloyd will not meet the cavalcade today, but said he would meet the KDO executive. The KDO last night asked to meet the premier or cabinet.

Deputy Chief Lyttle said Tuesday night he would have room for 1,000 cars in case of violence, but he didn't expect any trouble.

SASKATOON (CP)—The Saskatoon Keep - Our - Doctors Committee put finishing touches Tuesday night on plans for a giant protest motor cavalcade to Regina.

Organizers claimed at least 700 cars will assemble at 9 a.m. today to embark on the 167-mile drive south to the provincial capital.

There the provincial Keep-Our-Doctors Committee planned a demonstration on the legislative building grounds to protest the government's keeping the Medical Care Insurance Act in force.

Selling Flying Squirrels Profitable for Young Texan

He sells them for pets.

Curtis Sterling, 22 - year - old outdoorsman in his picturesque dogwood area of east Texas, says he got the idea from mail order catalogues and pet magazine advertisements for unique pets.

The farm youth, who studied wildlife biology in college, made his first sale in 1957 and now is grossing around $4,000 a year.

"I'm depending on it for a livelihood," he said. "It's a year-round job."

He describes his unusual pets as about eight inches long and says they look very much like the red or fox squirrel, except his miniatures pets have wings.

"The wings are of the web variety, like bats', but the flying squirrel really doesn't fly, it glides," Sterling explained.

The flying squirrel comes out only at night and confines its activity to gliding from limb to limb in search of food, he added.

Sterling said the flying squirrel isn't a nose-rubbing pet like a dog or a cat, but that if kept in the house it will glide to its master for food.

He says it thrives on corn, acorns and peanuts.

Sterling estimates his yearly yield at 2,000 squirrels. He says he gets $7 to $8 a pair.

Countess Given Back Passport

PAMPLONA, Spain (Reuters) Canadian - born Countess Listowel, wife of a former governor-general of Ghana whose passport was taken by police here Saturday, has been told she can have it back.

Asked Tuesday about reports that had caused the roof of a car, Lady Listowel said:

"I have nothing to say. There was just a minor incident.

"The police tell me I can have my passport back. I am having a simply wonderful time and the people here are marvellous."

A police official in this northern town said: "As far as the police are concerned the incident is closed."

Lady Listowel, former Canadian jazz singer Sheila Wise of Ottawa, is in Pamplona for the San Fermin Fair, made famous by the writings of Ernest Hem- ingway. Each day bulls run ahead of or often among the loose through the streets with bulls.

Good-Humored Crowd Of 4,000 Backs Doctors

Delegates See Cabinet Which Stands Firm

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan government stood firm in its attitude towards medical care insurance Wednesday as thousands rallied to protest the government plan.

In a picnic atmosphere, the good-humored crowd estimated about 4,000, listened to speeches for two hours while a 12-man delegation of the organizing committee — Doctors Committee met for 10 minutes with the cabinet.

The rally, which brought hundreds from far-flung points in the province, was called to seek withdrawal of the CCF government's compulsory prepaid medical care insurance plan which went into effect July 1.

Most of the province's 700 practising doctors have refused to work under the plan and set up private offices to provide service in protest. About 200 members of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons have been providing emergency service at 35 designated hospitals since the plan went into effect.

Over 25 policemen and plain-clothed police patrolled the legislative grounds but only opposition members marched down the legislature chamber. They left quietly.

CROWD ESTIMATES VARY

Shortly after the crowd had gathered around the legislature, party buses were swung open to allow for tours.

Estimates on the size of the crowd varied widely. Reporters generally agreed on 4,000 but official photos viewed later indicated this might be high.

Accused Given Six Months For Joy Riding

Mervyn Lawson, 17 of Trenton, was sentenced to six months in the Ontario Reformatory, at Guelph, for joy riding, in the county court this morning.

Lawson took a car from Market Square, in Trenton, "to get even" with the owner. He was later found asleep in the back seat of the car, along the side of highway 401. He appeared in court in Trenton on the charge yesterday and was remanded to the county court for sentence.

In passing sentence, Magistrate T. Y. Wills commented that he was unsure the Reformatory was the best place for Lawson, but that there was no better alternative treatment available.

COF Holds Public Schools Bowling Party

Grades 6, 7 and eight Public School bowlers, under the sponsorship of the Canadian Order of Foresters held their bowling party on Saturday at the Y.M.C.A.

Presentation of trophies was made by chief ranger Earl Devey to first place team, "The Three Musketeers". Members were Ralph Spencer, Sally Craig, Richard Burns, Dennis Rump, Doug Leonard and Richard Wagner, who received trophies.

Each member received a C.O.F. trophy as playoff winners were "The Twisters" consisting of Bob Elliott, Suzanne Lowther, Margaret Lewis, Bill Sagriff, Harry Glancy, Harold Townsend, who also received trophies.

High single was won by Shawnee Craig with 214.

The boys high single also presented by Ropers Service Station was won by Bill Sagriff with 272.

High triple was won by Howard Burns with 653 while the boys high average was taken by Bob McCallum with 147.

Dancing and refreshments were enjoyed later.

This is the first year the Foresters have sponsored the children and hope to have many more out next season. Some 60 children attended every Saturday under the instruction of Jim Elliott and Bill Sagriff with members of the Canadian Order of Foresters acting as scorekeepers.

Foxboro Girl, 8, Has Possible Skull Fracture

Eight - year - old Lois Scott, of Foxboro, is resting comfortably today in Kingston General Hospital, under care of Dr. Robert Hesherington. She was transferred there last night from Belleville hospital, with a possible fractured skull.

Yesterday, at 4.30 p.m. Lois tried to run across the road, in Foxboro, in front of a car driven by Howard Ketchason, of R. R. 1, Foxboro. She failed to make it.

Dr. John Hartt, of Belleville, treated the girl at the scene of the accident and supervised her transfer to Belleville Hospital.

Fire Rating Tweed Forest District

Careless berry pickers, who it is believed, tossed away lighted cigarets, started a fire in the blueberry bush area on Concession One, Kaladar twp., yesterday. The blaze covered over four acres before it was brought under control by forest rangers.

Ten other fires reported within the last few days are still smouldering and burning, but under control.

No rain was reported in the forest district last night, although the weather threatened in various areas.

It was sunny and warm today throughout the entire district.

St. Thomas Man Given 5 Years In Penitentiary

Thomas Adelmo Bert Hobbins, 25 years old, of St. Thomas, held over since last Thursday's county court while his case was conducted, had his previous record in county court this morning.

He had already pleaded guilty to two charges of armed robbery and one of possession of an unregistered firearm. The charges arose out of the theft of $1,000 from a taxi driver in Belleville taxi driver Roy Crawford, at gunpoint, June 21.

Hobbins' record showed one conviction for possession of an offensive weapon, in Hamilton, in 1956 and one for armed robbery in Hamilton, in 1956.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills commented that he saw no reason to differ from the sentence in this case. He sentenced Hobbins to five years concurrent in Kingston penitentiary on each of the robbery charges, and a further year, also concurrent for the charge of possession of a firearm.

Sweeps, Pools Not Immoral

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Gambling is not immoral in itself but may become so if the gambler risks sums behind his means or more money needed for more important things, such as the upkeep of his family, says the unofficial Vatican City weekly, L'Osservatore della Domenica.

The newspaper replies to readers asking whether lotteries or soccer pools are immoral.

It says Roman Catholic church law forbids gambling only to the clergy and added:

"It is very rare for a person to become rich through playing the lottery or the soccer pools. On the other hand, it is rare for a person suddenly to get rich.

"This is not unlawful in itself."

FREIGHTER SINKS

KOBE, Japan (AP)—A small Japanese freighter sank Wednesday after colliding with an 1,850-ton passenger ship in the inland sea near Kobe, the maritime safety board reported. Three seamen from the 178-ton freighter, No. 75 Tatsumi Maru, are missing. There were no injuries among the 450 passengers and 58 crew members of the Kogane Maru of the Kansei Shipping Company. The Kogane Maru rescued six freighter seamen.

Oran Accords Wild Welcome To Ben Bella

Vast cheering crowds lined the streets of this port city to greet Ben Bella on his arrival in a long motorcade headed by the Algerian army motorcyclists.

The powerful revolutionary leader was welcomed Wednesday by wildly enthusiastic crowds when he crossed the border from Morocco into the native land after five years of exile and imprisonment in French jails.

Ben Bella, one of the pioneers of the Algerian revolution, crossed the border on foot near his birthplace of Marnia to be met by a population that all but kissed him.

At Tlemcehen, he addressed a crowd of 100,000 and denied he wanted personal power. Ben Bella said he was opposed to any "personality cult" in Algeria and favored a collective leadership.

As he spoke, the two Algerian provisional government emissaries who had met him in Morocco two days of secret "peace" talks returned to Algiers to report that they had agreed on a procedure for settling the dispute between Ben Bella and Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

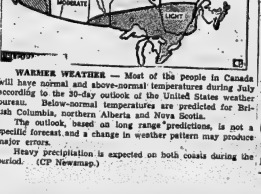
The two emissaries Information Minister Mohammed Yazid and Minister of State Rabah Bitat, had arrived in Algiers in a French military plane and were believed to have been summoned lately to report to their colleagues on the talks with Ben Bella.

Two Escapees Given 6 Months In Penitentiary

SUDBURY (CP) — Two of 4 men who escaped from Burwash prison farm Monday were sentenced Wednesday to six additional six months to be served in Kingston penitentiary.

Edward Watters, 21, of Cornwall and Damas Hame, 22, of Timmins were captured next day a few miles from Burwash.

Both pleaded guilty to escape.



The other escapees, Barry Phelps, 22, of Barrie and Donald Vernon Hatcher, 27, of Kitchener were still free.

Watters had been serving 18 months for breaking and entering, and Hame one year for similar and 10 months consecutive for breaking and entering. Phelps and Hatcher also were convicted of breaking and entering.

RECEPTION COOL

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Four Japanese destroyers arrived in Sydney today—the first Japanese warships to visit Australia in 27 years. They got a cool reception. Only launches chartered by newspaper men and one motor boat with a group of Japanese aboard met the ships inside Sydney Harbor.

WARMER WEATHER — Most of the people in Canada will have normal and above-normal temperatures during July according to the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau. Below-normal temperatures are predicted for British Columbia, northern Alberta and Nova Scotia.

The outlook, based on long range "predictions, is not a specific forecast and a change in weather pattern may produce major errors.

RATE GOES UP — The average interest rate of 91-day government treasury bills has reached its highest point since October, 1959.

A rate of 5.45 per cent was announced June 28 by the Bank of Canada following the weekly sale by tender of $95,000,000 in treasury bills.

The previous week's rate was 4.92 per cent. The rise followed pegging of the bank's interest rate at six per cent—the highest since 1957—resulting in a period of higher interest rates in order to attract foreign capital back into Canada. (CP Newsmap.)

Holdup Men Did Not Know They Were Movie Stars

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland police today appealed to the public to introduce them to a trio of silent movie stars. Pictures were taken by a hidden camera Wednesday of three gunmen who robbed the St. Clair Savings Association of $13,305, and shots from the film were reprinted in newspapers and shown on television.

Give years ago — in April, 1957 — a camera concealed in this same room shot film sequences of a $2,500 holdup and the picture led to arrest of the robbers.

Many calls came to police Wednesday night, but none provided good leads, detectives said. A large group of policemen watched the 3½-minute strip of film privately and also received copies of still pictures made from it.

No customers were in the office when the gunmen herded three women tellers and a clerk to the side, filled a bag-held case with cash, and fled in a stolen car driven by a fourth man and found abandoned later a few blocks away.

Two of the tellers pushed silent alarm buttons that set off the camera in motion. Although the pictures were a bit fuzzy, they included shots of the bandit-leader man who entered the bank.

United Nations Troops Set Up Big Roadblock

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — United Nations forces set up a strength-ful roadblock on a main road into Elisabethville today, touching off new tension in this capital of Katanga province.

The roadblock was faced by a platoon of Katangan troops about 200 yards away.

Chief UN spokesman Norman Mc told reporters the roadblock was erected "to prevent another mass influx of armed Katangan troops" into Elisabethville.

The road, near a big Negro quarter, was used by 2,000 Katangan troops to march into Elisabethville Wednesday for a parade marking the second anniversary of Katanga's secession from the rest of The Congo.

The UN protested against the influx of troops saying that Katanga President Moise Tshombe had promised only 300 troops would take part in the parade.

Tshombe, however, denied today that he had made such a promise to the UN.

Hail Damages Tobacco Crop

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A violent hail and wind storm smashed through the Mount Brydges-Strathroy area in late afternoon Wednesday night, damaging glass and destroying about 25 per cent of the tobacco crop in the area.

Mrs. Clayton Trolk of Mount Brydges said hailstones ran six or seven inches deep in places and 10 minutes, damaging about 70 per cent of their tobacco crop.

Joseph Zajgmond of Mount Brydges said the hail destroyed about 25 per cent of his 35-acre tobacco crop.

TO AID POLISH CULTURE

TORONTO (CP)—The Canada Polish Millenium Fund will establish a $1,000,000 permanent endowment fund or promotion of, and research into Polish culture in Canada, it was announced Wednesday. The fund, with the backing of more than 250 Polish organizations across Canada, plans to raise the money by 1966.

U.S. Business Wins $1.5 Billion In Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest U.S. tax cut drive in Congress revised the tax laws in 1954 went into effect today. Business gets the bulk of the $1,500,000,000 reduction, designed to spur plant expansion and growth.

President Kennedy announced the cut Wednesday and noted that the principal pressure for it came from the business community.

Treasury Secretary Dillon told a press conference the tax cut should have a significant effect on the U.S. economy. He said many businessmen have promised to use tax savings to increase their investments in new machinery and equipment. He forecast an upturn in orders for these items in the next couple of months.

The action, which didn't need congressional approval, offers larger tax deductions to firms investing in newer, more efficient facilities. Larger deductions obviously will mean lower tax payments.

Initial reaction from business spokesmen and congressional leaders generally was favorable. The overhaul of the tax depreciation system—the first in at least 20 years—was designed specifically to meet business complaints that the old system was stunting economic progress.

In Cleveland, Walter J. Campbell, editor of Steel magazine, the Kennedy's faction "is one of the most positive steps that could be taken to encourage employment and business recovery."

Steel will be one of the principle beneficiaries of the liberalization. Railroads and paper producers also will reap substantial benefits.

Under the depreciation rules, owners of business assets claim annual tax deductions during the estimated useful lives of those assets. The tax savings are set aside to help finance the purchase of replacement goods when old equipment no longer is useful.

A key feature of the new system is a set of broad guidelines issued by the Treasury for each industry. These lives are considerably shorter than those put forward in the last official guide, published in 1942.

The average depreciable life of manufacturing assets under the 1942 guide was about 16 years. The new guidelines allow an average of about 13 years.

According to Dillon, the average business probably will increase its deductions by 17 per cent through the use of the new guidelines.

Treasury said the result could be an increase of up to $6,000,000,000 in annual capital spending by business.

Jury Indicts Bankrupt Co. On 11 Counts

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A federal grand jury has indicted the bankrupt Ford Sewing Machine Company Incorporated of Buffalo and three of its Canadian officers on 11 counts of mail fraud in an alleged contest swindle that grossed $1,500,000.

The indictments involved mail solicitations sent to 6,000,000 people in the U.S. northeast between February, 1958 and February, 1960, when the company was forced into bankruptcy.

Postal inspectors said its purpose was to get people to buy overpriced merchandise after they had been asked through letters to enter "Ford's all time hit parade contest."

Named in the indictment were J. Lawrence Barker, Toronto, executive vice-president, Morris Holiff, Toronto, comptroller, and Morris Charendoff, formerly of suburban Tonawanda and now of Willowdale, Ont., a Toronto suburb, secretary-treasurer.

The indictments said merchandise prizes were offered in the contest and entrants were told they had nothing to buy. Contestants were asked to match 10 pictures with 20 song titles.

ALL GET SAME PRIZE

Postal inspectors said all contestants were awarded gift certificates toward purchase of items as consolation prizes. A card was sent with the certificate asking the contestant to indicate what item he would demonstrated at his home without obligation.

Salesmen would call at the homes, the indictment said, point out deficiencies in the desired cheaper items, and then try to persuade the contestant to apply the certificate toward far higher-priced merchandise.

U.S. attorney John Curtain said it was not certain when the three would be arraigned, since they can fight extradition to the United States.

The grand jury also returned indictments against four Canadians on 24 counts of possession, forging and passing of thousands of dollars in counterfeit U.S. traveller's cheques.

The four were arrested by police after they tried to pass a travellers' cheque in a clothing store here June 19, authorities said. They are Harold Cornbiss, 24, Joseph L. Lebesque, 32, and Pasquale Dimenna, 28, all of Montreal, and Raymond Charron, 37, of Port Arthur, Ont.

Nehru Reports No Clashes Along Border

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said today no clashes have been reported between Indian and Chinese Communist troops, squared off against each other in the disputed Galwan Valley of Ladakh. He predicted the Chinese eventually would withdraw.

"It is rather difficult to know exactly what is happening near our post perched high on the cliffs, but as far as I know nothing has happened so far—no conflict has occurred," Nehru told reporters on his return from an eight-day vacation in Kashmir.

India protested alleged Chinese encirclement of an Indian outpost in the area near the three-mile high Galwan Valley. Peking countered with charges of Indian encirclement of Chinese posts.

Nehru said the notes were "pitched in a high key" and made the situation appear serious. But, he said, he still plans to leave New Delhi Saturday for another week of vacation near Bangalore.

"Sometime or other the Chinese troops will have to withdraw," he said.

15 Picton Golfers Play Trenton Team

TRENTON — Fifteen members of the Picton Golf Club motored to Trenton yesterday to play 18 holes of inter-club golf with 20 members of the Trenton club.

Dinner was enjoyed in the club house and an invitation extended for the Trenton golfers to return the visit.

Belleville club members will play at Trenton sometime within the next two or three weeks.

Trunk Sewer Work Is Progressing Well

TRENTON — Gore and Storrie resident engineer, Howard Lumsden, says work on the sewer installation under the Sidney Street subway should be completed in a little over a week.

Work gangs have almost completed the installation across the College Ave. schoolground, and will be starting up Sidney from this point in the near future.

Meantime, the other section of the trunk sewer installation on Front Street is progressing and Tathem workmen will soon be engaged in tunnelling under Dundas St. West in order to pass sewer lines through to the hook-up with mains leading across the river to the sewage treatment plant.

Passes Exams

TRENTON — Norreys Sprague, Chamber of Commerce secretary, received word today that he had passed written examinations set at a recent Canadian Chamber managerial training course in Toronto. Mr. Sprague's overall per cent was 78 and he collected 79 per cent in public speaking. This was part one of a three-part course.

Visitors welcomed to Trenton this week by the chamber secretary were Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Lipone of Somerset, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. E. Austin of Bradford, Eng.

Mr. Sprague has been busy mailing out brochures advertising the Trenton district and accompanying pamphlet, listing eight points of interest in the town itself.

WANDER IN JUNGLE

HOLLANDIA (AP) — Dutch authorities said today about 250 to 300 Indonesian troops are still at large in Netherlands New Guinea—wandering in the jungle without food, weapons or medicine. These men are all that remain of about 15,000 Indonesians dropped in coastal areas earlier this year, the government claimed. It said large numbers of Indonesian parachutists had surrendered in the last two days.

Golden Hawks to Perform At Trenton Show July 21

TRENTON — This year, the Golden Hawks, the RCAF's famed aerobatic team, will fulfill 55 flying engagements, (May 12 to Sept. 27), taking them to Air Force Days across Canada and to the United States, where they will perform at the Seattle World's Fair during Canada Week, (Sept. 16-18).

The Golden Hawks performed in public for the first time in May, 1959, and have since given more than 175 precision performances before an estimated ten million people in Canada and across the border.

F-L Jim Giles will be travelling with the Golden Hawks during the 1960 tour as public relations officer and Flying Officer Phil Perry will make sure that the Hawks' MARK VI Sabre Jets are 100 per cent ready for any show, as head of servicing and maintenance.

Interested spectators at this year's Trenton Air Force Day Golden Hawks' show (July 21) will be Bill Bridgeman and his wife, the former Jacqueline Hazard. Bill, as a civilian test pilot with the Douglas Aircraft Company, held the world's record for altitude and speed from 1951 to 1954 (1,263 mph and 79,000 feet) Bill "lived" the story of "The Lonely Sky", a best-seller, written by Beirn Hazard in 1955. Last year, Beirn wrote the scripts for the "Blue Angels" (the US aerobatic team), television shows. Bill and Jackie are visiting Jackie's father, Jack Hazard and her grandmother, Mrs. Maude Zimmerman, at Carrying Place this summer.

Baby Delivered By Its Father

TRENTON — Ron Griffiths of Trenton was arrested Wednesday morning by his wife, Gladys, 22, and given the news that the arrival of their fourth child was imminent.

Thus was at 5 a.m. Between 5 a.m. and 5.05 a.m., Ron had tried to phone the family doctor, (who was out of town); rushed back to the bedroom to see how his spouse was doing; phoned the police station and asked that another doctor be sent; talked to Doctor No. two, who assured him that he was on his way and . . . delivered his wife of a bouncing baby girl. When the doctor arrived at 5.20 minutes later, everybody but the proud father was doing fine.

When the doctor had checked mother and baby, Ron drove them to the hospital in his own car.

Ron says that he only had one other such scare in his married life. That was when he took Gladys to the hospital a little over a year ago, when Mark Anthony, their third child, was about born in the car.

Christopher Martin, 2 and Bradley James, 4, were born in a more circumspect manner. They waited until their mother was safely inside the walls of the hospital.

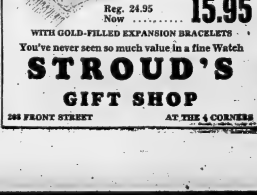
Fire Damages Glen Miller Wooden Bridge

TRENTON — "Not again!" was the general reaction around Glen Miller last night when the wooden bridge across the Trent was found to be burning.

The oft-burned structure was reported to be ablaze around 5 p.m. Firemen from Batawa and Frankford rallied to the scene and had the fire under control within 15 minutes. A hose was lowered into the river.

A large supporting beam, on the right hand side of the bridge, driving across it from Highway 33, was badly damaged by the fire and part of the wood planking was burned and damaged when firemen were forced to chop through it to get at the main fire.



Batawa's fire chief, John Aquino hazarded the guess that now the department of transport would be forced to instigate an extensive reconstruction program on the bridge, as he said that it would be badly weakened by the condition of the burned beam.

SUSPEND POLICEMAN

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A policeman arrested a woman for speeding, handcuffed her to a tree in a field, tied her legs, taped her mouth, and left her while he sought a bicycle thief. The patrolman, Richard Wort, 31, admitted to the Tuesday incident, telling his superiors "I don't know why I did it—I am just sorry." He was suspended from the force and placed under care of a psychiatrist.

Old-Time Car Fanciers Touring Historical Sites

TORONTO—Shouts of "Crank her up" and "Get out and get under" will ring through southern Ontario and Quebec next week (July 15-19) when two groups commanding more than 50 oldtime cars make their way from Montreal and Toronto to Fort Henry near Kingston and Upper Canada Village at Morrisburg.

The annual tour, which aims at the preservation of automotive history is sponsored by British American Oil and conducted by members of the Antique and Classic Car Club of Canada. It is patterned after the original London-Brighton tour in England, driven every year since 1904 to celebrate the "emancipation" of the automobile. It commemorates repeal of the "Red Flag" which required that a runner precede each "horseless carriage" with a red flag to warn pedestrians.

Approximately 40 vintage cars in showroom condition will start the Ontario section of the tour Wednesday, July 13 with a parade through downtown Toronto. Members of the group will be nine cars from Windsor's Historic Vehicle Club of Ontario. The first time that the Windsor group has taken part as a unit in the tour.

The Ontario section of the tour rolls Monday morning along Lake Ontario to Descronto for the first night's stop. It continues east on Tuesday to Fort Henry where it joins the Montreal group for a tour of the Fort and a trip the following day to Upper Canada Village.

The Montreal section makes its official start Monday morning, July 15 when about one-dozen cars, representing the Montreal Vintage Club, set out from suburban Dorval.

The tour concludes on Thursday with a trip back to Kingston where official finish-line ceremonies will be held.

Th cars in this year's tour range in age from a 1911 Model "T" Ford to a classic 1946 Lincoln Continental cabriolet, and include a 1918 Gray Dort and 1931 Frontenac both designed and built in Canada. Notable 1923 entries include a Moon, Rolls Royce, Durant sports touring and French Darracq. Other "flapper era" cars include a 1925 Star tourer, 1928 Willys Knight, 1927 Star 6 and a 1928 Cadillac dual cowl phaeton.

Oppose Compulsovy Pension Plan

The Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association is worried about political pledges to set up a compulsovy pension plan, over and above the present $65-a-month pension paid to all Canadians 70 years of age and over.

The Association has placed its arguments against such a plan before the royal commission on banking and finance.

Unless the political future of Canada is tied to the fortunes of the Social Crediters, the Association has a tough row to hoe in fighting compulsory contributory pensions. The Progressive Conservatives, Liberals and New Democrats all made proposals for such a scheme in the recent Federal election campaign.

Also on the record against the Association and its arguments is the actual successful operation of such a plan in the United States, a country whose residents have a much livelier fear of anything remotely savoring of socialism than have Canadians.

Moreover, the Association's arguments are not over-convincing. It suggested that if the federal government is to add to welfare spending, priority should be given to assistance for people unable to work because of permanent disability and for widows with children. We applaud the sense of moral values here displayed by members of the Association, but must question the accuracy of lumping a compulsory contributory pension plan with welfare spending.

It is fairly obvious that contributions would have to be closely linked with ability to pay. This suggested that any realistic plan would take account of present private pension schemes and would likely include some of the features of proposals for portable pensions studied by the Ontario Government. Such contributions, while they might be looked upon by those required to pay them as just another form of taxes, would be offset by a reduction or elimination of payments to pensions funds. The net result, after the plan had been in effect for a number of years, might well be a decrease, rather than an increase, in the amounts required for what could properly be considered welfare payments.

The Association's arguments against this scheme in which three of the major political parties are actively interested, therefore, fail flat. It is worth noting that the Federal Government has already undertaken a comprehensive study of such a plan, although the results of this study have not yet resulted in any concrete proposals to be placed before Parliament. . .

The main objection to such a plan is one which the Life Insurance Officers Association does not appear to have raised, perhaps understandably. This is the absolute impossibility of any actuarily sound pension plan providing adequate guarantees to its members that the penalties they receive will be sufficient to keep them in comfort following their retirement, due to the steady long-term decline in the purchasing value of the dollar. For this reason, Canadians should be cautious about accepting at face value the pledges of any political party to relieve them of all money troubles in their old age through a contributory pension plan. Operated in conjunction with the present universal pension scheme, however, a contributory pension plan might be found to provide worthwhile benefits at a relatively low net increase in costs. .

They have been so co-operative—that is, they have permitted the Shriners to do whatever they wanted.

Policemen, we are told in a Canadian Press despatch, even looked on with smiles as some Shriners drank beer in the city streets.

Drinking beer in the city streets is not bur idea of a major crime, but it happens to be against the law in Ontario.

Police Chief George Crisler of Henderson, Nevada, says that Toronto policemen are probably the best he has ever seen—so neat, efficient and polite.

Nevada, of course, is the State in which are located such centres of propriety and decorum as Reno and Las Vegas. . .

Toronto policemen may feel complimented to learn that they rank so highly by Nevada standards.

But the next time some penniless "wino" gets ten days in Don Jail for being caught with a bottle of "ink" we hope Justice has the decency to jiggle her scales a little as a parting gesture to one whose real offence is that he is poor—and a Canadian. . . .

Ottawa Offbeat

Doldrums and Dilemmas
Dime a Dozen

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — This is supposed to be the time of the summer doldrums here.

Parliament is not sitting. Civil servants have gone on summer hours and you cannot phone anybody after 4 p.m. There are not there any more than they are between noon and 2 p.m.

In other years the press corps on Parliament Hill could breathe easy and relax at a time like this.

Every day somewhere, somehow, something is going on.

The politicians are still trying to work out some line to take on a position where they can face a meeting of Parliament, June 15 made trouble for everybody.

Cabinet meetings take place, but the information coming out of them is slim pickings.

Sure, there is some government business going forward. It has to.

But there is more worrying and working in Cabinet about plans to keep the government in office than there is about run-of-the-mill business.

Conservatives are not the only worried people.

MONEY TALKS

A thorough-ganging up by all three of Bennett, Lapointe, of course, defeats the government.

That would mean an election in the fall, and who can tell the election, spending something like $20,000,000, some of them will smile.

The New Democrats are no more keen on their money supply is low and they have not been getting big financial support they expected from unions.

Other parties gather funds nationally and let it filter down to the constituencies.

They cannot hit their national supporters again too fast, but the Social Crediters can hit new backs per person they did last time and they can do it now.

So, despite the fact the Liberals are jubilant over the early meeting of Parliament, nobody is too upset about Prime Minister Diefenbaker holding off.

He wants to go to the prime ministers' meeting in London next September. He pressed for it and got it. Canada's Commonwealth leaders and figure he should represent Canada when it comes to dealing with Britain's entry into the Common Market.

PM ON THE HORNS

Here is his dilemma!

Should he call Parliament and seek a vote of confidence before going to Britain . . . knowing there is a good chance the government will be defeated?

Or should he wait, and go to Britain . . . knowing that the other Commonwealth prime ministers will decide he has not the strength in Canada to be much of a voice in Britain?

The odds-makers say he is going the latter route, which is not so hazardous.

In other words, Parliament will not be called until near the end of September.

What about the Liberals?

The word is they are split in their caucus and in the country want to vote the government out as fast as possible and get at a new election . . . despite any money worries.

They are getting more stronger, too, and the top men are worried. Liberal Opposition is split look good, but it takes money to win seats.

The New Democrats are making big noises, but there is a hollow sound to them.

Tommy Douglas, their leader, took a real trimming on June 18 . . . the party itself did not do so well. They might sound like they are clamoring for a new election, but the spirit is not there. They'll wait.

EXCEPTION TO THE RULE

But there are the Socreds. Cocky, sure of themselves. and holding 30 seats in Parliament.

If they time it right, they can topple the government . . . just wait for a vote where the Liberals are solidly against the government and go with the Opposition. That would do it.

That is, it would do it, too, according to Real Caouette, deputy leader of the Socreds and real power in the party since his surprising win in Quebec.

So this is the sort of thing going on in Ottawa and around the country these days.

No doldrums here, . . . a tremendous sizzling instead.

Reporters trying to find out how the politicians are doing this, or planning to do it.

Letter To The Editor

Foresters Support Research on Cancer

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

We of Court Sharon L. 1862, Canadian Order of Foresters, take pride in our work for Cancer Research. Our record day held on June 22nd and 23rd was the most successful in both years for since adopting this project. This year our total was $580.76. Therefore we express our sincere thanks and gratitude to the citizens of Belleville who bought tags.

This money is sent to the Canadian Society for Cancerous head office in Brantford, where it is forwarded to the Cancer research. In 1932 head office was raised over $42,000, and in 1931 the amount was $60,000, an increase of $20,000. It is hoped that by 1933 the amount turned in will jump another $60,000 or better.

We believe that this dread disease will be conquered. It takes a lot of money to keep these laboratories in operation, but as everyone becomes more conscious of the great need, as Belleville citizens apparently have, this will be accomplished.

Feathers For Defence

Milwaukee Journal

— That the nation has a big stock pile of feathers is probably news to many people. That the stock pile is about to be reduced to its defence goal should be good news to everybody.

The feathers are of the goose and duck variety. They are used to stuff sleeping bags so that military personnel may sleep even in the arctic cold.

The defence department is about to put 650 tons to use, bringing the quantity of feathers on hand down to 3,800,000 pounds, or 4,000 long tons.

A bather pie as big as Uncle Sam's takes a lot of geese, even when stored in bags. The 5-inch canvas band in which they are required 314,823 square feet of space in storage. The storage bill came to $81,272, or $19.20 a ton.

Temporary?

The prime minister emphasizes that the new tariff surcharges will be "temporary". We have a faint recollection of someone saying, when it was imposed many years ago, that the income tax would be temporary, too.

Strictly Personal

A Glimpse Into Man's Illogical Behavior—

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Nothing makes a middle-aged person feel he grows a little more painfully than picking up the new novel, heralded as the finest and deepest work of fiction since Tolstoi, and learning from the book-jacket blurb that the author was born in 1906, or so.

But by time a man gets around to proposing to a woman he has already decided on exactly the kind of wedding present she will want, who will be his best man, and where the couple ought to live.

Psychiatrists avoid reproaching their patients for "illogical expectations" is most unsatisfactory. Reason is a form of trust and mistrust: in that it makes us suspicious of being cheated or being treated will be treated that way by others, while it makes us expect decent behavior from others will naturally cause us to behave well.

Idleness is a delight only when there is work to be done elsewhere. Rest is sweet but idleness for its own sake soon becomes tedious. Most people enjoy occasionally playing hookey during the school year, but the long summer vacation when school is out often leaves him bored and restless.

It's a pity that the Israeli high court, before condemning Eichmann to death, didn't first ponder the profound remark of Marcus Aurelius that "the most precious revenge is not to imitate its aggressor."

The overwhelming of any social crisis can be gauged by the extent to which speaking the truth to its members is considered committing an indiscretion." By this standard, Canada's politicians in their very nature are the most corrupt of all.

Some people are so vain that even when they censure themselves, they expect the polished form of praise — they are really serious. "The worst fair I am, how noble my nature, how full of all publicly confess my faults!"

The most moral men I have ever known were those who never thought very much about "morality," who would naturally do the kind, generous and decent thing; those who calculate their actions on some moral scale usually find high-minded reasons for serving their own self-interest.

In the early years, when a rebellion against parental discipline must be somehow repressed but cannot be openly voiced, it is true that a boy's best friend is his mother.

When two men dislike each other, it is generally because they are opposite types; but when two women dislike each other, it is generally because they are much the same type.

Pus Is a Part of Body's Battle Against Infection

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain what would cause kidney infection. How do the blood and pus manage to get into the kidneys and make the urine turn? Is there a cure, and does this necessarily mean a form of cancer? — K.M.C.

Germs can appear in many ways, setting up infection. They can result from a cold, tonsilitis, having an infected tooth pulled, etc. The pus forms as part of the body's battle against the infection. And the blood can result because some part of the urinary tract is sore from the infection and irritation.

However, it isn't easy to infect the tract if it is functioning perfectly. Usually some defect gives the infection a chance. In about one case in 10, pressure on the ureters (outlets from the kidneys) is a factor. (Women are particularly subject to kidney infection.) Or the presence of kidney stones may lead to the trouble. A kink in a ureter is a possibility still another is a "floating kidney" which moves too much, (it is supposed to move somewhat) or a tumor. So it is also possible for infection to start in the kidney or the tract, and spread upward to the kidney. In about a third of all cases, the trouble starts and ends gradually, without any acute episode.

The cure depends on finding and correcting the cause. Blood or treating "pus in the urine" isn't often too successful.

The more exactly the cause can be determined, the better the prospects of getting rid of the trouble. The examination may involve removal of stones, correction of a sagging bladder, removing a tumor, or other measures. Getting the facts depends on having a good urine examination, plus X-rays and other tests. If you have kidney infection, I'd go to a urologist at once.

I grant that this isn't an encouraging, comforting proposition. The cost, however is money well spent.

And I'd like to add this: If you are in financial straits at the moment, don't pay any attention to your doctor. The sooner the tests are made and the cause is found, and where the trouble is, the better your chances. From what I read these days, I gather that some doctors are prone to make it appear that medicine is a dollar-and-cents "business."

It isn't.

There may be some money-grubbers in the profession, but that doesn't apply to the majority. Most of us, when we want to be paid for our work, also want to give service when it is needed, and are willing for delayed payments when they are required.

Dear, Dr. Molner: Is it best to eat very little when you are not weather? Apparently salt is harmful and causes high blood pressure. — Mrs. M.T.

No, salt isn't harmful in any ordinary circumstances, and it does not cause high blood pressure. Nevertheless, people with high blood pressure and heart disease are often put on low-salt diets.

This is because salt tends to retain moisture in the body — and with heart (or kidney) disease, the body has excessive difficulty in removing water. The low-salt diet is helpful in such cases, but it does not mean that salt is harmful to anyone in reasonable good health.

Translator Earns Ph.D.

Brantford Expositor

A thesis, for purposes of this editorial, is an essay or treatise on a particular subject presented by a candidate for a college degree.

Summaries of some thesis which have recently earned postgraduate degrees, such as Master of Arts, Doctor of Philosophy (Education), are given in the current issue of the Canadian Education and Research Digest.

The first begins: "The two-dimensional theory of intellectual ability, the theory of educational supervision, developed and tested in this thesis, states the optimum effectiveness of an individual working in an institutional environment occupies a unique combination of (1) the pressures, demands and expectations of the institution as the external drive stimulus and (2) relevant personality elements of the individual as the internal drive accessibility system."

With an effort that should, in itself, have a Ph.D. for something or other, the editor of The Financial Post reduces this to mean "how good and teacher is depends on what sort of person he is," and what sort of person he is."

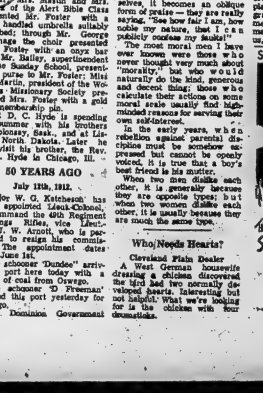
Perhaps that will not be grammatically polished enough to suit some of the freshly fledged M.Ed. and Ph.D. (Ed.) flock, but it makes more sense.

For what sort of sense does the jabberwock in the thesis make, apart altogether from its ludicrous and ridiculous resort to outlandish words? Surely a prime aim of an educator, as of a writer, whether those mentioned, should be to be clear. How else can he hope to teach successfully?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Holding a barbecued chicken leg with a paper napkin, one of the party gathered in the garden around the smouldering fire observed: "It's a funny thing."



"I was just thinking," he said, "of my little daughter and her lessons on gentility. Look at these people. Look at that eminent person there, picking his fingers. See that pretty lady equated on the grass eating a breast of chicken off a paper plate with her fingers. My grandma spent hours lecturing me and my sisters our table manners, gentility and how to use, was a matter of manners almost entirely. The fork, for instance, was reserved for the fork from the left hand. The fork must always be held in the left hand, nobody ever lifted the fork to lip right hand, when he was a boy, had to leave the table."

In my wife's family, the habit of gentility was to walk with toes turned out. They all had to practice walking before her Aunt Barbar, their toes turned out at an angle of forty-five degrees. That way lay gentility.

What are the marks of gentility today? Are they as odd?

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market continued Wednesday's aimless drifting during a tremely light morning trading today.

All sections but industrials showed minor fractional advances on index; however, no index change was great enough to indicate a trend.

In the main list, Abitibi, Aluminium, Canadian Breweries and Massey-Ferguson all advanced in's ⅛ to ¼ range. Walker-Gooderham gained ⅛, as did Interprovincial Pipe Line and Imperial Oil.

On the exchange index, industrials dipped .02 to 236.01, while golds rose .13 at 98.70, base metals advanced .40 at 183.96 and western oils gained .26 to 98.18. The 11 a.m. volume was 335,000 shares compared with 362,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Trading in base metals was quiet, as Noranda inched ahead ⅛. Among speculatives, Northgate dropped 10 cents to $2.20. Western oils saw Calgary and Edmonton and Hudson's Bay advance ⅛ and ¼ respectively. Pacific Petroleum slipped ⅛.

Industrials, however, were chary of climbing prices, dipping from the opening, then climbed back to close practically unchanged on index. Golds and western oils showed fractional index advances.

On the exchange index, industrials slipped .04 at 239.65 and base metals .24 at 183.58. Golds rose .41 to 98.37 and western oils .21 at 97.83. Closing volume was 1,586,000 shares compared with Tuesday's 1,472,000.

Among base metals, International Nickel fell ⅛ and Lefroy ⅛, Hudson Bay Mining advanced ⅛ and Noranda ⅛.

Belleville Rinks Win Prizes at Campbellford

Sixteen rinks of mixed triples had a most enjoyable day of lawn bowling at a tournament of lawn bowling at a tournament held by the Campbellford Club on Wednesday afternoon. Two rinks from the Belleville club were on hand and each came home with a prize.

A Campbellford rink of Angus Putnam, Mrs. Beth Taylor and Bert Taylor as skip won the three-game high score and a Belleville rink of George McGee, Mrs. Edna Jackman with Walter Elliott as skip was in second place. Another Belleville rink of Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon, Mrs. Grace Clapp with Claude D. Tice as skip won the two-game high score after being beaten a point in the first game 16-15. The one-game "ends" was won by Mr. and Mrs. W. Irvine with Cherries Young of Brighton as skip.

The bowlers were welcomed by Hervie MacGregor, president of the club and the draw was successfully carried out by Angus Putnam. The green were in excellent condition and exceedingly fast.

New Zealand Expels Soviet Embassy Spies

They are commercial counsellor Valdalov Andreew and second secretary Nicolai Shiykov.

Holyoake said his government has "conclusive and irrevocable proof" that the two Russians were engaged in espionage.

"By illicit means, including offers of gifts and money, they have endeavored to obtain information to which they were not entitled and which could not legitimately be acquired by accepted diplomatic channels," he said.

INTERRUPTS DEBATE

Holyoake, who interrupted a budget debate to make the announcement, told the House that the Russians wanted information affecting New Zealand's defence and its external affairs.

He said New Zealand received from the British and other Commonwealth governments — and from the United States — a considerable amount of information having a direct bearing on matters of external relations and defence."

The prime minister said that as a member of the ANZUS and SEATO alliances, New Zealand has received "highly confidential information" from a number of other governments.

"It is essential that we take every means in our power to protect the security of this information."

cial session will be called when it is reasonably certain that a session might contribute to the solution of the present problems.

Mr. Lloyd said he has asked the representatives of the KOD committee its position on "indiscriminatory remarks" he said were made at meetings last week by Rev. Athol Murray of Wilcox, Sask.

A spokesman for the group said later the premier produced a copy of a newspaper in which Father Murray was quoted in reference to the dispute and in which the premier said he referred to violence.

'CAN'T COMMENT'

"We haven't seen the newspaper report, members of the citizens' committee were not in a position to comment on it," said Rod Thompson of Prince Albert.

Mr. Thompson said the pretelier asked if the KOD reproduced the statements allegedly made by Father Murray, the fiery priest who founded Notre Dame College at Wilcox in southeastern Saskatchewan.

Mr. Thompson's statement said the committee "shall continue to respect Father Murray and his long record of service to people of all denominations in the province" but if it was true that he had made statements referring to violence "we dissociate ourselves from such statements."

During the rally, only reported incident was when police stepped in to break up a threatened scrap between two youths carrying pro-government placards, and KOD demonstrators.

Five KOD supporters grabbed the placards and ripped them up.

The picnic flavor of the gathering was apparent as some munched lunch, others relaxed on blankets spread on the grass and mothers pushing babies in carts strolled around the tree-shaded grounds.

ENJOY NICE VIEW

Entire families spread themselves in the warm sun on the spacious lawns in front of the legislative buildings, which face on artificial Wascana Lake in the city of 140,000 population.

Speeches to the crowd began with greetings of cars which still streaming into the city, bearing rally participants. Frequent applause punctuated speeches. Pennants and placards were waved. "Hear, hear!," "democracy threatened," "suspend credulence now."

Hna Tall of Saskatoon, vice-president of the provincial KOD committee and one of its most outspoken representatives, said there is "nothing but complete chaos, hatred and misunderstanding" in the province.

Lawyer H. H. Clyne Herradence of Prince Albert said the premier should order a general election in the issue of medical care.

Later, Premier Lloyd was asked whether the medical care question could be put to the people in a provincial by-election in Prince Albert, which Diefenbaker won in November since the death last winter of former municipal affairs minister J. B. McJennon.

PREFERS TO WAIT

"The premier said it would be "better to have the people express their opinions after they had some experience under the medical care plan."

As the withdrawal of services by doctors continued through its second week, reports of doctors moving from the province to practise came from Montana and North Dakota.

In Helena, Mont., Dr. Edmond King, 42, of Frontier Sask., and Dr. Alan Fletcher, 32, of Shaunavon, Sask., passed two days of state examinations and were admitted Wednesday to practise in Montana.

At least three doctors from the province have gone to North Dakota to take examinations to practise in that state. Their names were not released.

Auto Is Stolen

A maroon 1956 Oldsmobile, licence number 310685 was stolen yesterday, from the Ontario Intelligencer's parking lot, at the corner of Pinnacle and McAnanay Sts., in Belleville.

Ronald Hoshtar, of Plainfield, parked the car in the lot about 2 p.m. At 3:30 p.m. he found the car missing, but did not report it missing until after he had checked to ascertain that it had not been towed away for trespassing.

Ideas for a Shower

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I am giving a shower for my girl friend. As I have no authority to turn to, I would appreciate it if you could help me. . . .

1. Do I give the girl a present too?

2. Do we just make conversation until everyone comes or do we begin to play games?

3. Could you please send some suggestions for games?

4. When do you present the gifts? —JUST SEVENTEEN.

DEAR SEVENTEEN—Aren't you the well-organized hostess! Your questions about food to serve and other detail have gone off to you privately, but here are ideas about gifts and games.

1. Yes—a small one. Tea towel, cup and saucer; wrapped with a card enclosed. Card can be a rhyme you make up yourself. Example:

"When the dishes make you howl, Hobby gets to use this towel."

or

"When her Georgie wants to boss her
She let's go with cup and saucer."

(Corny? Yes! But good for a laugh.)

2. Just make conversation, unless this drags out.

3. Have you tried making up a Bride's Scrapbook? For this you assemble magazines, scissors and glue, and a scrapbook.

You give each person, or pair, a page to do out of the bride's life. For instance: Mary as a Baby; Pre-Teens; Mary as a Teen-Ager; Mary's First Date with Bob; Their Wedding Day; The Honeymoon; Their Fifth Anniversary; Their Grandchildren. Anything else you can dream up.

Everybody let's imagination go, riffling through the magazines for appropriate—or entertaining—illustrations. Brides-to-be take the treasure home, and treasure it, believe it or not! Lovely fun.

3. Paper and pencil games are fun, or bingo, but if you use the scrapbook you don't need anything else. It should take an hour.

4. Give gifts after games.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I would like to obtain literature regarding stuttering and stammering, as our boy, age three, stutters very badly. I would like to help him if it is at all possible.—MOTHER OF ONE.

DEAR MOTHER—The speech therapist says don't worry about stuttering at three. You might just make Junior notice it himself—which could make it stick.

Children often stutter in their normal progress toward speaking properly. Ignore it. Provide good routines, serene living, love and encouragement. And consistent discipline.

I am sending you the names of helpful books about stuttering and stammering. Also, write to the Queen's Printer, Ottawa, for a pamphlet in the Child Training Series entitled "Stuttering—How Can My Child Overcome It?"

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

TOO MANY BEAUTIES HAVE BIG HEADS

Everyone's attracted to a handsome man or a beautiful woman.

You've probably heard remarks like, "She's beautiful, but awfully self-centred," or "He's handsome, but what a bore." And often you've probably added your own last word.

Because attractive people stand out in the average crowd, their good or bad behavior and manners are more noticeable than the actions of those who, like you and me, are less favored by nature.

This fact, unfortunately, sometimes is completely missed by some of our better-looking citizens. After watching them in action at various times, it's easy to see that many of the pretty ones spend more time concentrating on their appearance than on their manners.

You've observed them in action, too, I'm sure. They wait for people to come to them, and rarely meet a friendly overture half way. They feel their looks excuse any breach in common courtesy. They're easily bored, especially when they aren't the centre of attention or the crux of conversation.

Of course, the key word in their personality makeup is "vanity." Their looks have opened so many doors in their lifetime, literally and figuratively, that they haven't developed the desire or ability to open doors for themselves.

The type of good-looking person I'm referring to has lost touch with the gentle art of conversation and probably has lost touch with the even more exacting art of getting along with others.

Personality etiquette is a matter of candid self-assessment. The pretty girl admiring her features in the mirror should turn her gaze toward occasionally. Perhaps the realization that she has allowed her vanity to conquer her sense of propriety will also help her change her good opinion of herself.

She'll show up on time for dates, she'll return telephone calls, she'll try to draw people out about themselves and she'll descend from her imaginary throne and mingle with the others as social equals — even if they're still no match for her physically.

In short, she'll find that people can be as interesting to her as she is to herself.

She'll also find that the combination of good manners and good looks will prove irresistible to her friends. The centre of the stage will still be hers, but on a different level.

Question: A friend has invited me to join her garden club, and is giving a tea at which I'll be introduced to other members. I want to behave correctly, and wonder if you'd mind giving me a few tips on what to wear and how to act, generally, as guest of honor. — Mrs. P.A., Teasdly, N.J.

Answer: A simple afternoon dress would be most appropriate. While other guests may wear hat and gloves, neither is required for the hostess or guest of honor. Arrive shortly before the tea is to begin, and stand near the hostess so she may introduce you to each new arrival. You'll not be expected to pour, but, during the party, you should circulate and try to have a few words with each of the guests. When it's over, stand near the door so guests can conveniently say good-by to you, the nature of the club.

Triangular Romance

BY ALICE ALDEN

This summer, accessories are more attractive than ever and here's a delightful example and sample—the fur triangle. Frederica does this urbane trifle in champagne beige ermine and gayly fringes it with sparkling bugle beads.

It's perfect to cover bare shoulders for a moonlit stroll on deck or for over-enthusiastic air-conditioning—or for just looking bewitching!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Marvin D. — I'm in love with a girl who rarely speaks. Mac C. — She'd be a liability to him.

* * *

Marvin D. — My family warns me not to get serious with Vicki, but I'm tremendously attracted to her. My sister calls her Lady Spider because she can't get more than a Yes Or No out of her. But I find her sweet and lovely and not dumb mentally, just vocally!

With me, she utters the essentials, even to saying she likes me very much. But there's no such thing as conversation, light talk or chatter. We both enjoy dancing, bowling. In fact our tastes are very much alike. But with her so silent, I'm wondering what our social life will be.

She has no speech defect, no language difficulty. But she'd rather nod or shake her head than contribute a word out loud.

* * *

Mac C. — I'm Marvin's sister and I think he'd have a lifelong problem on his hands if he married this Mona Lisa who keeps her mouth closed, and keeps us guessing.

What sort of help could she be to him when they're out socially, at dinner parties or business functions? After three months of dating her, he still hasn't fathomed the riddle of her silence. I can't tell if he likes her in spite of it or because of it. But I know he's puzzled by it, and wondering whether to ask Vicki about it.

In a restaurant where my husband and I joined them last week, Vicki smiled, gestured and motioned, but said little more than "How do you do." She seems to have no opinions or ideas.

* * *

The Council: Without meeting Vicki face to face or checking her I.Q., we can only guess her to be either mentally retarded or phenomenally brilliant. We advise Marvin to continue seeing her only long enough to determine which — then he should decide whether he wants to marry a girl who can keep her secret so well.

Offhand we can think of a dozen reasons for a girl to act enigmatic. It's fhrigiuing! It's attention-getting. She may be hiding something. She may fear a slip of the tongue. Has she a block — traceable to a childhood trauma — against the sound of her own voice? Is she so withdrawn that she talks only to herself? Or, does her job involve so much yak (selling or interviewing) that she rests her tonsils whenever possible?

Some of the causes are translatable; others suggest the need for professional resolution. But during this courtship period, Marvin ought to be able to learn whether this is the girl for him, problems or no.

Evidently Vicki has managed to say the important things to him. What he misses (and his sister cites the lack of) is the crochet of dialogue, playful banter and pointed retort. But all he needs are answers to key questions designed for drawing out his girl, and getting to know her.

Always optimists we, let's put the best possible face on Vicki's close-mouthedness. Let's assume she's one of those bright people who nevertheless has difficulty with words. What sort of wife would she be? Well, certainly no non-stop talking machine, but rather the silent type who'd let Marvin do all the talking. If that's what he'd like at home, he (and his sister) must accept the fact that his mate won't be much of a "mixer" at cocktail parties.

Remember, Marvin, you can always get someone to talk to. But you can't always find a wife to offer what the prayer books call Silent Devotion!

CWL Requests Safety Belts Be Mandatory

KINGSTON (CP)—The Catholic Women's League of Ontario will petition the Ontario government to make safety belts mandatory in 1963 and later model cars.

The final session of the league's annual two-day convention Wednesday stipulated that the belts meet with standards set by the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

Mrs. Mel Walters, of London, Ont., was re-elected president of the Ontario council. Vice-presidents include Mrs. I. L. Obergh of Fort Arthur.

Miss Mary Donoghue of Peterborough is recording secretary and Mrs. B. A. McNamee of Kingston is treasurer.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

PLAINFIELD W.I.

GILEAD — The "silky message" was playing and hoped all branches would continue ing of Plainfield Women's Institute was held at the Gilead Community Centre, when Plainfield was hostess to the 11 other branches of East Hastings District.

The president, Mrs. Gerfield Hall opened the meeting in the usual manner and announced the appointment of a new home economics leader for Girls 4-H Club work, she is Miss Spouse. She extended a welcome to all mothers and urged them to list their daughters in 4-H Club work and also extend a warm welcome to all visitors. Mrs. Kenny, new district president asked that a new area convener be appointed from the district. Mrs. Robert Tucker, past president was chosen for Historical research, as area convener.

Mrs. Gerald Swen convener for the public relations program took charge, and read a short reading on Canada's 96th birthday. A humorous reading was read by Mrs. Jack Salmon. The Bethel-Glen branch contributed a duet and a reading was given by Mrs. Clare Wass of Melrose.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Perry Macmillan, public relations convener for the area gave an informative address on the W.I.'s part in good public relations and stated that good public relations commence in the home. She also spoke of the great part "Pennies for Friendship" was playing and hoped all branches would continue with this project.

A rousing sing-song was led by Mrs. Harry Harrison and a group of merriment was enjoyed. A timely reading entitled "When Mother Learned to Drive" was given by Mrs. Marsha Rennerson also one entitled "The Sheep I'm In". A piano solo by Mrs. Earl Ross and a skit "Mrs. Hall Calls on Mrs. 1925", with Mrs. Wilfred Clare and Mrs. Gerald Swen cast a most enjoyable program.

Mrs. Swen expressed appreciation to all who had helped to make the evening a success and also added her remarks of welcome to the visitors at which time Mrs. Roscoe Robson, Trent Valley Area president, replied.

All assembled for lunch at the tables which were artistically arranged and decorated with three beautiful table centres of yellow and bronze mums.

Prizes for the evening were won by Mrs. J. Perrott, Mrs. Pascoe and Mrs. Kinnearty.

War Brides To Gather For Reunion

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—British war brides from Canada and the U.S. will gather here this weekend for their first reunion convention.

The convention, sponsored by the Multilateral Brides and Parents Association of London, England, is expected to draw about 400 persons, including the war brides, their husbands and their parents.

Mrs. Fay Blondest of St. Clair Shores, Mich., the convention chairman, said Wednesday the convention will be the first of its kind and that it is hoped it will become an annual affair.

Carmel W.I. Views Life Saving Film

Carmel Women's Institute met at the hall for the June meeting. A good attendance was recorded. The roll call was answered with suggestions for water safety.

Mrs. Thompson conducted the business portion of the meeting. It was agreed that W.I. would cater to the official opening of the Pontoon Chesse Factory to be held in the near future.

Mrs. Allison was in charge of the program. A lively singsong was enjoyed. A reading by Miss M. Hicks entitled "Summer Days" was most appropriate.

Mrs. Allison introduced the guests for the evening, Mr. McDonald and Mr. McIntosh, of the Bell Telephone, who showed a film on "Mouth to mouth artificial respiration." This was an educational film and one which persons young and old should see and know how to apply.

Mrs. Thompson added her thanks to those of Mrs. Allison. A gift was presented to these [illegible] for their kindness. Lunch was served by hostess and her committee.

Lines on Life

By Dr. Stuart B. Rosenberg

So little time.

As the years bring their share of joy and sorrow, we look back, count up the balance sheet of our thoughts and deeds, and wonder, where the years went. We spend so many years preparing for life, more than half a life getting ready to enjoy life — and now, so little of life lies ahead.

Too much time was spent fighting: fighting to get ahead, to stay ahead. Or, fighting the wrong battles, people never knew those we did know, but not well enough and those who looked as if they stood in our way. Now, looking backward, as the days and years of our lives quickly ebb, we sometimes understand that there were not in our way, at all; we were looking in the wrong direction.

While there is time, however, shall we not save what can be salvaged? If there are friends we have forgotten, ignored or cruelly hurt, shall we not tell them what they must mean to us?

If there is a love which we have wasted, lost foolishly feeling that we must not, shall we not express it, give it to those for whom it must mean much?

If there are hands we should uphold, live to build, shall we not do our duty, while there is yet time?

Only empty vanity — false, destructive, self-pre-occupation, hands in the sand, while cotton gown trimmed with shaded blue embroidery on the fitted bodice, with a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald James Masterson are pictured signing the register in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, following their recent marriage. The bride is the former Miss Elizabeth Anne Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Masterson, also of Belleville.

MASTERSON — JONES

On Saturday, June 23rd, a lovely double ring wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Peter Murphy, in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, when Elizabeth Anne Jones, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, was united in marriage to Ronald James Masterson, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Masterson. Tall white standards of pink and white carnations, chrysanthemums and snapdragons adorned the altar and white satin bows the guest pews.

Sister Mary Joan d'Arc, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, who sang, "Ave Maria"; "O Perfect Love"; "Beautiful Mother"; "Sacred Heart," and "Panis Angelicus."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Robert Jones, the beautiful lovely bride wore a charming bridal gown in floor-length, of white corded taffeta featuring a fitted bodice with portrait neckline accented with Chantilly lace and seed pearls and long lily-point sleeves. The bouffant skirt which cascaded into a chapel train was highlighted by a back bow and appliques of Chantilly lace. She wore a waist-length veil of nylon tulle with tiara headdress of simulated jewels and carried a bouquet of yellow roses mingled with white stephanotis.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Patricia Jones, as maid of honour, wearing a white nylon tricot gown with round neckline and accented by a blossom-pink sash. Her headdress was of pink roses fashioned from the dress material. White nylon gloves, white shoes, and a nosegay of pink and white mums completed her costume.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Hughes, of Belleville, and Miss Joan McCaffery of Corbyville. Both were gowned alike in style similar to that of the maid of honour, only in white and Nile green, respectively, with matching headdresses, and carrying nosegays of yellow and white mums.

The little flower girl, Miss Janice Gilhooley, neice of the bridegroom, was dressed in her white Arnel frock, with pleated bodice and pink nylon sash. She carried a basket and carrying a basket of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Robert McMahon, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Charles Lancaster of London, Ontario, and Mr. Richard Hughes of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held at Hotel Quinte for 120 guests, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier all white wedding cake, topped with bells and two white doves holding wedding rings, and flanked by two white candles. The bridal bouquets added an extra nuptial note.

The bride's mother received wearing a jewel rose organza ensemble with Swiss embroidery accenting the square neckline, and waistline bow, with three-quarter length jacket of organza, white accessories, and corsage of yellow roses. Assisting in receiving was the bridegroom's mother, attired in a navy sheath with rounded neckline, short sleeves, white hat and accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Keenan previous to her marriage; a personal shower at the home of Mrs. Marilyn Hughes, with Mrs. Hughes and Miss Joan McCaffery as cohostesses; a pantry shower at the home of Mrs. Mildred Woods with the bride's-to-be fellow workers as guests, and at a presentation by the employees of the S. S. Kresge

U.C.W. Looks At Today's Morality

JOHNSTOWN — The July meeting of the Johnstown U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Maitland Reader on Wednesday evening, July 4, at 8.00 p.m.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. William S. Harry, assisted by Mrs. Bennett Hamilton and Mrs. Ronald Hamilton.

The study book conclusions brought by Mrs. Douglas Harry, were that "apparently today's civilization is tending to land downhill, instead of up, what with the bribery and corruption one reads about, the delinquent children, as well as the children, so many have mortgaged their future for years ahead, so many looking for something for nothing, and the low morals and standards some people set for themselves," said Mrs. Harry. "Are we guilty of some of these things?

"Let's take a look: a clerk makes an error in your benefit, do you mark it down that your tough luck, old girl or do you draw her attention to it? An innocent person is being heavily penalized. You witnessed the incident, but don't wish to become involved. Did your conscience stir still? An officer stops you for speeding, you flash a convincing smile, and he says, forget the ticket. Do you insist on paying your fine or do you get out of there as fast as you can and say "that was a close call!"

"Your child has made astounding marks on final exams, you find out he has cheated. Do you make him tell his principal or do you let him go on and make it more difficult for the next term, with more temptation to cheat again? Here is a chance to perform a duty in the U.C.W. and you accept, but you tell someone that you got stuck with it."

Could this be cheating on your church, the community, yourself and contributing to the declining standards?

"We need God's guidance and help and understanding. Here's home to be so many things to tempt us to forget or flounder . Help us to remember. Help to humanity, honesty, truthfulness, chaste in thought, word and deed, the ability to help all to help another; help us to overcome the temptation of collusion, shady deals, general decline in moral standards. We ask Thy continued blessing on all women, but especially to help us here to become dedicated members, mothers, wives and most of all to become dedicated Christians. We ask it all in Thy name. Amen."

Company, when she received an electric coffee percolator, and also a toastmaster by Mr. J. C. Lundberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Masterson are residing at 84 West Moira St., Apartment 1, Belleville.

Sharp Flats

By GRACE THORNCLYFFE

Flats are higher than ever when it comes to style.

Cutouts and patches make for a gay pair of flats. Medium-gray smooth kidskin uses orange patches at the back to point up the cutout there.

Gold leather appears on the daytime shoe scene in this gold leather sandal with a stacked heel which would be fine for wear with a white pleated skirt outfit.

Circular cutouts ornament the red leather overlay of oval-toed shoes in white straw, these with a mid-heel.

Political Parties Need More Working Women in Ranks

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—Political parties need more working women in their ranks but not to make coffee and sandwiches, delegates to the biennial convention of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs agreed here Wednesday.

Nora J. Rowe of Calgary said most women now active in politics are working women and "therefore perhaps are relegated to the social level."

Delegates attending a seminar on the role of women in government applauded Sylvia Leples of Saskatoon who said, "I think we should join political parties and refuse to make coffee and sandwiches."

Because women are more sensitive to criticism, they are reluctant to enter party politics because they can't stand the road-slinging, discussion groups decided.

Every group agreed that women, including those in the home, should study the mechanics of government.

MARRIAGE ENDS

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) The marriage of Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis ended because "Tony didn't want to be married any longer." The actress, 35, testified Wednesday in Superior Court in winning an interlocutory decree from Curtis after 10 years and 10 months of marriage.

Chicken Breasts Adaptable And Economical

by Mary Moore

A question from a good cook seems to be of universal interest. I'm sure my answer will help many of you who use chicken every week.

Excerpt from letter from Gladys Q.: "Have found that buying chicken breasts are a very economical dish, for 2 people. I find one chicken breast, split in 2 makes sufficient for a meal for 2. I have been baking them as follows: Melt butter or margarine (sometimes I use corn oil) in a shallow baking pan. Roll the chicken pieces, one at a time, in the butter to coat well. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika and place side by side, skin side up in the baking pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes, turn and bake another 30 minutes. Sometimes when I turn them after the first 20 minutes I fill the cavity of each with a savory bread stuffing if, desired. Being a "lazy" cook, I usually bake potatoes in the oven at the same time, or peel and roast them in the same baking pan as the chicken. Now for my question: Have you any suggestions for alternate ways of cooking the chicken breasts in the oven, including oven temperature and time required?

To Gladys, and others I want to say use the same method but use these seasonings (for 2 chicken breasts for 2 people): ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon celery seeds, ½ teaspoon paprika, ½ to ¾ teaspoon salt. Mix in paper bag and shake chicken pieces in it. Use 3 tablespoons melted margarine or butter in baking dish. Proceed as above.

CHICKEN CANUCK FOR TWO.

2 medium potatoes, halved, 4 small carrots, halved, 2 table spoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, pinch each of rosemary, marjoram, oregano (optional), ½ cup chicken broth (see below), 2 tablespoons cream, 1 large or 2 small chicken breasts or 2 complete legs (cooked — see below), ½ cup grated process cheese, paprika.

Cook chicken breasts or legs by simmering in cup salted water for 40 minutes. Reserve broth. Cook potatoes and carrots in boiling salted water until tender. Meanwhile blend butter, flour and herbs in saucepan over low heat. Stir in broth until thick. Add cream and cooked chicken which has been removed from bones. Reheat. Drain vegetables as soon as cooked. Arrange in greased shallow baking dish. Top with hot chicken mixture, dotting any exposed vegetables with butter. Sprinkle grated cheese and paprika over surface. Place in oven about 4 to 5 inches from broiler unit and heat until cheese is melted.

See next week for my method of baking a big pasaful of chicken for ten.

W.I. Enjoys Fine Picnic

RYLSTONE — Last Wednesday afternoon the ladies of Rylstone Women's Institute enjoyed a picnic at the Crowe River Bridge picnic ground's when about 35 to 40 persons were in attendance.

After lunch there was a short business period. Mrs. D. Stewart, secretary-treasurer gave the minutes of the last regular meeting. Mrs. D. Kerr, Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. J. Watson and Mrs. E. Irwin were chosen as a committee to arrange for swimming instruction to be given the children at Crowe River Bridge.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Irwin on August 1st and the program committee at that time will be Mrs. Gerald Petherick and Mrs. Ellis Jones. The refreshment committee will be Mrs. Stanley Kerr, Mrs. Alfred Harrison, Mrs. Don Stewart and Mrs. Jack Watson.

A program consisting of contests and games was conducted by Miss Donalda Kerr with the winners as follows: race for children, under years and under — Sue Spencer; ladies' and children's orange race — Mrs. Bob Spencer and Mrs. Don Stewart; children's shoe scramble — Sue Spencer; ladies' shoe scramble — Barbara Watson; contests — Mrs. T. Wallace and Mrs. Bob Spencer. Mrs. Spencer won the prize also for having the most children (four) present, as well as for the youngest child present. Mrs. Ernest Irwin won the prize for being the mother with the oldest child present (her daughter Mrs. T. Wallace of Peterborough).

Ice cream supplied by the ladies was served to all.

CLIMBER KILLED

Mrs. Don Messer Says Her Heart Back on Farm

By DAVE NICHOLSON

HALIFAX (CP) — Mrs. —Don red house in a plush Halifax Messer says her heart, like her husband's music, is "back on the farm."

Although things have changed a lot since she grew up on the family farm in Belledune River, N.B., the wife of the nationally known entertainer says she still likes "the quiet life, the simple life."

The biggest change came when Don, a violinist, hit the jackpot with his country music program on the national CBC networ...

Now living in an attractive suburb, Mrs. Messer hasn't forgotten what things were like when she was Naomi Gray, the youngest of 12 children.

There wasn't too much money to go around in those days. It was the same with Don. He was from a big family, too — one of 11."

She met Don while she was training for nursing in Saint John, N.B. Don had a small band then. They moved to Charlottetown when he was offered $2.50 a week to work at radio station CFCY and stayed there 22 years.

LIKES COUNTRY LIFE — Mrs. Don Messer, whose husband is the star of a national country life to that of a celebrity. up on a farm at Belledune, N.B., was the youngest of 12 children. She is shown with her husband and two of their five children, Janis and Gray. (CP Photo).

It was while in Charlottetown that Don Messer started on his trip to fame as a country music band leader.

The band used to play for dances throughout the Maritimes. Later it got its own radio show. It first broke into CBC television as a summer replacement and hasn't been off since.

Although Don Messer's Jubilee exceeded expectations with its wide appeal to viewers across Canada, Mrs. Messer sometimes feels a bit wistful about the life she left behind.

People ask me so many times what it's like to be famous but it hasn't changed me a bit. I'm still the same country girl I was when we started out."

She returns from time to time to visit the family farm in New Brunswick. But her mind is not always on the past. The Messers have five children, the oldest daughter a nurse in Moncton, N.B., and there is plenty to keep Mrs. Messer busy at home.

The whole family loves music but Don remains the only musician. Mrs. Messer says she herself likes just about all music "except this foolish rock 'n' roll that about drives me up the wall."

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1962

Protestants and Catholics Nearly Equal in Number In Canada Census Shows

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics issued a report today showing that Roman Catholics totalled 8,962,026 last June, an increase of 37.5 per cent from 6,099,496 in the 1951 census.

Adherents of six large Protestant denominations numbered 8,931,040, up 18.3 per cent from 6,769,277 in 1951. Canada's total population jumped 30.9 per cent in the 1951-61 period.

The bureau said the figures do not measure church membership as the strict sense of the word or indicate the degree of affiliation with any religious body.

QUERIED CAREFULLY

Census enumerators, who asked every Canadian the question "what is your religion?" were instructed to inquire carefully when such answers as "Christian", "Protestant" and "believer" were given.

The number of Canadians classified under the "other" category jumped 61.1 per cent to 767,374 from 476,460. These people belonged to small denominations or were free thinkers.

Highlights of the census re port:

1. The largest denomination was Roman Catholic, represent ing 45.7 per cent of the population, compared with 43.3 in 1951.

2. The United Church of Canada and the Anglican Church of Canada remained the second and third largest denominations, respectively, with 3,084,008 and 2,409,068 adherents.

3. The Pentecostal Church was the fastest growing denomination, going to 162,277 from 95,121, a 31.2percent advance.

4. The Lutheran Church posted the second highest growth rate, boosting its total 29 per cent to 985,744 from 44,- 933.

5. The Jewish population rose 24.2 per cent to 204,388 from 164,636.

MINOR GROUPS GROW

Roman Catholics were the largest group in the six Eastern provinces, while the United Church predominated in the four Western provinces.

The percentage of Catholics in Newfoundland was 55.7 Prince Edward Island 46.1, Nova Scotia 35.3, New Brunswick 51.9, Quebec 88.1 and Ontario 31.1. The percentages of adherents of the United Church in Manitoba was 29.5, Saskatchewan 32, Alberta 24 and British Columbia 31.

The United Church adherents increased 27.8 per cent to 3,084,- 008 from 2,267,271. They accounted for 20.1 per cent of the total Canadian population, compared with 20.5 per cent in 1951.

Anglicans grew 16.6 per cent to 2,409,068 from 2,065,790. They presented 13.3 per cent of total population, compared with 14.7 ped cent 11 years ago.

Presbyterians went up by 4.7 per cent to 818,558 from 781,747. They accounted for 4.5 per cent of all Canadians, compared with 5.6 per cent in 1951.

The other two major denominations, Baptist and Mennonite, upped their totals by 14.2 and 21.1 per cent, respectively. Baptists totalled 560,533 while Mennonites numbered 132,452.

Today's report listed population by religious denominations for all provinces, cities and census divisions, as well as communities of 10,000 population and more.

More detailed classifications of religious denominations by sex, age groups and so on will be issued later, the bureau said.

12-Squadron Air Division To Be Reduced

OTTAWA (CP) — The 12-squadron RCAF Air Division in Europe is expected to be reduced by one-third early in 1963 as part of the defence department's austerity measures, informants said Wednesday.

At the same time, it is believed that the planned 11,000-man increase in the Canadian Army will not be carried out fully. Only some 3,000 men have so far been recruited.

CF-100 jet night fighters in four of the six divisions squadrons were to have been taken out of service in about 18 months.

Last Sept. 15, Defence Minister Harkness informed the Commons that Air Marshal Norstad, supreme allied commander in Europe, has asked that the four CF-100 squadrons remain in Europe for "at least two more years" or "as long as existing need."

However, it now is understood that the Canadian government's need to cut expenditures is regarded here as over-riding and the CF-100s probably will be taken out of service sooner than originally planned.

NATO has not yet been informed of any such action. The defence department has been studying possible reductions but these have not yet been approved by the cabinet.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said government spending will be cut by $250,000,000 in a full year.

200 Doctors Needed From Great Britain

LONDON (CP) — London agents of the Saskatchewan medical care insurance commission have been instructed to expand their recruiting efforts so as to get 200 doctors for temporary service there, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The original plan was to bring in between 50 and 100 British doctors to replace local physicians who have withdrawn services in protest against the province's medical scheme.

George Taylor, a lawyer and secretary of the commission, arrived in London Tuesday with orders for the stepped-up campaign.

Saskatchewan government spokesman said Wednesday that 23 British qualified doctors had already left, including 10 who flew the Atlantic Tuesday night. Another 60 doctor now has been signed and will leave with others in the next few days.

"We are reconsidering the balance of over 300 applicants," the spokesman said. "They are rolling in very nicely, but we need more, including specialists, in all classes."

The British practitioners have been signed on for periods ranging from one to three months.

Nikita's Speech Adds Nothing To Hopes For Disarmament

By JOSEPH McGWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's speech in Moscow Tuesday and abrupt reaction in Washington add nothing to hopes for progress at the 17-nation disarmament conference scheduled to resume in Geneva next Monday.

Behind the diplomatic words observers see the Soviet Union and the United States engaged in all - out competition for development of anti-missile systems, flow that each claims sufficient hydrogen - bomb power to wreck the other — if not all civilization.

There appears little prospect of an end to spiralling thermonuclear tests while this competition continues, and still less chance of progress on general and complete disarmament unless agreement is reached on a cessation of tests.

The claim by Khrushchev and his military chiefs that Russia already has the knack - missile missile is discounted by the U.S., but not entirely.

MOVES FIRST

State department spokesman Lincoln White noted Tuesday that Russia conducted a number of tests at varying altitudes last July although none so high as the mega ton explosion conducted 200 miles up by the U.S. Monday.

Those were "probably the most significant tests from the point of view of U.S. security," White said. "... The possibility exists that the Soviet Union gained considerable knowledge of the effects of such tests."

The U.S. high-altitude blast demonstrated dramatically how communications can be disrupted, and presumably how the electronic guiding system of missiles could be thrown awry. It is thought the Russians made progress in this field last fall with their tests at different altitudes.

On another topic, Khrushchev seems to have caught Defence Secretary Robert McNamara of the U.S. off base in the continuing propaganda duel over thermonuclear war.

SEEKS STATEMENT

Khrushchev has always maintained that the West wants control over armaments rather than disarmament and he seized upon a recent statement by McNamara to back up his thesis.

McNamara had suggested that perhaps an agreement could be reached under which the mass-slaughter weapons in case of war would be used only against armed forces and not against cities.

Khrushchev notes the U.S. press said McNamara's statement had clearance from the White House and he saw it as a "sort of proposal to the Soviet Union on 'rules' of conducting a nuclear war."

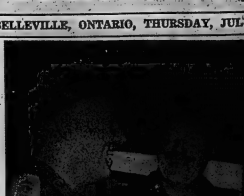
Khrushchev said this proves Western leaders have dropped the idea that nuclear war is unthinkable and are putting together plans on how it should be conducted. He added:

"It is a monstrous proposal. Filled from end to end to cope with a disdain for mankind, because it leads to legalize nuclear war and thereby the murder of millions upon millions. . . ."

Business Briefs

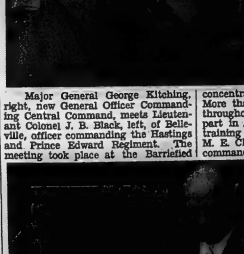
TORONTO (CP)—Chain store sales in Canada during May were an estimated $308,185,000 compared with $289,480,000 in the same month a year ago, the bureau of statistics reported today.

With gains in all previous months, the value of sales in the January-May period was $1,366,850,000 up 4.8 per cent for the same 1961 period.



Sales by grocery and combination store chains in May reached $143,132,000, up 8.4 per cent over the 1961 total. Variety store chains had sales in May valued at $25,698,000 compared with $25,179,000 a year earlier.

Shipments of all soaps in Canada during May were smaller than a year ago, the month's soap shipments in pounds with 1961 figures in brackets:



Laundry and household bar soaps 879,732 (906,814); soap chips and flakes 1,107,020 (1,282,261); toilet soaps 3,550,513 (3,852,484); soap powders 1,831,- 928 (2,009,251).

Canadian railways carried 152,154,300 tons of revenue freight in 1961 a decline of 3.3 per cent over the 1960 total.

Loadings in Canada declined 1.9 per cent from the 1960 total to 130,447,700 tons. Receipts from United States rail connections to points in Canada were down 4.8 per cent to 9,173,200 tons and intransit movements fell 1.5 per cent to 12,483,400 tons.

Paper Guild Against Action Of Physicians

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The American Newspaper Guild's convention has adopted resolutions denouncing the withdrawal of services by doctors in Saskatchewan.

The more-than-200 delegates to the convention voted unanimously Wednesday for a resolution which described as "shameful inhuman" the Saskatchewan doctors' refusal to comply with the province's new medical care insurance plan.

"If anyone dies, and that death can be traced to the decision of a doctor from his post, then I charge that the doctor is . . . guilty of murder just as if he had carried that act with his own hand," said Murray Tate of Toronto in support of the resolution. His remarks were greeted by vigorous applause.

The convention also urged that the U.S. Congress pass the administration - backed King-Anderson bill for medical care for the aged under social security.

The delegates also passed a resolution urging Congress to pass legislation that will prevent big - time newspaper industry mergers in the newspaper industry. The resolution proposed court appointments of appraisers to make newspapers about to be sold, so that fair bids by prospective purchasers willing to continue publication would have to be accepted over bids offered by competing newspapers.

Exchange-Rate Policy, Tax Exemptions Reasons For Reduced Outside Money

By DON HANKIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — The Investment Dealers' Association said Wednesday the expropriation of the B.C. Electric Company was among the factors behind the reduced foreign investment in Canada.

But the provincial government takeover related third in the association's list of indirect causes, behind the federal government deficits and last year's controversy over the the resignation of James E. Coyne as Bank of Canada governor.

More direct factors listed in a brief to the royal commission on banking and finance were the federal government's exchange rate policy, withdrawal of withholdingtax exemptions in fat 1960, and Finance Minister Fleming's suggestion about the game time that Canadian borrowers did not need U.S. dollars.

The brief, though made public only Wednesday, was written early the spring—long before the recent spat between trade Minister Hees and British Columbia Premier Bennett — with the effect of the power utility expropriation on investment.

The association urged the federal government to do everything possible to remove impediments for provincial governments to take over corporations tax income acquisitions.

ASKS CURTAIL

The association also recommended that provincial government's sharply curtail their issuance of savings bonds to raise money.

E. H. Fry of Wood, Gundy and Company, Toronto, said said saving bonds should be issued—and then only sparingly—by those who live in control over current, namely the federal government.

A government that issues such bonds without monetary power "is asking for trouble," Mr. Fry said, it could bring financial embarrassment.

The association brief also urged that the federal government place less reliance on Canada Savings Bonds in its money raising programs.

At the end of 1961 there was $4,070,000,000 in savings bonds outstanding, the brief said. Since they were readily redeemable for cash, the brief said, conceivably there could be a drain on the government for over $4,000,000,000 in cash any time.

This is more than twice the amount of currency now circulating in Canada.)

Ottawa Paying Family to Stay in Hotel

OTTAWA (CP)—The City of Ottawa, which has failed to dislodge the Hodger Finnerty family from their sub-standard property in six years of legal manoeuvres, now is paying the family to stay in a hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Finnerty and their two adult sons spent Tuesday night in a hotel in uptown Ottawa at city expense after vacating a small tent on their bush-covered lot in suburban Alta Vista.

Until Tuesday-night the family had refused to leave the property—valued at $30,000—despite threats of prosecution under the Public Health Act.

The Finnerty put up the tent after city crews demolished their ramped shack home under a court order. The Finnertys had gone to jail and paid several fines rather than tear down their sub-standard home, but charges are pending now in the area.

Mr. Finnerty, 60, is believed to be considering several offers to buy his property.

Police Look For Abductor Of Little Girl

TORONTO (CP)—Police are looking for a woman in an orange-colored car who picked up a three-year-old girl Wednesday night and left the child not 15 miles from home. The girl, Janet Marie Alexander, wandered from her downtown home about midnight and didn't turn up until eight hours later, knocking on the back door of a house in suburban North York. She suffered no ill effects.

Deputy Chief George Elliot said the woman might have intended to abduct the girl but probably heard radio reports of a police search for her.

Higher Interest Rates Affect Government's Borrowing Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—One repercussion of the government's austerity program faces the government itself in the form of higher interest rates for borrowing bond refunding operation.

A $285,000,000 issue of three-per-cent bonds falls due Aug. 1. It will be the first such bond maturity to occur since the late-June austerity measures — including higher interest rates — went into effect to protect the dollar and the country's foreign exchange reserves.

Conceivably the government could pay off the maturing debt in cash, of which it has plenty. A week ago it had $813,000,000 in bank balances. However, it is likely to require much of this money for the purchase of U.S. dollars to build up the foreign exchange reserves.

The $285,000,000 in maturing debt was borrowed in two stages less than a year ago— $110,000,000 last August at an effective rate of 3.31 per cent and $225,000,000 last September at an effective rate of 3.28 per cent. The total has since been cut by $50,000,000 in advance refunding through the Bank of Canada.

The cost of any new short-term bond borrowing is around 3½ per cent.

OTHER COSTS UP

Already the government is paying higher interest costs on new bonds through treasury bills, of which $1,485,000,000 are outstanding. Of these, $120,000,- 000 in three-month and six-month bills fall due each week and are refunded in the regular weekly treasury bill sales. Last week the rate on three-month bills was 3.43 per cent, compared with 3.09 per cent three months earlier. The rate on six-month bills was 3.71, per cent compared with 3.34 per cent six. Oct. 1.

No Facilities For Operation In Regina

WINNIPEG (CP)—A six-day-old Regina baby died Wednesday, 20 minutes before a skilled operation to try to correct a congenital heart condition.

Brent Chuck, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Chuck, was flown from Monday on a regular Trans-Canada Air Lines flight.

A spokesman for Children's Hospital said babies requiring open heart surgery usually are sent here from Regina where there are no facilities for this type of operation."

"This type of heart defect is severe and serious," the spokesman said. "Half of the babies with this war die within one year."

Monday, the baby's physician, Dr. Jules Duncan said the flight would have been necessary even if open heart surgical services were available in Saskatchewan.

"We could not have treated the baby in Regina at any time — even before distance came in," Dr. Duncan said.

The baby's parents remained in Regina.

A similar problem involving refunding of a $350,000,000 bond issue which was due to mature Oct. 1 has been largely avoided through a convertibility feature of the issue.

Holders of the 5¼-per-cent issue had the option up to June 30 of converting the bonds into new ones maturing in 1973.

The finance department announced today that holders of $283,000,000 worth of the bonds had switched to the longer-term securities, leaving only $37 770,- 000 of the issue to mature

Regina Nurses Vote Support Of Doctors

REGINA (CP) — Nearly 300 Regina nurses Tuesday voted full support of Saskatchewan's doctors in the medical care dispute, and urged the Medical Care Act be suspended.

The registered nurses passed a resolution calling for "wholehearted support" of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, warning of a "complete breakdown in nursing services" if GP pulls out.

The resolution said that nursing education is suffering a serious setback; and urged negotiations between doctors and government be resumed "immediately."

Chairman of the meeting, general hospital nursing instructor Mrs. Lorena Eberts, urged discussion on "a situation that has reached far beyond the boundaries of politics."

Pat McGrath, president of the Saskatchewan Registered Nurses' Association, with some 4,000 members in Saskatchewan, said a letter had been sent to all members asking their votes as to whether the SRNA should take a stand in favor of the doctors.

Mrs. Jane Goodkind, assistant director of nursing education at general hospital said that nurse training has suffered as a result of the crisis. Fewer nurses would be entering training if the crisis continued, and few nurses from outside the province would be encouraged to come and work in Saskatchewan, she said.

Sardines Have Returned To NB Waters, Big Catches Point to 'Brighter Year'

BLACK'S HARBOR, N.B. (CP)—Sardines, those little silver fish that are about as unpredictable in their travels as the tides of the Bay of Fundy in which they usually abound, have returned after a lean year in 1961.

J. F. McAvoy, district fisheries officers, says early catches have been good and indications point to a "much brighter year" for the big New Brunswick sardine industry.

The waters around the southern coast of New Brunswick have long been noted as a haven for the little herring.

As much as 100,000,000 pounds of sardines a year have been taken in the area, Canada's sardine centre. The biggest sardine canning plant in the Commonwealth is at Black's Harbor.

In 1960 the catch was a healthy 85,000,000 pounds. There have often been years when it was as little as 60,000,000 but last year it fell sharply to 40,000,000 pounds and some canneries either had to curb their operations or bring additional sardines in from Nova Scotia and Maine.

A fisheries spokesman in Halifax emphasizes, however, that a poor catch doesn't mean sardines are getting scarce. He says experts feel there are plenty of the little fish in the sea but that on occasion they just don't travel in the area where the nets are put out.

CLOSED PLANT

The sardine industry normally employs about 1,500 workers and brings $500,000 annually into New Brunswick's economy.

Last year, however, the H. W. Welsh Co. was forced to close temporarily its Deer Island plant, employing 140 persons. The off the Maine coast and most of its fish were boated in Nova Scotia waters.

Connors president A. M. A. McLean says about 700,000 cases of sardines and other fish products were produced, compared with 1,100,000 the previous year.

The Connors complex also has plants at Beaver Harbor, Black Bay and Grand Manan. They produce kippered snacks, clams and filleted groundfish as well as sardines.

Mr. McLean says the market is always big enough to handle the firm's output and production depends almost entirely on the amount of fish available.

Sardines are caught by weirs, corral-like enclosures of net which line the shores in this area, or by seines—nets used from boats. They are fished from May to October.

AT THE PARK—To portray Pima Indian Ira Hayes, tragic Marine hero of the memorable flag-raising on Iwo Jima during World War II, Tony Curtis assumes an entirely different appearance for his starring role in "The Outsider," opening tonight at the Park Theatre. In playing the part, Curtis made no attempt to visualize the true-life character's physical appearance completely, relying only on changes in the shape of his nose and darker make-up in order to look like an Indian. Tony is pictured as he looks away from the motion picture camera. The powerfully dramatic story is a Universal-International picture and was directed by Robert Mann and produced by Sy Bartlett. On the same program, "Gun Street," stars James Brown and Jean Withers. Both hits are first showings.

Merle Oberon Makes Screen Return After 6 Years Away

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Merle Oberon is making a screen return after an absence of six years.

She remains one of the rare beauties of the movie world. But after 30 years in films, the wide, high forehead and poreless skin-like face match the portrait-year in Mexico, part here, part painted of her in the 1930s. The figure is slim as a girl's.

These observations were made at her Beverly Hills mansion, where she lives a portion of the year surrounded by works of art by old and new masters. She had just returned from her homes in Mexico City and Cuernavaca where she had made her film return.

"We shot on location in my houses," she reported. "What could be more convenient?"

PLAYS NYMPHOMANIAC

The film is called Of Love and Desire, and she made it with Steve Cochran and Curt Jergens. She plays a nymphoma niac.

That's right, the same Merle who was the romantic Cathy in Wuthering Heights, George Sands in A Song to Remember, Empress Josephine in Desiree.

"Well, styles have changed in movies," she explained, "and you have to keep up with them. Our picture isn't lurid or in bad taste; it is the story of a woman with a problem. She likes men too much."

MARRIED TO FINANCIER

This was Merle's first film since her marriage to international financier Bruno Pagliai. Other pictures may follow.

"Bruno has been very nice about it," she said. "He wants me to be happy, and he knows that acting is part of me.

"Until now, it has been difficult for me to schedule any thing. We spend a part of the

"But there are times when I do works very hard, and I see him very little. That leaves me at home as housewife. I think I manage that job very well, but I would also like more of a challenge. So I may be doing more work from time to time."

Quinte Marksmen Weekly Shoot

Henry Tom lead the Quinte marksmen expert class Wednesday evening, scoring 394. The score was only four points under the all-time high set by Harold Bowdish on April 20. Ron Isaac was second with 385, Don Wilson third place with 364. Doug MacDonald took the sharpshooter badge with 223, Harry Hodgkinson again captured the marksmen badge, shooting 229. This shooter has held the badge for five weeks in a row, showing excellent shooting ability.

Matinee Will Aid Guthrie Award Fund

STRATFORD — A special matinee performance in aid of the Tyrone Guthrie Award Fund will be presented in the Stratford Festival theatre on Friday, July 30, at 2.30 p.m. With Kate Reid, John Colicos, Toby Robins and Eric Christmas in the principal roles, the Shakespearean comedy directed by Michael Langham, which critics called "a glittering triumph" and "the finest production ever," will be given two showings that day. The second will be a regular evening performance at 8.30.

The Tyrone Guthrie Award Fund, established in 1953 as a tribute to the Festival's first artistic director, has provided scholarships to 24 individuals amounting to more than $35,000 for promising Canadian artists to study abroad.

Eleven Eye 20-Game Win Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleven big league pitchers, led by Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers, are moving toward the 20-game victory mark. Nine are more than halfway home.

The final total is likely to be the highest since 1951 when 12 pitchers won 20 or more games. The major league record for 20-game winners is 17 set in 1903 and equaled in 1920.

Drysdale needs only five more victories to reach his goal. His record is 15-4. Bob Purkey of Cincinnati Reds is next in line with 14 victories, followed by Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, 13, and Juan Marichal, San Francisco Giants, Dick Donovan of Cleveland Indians and Camilo Pascual, Minnesota Twins 13 each.

Joey Jay of Cincinnati, Art Mahaffey, Philadelphia Phillies, and Ralph Terry of New York Yankees is at 11 victories apiece while Billy O'Dell, San Francisco, and Bob Gibson, St. Louis Cardinals, have 10.

Jay, a 21-game winner in 1961, looms as the only repeater. Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, 12 times a 20-game winner, shows only eight triumphs. However, the veteran southpaw usually comes on strong in the second half of the campaign.

Whitey Ford of the Yankees and Frank Lary of Detroit Tigers, the only others who hit the 20-victory mark last season, have been plagued by sore arms. Ford has seven wins games and Lary only a pair.

Five other pitchers still have a good shot at the 20-game mark. They are Bob Shaw of Milwaukee, Jack Sanford, San Francisco, Milt Pappas, Baltimore Orioles, Jim Bunning, Detroit, and Gene Conley, Boston Red Sox. Each has won nine games.

Says Sugar Broke Hand In Fight

Trainer Harry Wiley said Wednesday the 40-year-old former welter and middleweight champion asked the medical panel bone during the second round.

"It is not a serious injury and Ray is recuperating very well under diathermy treatment here," Wiley said.

The trainer explained that Robinson is not doing about the injury because he did not want anyone to know he was using it as an excuse.

In London, British boxing writers are calling Robinson a has-been and say his fight with British middleweight champion Terry Downes should be called off.

The writers say Robinson no longer is a worthy opponent for Downes, 26 year - old Cockney who recently was co-holder of the world middleweight title. They are scheduled to meet in London Sept. 26.

"One of the saddest things in sport is to see a champion who doesn't know he has had it," writes Peter Wilson in The Daily Mirror. "It is tragic and pathetic that Robinson should be scrambling around against nobodies when he could be the man he was meeting 30 years ago."

MUST BE SURE

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Philip Mosley, New York, director of studies of the Council on Foreign Relations, said Wednesday Soviet leaders would have no scruples about launching a preventative war if they were 99 per cent sure of winning. He was speaking at the University of Toronto in a lecture series.

Eleven Eye 20-Game Win Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleven big league pitchers, led by Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers, are moving toward the 20-game victory mark. Nine are more than halfway home.

The final total is likely to be the highest since 1951 when 12 pitchers won 20 or more games. The major league record for 20-game winners is 17 set in 1903 and equaled in 1920.

Drysdale needs only five more victories to reach his goal. His record is 15-4. Bob Purkey of Cincinnati Reds is next in line with 14 victories, followed by Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, 13, and Juan Marichal, San Francisco Giants, Dick Donovan of Cleveland Indians and Camilo Pascual, Minnesota Twins 13 each.

Joey Jay of Cincinnati, Art Mahaffey, Philadelphia Phillies, and Ralph Terry of New York Yankees is at 11 victories apiece while Billy O'Dell, San Francisco, and Bob Gibson, St. Louis Cardinals, have 10.

Jay, a 21-game winner in 1961, looms as the only repeater. Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, 12 times a 20-game winner, shows only eight triumphs. However, the veteran southpaw usually comes on strong in the second half of the campaign.

Whitey Ford of the Yankees and Frank Lary of Detroit Tigers, the only others who hit the 20-victory mark last season, have been plagued by sore arms. Ford has seven wins games and Lary only a pair.

'Secret Deal' Between CNR, Truckers Charge

MONTREAL (CP) — Charges that a "secret deal" was made between the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.) and the CNR during negotiations to end Montreal's freight handling strike were made here Wednesday.

A CNR spokesman refused to comment. Rod Hayes, president of Teamsters Local 106, could not be reached.

Two of the eight companies involved in the 12-week strike of 1,400 drivers and helpers was Husband Transport Limited whose sale to the CNR has been approved by the Quebec transportation board. The ruling is being contested in two lawsuits now before Superior Court, filed by the Teamsters and other interested bodies.

"The secret condition most regretfully was insisted upon by the eight trucking companies," said Mr. Magee. "I say most regretfully because of our belief that any interference whatever with those court actions is detrimental to the public interest and to the interests of the general industry and its employees."

He said Husband Transport had refused to join the other companies in signing an agreement with Local 106 of the Teamsters unless the entire group insisted on the union's withdrawal from the two cases.

RULES ON FARES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government ordered Wednesday that effective Monday airplane tickets to Canada be purchased on the same cost basis whether in U.S. or Canadian currency. Because the U.S. dollar now is worth about eight cents more than the Canadian dollar, airlines had complained they were losing money on tickets bought here with Canadian currency.

Drama Festival Literally Putting on Dog This Year

For its 10th season presentation of The Taming of the Shrew, director Michael Langham is employing two large golden retrievers.

The dogs, warm from the heat of the lights and excited by the presence of the crowd, bound onto the stage during the hunting scene. They stand slack-leashed under the admiring glances of their master, the Lord (Lee Cherit), and his entourage, before being led off by the groom (Len Carlos), past the drunken tinker Sly (Hugh Webster) who lies asleep by the roadside.

The retrievers, Tubber (Champion Baldhe Dara) and Stubbiwest (Topcall) are the first live animals to perform on the Stratford stage. A third retriever Chum (Karl of Feldberg) will occasionally substitute for one of the dogs. The three are owned by M. J. Seguin of Stratford.

Descendants of David of Wexley, international dual champion of England and Ireland, the dogs are, by nature, friendly, intelligent animals and needed no special training for the stage. They have almost human over-acted, though. Hugh Webster reports that more than once his make-up was licked off with affectionate enthusiasm while he "slept" on stage.

In 1955 another captivating quadruped appeared on the Festival stage, but in an unscheduled performance. During The Merchant of Venice, a squirrel invaded what was then the tent theatre and scampered about on stage, disrupting the performance and delighting the audience.

The Taming of the Shrew, the first Shakespearean play to be repeated at Stratford, opened June 19 with Kate Reid, John Colicos, Toby Robins and Eric Christmas in the lead roles.

WATER EMERGENCY

HAMILTON (CP)—A special meeting of board of control was called for today to deal with an emergency in which an important part of the city's water supply has gone dry, City Engineer W. A. Wheeler said Wednesday night he will recommend total prohibition of lawn watering because of the shortage in part of the west end and the mountain area.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—J. Recail, a three-year-old filly owned by Dr. M. J. Badmintenwski and Dr. J. H. Gregory of Chicago, set a Canadian turf course record of 1.35 1-5 for one mile in winning the $8,320 Nassau Stakes at Woodbine Wednesday.

Although J Recail's performance will go into the books only as a grass course record, it was the fastest mile ever run over any type of track in Canada. The Canadian dirt course record is 1:36, established at Vancouver by Major Tayler.

The two Chicago doctors had claimed J Recail for $7,500 at Hialeah Jan. 30. Since then trainer Morris Fishman of Toronto has started the filly eight times and she hasn't finished out of the money. Her season earnings are $17,200.

J Recail paid $6.80 to win.

PRIMARY INDUSTRY

Australia's average annual wood production is more than 1,400,000,000 pounds, about 30 per cent of the world total.

Canadian Swim Championship

Schoolboy Sets Records

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ralph Hutton stole the show from his older and better-known teammate here Wednesday to start the Canadian swimming and diving championships with a record - breaking performance.

The 14-year-old high school student from Ocean Falls, B.C., set two national records while en route to a surprising third-place finish in the 1,650 - yard freestyle, only event scheduled opening day.

He finished the distance in better time than the previous Canadian record, but Ken Webb of Portland, Ore., and Sandy Gilchrist, defending Canadian champion from Ocean Falls, were ahead of him.

Webb, 16, finished in 18 minutes 13.9 seconds for the victory in a field of 25, but his time won't go into the Canadian record books, because they're reinstituted for metres.

Gilchrist, even with Webb until the last three lengths in the 25-yard Empire Pool at the University of B.C., finished about 10 yards behind in 18:24.2 and took second claim to the Canadian record, beating the previous mark of 18:31.4 set in 1958 by Bill Slater of Vancouver.

FOOLS THE EXPERTS

Hutton, entered by the Ocean Falls team coach to pace Gilchrist in a record-breaking try at the 800-yard mark, fooled all the experts and especially Gilchrist, finishing third in 18:25.8. The youngster, swimming the distance for the first time in cliff competition, took the lead from the start and held it until the 22nd length in the 30-length race.

REDSKIN HURT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington Redskins said Wednesday defensive halfback Jim Kerr injured his knee Tuesday night and will require an immediate operation. Dr. George Resta said Kerr probably had injured the cartilage in his left knee in an accident at his nearby suburban home. Kerr led the squad in pass interceptions last season, began his four of duty last fall.

Minor Baseball

A five-run explosion in the fourth inning gave the Giants a 13-8 win over the Royals in Bantam baseball action at the Alemite Field last night.

Both clubs scored often early in the game and it was all tied up at 5-5 when Giants bagged their five runs to win it.

Shartland was the winning pitcher and LeMorre was the loser.

Royals 343 01 -8
Giants 620 50 -13

The Indians broke a 4-4 deadlock with two runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to defeat the Cardinals 6-4 in a Peewee baseball league game. Each club scored twice in the first and second innings.

Cardinals 1 2 0 0 0 -4
Indians 2 2 0 2 0 -6

SEEKS RELEASE

FT. RILEY, Kan. (AP)—Paul Hornung, Green Bay Packers halfback, has requested early release from army duty so he can report to the National Football League team for the start of practice this month. The NFL scoring leader, and its most valuable player last season, began his four of duty last fall.

YANKEES BUY LONG

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington Senators Wednesday announced the sale of first baseman Dale Long, 36, to New York Yankees on waivers.

Long, a six-foot, four-inch 200-pounder who starred for the Yanks as a-pinch hitter in 1960, has batted .241 in 67 games with the Senators, including four home runs and 34 runs batted in. Last year his average was .249.

In May, 1956, Long set a National League record with Pittsburgh Pirates, hitting home runs in eight successive games.

Bruce Kidd Arrives In London

LONDON (CP) — Canadian track star Bruce Kidd arrived by air from Toronto Wednesday to run in the three-mile event of the British track and field championships this weekend.

The 18-year-old University of Toronto runner, making his first appearance outside North America, was accompanied by coach Fred Hot of Toronto.

In the race Saturday Kidd will come up against Bruce Tulloh of Portsmouth, England, holder of the British three-mile record of 13:2. Kidd's best time is 13:17.4.

The world record is held by Murray Halberg of New Zealand in 13:10. Halberg will not appear in the race here Saturday.

Halberg and Kidd met late last month in Walnut, Calif., when the New Zealander took the three-mile event of the U.S. National Amateur Athletic Union meet in 13:20.00, Kidd was third, in 13:29.8, behind Max Truex of the U.S.

Several British reporters have already been around to talk to the Canadian runner, whom The Daily Express greeted with these words:

"Bruce Kidd is his name, remember it. That name will be in all the sporting record books soon. At the top.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"Sweet Daddy" Siki, the dusky-hued blonde, who totes around, and admits it, the most "beautiful body in the world" had not better be, as the man said, a "super-stitionist."

The beautiful beatnik from New York's Greenwich Village who struts his belief in the answer to the prayer of any maiden who sees his tantalizing torso, is here come "wrestling night" and takes on the best roughie closet-upper seen here in many a moon, the daughty "Mr. Kleen."

The popular "Mr. Kleen" whose shining pate looks like the original cue-ball is the Number One Boy in the hearts and minds of the wrestling faithful hereabouts. He has teamed with Whipper Watson and the "Haystack" against the feared Tolos Brothers on occasions, and has proven he is one of the best matmen to show his wares here in a long time.

But to get back to the Beautiful Beatnik. If he is a "superstitionist" he had better watch out for black cats, open umbrellas in houses, whistling in his dressing room and upsetting salt-shakers. For Friday, if you note the calendar it is the reputed day of ill-luck. It happens to be July the Thirteenth.

This Friday the Thirteenth bugaboo is a myth to some people, and a luck-dispenser to others. An old war buddy of mine enlisted on the 13th; went overseas on the 13th; was wounded on the 13th; was sent back to England where he was discharged on the 13th, then got married on another 13th.

Thirteen days later he came back to Canada and on a gloomy Friday the Thirteenth was knocked over and killed in a Montreal streetcar accident.

SPEEDBOAT REGATTA

"Hayward" Long Reach, Prince Edward County's famous nautical raceway won't echo to foaming thunder of the mighty Harnsworth Trophy contenders this Civic Holiday weekend, but Jesse Mason of Picton, informs me the beautiful racing ribbon will site an International speedboat regatta that will have the shoreline tree-crests nodding in approval.

The famed fifty-foot rooster-tails of "Miss Supercrist," and American Harnsworth challengers will be missing, but the fastest outboards of the United States and Canada are scheduled to spray-cloud the Reach surface in a series of thriller races.

The Prince Edward Yacht Club, the sponsoring organization, with plenty of Harnsworth experience tucked away in its collective duffle bags, has plans well under way for the Sunday-before-holiday classic.

The competing craft, Jesse says, are capable of speeds up to and exceeding 100 miles per hour. The course instead of being in "midstream", like the Hagmsworth raceway, will be moved close to shore so that spectators can get close-up views of the speed-ing hellions as they roar away the laps.

The racing card is said to be a compact one. The opening event will get under way at one p.m. with races starting every ten minutes thereafter. Should be a day of thrills for speedboat buffs.

Speaking of the Harnsworth Races, the United States has come up with a brand new challenger which may race for the honored mug in 1963.!

The new boat is a sleek all-aluminum unlimited class hydroplane named "Sun Cruz XV", by owner Jack Schaefer. The three-poiner is a 34 foot, 13 foot beam craft featuring a catamaran bow and modified V-engine section. Powered by two 1,750 Allison motors she would provide a serious challenge for "Miss Supertest III", providing owner Jim Thompson decides to take her out of retirement to defend her world championship laurels.

Ken Nagle Close On Heels

TROON, Scotland (CPAP)—Arnold Palmer, the defending champion, equalled the course record at old Troon course with a brilliant 69 today and swept into the early lead -after 36 holes in the British open golf championship. Palmer's 69 followed a first round 71 and gave him a total of 140.

Palmer, who won the title last year at Birkdale in Eng land, played sensationally on the back nine of the 7,065yard, par-72 course.

Thrilling a crowd of 15,000 with a typical Palmer finish, the American Masters champion came back in 32, four under par, after going out in 37 on the second round. He had an eagle three at the doglegged 485-yard 14th hole and he brought a shout of approval from the crowd at the 15th when he knocked in a seven-foot putt for a birdie.

Palmer's 69 was only the fourth round under 70 at Troon since the course was lengthened by about 500 yards for the championships.

Veteran Sam Snead, the American slammed, and Eric Brown, the Scottish Ryder Cup per who was the qualifying medalist, each shot 69s in the qualifying rounds.

Keith MacDonald, the English professional who never has won a major prize, had a 69 Wednesday to lead in the first round of the championship proper.

MACDONALD FALTERS

Today MacDonald played with Palmer and kept his early lead over the American and even increased it by one stroke with a 36 on the front nine. But he faded to a 41 coming home for a 77 and a total of 146.

Palmer had only one five on the back nine, at the 565-yard 18th, where his eight-foot birdie putt just failed to drop.

Palmer, leading money winner on the U.S. professional circuit, said after the round that a strained hip muscle was still hurting a little "but I feel much better." He has been undergoing heat treatments to ease the pain of the muscle.

The Trots

The brown colt, owned by the Cloverleaf Farm and Gerard Brennan of Riverdale, Que., toured the mile in a glittering 2:02.3, equalling the best time of the meeting set by Sir Winston Pick last Saturday.

Uncle Duck whipped the track a recordholder Armbro Express and So Long's Prince, leading from the two-length over Armbro Express by more than two.

In the night's co - feature, the $6,775 Woodbine Trot, outsider Hilda Hanover driven by Edmond Filion of Angers, Que., and driven by Henri Filion, came swiftly on the outside in the last furlong to win the first division by two lengths over Uncle Steven - money favorite, Brenda Lee, owned and operated by Dr. Harold Arrington, Toronto.

Kenmors Drop 6-5 Squeaker

Kingston Takes Over Loop Lead

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Kingston "pestered" its way into the Lakeshore senior baseball division here last night snatching a 6-5 squeaker from the Belleville Kenmors after trailing 4-0.

"Big Charlie" Frank Craig's "one-man gang" backed by some fine pitched clouting, took over the mound chore, loosed one-hit ball for five and connired innings, whiffed eight, walked three and drove in two runs with a grass-smoking single.

The victory gave Kingston a 7-4 record good for 14 points with the Kenmors having a dozen points on six wins and three setbacks. The largest crowd of the season, well over 400, saw the contest.

Starter Doug McIlroy was charged with four of the Kenmor runs off six hits. The southpaw was taken out in the fourth after two hits, a walk and an error had given the Kingston crew a 4-1 margin. He struck out six.

After that Pester hogtied the Kenmors batsmen and shut them down until the ninth when their lone hit off him and two walks scored a run and left two stranded with two out. Larry Soden, the fourth Pester ace, had a chance but Pester settled down and relired him for the victory.

Soden came on in the sixth as Kenmors giving up eight of Kingston's nine hits, then entering over-the-fence homer by Bill Murphy in the fourth with two mates aboard. He fanned 10 and walked six.

Soden gave up the mound temporarily in the fifth when with one out, two aboard and a run in, Jack Sid Fester was replaced him with southpaw Billy Moxon. The strategy against left-handed batter Craig only backfired when the Kingston second baseman drove a wild, two-run single. Soden returned to retire the side.

The Kenmors scored single runs in the second and third after Murphy's four-bagger had given Kingston a 1-0 lead.

Moe Hunter's double, Gary Gower's single, a walk and an error were good for two runs in the third. Single in the fourth, Kingston raced back to knot the count in the fifth scoring three runs off starter, a walk, Tommy Pettit's single and Carty's clutch clout. They took a 6-4 lead in the fifth off a walk, hit by pitcher, Earl's safety and Fester's blazing two-run single through the centre.

Murphy's homer and single, Earl's three singles, Carty's pair and Pester's lone-gower powered the Kingston offensive.

The Kenmors go to Port Hope Sunday for a league game and meet Ajax here Tuesday night starting 9.15 in an exhibition tilt.

The teams:

KINGSTON — Earl, Tommy Pettitt, Tony Pettitt, Fester, Carty, Gilmore, Murphy, Lanchin, Gilmore, Ashley, R., McIlroy.

BELLEVILLE — Locke, Asseltine, Gower, Marvely, Moxon, Soden, Duguid, Hunter, Soule, Batchelor, Kingston.

The score:

Kingston	010 032 000 — 6 9 2
Belleville	011 200 001 — 5 7 2

Grab Important 7-1 Win

Joyces Down Flyers

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Big Bob Butterfield, ex-member of the RCAF Flyers beat night pitched his best game of the year to lead Joyce Real Estate to a 7-1 victory over his former teammates.

The win was a big one for Joyces, smarting them of at least a tie for first place. RCAF will have to win all their games while Joyces lose all theirs to bring about a tie.

Butterfield was tough in the clutches and had a shutout going with two out in the last of the ninth.

Mills singled to left and advanced on an error. Don Cole doubled him home with Trenton's lone run. Cole injured his ankle going into second and Mills was allowed as a courtesy runner. Another error on Mann's infield ball looked like trouble but Wm Mills put a running toward home, charging Butterfield at the plate. Wilfred and Carr squared off, threw a couple of punches and rolled to the ground as players from both sides cleared in. Carr had his coat ripped off in the fray, out and the players were separated before any serious damage had been done.

Butterfield gave up nine hits struck out six and walked four. His mates gave him airtight support until the ninth. Kingston's single honor Joyce's initial run in the first inning. Batchelor had singled. The winners made it 3-0 in the third on hits by Batchelor, Butterfield and Plaus plus an error.

A walk, error and alert base running by Plaus and Muirhead made it 4-0 in the sixth. Batchelor singled and scored on Faulkner's double in the seventh to add another. A walk Batchelor's double-and an error closed the Real Estate scoring in the ninth.

Howie Cole pitched the loss, allowing ten hits over the distance. He struck out 13 and walked four.

Tag Batchelor paced the winners with three singles and a double. Bert Faulkner hit a double and single and Stu Muirhead had a pair of singles. Chuck Kingston and Ralph Plaus added key singles.

Doug Alexander and Howie Cole collected two singles apiece for the RCAF. Don Cole doubled while other base hits went to Roger Drake, Billy Mills, Sam Mann and Harold Butterfield.

Homers Mark 8-5 Win

Orioles Whip All-Stars

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Jim Gentile, Dick Williams and Boog Powell slammed home runs for Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night as the American Leaguers defeated the International League All-Stars 8-5 before 11,128.

The loss was the first for the International stars in three of their last four encounters with major league clubs.

Toronto outfielder Lou Johnson connected with a man on base in the first inning, and Ilie Vic Davalillo smashed one with two aboard in the ninth.

The All-Stars out-hit the major leaguers 10-8 with Davalillo belting a double and single in addition to his homer, Johnson also hit a single.

The Orioles were limited to three hits in the first nine innings, but both were home runs and produced enough tallies for a 3-2 lead.

Gentile, who has hit 21 homers in the American League this season, smashed a tape-measure job off Toronto righthander Carl Grey after Baltimore Herzog walked in the fourth to tie the score at 2-2 and Williams belted a Carl Mathias pitch over the left field fence.

Triandos hit off the eighth with a homer off Richmond southpaw Al Jackson, ruled a five-run uprising. There were five hits and two walks in the batting, with Bill Nicholson poking a two-run single off Dick Luebke.

GOLFER DIVORCED

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—Mrs. Anne Quast Decker, twice women's national amateur golf champion, filed for divorce Friday. Her brief complaint accused her husband of cruel treatment. She and Dr. J. D. Decker, Seattle orthodontist, had been married only 18 months.

Minor Softball

Three close games featured the Pereyma minor softball play on Tuesday night while the other tilt was defaulted.

The Phillies were awarded a 9-0 default victory over the Athletics.

Pirates edged the Tigers 11-10, White Sox shaded the Colts 4-3 and the Mets topped the Redlegs by a 10-8 count.

Following is the standing, for both Eastern and Western divisions, including all games played to date.

Season Has Produced Surprises

Favor Yankees To Grab Pennant 27.

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

At the season's midway point, things are normal atop the American League standings: New York Yankees are in front.

For a change, it hasn't been that way all the time.

The powerful Yankees, overwhelming favorites to sweep to their 27th pennant, have had an unbelievably hard time seizing the pearl. Beset by a flurry of problems, mainly physical, the defending champions began to show their muscle only in the final days before the all-star break.

They've shown enough, however, to prove it shapes up as another Yankee year.

By winning 10 of their last 13 games, the Yankees have overcome a pair of surprise challengers and head into the final half of the season with a one - game edge. Second are Cleveland Indians, who've been a problem for the Yanks, so far winning nine of 12 meetings with New York.

Next came Los Angeles Angels, setting the pace in a stunning development just a week ago but now 2½ games behind. Minnesota Twins, another surprise contender, are 4½ games back.

A combination of setbacks befell the Yankees all at once, costing them a chance to get away to a runaway start. Hooker Mantle suffered severe leg injuries that sidelined him for a month, arm trouble descimated the left-handed pitching tandem of Whitey Ford and Ralph Terry, and home run king Roger Maris went into a bad slump.

Almost simultaneously things righted themselves for the Yankees and they've displayed their superiority the last couple of weeks. Catching them flat-footed is the only song going.

In addition to the surprises provided by Bill Rigney's patchwork band of Angels, and Sam Mele's upstart Twins, this season also had produced:

No. 1 Hitter — the Angels' Bo Belinsky and Boston's Bill-mon Earl Wilson; a 20-inning marathon that dragged out for seven hours between the Yankees and Detroit; the flop of such 1961 stars as batting champion Norm Cash of the Tigers and rookie pitcher Don Schwall of the Red Sox, and the emergence of such newcomers as Rich Rollins of the Twins and Manny Jimenez of the Athletics;

a home run leader in former National League second-stringer Leon Wagner of the Angels, and a comeback by right-hander Robin Roberts with the Orioles.

Juniors In Women's Golf Semis

TORONTO (CP)—Two long-hitting juniors have won their way into today's semi-finals of the Ontario ladies golf championship.

Sue Hilton, 18, of the London Hunt club, who won the Ontario junior title last week, defeated Mrs. J. C. Whiteaw of the host Toronto Mississauga club 5 and 4 Wednesday.

The other semi-finalists are Mrs. J. H. McCarter of Toronto Lambton and Mrs. D. H. Dixon of Toronto Mississauga.

Mrs. McCarter went to two extra holes before defeating Mrs. N. J. Carlson of Toronto Rosedale. Mrs. Dixon advanced with a 4-and-3 win over Mrs. Ed Creed of Toronto Oakdale.

Heart Attack Takes Ranger Scout

TORONTO (CP) — The man who discovered such hockey stars as Carl Brewer, Bobby Hull, Eddie Shack and Rod Gilbert has died of a heart attack.

Jack Humphreys, 56, was chief scout for New York Rangers of the National Hockey League. He was stricken Sunday at his summer home and returned to Toronto, Monday. He suffered another setback Tuesday and died Tuesday night.

Humphreys had a wide association with hockey. At the time of his death, in addition to his post with Rangers, he was general manager of both Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers of the Eastern Professional League and Guelph Royals of the junior A division of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Kuntz Stars In Tiger Squad Game

HAMILTON (CP)—Paced by a three-hit pitching performance by ex-Toronto Argonaut halfback Bobby Kuntz, the Golds defeated the Blacks 46-27 in the Wednesday night annual Hamilton Tiger-Cat intersquad game at Civic Stadium.

Kuntz, who came to Hamilton of the Eastern Football Conference in a trade for fullback Gerry McDougall two weeks ago, scored his first touchdown early in the second quarter when he went over from the one-yard line.

He scored his second on a three-yard plunge in the third quarter and added the third on another leap from a yard out late in the fourth quarter.

Quarterback Bernie Faloney, new import end Bob Vitl, former University of Toronto star Tim Reid and veteran Ron Howell scored the other Gold touchdowns and Vitl converted four.

Bob Jeter, recently acquired from B.C. Lions, and Hal Patterson and veteran Tommy Grant tallied the Black touchdowns. Halfback Don Sutherin, who saw considerable service as a signal-caller, kicked two field goals and added three converts.

TWO GIANTS SIGN

NEW YORK (AP)Dick Modzelewski, the National Football League all - star defensive tackle, and reserve quarterback Joseph Paterno of Brooklyn's 1962 contracts, New York Giants said Wednesday.

Howe Inks Number 17 With Wings

DETROIT (AP) — Gordie Howe, highest point - maker in national hockey league history, has signed a contract for his 17th season with Detroit Red Wings.

"Only three more contracts to go," said the 34 - year - old Howe, who has refused to think about retirement until he has played 20 NHL seasons.

The veteran right winger last season outpaced Bobby Hull's reign since 1958 - 59. Howe scored 33 goals and 44 assists for 77 points, third best in the league.

Howe is holder of the NHL's records for games played (1,259), assists (624) and points (1,120). He trails Maurice Richard's NHL record for goals by only 42. The Montreal Canadian great retired two years ago after amassing 544 goals in 18 seasons.

Salary terms for his 17th NHL season were not disclosed, but he is expected to receive more than $20,000.

Philly Hurler Heads For Top

Art. Mahaffey Comes Back

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just 10 months ago, Art Mahaffey's career stood at the brink of disaster. Today the young Philadelphia pitcher is standing at the threshold of stardom.

A brush over the eye by a ball thrown at full force from only two or three feet is a frame at Cincinnati last September, Mahaffey has made a remarkable recovery, and is well on the way to fulfilling his great promise.

The 26-year-old right-hander won his 11th game Wednesday night, setting Houston Colts down on five hits for a 6-1 victory that propelled him closer to a possible 20-victory season.

The game — the only one scheduled in the National League — acted as the curtain-raiser for the second half of the baseball campaign. It rolls into full swing tonight with an 11-game program.

Last Sept. 17 Mahaffey decided not to slide in a play at second base and went in standing up. He was hit just above the right eye as Cincinnati's Leo Cardenas Kesko crossed the base and fired the ball on a double-play attempt.

SUSTAINS FRACTURE

"They found," says Mahaffey, "I had suffered a hairline fracture of the skull and I was in the hospital five days without getting up. For months I had throbbing headaches. They've cleared up and I'm all right now."

He certainly is. The triumph over the Colts — the eighth for the Phillies without a loss against the new National League entry — was Mahaffey's fifth in the last six starts. He has gone the distance each time and now has 10 complete games for the year and an 11-2 record.

Roy Sievers supplied the Phils' batting punch. The 35-year - old veteran tapped Hal Woodeshick (3-7) for a two-run homer in the first inning and hit Rauser's grounder.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF ONTARIO

THURSDAY, THE 26TH DAY OF JUNE, A.D., 1962

THE HONORABLE MR. JUSTICE RICHARDSON
IN CHAMBERS

BETWEEN:

CLIFFORD MAXWELL ELLIOTT — Plaintiff;

JESSIE M. ELLIOTT and JOSEPH DOWNS — Defendants.

UPON the application of the Plaintiff for an Order to issue a Concurrent Writ of Summons for service out of the Jurisdiction on the Defendant, Jessie M. Elliott, and for a further Order for substituted service of the Writ of Summons on the Defendant, Joseph Downs, by publishing in The Ontario Intelligencer, a newspaper published in Belleville, Ontario, the said Defendant, Joseph Downs, being out of the Province of Ontario and the Defendant, Jessie M. Elliott, being out of the Province of Ontario, Aberdeen, Scotland, shall be good and sufficient service of the said Writ, Statement of Claim and Special Notice to the said Jessie M. Elliott, Jessie M. Elliott and Joseph Downs.

AND IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that service of the said Concurrent Writ of Summons, Statement of Claim and Special Notice to the said Jessie M. Elliott, Jessie M. Elliott and the Defendant, Joseph Downs, by publishing in The Ontario Intelligencer, a newspaper published in Belleville, Ontario, the said Defendant, Joseph Downs, being out of the Province of Ontario, on the 12th and 19th days of July, 1962, shall be good and sufficient service of the aforesaid documents upon the said Defendant, Joseph Downs.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF ONTARIO

NOTICE TO JOSEPH DOWNS, formerly of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings:

TAKE NOTICE that an action has been commenced against you in the Supreme Court of Ontario which the Plaintiff claims a declaration of his marriage to Jessie M. AWARD-WINNING ARCHITECTS —The Montreal architectural firm of Affleck, Desbarats, Dimakopoulos, Lebensold, Sise has won several major contracts in national design contests. The firm's five partners, who met at McGill University where they occasionally lectured, are (left to right): Guy Desbarats, Ray Affleck, Fred Lebensold, Hazen Sise, Dimitri Dimakopoulos. (CP Photo).

Montreal Architectural Firm Has Already Made Dents On the Canadian Skyline

By JOE DUFUS

Their pet word is "vigor."

Only nine years old, the 60-man Montreal architectural firm of Affleck, Desbarats, Dimakopoulos, Lebensold, Sise —such a mouthful their receptionist answers calls by reciting the firm's phone number — already has made monumental dents on the Canadian skyline.

The firm in the last five years has completed $13,723,000 worth of contracts ranging from the $4,300,000 Vancouver Civic Theatre to $700,000 apartment blocks in Oromocto, N.B.

Currently, it is engaged in projects worth $106,480,000, from the $80,000,000 Place Ville Marie, a commercial development in the heart of Montreal, to a $4,000,000 humanities building for McGill University.

Seven-time winner of major contracts in competition with Canada's finest architects, its most recent and most highly prized award was the selection of their model for a Confederation Memorial in Charlottetown.

ALL ARE BILINGUAL

Credit for the firm's lively, Canadian - type of American frontiersmanship rests with the five partners who roam around their fourth-floor office in the downtown Dominion Square Building with eyes flashing, shirt sleeves rolled up and arms waving.

The partners are Raymond T. Affleck, 40, Pembroke, B.C.; Guy Desbarats, 37, Montreal; Dimitri Dimakopoulos, 33, Athens, Greece; Fred Lebensold, 45, Warsaw, Poland, and Hazen Sise, 36, Montreal. All speak at least two languages, French and English, and Mr. Lebensold is fluent also in Polish and German.

Mr. Affleck — "my name is first among the partners because it starts with A" — says:

"We take a very strong and rigorous attitude about the quality of work we do.

"We go further than just create a model, or a design. We apply ourselves to the development of the whole area, streets, plazas . . . even the whole countryside."

He and his partners look upon themselves as architectural pioneers.

"Now don't get us wrong," says Mr. Affleck. "We're not torch-bearers. We're only interested in doing what we feel we must do."

ONLY A START

Mr. Lebensold says the problem in "changing the attitude in Canada toward building rather than the building itself."

"The important thing is to do something outstanding, to do something to help this vigorous attitude take fire across the country. We think we're making a good start. But it's only a start."

The firm's big "break" came in 1955 when its design, considered daring, for the Vancouver Civic Theatre, won a nation-wide contest. It now is building four such theatres because of the award.

Guy Desbarats said the problem was to reconcile "a big idea with a fairly small setting." He said the design, with a central glass-roofed forum surrounded by a cluster of small buildings, was intended to express the idea of the earliest forum under Canadian skies.

Mr. Lebensold said the firm "had to create a model around an existing Parliament building which was a national shrine."

Mr. Dimakopoulos is in charge of the Charlottetown project which about 16 months to complete.

MET AT McGILL

The partners met at McGill University where they occasionally lectured. All had small but thriving practices of their own.

They decided to get together because of their joint obsession with the need for architectural reform in Canada.

Mr. Affleck graduated from McGill in 1947 and did post-graduate studies at the Federal Technical Institute in Zurich, Switzerland. He has won three awards for architectural designs, including the Lieutenant-Governor's silver medal.

Mr. Desbarats, a 1946 McGill graduate, is also a three-time prize winner who worked four years in Ottawa, was an adviser in experimental laboratory courses at Lake Forest, Ill., and in Virginia, and conducted a study on post - war multiple dwellings in Montreal with a Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation grant.

Mr. Dimakopoulos picked up a degree in architecture from McGill in 1955 after graduating from the University of Athens.

Mr. Lebensold, educated in Poland and England, practised in Scotland and London, won several awards in Britain, and did design work on military establishments in the Second World War.

Mr. Sise studied in Paris and practised in New York, London and Ottawa before joining the firm.

The firm's three associates are A. B. Nichol, 30, New Mills, N.B.; L. P. Sankey, 28, Montreal and J. McMillan, 33, Glasgow, Scotland.

Picton News

No Bids Made For Construction Of New Addition

PICTON — No bids were received for the addition of a technical wing to Prince Edward Collegiate. The Board learned at its meeting Monday night. Following a revision of plans, the Board plans a further call for tenders. Estimated cost of the building is $70,000, paid for by the Federal and Provincial governments.

One of the problems faced by those who might tender is the fact that the wing is an addition to the present building and not a separate one, and considerable integration of the two units is called for.

Five companies had picked up tender forms. Three gave tendering on other large jobs as reasons for not being interested, one withdrew its application while the E. J. McFarland did not put in a bid.

Two mechanical bids were received and both were higher than the estimates. Architects Page and Steele advised that something be cut out of the plan based on the mechanical tenders. H. Storey Smith of these tenders indicated that the general tender would likely be higher than the estimated cost.

Roblin's Lake Site of S.A. Music Camp

PICTON — During the past week the Salvation Army Music camp was held at the Roblin's Lake camp site. There were 160 students from the mid-Ontario division in attendance with Major Rawlins, Toronto, in charge.

There was a program of Bible study, music theory and instrumental instruction.

From Picton Corps, with Lieut. and Mrs. Leonard Pearo, were Sheila Willis, Katherine Dean and Eric Dean.

E. Dean headed both classes in which he was enrolled, grade 2 theory and "B" division instrumental, and received two medals. Sheila Willis headed her class in grade 1 theory and also received a medal.

The camp is occupied by brownies this week and next week underprivileged children will take over.

HEARINGS ADJOURN

I DON'T MISS ANYTHING!

Confidentially, the reason I'm always "in the know" on who is doing what when, where, how and why is that I read my newspaper regularly and very thoroughly!

Your quickest, easiest way to get the most complete and accurate knowledge of what is going on in the world (and out of it) is to follow the example of this little lady and read your newspaper thoroughly, thoughtfully. The latest happening across town . . . the momentous event across the world . . . the newest satellite circling high above it . . . you can "read all about it" at your own convenience, at any hour of the day or night, at your home, office, or on the bus . . . in your newspaper!

Astrological Forecast

For Friday, July 13
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Tonight check travel plans. make sure you are specific in telephone calls, letters, other forms of communication. Tendency to overlook details is to be avoided.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Hard work, merely for the sake of work not the answer. Do what needs to be done and take long-range view. You could find short cuts — "specialties." Stress creative research approach.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Rushing, pressing, trying to force your way is not the answer. Best to think and take conservative view, especially where contracts, legal matters are concerned. Be patient.

Cancer (June 22 to July 23): Could be constructive day if you are willing to exchange knowledge. Group participation or effort indicated. Check with fellow workers, associates. Key is diplomacy and extra effort.

Leo (July 24 to Aug. 21): Tonight very good for socializing, for romance, for creative endeavors. But unwise to demand absolute perfection or insist that you are the only one with right answers.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Now is time for quiet review of your life's patterns, goals. Security, home, what you really wish to achieve are spotlighted. Future financial opportunities favorable.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Today could set you making new contacts, meeting fascinating people. Be willing to go "out of your way." A little effort could pay big dividends. Harmony rules.

Scorpio (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21): Attend to money affairs today, but take time to relax, enjoy yourself. Good for stating your views. Bright person could put you on right track.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Cycle moving up, tendency is to "buck the odds." Better be an investor, not a speculator. No time for taking needless chances with aggressive individual. Be natural.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Interest in reading, theatre, creative activities heightened tonight. Express ideas. Gain through reading, new contacts, by confiding in one who understands you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Attend to details early so you can relax tonight. Friends, hopes, wishes, aspirations are all in personal planetary spotlight. Cheerskirers wing day.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Yes, there are responsibilities to be met and you can do it! Tonight excellent for change, variety, shopping, reading. Also fine for serious thinking.

If today is your birthday . . . prepare for favorable change, opportunity next month. Complete projects this month. Be frank about telling one close to you "what the score is."

General Tendencies: Day when opposites attract opposites . . . and general situation could appear very unsettled. Cycle up for Sagittarius. Special word to Gemini: There is no great rush. If you take your time in deciding, you are likely to make right decision.

CORNWALL (CP)—An amalgam of local and national issues is keeping the Stormont federal election campaign in a high state of agitation.

One of the most striking aspects of the campaign that ends with voting next Monday is that the name of Prime Minister Diefenbaker hardly figures in the Progressive Conservative campaign strategy.

This is in marked contrast to the Conservative campaign before the general election of June 18, in which the Diefenbaker name and image were heavily featured in every constituency.

Critics offer a ready explanation about why the prime minister is not taking part in the campaign—he is the only one of the four party leaders not speaking here this week, though Mr. Diefenbaker is expected for a Conservative rally Friday night.

AFRAID

They say the party hierarchy is scared to risk associating Mr. Diefenbaker with a campaign that could end in a Conservative defeat. Premier Frost is another taboo image already discolored by the June 18 election.

Standings in the 265 - seat House of Commons now are: Conservatives 116, Liberals 99, Social Credit 30, New Democratic Party 19.

Although Mr. Diefenbaker has been kept out of the picture, the National Conservative Organization has thrown its full weight behind Mr. Campbell, recognizing that Stormont will be looked upon by Canadians generally as a weathervane to the direction of political winds.

Campbell's organizers brought in from both Ottawa and Toronto have set Campbell's high-powered, highly individualistic campaign.

He is a big, boyish-looking lawyer with a cover of unruly white hair, the PC candidate has been working prodigiously to hang on to the seat he won in 1958 by 1,397 votes over Liberal A. the city had been Liberal for 23 years.

He campaigns from 8 a.m. to 1 a.m. ringing doorbells, shaking hands, holding coffee parties and in the Conservative committee rooms.

He hits the farm homes early each day, before the farmers have scattered to their fields, switching his campaign to the towns and cities as these come to life.

Labor Favored To Retain Seat In Byelection

LONDON (CP)—The results of recent British byelections have been painful pundits aplenty from predicting today's contest at Leicester North-East, the first real test of the strength of the Labor government after 13 months in office.

Most recent observers seem to give the edge to Tom Bradley, a National Trade Union official, to retain the seat for Labor party.

The other candidates are Conservative Robin Marlar, a journalist and former Sussex cricket captain, and Liberal David Bond, a 34-year-old history teacher.

The seat was mad evacuant by the appointment to the High Court of Sir Leon Ungoed Thomas who won in the 1959 general election with a 1,431 majority over Ivan Greenwood.

That was a straight two-way fight. But now the resurgent Liberal party is in the battle and recent experience showed that could have an upsetting effect on the outcome.

Eight Editors Get Apology And Damages

LONDON (CP)—Eight senior editors of the Beaverbrook newspapers received apologies and "substantial damages" in a high court libel action settled Wednesday.

The action was brought against the BBC and two members of a radio public affairs panel — Lord Boothby, former Conservative member of Parliament, and civil servant Jack Longland.

Helenus Milmo, counsel for the editors, said the action arose out of remarks made by Lord Boothby and Longland on the program Any Questions? broadcast March 23.

During his answers Lord Boothby delivered a scathing and completely unjustified attack upon the personal integrity and professional standards of the plaintiffs as journalists, Mr. Milmo said.

Last week the BBC broadcast an apology from Lord Boothby for a "serious personal attack on Canadians and, in particular, a number of eminent Canadians including Lord Beaverbrook."

OFF TO ENGLAND — Cheryl Drysdale and Mrs. Joan Watkin, both of Belleville, are seen all ready to leave for a five weeks' trip to Britain as ing the trip. members of an Ontario group of Girl Guides. Two other Guides from the Quinte area, one from Frankford, and another from Peterborough are making the trip. That's Cheryl's rucksack being held by the two travellers.

Three District Girl Guides And Leader Off to Britain

Three Girl Guides from the Quinte Area, along with Mrs. Joan Watkin of Belleville, are leaving England today with a group of 24 Ontario Guides and four leaders who will be in the United Kingdom for the next six weeks.

The three Guides to make the trip from this area are Cheryl Drysdale of Bellville, Donna Chase of Frankford, and Renee Gore of Peterborough. Mrs. Watkin is making the trip as one of the four leaders.

The party is leaving Dorval this evening aboard a B.O.A.C. jet and during their time in Britain they will visit London, Cambridge, York, Edinburgh, Chester, Stratford-on-Avon, Oxford, Devon and Cornwall. They return to Canada on August 16th.

This is the first such trip for Ontario Girl Guides and it is expected that similar trips will be made in following years.

For Cheryl Drysdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Drysdale, Victoria Ave., the trip is going to be something a little extra.

She will visit relatives in London, and she has been granted permission to leave the Girl Guide Group for this time to visit relatives of her mother in Northern Scotland.

LODGE IN HOSTELS

Mrs. Watkin noted the group will be travelling as cheaply as possible to cut expenses to the minimum. As result they will be lodging mostly at youth hostels and while in Britain will be travelling mostly by group while on bus rides.

DONNA CHASE

But, do keep handling of luggage to a minimum the travellers have all been fitted out with rucksacks and when walking from trains will be carrying all their belongings on their back.

Both Cheryl and Mrs. Watkin admitted that they have been going a bit of secret practising to familiarize themselves with the unwieldy-appearing rucksacks. Fully packed Cheryl's bag weighs 22 pounds, while Mrs. Watkin's goes a few pounds better.

But Cheryl isn't putting quite all her belongings in the rucksack. She is keeping out her boots to amuse herself and

Socred Leader And Caouette Address Rally

By JACK REST

CORNWALL (CP) — The Social Credit party produced its one-two punch in the hotly contested Stormont federal campaign Wednesday, throwing both National Leader Robert Thompson and Deputy Leader Real Caouette into the fray.

The two arrived here from Ottawa, along with a number of Quebec MPs, and addressed a rally in the June 18 general election, and Wednesday night addressed the largest rally yet staged in the campaign.

Unofficial estimates placed the crowd at 700 and it responded to the Thompson-Caouette discourse on Canada's economic ills and Social Credit's formula for correcting them.

Voting in this sewery constituency takes place next Monday, Stormont-Glengarry votes June 18 because the Liberal candidate died.

Mr. Thompson, driven to Wednesday night's rally in an open convertible as it led a motorcade in company with Mr. Caouette and Social Credit candidate Mel Rowat told the meeting that Canada's economy is in a worse state than it has been for 30 years.

Attacking the government's method of dealing with the balance of payment problem, he said: "We will go forward to prosperity with the austerity we have now."

Mr. Thompson called for concerted efforts to expand Canada's trade with the rest of the world.

He warned against installation of a liberal government to replace the Conservatives, saying the socialist Liberals had a dirty sack off one foot and putting it on the other.

Mr. Caouette, in his usual flamboyant and evangelistic style, spoke against what he termed Canada's "misery amidst plenty."

MAKE US STARVE'

Though the oldtime parties had been able to find billions of dollars to finance Canada's war effort, "in peacetime they are making us starve in peace."

The predominantly French-speaking audience reacted with frequent shouts and applause to the fiery orator's thrusts. He spoke in both French and English. Mr. Thompson spoke in English.

WARNS TEAMSTERS

TORONTO (CP)—The chairman of a conciliation board investigating incredible Toronto dairies and their employees, warned Wednesday that a strike may mean wholesale loss of customers. Maurice J. A. Hanrahan said the "accept or else" proposition by Local 647 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.) is dangerous to employees and employers alike.

Retired Officer of Montreal Police Force Gets Workout On First Day of New Job

MONTREAL (CP)—When Joe Bedard, ex-sergeant of army and Montreal bandit, retired June 3 from the city's holdup squad he looked forward to a quiet life as a security officer for the Bank of Montreal and the Royal Bank of Canada.

So what happens on his first day in the new job? An armed girl got to the office. He was preparing to leave home when he received a call that four hooded bandits had escaped with $500,000 from a branch of the Bank of Montreal in a north - end shopping centre.

He immediately joined in the hunt that led to the bandits' hideaway — a bungalow stuck in the Laurentian foothills north of Montreal. One of the four suspects surrounded after police surrounded the shack and ordered them to give themselves up. Two of the men were gunned down as they fled towards the woods. The fourth escaped.

"I guess I'd better be getting over to my office now," said Bedard at 7:45 p.m. that night when the stolen money had been counted and locked away for safekeeping.

FORMER MOUNTIE

The veteran policeman, who looks a decade younger than his retirement age of 60, said: "As you can see, I hung up my uniform but I am not leaving the business."

The Sherbrooke-born detective made his start in the "business" at 18 when he joined the RCMP and was posted to Regina for training.

He joined the Montreal force in 1923 and within a year was cited for capturing three armed men who were trying to break into a store on north - central Montreal's Ontario St.

He was promoted to detective in 1938 and posted to the gambling holding squad three years later.

One of the holdup squad's coups was the capture of the notorious red hood gang of bank robbers in 1950. The gang attempted to rob an east - end Montreal bank.

In the ensuing gunfight Bedard's partner, Det.-Capt. Marc Maurice, was killed with a bullet wound in the leg.

It was no accident that police were on the scene when the red hoods arrived. Joe Bedard had received a tip from an underworld informer.

Five weeks after he agreed to become security officer for the banks, he received a telephone tip-off at night from an underworld informant.

The next day, detectives from the Montreal and Quebec Provincial Police massed a stakeout that trapped four man robbers in Ste. Sophie-de-Lenterac 35 miles northwest of Montreal.

Two suspected bank bandits died in the battle, two others were taken to hospital with bullet wounds, and Det.-Capt. Maurice was killed with a bullet wound in the leg—the same leg.

Highlights of Bedard's early career included the single-handed capture of Ti-Mis Bisnet, wanted by police on six charges of attempted murder.

On another occasion in the 1940s, Bedard fought three men on the dance floor of the Avalon Club in Hull, Que., and drew his own gun to shoot Gerald McKuhan, a wanted man.

Another was Bedard's capture of Charles Hackman in Sudbury, Ont., within an hour of his arrival from Montreal by train. The detective recovered $14,000 from the lining of a coat worn by Hackman's girl companion.

Many criminals on the holdup squad's wanted list will rejoice in Det.-Sgt. Bedard's retirement from the force, but few have more cause for happiness than Mrs. Bedard, the former Jeannette Bryar of Saint John, N.B.

"It will be a welcome change to see Joe around the house more often," she said.

Electric Storms Leave Trail Of Death, Damage

Two Deaths Attributed To Bolts, Several Hurt

TORONTO (CP)—A savage summer thunderstorm punctuated with deadly lightning bolts moved across southern and eastern Ontario Thursday night spreading death, injury, and destruction.

Three persons died as a result of the storm—two of them after being struck by lightning.

Robert Ostoby, 26, of Toronto was one of three youths struck by lightning while they stood under a tree to keep dry during rain which dumped eight-tenths of an inch on Metropolitan Toronto in 10 minutes.

The youth appeared to have been killed by the bolt which sent his companions to hospital where they are reported in good condition. A team of firemen administered oxygen and massaged the boy's heart in a fruitless effort to bring him back to life after about 45 minutes work.

He died nine hours later in a hospital.

OTTAWA BOY DIES

Christopher Bailey, 15, died in Ottawa when he and a young companion sought shelter under a large tree seeking shelter from heavy rain.

The Bailey boy and Randy Moore, also 15, were both rushed to hospital where attempts to resuscitate them failed. Moore suffered minor burns.

Louis Gauthier, 47, of Toronto, died under the wheels of a car when he raced across a crossroads to get home and out of the rain.

Some tobacco crops in the Simcoe area of southwestern Ontario were considered a total loss from hail damage.

Weather office officials said the abnormal heat caused the storm weather first hit the Ottawa area, then moved westward over the city of Toronto and into Ontario, Elsewhere in the province there was little or no rain.

Winds reached 52 miles an hour at Malton weather station near Toronto Airport. Meteorologists said they probably were higher in some parts of the province.

At Ottawa, two storms came half an hour apart and dropped 1.8 inches of rain in a four-hour period. Three Ottawans besides the Bailey boy were struck by lightning but none was severely injured.

Several cars were flattened by falling trees and poles.

In Hamilton, a heavy rain flooded underpasses and low-lying streets, tying up traffic. Power lines in Chatham were down in places and a lucky escape was had by a tree crushed on two moving car.

John Teple, 21, and Mrs. Lauri Lange, a farmer in the Beamsville area, was knocked unconscious when lightning struck a barn in which he was storing hay.

Oppose Limit For Interest On Bank Loans

OTTAWA (CP)—Support for freedom in chartered bank lending rates is piling up in the evidence submitted to the royal commission on banking and finance.

For years the banks have been under a statutory limit of six per cent in annual interest on loans. The pinch is felt mainly in tight - money conditions.

The Investment Dealers' Association of Canada, in a brief to appearance that ended Thursday, noted that in such periods — like the present one — the banks are prevented from using "price" as a deterrent to undesirable loan expansion.

Thus the banks had to resort to a form of credit rationing "with the attendant dangers of discrimination between different classes of borrowers," the IDAC said.

In addition, the so - called near banks — such as trust and business companies, or of 115 unions and finance companies — can use higher interest rates of 7 per higher rates on deposits, and thus gain an advantage over the chartered banks.

Several other organizations appearing before the royal commission during it began hearings last March have expressed approximately the same views. Few, if any, submissions have suggested that the six-per-cent limit be retained.

The last royal commission on finance — the MacMillan inquiry in 1933 — issued a majority recommendation that the limit be removed entirely. It then was seven per cent.

But the government of the day not only rejected the MacMillan report in that respect, but it reduced the bank interest rate to six per cent.

Higher Food Prices Seen

OTTAWA (CP)—Higher food prices contributed to increased increases in consumer prices indexes in nine of the 10 major cities surveyed in June, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Increases ranged from 0.4 per cent in Saint John, N.B., to 0.3 per cent in the period between May and June. The sole exception to the pattern was St. John's, Nfld., where the index declined 0.2 per cent.

Consumer price indexes by cities in June, with May figures in brackets, based on 1949 prices equalling 100):

St. John's, 127.4 (127.6); Halifax, 126.6 (126.2); Saint John, 130.9 (130.8); Montreal, 130.2 (130.2); Ottawa, 131.7 (131.2); Toronto, 132.3 (131.7); Winnipeg, 129.1 (128.3); Saskatoon-Regina, 127.4 (126.9); Edmonton - Calgary, 125.9 (125.5); and Vancouver 129.5 (129.1).

PRIME MINISTER FACED WITH CABINET SHIFTS

Five Ministers Defeated June 18

OTTAWA (CP) — Defeat of five ministers in the June 18 election confronts Prime Minister Diefenbaker with one of his most puzzling cabinet reconstruction problems since he took office five years ago.

Mr. Diefenbaker has plenty on hint when he may name successors to Solicitor - General Browne from Newfoundland, Works Minister Walker from Ontario and Postmaster-General William Hamilton, Mines Minister Flynn and State Secretary Robert Dorion from Quebec.

Mr. Dorion has already resigned and Transport Minister Balcer has taken on his duties on an acting basis. The other four ministers are expected to resign before long.

Political parties in Ottawa seem to share Mr. Diefenbaker's view that there is no immediate urgency about the appointments since there has been a relatively brief speculation — usually rife whenever there are cabinet vacancies — about successors.

MAY SHIFT OTHERS

There has been no clue as to whether Mr. Diefenbaker will simply appointment to the vacancies or whether other cabinets will be involved as well. Some sources speculate that the present cabinet might be reduced to 23 by combining the secretary of state and solicitor-general portfolios, or by assigning the solicitor-general duties to the justice ministry, now held by Hon. Davie Fulton.

Political tradition makes the appointment of federal cabinet ministers complicated, thus selecting enough men with the required political savvy and parliamentary skill. A prime minister also has an eye to political strength regionally and seeing that French Canada has a voice in the ministry.

All provinces are represented in the present cabinet, Quebec with seven members, Ontario six, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and B.C. four each, Alberta three, the others one.

Quebec's six include five French-Canadians, although two — Mr. Flynn and Defence Production Minister Hees — do not have Irish names. The other, Mr. Hamilton, has a British Isles background.

FEW CANDIDATES

If Mr. Diefenbaker decides to appoint only cabinet members-elect, he has a limited choice. Only 24 Conservatives were elected since the province elected only 14 Conservatives June 18 and 10 in 1958. The only one with an English family background is Howard Green, 53-year-old member for Broome-Missisquoi.

Mr. Newfoundland, barring a turnover in a recount in Mr. Browne's St. John's West seat, the Conservatives have only one member—30-year-old John McCarthy.

Of Ontario's seven ministers, four represent the Hamilton-Toronto-Oshawa area and the others from the southwestern Ontario peninsula, Hamilton-London.

There have been pressures for appointment of a ministers from eastern Ontario which has

Englishman's Home His Castle, He Hitchhikes 90 Miles to Job

LONDON (AP)—Leslie Hillicoat, 47, figure he is the world's champion commuter.

He must at least be the champion of those who have years.

He lives 90 miles from my work", he said, "and I cover the distance twice a day. I've been doing it for three years. It comes out a total of about 130,000 miles".

Hillicoat lives in Newport and works for an automobile factory near Birmingham.

"I tried lodging in Birmingham and spending my weekends at home", he explained, "then my wife fell ill and I started thumbing daily lifts.

"I meet all sorts of people this way, from lorry drivers to company directors".

Hillicoat doesn't want to live in Birmingham because he and his wife like it there. He also likes his job in Birmingham.

He doesn't have much time on his hands.

"I'm a man who needs only about three hours sleep a night", he said. "If I can get that in, enjoy a couple of pints of beer and a game of billiards I'm happy".

"I usually arrive early in time for a cup of tea at the factory".

He allows himself six hours a day for travel.

Why doesn't he buy a car?

"I earn between £12 and £14 a week. I can't afford one".

Britain Jumps Gun, Makes First Telstar Phone Call

NEW YORK (AP) — Britain jumped the gun Thursday night and got through the first transatlantic telephone call via Telstar. The space communications satellite thus garnered an out-of-this-world rivalry between the English and the French.

France made an unscheduled start a minute before telecasting Wednesday night, Britain called it a "clear breach of faith" and, in apparent retaliation, beat the French to the draw on international phone calls via space.

The call between scientists in Britain and the United States lasted about 10 minutes and consisted mainly of technical matters.

A spokesman for the British post office, which controls broadcasting in England, termed the experiment a success.

The London spokesman said the two laggards, that telephonic speech circuits of first-class quality will be possible via satellites."

French spokesmen denied they broke an agreement which called for the first European television program to be received in the U.S. July 23, Citing a technicality, they said the agreement provided that the joint European telecast would be live, while theirs was pre-recorded.

The French program included songs by actor Yves Montand and other entertainers. It was from the Eurovision bureau, as was a live British telecast bounced off the satellite a few hours later.

The European Broadcasting Union, in a communique issued in Geneva, said the French telecast violated the international agreement "that no material of entertainment or information of a private character be transmitted in advance of the joint Eurovision project."

Thursday night the British caught the French off guard. The first formal transatlantic telephone call via Telstar had been scheduled for tonight between the United States and France.

Instead, the British completed the first real call. It was placed by scientists at the Goonhilly Downs tracking station in Cornwall, to fellow engineers at the American Telephone and Telegraph company's ground station at Andover, Me.

As it was, it dodged and House Votes Pres. Power To Aid Communist Lands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives has voted to give President Kennedy to aid Communist countries if he sees it necessary to free them from Kremlin domination.

After giving the president this major victory Thursday the lawmakers went on to pass a bill authorizing him to spend $4,668,500,000 for military aid and economic assistance this year. The roll-call vote was 250 to 154.

The military aid bill got everything he wanted from the House and got it in fact, some things he'd probably like.

The authorization is $210,000,000 below the figure he requested and it carries two amendments he considers noxious.

A ban on loans or grants to the United Nations until other members pay their back assessments; a requirement that he stop aid to nations that "seize American property unless appropriate steps are taken within six months to make fair payment.

Black Market Drug Makes Taker Insane

CHICAGO (AP)—Two doctors warned today that there is a black market in a powerful drug that can make people act like Bugs Bunny or become insane.

Drs. Sidney Cohen and Keith S. Ditman called the recent appearance of the drug in underworld traffic "an alarming development."

The code name of the drug is LSD-25. The chemical name is lysergic acid diethylamide.

It can cause hallucinations and reactions resembling schizophrenia.

The physicians said there is illicit trade in LED in the form of tablets, ampules and sales-ized sugar cubes.

Some persons who use marijuana also take LSD, they said, and hold "LSD parties."

"Occasional catastrophic reactions can be anticipated from such casual, unattended use," they wrote in The Journal of the American Medical Association.

They mentioned visual and mental distortions, and said it is "not unlikely" that results could be anti-social behavior, psychotic, suicidal or even fatal.

The AMA council on drugs said it believes LSD is produced abroad.

Surgeon Shortens Swedish Miss Now She Is Low Enough to Kiss

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Since Ingrid Weistman has been taken down a peg, her outlook on life has improved. Two years ago she had to look down at her dancing partners. Now she looks them square in the eye.

Two years ago the Swedish girl was six feet, two inches tall. Now she is five feet, one. A surgeon trimmed her down. The 20-year-old girl from the Swedish town of Helsingborg sparkles with vivacity and happiness. But in 1960 she was shy and always conscious of her unusual height.

When it came to dancing, she found it awkward — there weren't many tall boys around. One day she talked the problem over with a surgeon. He was willing to carry out an operation to shorten her legs and, after discussions with her parents, they settled for six feet as the perfect height for her.

The surgeon, Dr. Lars Undander - Scharin, made an incision on the upper part of the thigh bone of one leg, just under the neck of the femur. Two inches of the bone were cut out and the right-angled ends of the bone sections were attached to each other with a metal plate. After the first two-hour-long operation Ingrid had to rest for two weeks.

Then the other leg was treated.

After convalescence, Ingrid walked with crutches. And one year after the operation she threw the crutches away and started a new and happier life.

"I think it is just wonderful," she said. "I am really happy for the first time in several years. I can enjoy life in a way that was impossible a couple of years ago when everybody stared at me.

Probe Charges Against Doctors Hired By Govt.

Labor to Call Boycott Against Certain Firms

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan government said Thursday an investigation will be made of complaints against doctors "who are not supporting the medicare" set up by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons in the medical care dispute.

The government said a one-man royal commission will investigate a complaint made against doctors recruited to help fill gaps left when most of the existing doctors withdrew service July 1 to protest against the CCF government's compulsory prepaid medical care plan.

Fewer than 200 doctors have been providing emergency service at designated hospitals. The service is being provided by the college and co-ordinated by the Canadian Medical Association.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd said in a statement evidence has accumulated that the college, responsible for licensing doctors in the province, is seeking to use policing powers as "an offensive weapon against doctors who are not supporting the college's position."

The college said in a statement the charges are "completely without foundation."

LOOKS INTO CHARGES

The college said under the province's Medical Professional Act it is empowered to investigate any charges against its registered members and "was the duty of the college registrar to do so."

It denied any part in the recent discussions from two hospitals of doctors who had been recruited from the United Kingdom. It said they were brought in at the request of the local hospital boards.

The college confirmed that registrar Dr. George Percook had requested the work of Dr. Gerhard Beck of Jacksonville, Fla., who flew to Saskatchewan after the doctors withdrew normal services.

He has been working as an intern on an 18 - hour - a - day basis at the Leader, Sask., hospital.

A college spokesman refused to comment on the charges but said its investigation is continuing.

PROFESSALS DISTURBING

Deputy Premier J. H. Brockelbank told a press conference the government has been advised the Saskatchewan Hospital Association is disturbed by "professionals and complaints about doctors brought in to help provide vital medical care."

He said the persons in question are Dr. Gordon Bell and Dr. Fisher, a London, doctor transferred from the Leader hospital; and Dr. Joseph Montgomery, a Northern Ireland doctor who replaced Dr. Beck at the Brook Union Hospital in Arcola.

'ALL IS WELL' WITH CHURCHILL SAY DOCTORS

Takes Usual Meal And Reads Papers

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill's temperature returned to normal today and he was coughing less from his bronchial infection.

His doctors issued the bulletin after announcing Thursday that Churchill had developed the bronchial infection — his third complication since he broke his thigh in Monte Carlo two weeks ago.

"Sir Winston had a comfortable night," the doctors said. "His temperature is normal and he is coughing less."

Earlier Churchill's wife visited him for 35 minutes at Middlesex Hospital and reported he was "rather better" today.

Churchill's recovery has been complicated by phlebitis, a vein inflammation, and thrombosis, a blood clot, but Thursday's bulletin announced the health-ful complication said swelling of the leg had decreased.

A hospital spokesman said it was not proposed to issue any further bulletins on Saturday until Monday "if all goes well."

Thursday's bulletin announcing the bronchial infection was issued after the hospital had said no bulletin would be issued until today.

GIVE NO DETAILS

The doctors declined to elaborate, not even to say how high the temperature had risen. But a hospital source noted that the bronchial infection was "of sufficient consequence for the doctors to issue a bulletin after previous bulletins saying not to do so."

The bronchial system includes the windpipe and its offshoots that transport air through the lungs like branches of a tree. An infection of the system can develop into pneumonia, which would be dangerous for an elderly man even for Sir Winston's weakened condition.

However, Churchill' showed remarkable recuperative powers in battling earlier illnesses, and a hospital source said that despite the latest complication Churchill was not visibly worse than he was earlier in the day.

Churchill was able to take his usual full meal and read the newspapers Thursday and Lady Churchill said after her second visit of the day with her husband:

"I think he looked much better this evening than he did this morning. When I left, he was smoking a cigar."

Human Body Is Fine Conductor of Electricity

By GEORGE FRAZIOR

BRENTWAL (CP)—The human body is a fine conductor of electricity and this leads to some of medicine's most complicated neuroses.

Electricity is a total laboring agent, and a project is under way at Montreal's Allan Memorial Institute and the Royal Victoria Hospital, to find out what it does.

"An electric shock is carried through the whole body," explains Dr. Hidis Kingstone, in charge of the psychiatric end of the project. "In theory it injures every single cell. It's rare that we get a chance to study an injury agent so widespread in its effects."

Any severe injury can turn a well-adjusted person neurotic. Someone who loses an arm or leg or gets a head injury is understandably upset. If he's a athlete or a skilled trader, man he is understandably even more upset since his whole way of life is likely to be destroyed by the injury.

It's not so easy, however, to assign behavior under electric shock to neat little categories of organic and psychological reasons.

FITS OF WEEPING

"In electric shock cases, you get everything," Dr. Kingstone says. "There may be brain damage. There may be bad surface burns. There may be damage to the nervous system. There may be massive bleeding in the upper gastro-intestinal system. There may be fractures caused by falls. Or any combination of these."

If a patient recovering from electric shock begins to develop fits of weeping, why does he do it? Divers, Dr. Kingstone? Normal anxiety about being deformed, being a job?

"That's what we're up against, trying to find the relationship between the electric shock and the personality changed. . . . Is it that the effects can be isolated and analyzed?"

Inspiration for the project came from a paper delivered by U.S. Army surgeon to the American College of Surgeons convention in 1961. It said that a electric shock cases, certain personality changes were observed after he is restoring hospital.

The psychiatrists then go about getting a picture of the patient's personality before the accident. Social workers and friendly are interviewed.

Progress and adjustment as recovers are noted. After a patient is periodically checked by social workers and psychiatrists, he sees how he has adapted to life after the shock.

It will take a year, at least before any conclusions can be about adjustment can be made.

Focus on Health

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: eye "floaters," dental implant research and a treating test.

EYE FLOATERS

Those dainty specks and hairlike objects that sometimes cast shadows in your eyes are actually sexy red blood cells.

A physicist, Dr. Harvey E. White of the University of California, began wondering about them while recuperating from an operation for detached retina.

He told Dr. Paul Lovatis of Oakland, Calif., who performed the surgery, determined that the floating pictures came from deterioration of light rays passing around a tiny object and that red cells normally do leak out from near blood vessels into the aqueous layer in front of the retina.

MENTAL HEALTH

We are bombooming ourselves if we expect a vaccine or drug cure to come along against mental illness, a psychiatrist warns.

Tranquilizers and other drugs have calmed mental patients, he said, but tranquilizers have been found in the body chemistry of schizophrenics compared with normal persons. Another, Dr. Don D. Jackson of Stanford University School of Medicine.

But most mental troubles arise from personal relationships, he declared.

It will take hard work, good administration and treatment to deal with mental illness, Dr. Jackson says. Some relatively simple mental disturbances can help the emotionally disturbed.

CANDY AND SOFT DRINKS

School lunch rooms should not sell candy and soft drinks, declares the council on foods and nutrition of the American Medical Association.

These items are simply not as nutritious as milk, fruit juices and meat, and that children may be tempted to spend lunch money for them and thus develop poor food habits or lose appetite for regular meals.

MATCH TEST

Light a paper match, and hold it three inches from your mouth. Try to blow it out, with your mouth wide open.

If you can, your maximum breathing capacity is up to standard. If you can't, you have some chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, Dr. C. Robert Olsen of La Jolla, Calif., writes in the American review of respiratory diseases.

Winnie Once Touched up Old Painting

The book of the 76-year-old Australian statesman gave this account:

Churchill's painting involved was The Lion and the Mouse. It hangs in the great hall of Chequers, the official country residence of British prime ministers.

The picture illustrates the Aesop fable of the lion trapped in a net and the tiny mouse which seeks to gnaw it free.

During the Second World War the mouse became a problem for Churchill. Casey said. It reminded him of British in mortal combat. He grew impatient with the puny efforts of the mouse.

In 1941, when the war was in some of its darkest days, Churchill took out his brush, mounted a ladder and strengthened the mouse.

Sometime the book not reviews of the work stated how Churchill strengthened the mouse. But he presumably made the brushwork bolder.

Holiday Time At Undertakers

The month of July is traditionally holiday time and this year is no exception.

Even death is apparently taking a Rochester, N.Y. resident.

At least that is the story from local undertakers and the coroner's office. Only one obituary notices in The Ontario Intelligencer within the past few days seems to bear this out.

On Thursday this newspaper did not have a single obituary and the only death notice was one of a Rochester, N.Y. resident.

One local undertaker who frequently has several funerals in a day, noted yesterday that his firm hadn't had a funeral since last Friday. And a check of the coroner's office obituary column showed that other funeral undertakers in the city have also been quiet.

United States Has Ended Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government has ended nuclear tests in the Christmas Island area of the Pacific after 26 explosions in 10 months.

But it was indicated that high-altitude shots in the Johnston Island area were still being contemplated. Only one of the three nuclear blasts so far has been made, and that after two abortive attempts because of mechanical bugs.

The Atomic Energy Commission said that the last explosion, a mid-time Thursday night (8 a.m. EDT today), the Christmas Island test area set up April 4 would be "dis - established." This lifts the ban on 180 citizens or those under American jurisdiction from entering the area.

The United States began the Christmas Island tests April 26. All were air - dropped except one underwater low - yield explosion. The only missile fired from a submarine underwater.

Charge Thrown Out of Court By Magistrate

A charge of dangerous driving, brought by the Crown against Clarence Blakely, of Runswood Drive, Belleville, was thrown out of court this morning by Magistrate J. W. Wills. The charge resulted from an accident, June 21, at about 12:15 a.m. on Highway No. 2 Drive. Mr. Blakely lost control of his car and collided with a telephone pole.

The magistrate labelled the Crown's suggestion that the accident might have been the result of drinking "a smear" and commented that the evidence presented was not up to the standards expected of the Crown.

Mr. Blakely will appear in court again on July 24, to answer a charge of careless driving.

Fat in Pan Caught Fire, No Damage

The fire department was called to 142 Front Street yesterday to extinguish a fire in a frying pan. Fortunately, the fire had been put out by the owner before firemen arrived.

Mrs. D. Tenard, of 142 Front St., was baking pies. She didn't notice a frying pan, with some fat in it, on the top shelf of the stove when she turned on the oven. The pan overheated, and the fat caught fire. There was no damage.

U.S. Prepared To Cut Demands For Inspection

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States indicated readiness to offer some new concessions to break a deadlock in the drought negotiations test ban treaty and has suggested Russia could make some concessions of her own.

State Secretary Rusk told a press conference that President Kennedy U.S. regards as a substantial reduction in the number of inspections that would be required.

But the improvements won't provide a complete substitution for inspection and controls, he said, and a treaty must be satisfactory if Russia continues to reject all Western demands for some inspection of her territory.

The U.S. and Britain have proposed a treaty banning tests of 180 world control posts including about 20 in Russia. They also have requested that Russia allow between 12 and 20 annual inspections on her territory. Russia has rejected this saying the West merely wants to spy on Soviet military installations.

Shortly after meeting with reporters, Rusk conferred with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin for 1½ hours on disarmament and test ban matters. Disarmament talks will later "the situation" on nuclear testing.

Nuclear test ban treaty talks likely will form a vital part of the agenda of disarmament negotiations to be resumed at Geneva Monday. It is believed that the U.S. may provide some new concessions on the way to reduced control posts and inspections coincided with an Atomic Energy Commission announcement that its big nuclear test series in the mid-Pacific is coming to an end.

Metro to Change Voting Hours

TORONTO (CP)—Now that Metropolitan Toronto has the right to change its voting hours, Metro Council decided Thursday to study trouble agreeing with Toronto over the best time to catch voters.

The Ontario government gave Metro permission to change the hours for municipal elections to permit polling between 10 a.m. and least eight hours between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m., after Toronto complained about losing votes from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Previous years metro elections have been held from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., on the first Monday in December.

Metro executive committee will now study and examine legalities for suggestions and polled municipal clerks on the matter. Results of the first polls released Thursday, indicated Toronto wants the change, a evening hour. Though many municipalities have not yet discussed the question, they have were generally satisfied with the present hours, all want to keep the 8 p.m. closing.

NDP Membership Start Caucus

After attending a dinner given by an NDP women's group, the caucus got down to work in a night session. However, they said they would issue no announcements before their meeting ended today.

Woodrow Fluker, of Port Arthur, re-elected chairman of the Socialist caucus in the House, announced the vice - chairman will be Harold Winch, member for Vancouver East.

Stanley Knowles, whip of the CCF before the election defeated Winnipeg North Centre in 1958, regained his caucus title to match the Commons member-ship he regained in the same Winnipeg city.

Moriarty Named As Owner of Gambling Hoard

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Joseph (Newboy) Moriarty, named by police as owner of a $2,300,000 gambling hoard, was indicted Thursday on 44 counts of lottery operation.

The 54-year-old gambler has maintained silence in his Trenton prison cell about the big money caches.

But the Hudson County grand jury linked a second find—$158,675 — directly to Moriarty by charging him with engaging in a lottery and having lottery slips in his possession at a garage where the second cache was found July 4. The first bundle of $2,400,000 was found in another garage a block away July 3.

The second garage also yielded 28 bags of lottery slips. Moriarty, a loser who doesn't spend much on his meals, has been in Trenton state prison since March on a sentence of up to three years for a gambling operation.

Secret Army Leader Seized And Aides Too

PARIS (Reuter)—A man who has escaped an ambush for former Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, European terrorist leader, has been arrested, police announced today. Jouhaud is under sentence of death.

Police said the man, Henri Darmagnac, 28, was arrested here by police on a charge of second in command of a 60-man unit of the Army Organization group, divided into 16 units, which specialized in terrorism when they attacked.

Leaders of four units under his command also were under arrest.

Darmagnac was under the over-all leadership of a former lieutenant known as "Captain Sergio." He was responsible for all Secret Army attacks in the Paris area during the last three months.

Darmagnac's arrest led to the capture of eight accomplices including two women and a car-load of explosives.

Police made no quietly. Darmagnac explained his activities to the police as saying: "I do not like bloodshed, but the end justifies the means."

Jouhaud was sentenced to death this spring for his activities as second-in-command of the Secret Army.

Fighters Gain Upper Hand Against Blaze

ROSEVAL, Que. (CP)—Lumbering gained the upper hand Thursday in the fight against the Thirteen Rivers forest fire 80 miles west of the Lac St. Jean Centre.

Aided by rain for the second time this week, they extinguished the blaze along one-third of its perimeter, forestry spokesmen said. The fire, which began two weeks ago, has burned 75 square miles and destroyed 150-square-mile area.

Some 600 men and eight aircraft have been fighting to keep it from spread and stacks of cut spruce and balsam bound for the pulp mills of Trois-Rivieres, 140 miles south.

Progress was being made against the sequence of Shawinigan River fire 110 miles north of Manivaki, Que.

The Quebec government opened northern Gatineau, Pontiac, Joliette, Montcalm, Chicoutimi and Maskinonge Counties to the public. Only the St. Maurice watershed in Trois-Rivieres and Quebec Counties were banned to the public.

Strike Wrong, Medical Weekly Lifts Ad Ban

LONDON (CP)—Two authoritative British medical publications—both of which have refused to carry Saskatchewan advertisements for doctors—express their opposition to the withdrawal of services by the province's practitioners.

"Withdrawal organized for political ends is, we think, wrong," says Lancet, an independent weekly.

The publication describes the Saskatchewan doctors' action as "an alien procedure, out of keeping with the character of any profession, and especially that of medicine."

Lancet backs up its editorial stand with the publication for the first time since May of advertisements offered by the province's Medical Care Insurance Commission for doctors to fill permanent posts on the prairies.

The British Medical Journal, the weekly published by the nation's medical association, reminds the Saskatchewan doctors of their obligations under the profession's world code of ethics.

The journal has not yet uttered its decision to refuse the Saskatchewan Medical Care Commission's offers of advertisements.

Mayor Whitton Abruptly Cuts Expense Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton has abruptly cut short the Finnerty family expenses-paid stay at an uptown hotel and the defiant family's whereabouts are a mystery.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Finnerty and their two sons, who had been living in a tent on their $30,000 property in suburban Alta Vista, moved into their hotel rooms Thursday after one night and are believed to be staying with friends.

Mayor Whitton ordered city welfare officers Thursday to stop treating the family as "emergency cases." She said Public Assistance Supervisor James Sheridan appeared to have exceeded his authority in paying the Finnerty's hotel bill.

"It is not our policy to give free hotel accommodation for powerful young men who are quite able to work," she told a board of control meeting, referring to John Finnerty, 25, and his brother Chris, 19, both major league hockey players.

The family faces prosecution under housing or sanitation regulations unless it takes down its tent. Its 18-year-old larger dwelling was demolished two weeks ago by city crews after a six-year legal battle.

Mr. Finnerty, 50, has asked for permission to live in a trailer, but city housing regulations prevent it here.

Former Member Tells of Life In Ghana

TRENTON — A visitor at last night's meeting of the Trenton Kiwanis Club was last year's vice-president Ray Fanthem. They, who is a flight lieutenant with the RCAF resigned from his position in the local club when he was posted to Ghana, in west Africa. Ray is part of a 36-man team, comprised of army, navy and RCAF personnel, sent out to Ghana by the Canadian government, at its request, to train natives in defence measures. Ray and F-L Bob Castle of RCAF Station, Comox, are the only two RCAF men attached to the training team. They are giving pilot instruction to members of the Ghanian air-force-to-be.

Ray is in Ghana for two weeks, to pick up a Caribou aircraft from de Havilland's Toronto plant. He and his Ghanian crew will fly from Toronto to Recife, in Trinidad; to Belem, Brazil, on to Recife, Brazil, across to the Ascension Islands, and so on to Accra, Ghana.

Ray, his wife and family have been in Takoradi, Ghana for months. They expect to be there two years. Mrs. Fanthem is teaching in a "One-sided" type school, Many of the native schools, which are springing up all over the country, have Canadians on their staffs. Ghana achieved her independence in 1957, and since then, a very great effort has been made towards providing elementary education for the natives. Secondary and technical education will follow as soon as the country's finances permit it.

Ray says that according to those who have lived in the country's past, conditions in Ghana has taken immeasurable strides in five years. The President of Ghana, is Kwame Nkrumah. He heads up the only unopposed party in the land, the country. The government is strong in all one insists on buying imported foods, but can be lowered by supplementing the family diet with native fruits and vegetables.

Natives live in mud huts in the villages and small houses of frame construction in the cities. Their diet of native-grown foods, is entirely different, from Canadian diet. The Ghanians are inordinately fond of high-ly spiced foods.

Temperatures range between 85 and 90 degrees the year round. The rainy season lasts about a month.

Ray says there is a very active social life among the white element.

Seven or eight or nine million people, seem, for the most part, to be happy there. Apartment upon bettering their lot and enjoying their new-found freedom, while accepting graciously foreign assistance.

BANKER'S AIDE DIES

NEW YORK (AP)—De Vesco. Smith, 60, personal aide to banker David Rockefeller, shot himself to death Thursday in a room of the Harvard Club, police said. Rockefeller, youngest of four brothers of Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York, is president of the Chase Manhattan Bank.

Rescue Equipment Tested By RCAF, Research Ship

TRENTON — Three government agencies are co-operating in the testing of new emergency equipment and automatic signalling devices, for use with aircraft as well as fishing and pleasure boats, under the direction of Captain H. R. Smyth, Head of the Radio and Electrical Engineering Division of the National Research Council (NRC).

Earlier this week, the Radel II, a 113 ft. motor launch operated by NRC and under command of Captain-A. Hebir carried out the tests in Lake Ontario in a similar fashion to the Coast Guard Rescue Section of the Dept. of Transport, Ottawa, and aided by an Albatross aircraft from Number 104 Composite Unit, RCAF Station Trenton.

The equipment being tested included a colored distress signal of rubberized cloth, developed by Dept. Coast Guard, with distinctive markings visible from a search aircraft at 6,000 feet by day or night with the aid of an ordinary flashlight.

Also undergoing test was a Marine Distress Beacon, first conceived one month ago by the NRC in co-operation with Electronic Research at Halifax. This Beacon, when activated, will emit a distress signal that can be picked up by radio equipment already in use in search aircraft, and will enable the aircraft to home in on the disabled boat.

Another piece of equipment under test is the Qwak Position Indicator (CPI) developed by the National Aeronautical Establishment of NRC in concert with the Radio and Electrical Division. The CPI will be attached to small aircraft in such a manner that in the event of a crash, landing it will separate from the aircraft, and automatically switch on and transmit a distress signal to that of the Marine Distress Beacon, enabling easier search and rescue possibilities.

The RCAF's Search and Rescue Homing Aid System (SARAH), which has been in service for some time now, was used for comparison tests at the same time. The SARAH is equipped with a transmitter-receiver to enable radio conversation between rescuer and survivor.

Following two days of successful tests, a conference was held at RCAF Station Trenton under the chairmanship of Captain H. D. G. Bould, Coast Guard Rescue Officer in charge of DOT Marine Rescue for the Great Lakes, where the results were discussed and evaluated.

Man With Rifle Indispensable Says Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The age of nuclear warfare has made "the man with the rifle" more than ever indispensable to the country's defence, in the view of President Kennedy.

At the close of a ceremonial parade by U.S. marines, in the backyard of the 181-year-old marine barracks here Thursday night, Kennedy delivered an unscheduled speech, in tribute to the men who stormed the beaches and stalked the Pacific islands.

Kennedy sat through the hour-long review, then told the troops and dignitaries of the government and Congress who watched with him:

"All of us, I am sure, 19 years ago thought that the need for the man with the rifle would be passing away from the scene in the 1960s, and it is true that there are a good many Americans tonight who are stationed underground in a hardened silo whose only duty is to watch some tables and some dials and a button."

"But the very size and magnitude of the new, great weapons have placed a new emphasis upon what we call rather strangely conventional war.

"They have made it even more mandatory than ever that we keep the man with the rifle, and that is what the marine corps has symbolized."

QUEBEC (CP)—Gilles Pratte, Quebec City correspondent for Montreal La Presse, was fined $100 Thursday after being found guilty of defamatory libel in connection with an article concerning Raymond Mather, Quebec City lawyer and candidate for the Union Nationale party leadership last September.

Some Grandstand Seats Will Be Equipped With Backs

As Belleville Fair time draws near there are many things which accumulate, requiring the attention of the fair board members, before action can be taken. In their last bi-weekly meeting before going into weekly session in two weeks' time, the board's directors settled many of the small but necessary details which require attention.

One of the major decisions of last evening's meeting at the county building was to improve the grandstand box section and to provide the first six rows of seats in the centre section with backs on an experimental basis. If this modification proves successful and durable it is intended to provide backs for the balance of the 900-odd seats in the centre section and turn it into a reserved seat area.

It was announced by the attractions committee that the line-up for the wrestling bouts which will be held on the Tuesday evening of the fair would be announced by next week. It is hoped that British Empire champion Whipper Billy Watson will be on the card. Arrangements have been made for a contest with the local arena to provide the wrestling ring.

The horse committee reported that final details for preparing the stalls and facilities for exhibitors in their section had been completed. With the regulations that all horses are to be measured coming into force this year it was suggested that a special measuring gauge be built to make this operation as quick and efficient as possible.

A two-year contract was awarded to Frank deCarrol to provide the sound service for the fair, in a very fascinating bit of procedure involving amendments to amendments to a motion.

Secondary privileges for Northern Electric employees to have free access to the grounds were again approved by the board for the 1963 fair.

It was announced that the next necessary office was almost completed and that it was expected to be in use this Saturday evening for parimutuel betting for the Quinte Driving Club's betting races.

Except for a large number of committee meetings the board will not hold its next full meeting until July 26th, although it will convene every Thursday up to fair time.

Two Algerian Rivals Both Wildly Cheered

ALGIERS (Reuters) — The split in Algerian nationalist leadership apparently persisted today after speeches Thursday night by the leaders of the two rival factions.

Speaking to an enthusiastic crowd of 100,000 in eastern Algeria, Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda appealed for unity to build a democratic and social state.

He spoke in the town of Tizi Ouzou, capital of the Kabylie mountain region east of Algiers. This is considered a stronghold of Belkacem Krim, a staunch "Ben Khedda" and one of the five ministers at the premier's side Thursday night. The premier repeated his earlier assurances that Europeans have a place in an independent Algeria. He described the present as "only a stage, a step forward the aims of the revolution."

"Our aim," he said, "is the formation of a state for the benefit of the people."

BEN KHEDDA DEFIANT

But Ben Khedda's rival, Vice Premier Mohammed Ben Bella, speaking to a large crowd in the western port city of Oran, vowed that "the army will defeat the revolutionary forces."

"The minority," he told the wildly cheering crowd, "must give way before the majority," apparently meaning that the Ben Khedda forces must yield.

The dissident vice premier called for "national unity" and pledged security for Jews and Europeans as laid down in the France-Algerian agreements signed in March ending the seven-year Moslem nationalist insurrection.

Despite the apparent clash among the leaders, Algerian officials and the man in the street both rejected any idea of armed force to back the split.

Authoritative sources in Algiers said Thursday night that the councils of the country's six districts (in 11 large districts) which at present hold effective power in Algeria, already had secret contacts last week and were expected to meet again soon in efforts to form a united front before Aug. 12 elections.

Wants Airlines Amalgamated

EDMONTON (CP) — TCA President G. R. Gathercoal says merger of Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Airlines is the solution to the Mose' financial plight.

"I'm convinced it's the best thing for the airlines and for the country," he said Thursday in an interview. "If it doesn't come about, we are going to turn Canada into a string of mini-junior editions of the railroads with all their financial woes."

Mr. McGregor said competition between the airlines has meant "dollars spent on duplication of effort . . . In this business, competition isn't funny. It's expensive and it's not efficient."

Move Manager To Trenton

TRENTON—Oltried Walter, the former manager of the Bata Shoe Store at Belleville, has been transferred to the Trenton store.

At a recent retail sales advertising clinic held at the Bata plant, Mr. Walter achieved the highest standing in leadership tests.

ELECT DIRECTORS

Directors elected at last night's Trenton Kiwanis Club meeting were Ken Foley, Peter Reid and Mo Jeffary.

Next Monday sees the first meeting of children to be sent off to the Salvation Army camp at Robin Lake. Local Kiwanians supply transportation, arrange for medical examinations and give the children many small "extras" to take to camp with them.

Next Thursday's meeting will be held at Ron Jeffrey's cottage.

'Ban the Bomb' Banners Seized In Red Square

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian security men seized "ban the bomb" banners today when two dozen young Britishers unfurled them in Red Square.

The demonstrators, a fifty-fifty Britons with a sprinkling of Americans and Scandinavians, had been warned earlier they would be deported if they went through with their plans to announce nuclear testing fast beneath the Kremlin walls.

The banners told the Westerners they were being "provocative."

Leaders of the demonstration told reporters earlier they had been summoned by Alexander Kornetchuk, Soviet author and a leader of the Soviet peace-loving committee, to discuss the peace congress now going on in the Kremlin.

"The congress was held here under the condition that there would be free speech inside the hall but no demonstrations outside."

OILMAN DIES

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Clarence B. Richardson, 94, millionaire businessman and philanthropist died Thursday after a long illness. Richardson, one of Wyoming's wealthiest men, was founder and former president and chairman of the board of the Consolidated Royalty Company, of Casper and one of the principal developers of the Salt Creek oil field near Casper, one of the highest producing U.S. oil fields.

Birth Control Pills Reliably Effective if Used Correctly

CHICAGO (AP)—A gynaecologist says birth control pills have proved a virtually infallible guidance to some women but apparently are reliably effective if used correctly.

Commenting upon reports by three clinical studies which involved use of oral contraceptives by a total of 1,645 women, Dr. DeCosta of Chicago said complete safety of the method cannot be established because the longest period of study on their effects covers only seven years.

"There is no indication of any serious long or short-term deleterious effects," Dr. DeCosta said, but he also noted "it is quite impossible for anyone to say whether or not an offshoot risk is involved" in use of the pills.

Dr. DeCosta, associate professor of obstetrics and gynaecology at Northwestern University, discussed use of birth control pills in an article for the Journal of the American Medical Association.

USED IMPROPERLY

Discussing tests of the steriod hormones norethynodrel and norethindrone, the effective ovulation blockers in various oral contraceptives, he noted some pregnancies occurred among women taking the drugs. He said pregnancy "is invariably blamed upon failure to use the pills properly."

"It is very easy to forget to take the pills or to get to bed-ing," he noted. The proper time, doctors said, is from the 5th through the 24th day of the menstrual cycle.

Nuisance side-effects, Dr. DeCosta said, led about half of the physicians with whom he discussed the pills to discourage their patients from taking them.

Most of the complaints are similar to those of early pregnancy," he said, "namely fatigue, nausea, vomiting, bloating, lower abdominal distress, fullness of the breasts and weight gain."

Saskatchewan Semantics

The world, by now, has become accustomed to the fact that the communistic and democratic worlds attach radically different meanings to the same words.

Naturally enough, we in the West accuse the communists of being hypocritical when they misuse words like "democracy," "freedom," "peace-loving" and "war-monger."

Now, however, Saskatchewan is providing us with a classic example of the way in which a word will have different connotations for different groups.

Both the Saskatchewan physicians and the government agree that the word "strike" is a misnomer when applied to the reaction of the M.D.s to the province's compulsory medical care insurance plan. Because they are near to the situation, and to the reactions of those directly involved in the dispute, Saskatchewan newspapers and radio stations avoid use of the word "strike."

But the reasons why doctors and government officials alike object to the use of the word "strike" are vastly different.

The doctors object to being placed in the same category as any other worker when he refuses to accept the terms of employment offered him by his employer. "We're not employees," says Dr. Neville Smith, spokesman for the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons. To the doctors, "strike" is a dirty word.

But to the New Democratic government, with its close ties with organized labor, "strike" means something else again. The government does not want to dignify the action of the doctors with such a word. If the doctors are striking, then the government is engaged in strike-breaking, as Dr. Smith, quoted above, so pertinently observes, and "strike-breaking," of course, is a very dirty word indeed as far as the New Democrats are concerned.

Dr. Smith is not the only one who can get in a sly dig. Consider this effort by Donald D. Tansley, chairman of the Medical Care Insurance Commission: "A strike is usually by a responsible body established by law as a bargaining agency. The college of Physicians and Surgeons . . . doesn't fulfill this definition."

Premier Woodrow Lloyd alone seems to have retained some impartiality on this question of nomenclature. Labor unions might object to the use of the word "strike," he says. Then, with a nice touch with which we are familiar, significantly, he adds that "a rose by any other name smells the same." Not, be it noted, "as sweet."

"Big Boom" Is Over

The Big Boom is over.

The United States has exploded a major nuclear device high in the sky and nothing untoward appears to have happened.

This may appear to justify scoffing at those who painted such possible terrors resulting from this feat in the atmosphere—radio communications disrupted for days if not weeks, not to mention the possibility of the earth being showered with radioactivity when a "hole" was blasted in the Van Allen radiation belt. There is little doubt, though, that some of those who expressed such concern were scientifically "illmade," although their fears were not justified on this occasion.

Far from drawing the conclusion that further experiments of this type can be conducted in perfect safety, we might well join with Prime Minister Diefenbaker in his reiterated opposition to all future nuclear tests. There is a vast difference between Moscow's hypocritical denunciation of the U.S. test as "a crime . . . against which all humanity has wrathfully protested" and the sober assessment that nuclear tests are part and parcel of the arms race and as such are steps along a path which cannot lead the world to security and may lead it to disaster.

Obsolete Radar Stations

The U.S. Government reports that during the last twelve months it has closed down nine radar stations in Canada, including three major stations. The installations, costing more than $20,000,000, were made unnecessary by extension of the DEW line both east and west.

If anybody should think this type of planned obsolescence is somewhat expensive, he has Russian Premier Khrushchev's word for it that the $20,000,000 represents only two hundred minutes' expenditure by the U.S.

Radar stations, it seems, are just not in the same class with rockets when it comes to throwing money into the air.

Strictly Personal
Creativity Gets Lost in Conformity

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

If you visit a first-grade class, as I did recently, you will find that the children are bright-eyed and eager, warm and responsive, direct and spontaneous.

Then, if you visit a sixth-grade class, you will feel a distinct difference in the emotional and intellectual atmosphere. The students are wary; their relations are calculated; their answers are based on what they think the teacher and society generally — wants to hear, not on what they themselves think.

One of the real needs for educational research today — and one of the main objectives of a bill now in Congress for that purpose — is to discover how the teaching process actually works best, and how we can prevent it from freezing and formalizing as it does, that their natural curiosity and enthusiasm is not dampened and extinguished.

The whole process of communicating knowledge in the most effective way is still largely a closed book to us. All we can be sure of is that pouring things happens to pupils between their kindergarten experiences and their emergence into high school — and often it happens all too frequently a loss of intellectual tone, a cramping of imagination, a resistance to ideas.

I am absolutely convinced that this is not a natural development, but comes from some perversion in the teaching process. All youngsters are naturally interested in painting and music; they are interested in words and with numbers; they enjoy hearing about strange countries and ancient times. Indeed, the whole curriculum of education is a matter of delight to the inquiring young mind.

The most important thing in the whole learning process, it seems to me, is an emotional component: the continuing responsiveness of the child. And what is it precisely that turns a child from an eager receptor of knowledge to a dull-eyed register of facts he neither cares about nor will bother to remember after the class is over?

This is the problem in an academic problem, but an increasingly vital one in modern society. For as knowledge becomes greater, and as the utilization of knowledge becomes more imperative in our national life, we find at the same time that more and more pupils look upon education as merely a tedious preamble to "real life," which means earning a living in the world.

The number of school dropouts is alarmingly high, and rising. Even among those in the number of students who are graduated from high school and even from college without a rudimentary education is depressingly high, from the civilization. If it is to survive at all, this constant failure trait of imagination, creativity and curiosity which the schools seem to drain out of their students at an early age.

Higher Wages, Fewer Jobs

Brantford Expositor

Food for reflection may be provided by realization that, in the last decade, the number of railroad workers has dropped from about 815,000 in 1950 to less than 705,000 at present.

This is due to automation, of course, but that is only one of the reasons.

Elementary arithmetic and basic economics are involved. The Wall Street Journal, remarking that the railroads, averaging 10.86 cents an hour have been "wooed" from the rails, have by now 450,000 members of non-operating unions, says these lines only spend millions of dollars annually to the railway operating costs. The amounts are so high, it seems, that hardly any company is able to absorb them.

How will they be met? The financial newspaper does not suggest that rate increases feasible. So the alternative, it thinks, will be a substantial cut in the number of hands employed.

It suggests, therefore, that railroad union members and their leaders may wake up one day to the realization that they easily talked to "win" fatter more big wage increases from the railroads."

It is an interesting consideration, and one not without a certain applicability to the railway situation in Canada.

"I started out as a general practitioner . . . Now I'm an insurance specialist."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 13th, 1943

Black sweet cherries, grown in the Niagara district, were offered for the first time on the local market this morning with one vendor asking $1.45 per six quart basket. Canners are also quoting high prices, 20 pound for this type of cherry in Western Ontario. Locally-grown Montmorency cherries were also offered for the first time, at 85 cents the basket or 15 cents the berry box. Raspberries were quoted at 30 cents, the same price as for the limited offerings of the past week.

Considered a very unique occurrence in the horticultural world, Mr. M. Johnson of Sidney Street, has a Regal lily now in flower upon which there are 64 individual blooms. The blooms are on the one stock and present a very imposing and beautiful appearance.

Redeemville branch of the Women's Institute is again having its share in the Ontario jam-making enterprise to produce and pack jam for the use of civilians and the armed forces in Britain, it was revealed today. With the jam-making season only nicely started, this group of war workers in the Redeemville district have already packed four-dozen four-pound cans of strawberry jam and two dozen cans of the same type of containers of gooseberry jam. Work is under way on the Brinkman canning factory, and these workers expect to continue their jam making throughout the entire season, and they expect at least to equal their last year's contribution of over 2,600 lbs.

Over 5,000 people were in Frankford on July 12th, for the Orange celebrations. This was conducted under the auspices of Frankford Orange Lodge No. 240. The parade was fully two miles in length. The village was gaily decorated in honor of the speaking.

Mr. Knight McGregor of New York City, well known vocalist, was signed to be the guest soloist during a few days here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Dolan, Miss Bessie Dolan and Miss Ruth Dolan motored to Quebec City on a trip to Eagle Lake near Sanford.

Mr. Thomas Holgate of Bowmanville, formerly of Belleville, spent the week-end here.

The Rev. Father O'Flynn and the Rev. Father Hogan motored out to this city from New York City, and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clarke of Dundas Street.

Miss Agnes Gallagher and Miss Stella Ford have returned home after spending the past month on a trip to Ireland, England and France.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen journeyed by motor cars to Twelve O'Clock Point where they had their annual picnic. Mayor Charles Hanna and family were guests of the picnic. The affair was most enjoyable.

A large number of the members of the Methodist Church of Thomasburg assembled at the parsonage last evening to bid farewell to their pastor, the Rev. W. R. Merrick and family who are leaving for their new home in Morven. An address was read by Dr. Morgan and a purse of money was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Merrick.

The tax rate for the town of Napanee this year will be 43½ mills.

Ald. McCurdy and Ald. Slater presided at the police court this morning owing to the absence of the magistrate.

The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council has approved of the appointment of Miss Helen E. Ham as Deputy Clerk of the County Court and of the High Court, and Registrar of the Surrogate Court of the County of Hastings, to act at any time during the absence of Mr. John Williams from the city.

Old King Coal May Revive

Brantford Expositor

While old King Coal hasn't abdicated, he has been reduced to a rank of a lesser monarch. Even so, he may stage a comeback within the next 25 years.

Up to the latter part of last century, wood was the main source of mechanical energy. Canada, Coal assumed top position shortly before 1900 and held it until 1953, when it was surpassed by oil. At the turn of the century coal supplied more than 55 per cent of the country's energy needs. By 1920 it was supplying about 75 per cent. But by 1953 it was providing only about 17½ per cent, due to the steadily increasing use of oil and natural gas.

However it would be a mistake to assume that coal is done for. Bank of Montreal economists, among others, tell us that the trend may reverse itself before long as the practical possibilities for further hydro-electric development are limited, we shall then return to coal as a means of burning electric generating plants. The experts add that pipelines may be used for conveying coal in crushed form, mixed with oil and water, before it is needed.

Meanwhile consumption of petroleum now meets more than 40 per cent of all Canada's energy needs and, with the construction of pipelines from the Canadian West and the Northern gas field in the West, natural gas consumption has risen until it represents about 13 per cent of the total.

Prospects could change radically and dramatically if there were a big commercial development in the use of nuclear power produced from uranium. This, however, is not anticipated for a number of years, at least in the near future. Of course they've been underestimating the possibilities.

With all this, Canada is still comparatively rich in most of the energy fuels required. This is of a real importance, in spite of the shortage not to the fact but it is more practical — and much cheaper — to bring in coal, for instance, from Pennsylvania to the east of the country than to develop shale deposits from coal Nova Scotia or the West. At that, the volume of import of this kind is decreasing and the prospect is for satisfactory supply from combined resources of coal, oil, gas and nuclear power.

What Makes What Makes You Hungry?

Welland Evening Tribune

Whether you're a little boy or kind of a big fellow you're pulled fairly often that you've got to have a piece of pie, a freshly baked roll or, as notably, chocolate cake because it would rule your appetite for dinner.

Mom, or the Mrs., as the case may be is right. Chances are she doesn't know why, because even scientists are unable to find the exact reason why we do or don't feel hungry. But they're trying hard.

It doesn't take a scientist to tell you that if you're hungry and you eat a big meal you won't be hungry any more. But how long will the pangs of hunger be stopped?

Depends on what you eat. If you had a dinner long way on rice you'll probably be posing around the refrigerator in a few hours. If it was steak, you'll be content for quite a spell. The ingredients in the meat readily digested and leaves the stomach first. Then comes Chinese dinner. Protein is digested less rapidly and its many acids slow down digestion of other foodstuffs. There you're in the middle category.

Yet there's more to hunger and satiety than a full stomach. Experiments have shown that the basic feelings of hunger and satiety are located in the area at the base of the brain called the hypothalamus. It seems to work like a thermostat in a heating system.

The hypothalamus has two divisions, the feeding centre and the satiety centre. The latter seems to be the dominant centre. The question before the house is: what activates these two areas?

Back to research again and we find that the level of blood circulation may have something to do with it. Certain intake of carbohydrates seems to affect the blood sugar level. This level fluctuates with feelings of hunger. The scientists are now working for information if protein will affect have some effect on the workings of the hypothalamus. Appraising Shade Trees

Sudbury Star

Hard-headed city fathers and reluctant taxpayers, all of whom pay $9 service to the axeman for each tree felled, often begrudging the cost of planting, would be interested to learn they have a value in dollars and cents.

This is the annual report of Sudbury's tree planting committee, prepared by chairman Ed Gardner explains the accepted method of determining the value of a tree. "This is all based on the price of the lumber it contains, the height and thought addition, its monetary value will be $2,000.

In most cases, the calculation is more complicated, with leafy-crowned giants of the forest smaller percentage of the crosy trees figure, and being valued taken off for condition.

However, by these standards, even a large poplar in mediocre condition is worth $25.

Because poplar tree pulps that in the case of an especially fine tree, the appraisers may increase the basic value. In the same report, Oryst Sawchuk, chairman of the tree planting committee, notes that its budget is "a modest one compared to the problem."

Perhaps this lack of funds might be corrected if trees were regarded as a business investment. If there only 810 in that plant a tree, and a few dollars each year to nurse it to a healthy maturity. Surely oak would then represent a return of several thousand per cent on our investment.

That's good business for any community!

New One-Dose Medication Will Kill All Pinworms Present

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Some additional suggestions have been coming to me about pinworms.

One is, "Since I discovered what I believe to be pinworms on my grandaughter and her little brother, they have both been treated with the new one-dose medication.

It will kill any eggs that are present, and kill them forever. It won't, however, kill eggs that come along subsequently. Pinworm isn't a germ-born disease and there isn't any way of "vaccinating" against new attacks, any more than ducking in a (w'hoo'li) persists you against being hit by the next one to be thrown.

Another question — is it necessary to keep on boiling underclothes and bed linens? I am not reply categorically, although I suspect that it is. Right now, elaborate studies are being made in search of the right answer.

Some few years ago, when our knowledge of pinworms was defective as now, even with daily changes of linens and boiling, the pinworms persisted. Now it may have been simply because the eggs couldn't kill all the eggs and worms in the intestinal tract, which meant that no amount of outward cleanliness could succeed.

The effectiveness of the new medication is such, however, that some experts now wonder whether boiling of linens is really necessary at all, except perhaps for one single treatment at the time it is given.

However, it obviously cannot do harm to boil the clothes and linens (usually a child) should be extremely careful about washing the hands before touching food, the mouth, or the face.

It is also advisable to be insistent that the child get to the bathroom during his bedtime as well as his face, and even his neck and ears if you can manage it. Also, let it be something in the morning.

After that, the rule is to wash before eating anything, or touching the mouth. That way the risk of new pinworm eggs getting into the system is minimal.

Dr. Molner's booklet on "The Commonest Pest — Pinworm," is available to any reader in return for a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling costs. Address requests to Dr. J. Molner, in care of this newspaper.)

Dear Dr. Molner: Can an electrocardiogram reveal if you have had, say, two heart (it) attacks and not know it? If it was my opinion that it would only show the condition of the heart at the time the test was taken, but not show heart history. — Mrs. E.H.

Your view is the error. A heart attack can leave its marks on the heart, and these will show up on the cardiogram or Eeg. Yes, it will show some heart history.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can gas, celery, etc., from an overflowing septic tank cause serious illness, if say but skin level IS at times. — Mrs. A.J.

The celery won't cause serious illness, but can, by the sheer smell, upset you and cause nausea and even vomiting. The untreated sewage itself, however, can be extremely dangerous, spreading such diseases as hepatitis, typhoid, dysentery to have the situation corrected at once.

Note to M.R.P.: "Cervical arthritis" is like any other, except that it affects the cervical or neck area of the spine.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help relieve the aches and stay rid of them? For answers read Dr. Molner's helpful new booklet, How to Heal Zeptic Ulcers and Keep Them From Coming Back. Send copy to Dr. Molner in care of—The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Short Weight Really Theft

Edmonton Journal

Short-weight packaging or "shrinkflation" in Edmonton has been running rather high" in the United States. So says an enforcement director of the Food and Drug Administration.

Canadians have reason to ask whether much the same situation prevails in this country. Recent instances here and elsewhere have been described as "accidents," but protection of the public is still at issue.

Trust is a basic element of modern commerce. Every time it deliberately is thievery, no different in substance from picking pockets.

An ancient racket, weight cheating is more than ever for consumers to detect.

It's easy to advocate more policing, but the public still more money. What point is there in growing offenders receive parking-fine slaps?

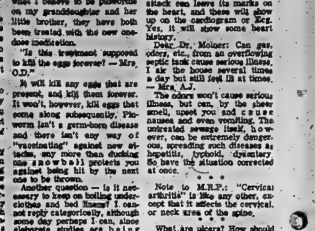
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

This is the time of year in which we look with pride on the road builders of this country are pretty remarkable men. As we go sailing along the beautiful highways, it is hard to remember what they were like two years ago, let alone five. Maybe we have driven this route for twenty years. It is hard to remember that a week back, possibly three years, or five, there was some construction going on along here somewhere, and we were irritated at being made a detour around a back road for some miles. Why, we asked, don't they build highways at some other time than in the holidays?

How few of these we remember! If we drove the route in fall or winter, it is true we saw a few men and a few machines scattered in a lonely kind of way along the construction areas. Nobody seemed to be working at the moment.

Yet magically, the highway extend, sweeping serenely over hill and dale, across counties, across provinces. One day, they are not there. The next they are there and have been for forever. As we soar along in our cars, let us give a kind thought to the men behind them who put the lovely ribbons under us.



Sign of Times?

Cologne Rendezvous

During the days of gallant knights, citizens in a locality ringing a bell called a meeting of St. Sebastian to protect themselves against bandit gangs. TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—The speculative upsurge Thursday continued with renewed vigor as the stock market today as seven of a copper find on one property carried heavy trading in issues with prospects in the same areas.

Violamac Mines released information that it had diamond drilling on one of a Timmins area property and mapped "favorable" findings. Almost triple its opening price, in the first hour of trading today, the stock jumped as high as $2.60, then eased to $2.46 on a turnover of more than 220,000 shares.

Other heavy traders included New Alger, Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting, Dickenson Mines, Bidgood, Lapaska and Kirkland Minerals, 50,000 shares. Price changes in these issues, however, were slight.

In the industrial list, mining issues predominated, with base metals declining in a solid line. Monsteel, Nova Scotia, Toronto-Dominion, Steel of Canada and Imperial Bank of Commerce all dropped a ¼ to ½ range.

Other losers included Walker-Goederham, down ¼, Bell Telephone, off ¼, Consolidated Paper, off ⅛ and Imperial Oil, down ⅛.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped 1.06 to 238.46 and base metals 0.77 at 124.46. Golds rose .31 at 99.66 and western oils .08 at 84.74. Exchange volume was 1,301,000 shares compared with 836,000 at the same time Thursday.

In base metals, International Nickel fell ¼ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ⅛, while Hudson Bay Mining showed ⅛. Western oils saw Calgary and Edmonton rise ⅛ and Home a dip ⅛.

Leading the speculative pack was Violamac Mines which reported making a copper discovery on its prospect near Timmins. The stock traded more than 250,000 shares, leaping $1.35 to $1.80.

Other active issues included New Kelore, trading 238,000 shares for a gain of seven cents to 90 cents, Dickenson Mines through 166,100 shares and rising 7½ cents to 74 cents and Kirkland Minerals, turning over 127,000 shares for a climb of 10 cents to 85 cents.

In the industrial list, mining was quiet with plus signs taking a slight edge. Distillers Seagrams and Seven Arts rose one point each. Lower were Included Bank of Montreal, down a point, Alcan, Dupont Steel and Alcohol each down ¼.

On index, industrials rose .26 to 240.72, golds .20 to 99.87 and base metals 1 to 124.56. Western oils dropped .37 to 87.38. Volume was 2,018,000 shares—best since May 30 — compared with Wednesday's 1,340,000.

International Nickel paced base metals, rising 1¼ to 65¾. Falconbridge, Hudson Bay Mining and Noranda all dropped ¼.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churned cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged today.

The egg market was steady with offerings light for a lightly demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on Canada grade eggs delivered Toronto to there prices: cases: A large 31; A medium 36; A small 18; B and C grades no market.

Butter prices: Canada first grade: Ontario undersable 52; 52; non-tenderable 49¾, in light trading; western 50½ (nominal).

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Trading was active with slaughter steers, heifers and yearlings trading at prices steady to higher at the Ontario Public Stockyards this week.

Low prices were uneven, bulls, hogs and replacement cattle higher, veal calfs lower and lambs strong.

Cattle receipts were estimated at 9,400 head, 2,700 more than last week and 2,900 more than the same week in 1961. Receipts from Western Canada were nearly double those of last week at 673 head of cattle and 1,100 head of calves.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers 27.50-28.50 with sales to 29 and several loads of good 26.50-27.50; good up to 26.00; good 25-27; medium 24-25.50; common 22-24; choice heifers and cows 25.50-26.50 with choice 25-26 and sales to 27; medium 23-25; common 19-23; choice fed yearlings 26-28 with odd top 29; good 24-26; good cows 19-20.50 with sales to 19; medium 16.50-17.50; common 13-16.50; canners and cutters 12-13; good heavy bologna bulls 20-21; common and medium 18-20.

Replacement cattle: Good Ontario stockers 25-27 with sales to 28.75 for choice calves selling at 30-32; common and medium stockers 20-24.

Calves: Choice vealers 22-26 with odd tops to 27; good 20-22; medium 17-20; common and plain 13-16; boners 15-16.

Hogs: Grade A 22.50-23.50; heavy sows 20.15-25.40; light sows gaining 2.50 premium to 27.50 on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good spring lambs 29 a hundredweight; good light sheep 9-12; common sheep 3-6.

Butter Stocks 9.3 PC Lower Than Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP) — Creamery butter stocks at July 1 were 9.3 per cent lower than a year ago at 41,128,221,000 pounds and holdings of other dairy products also were down, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The butter figures do not include about 75,000,000 pounds of butter held in government warehouse. Butter oil is a converted product saving storage space and preventing spoilage.

Output of butter and ice cream mix in June and the January-June period are higher than a year ago, the bureau said. Margarine stocks are up substantially although production eased in June.

In an effort to pare the huge butter surplus, the federal government began a $42,000,000-a-year consumer subsidy May 1 but it is still uncertain whether butter sales have substantially improved. Producers continue to get 64 cents a pound from the government for surplus top grades although the retail price has been cut 12 cents a pound.

June creamery butter production totalled 51,074,000 pounds against 48,824,000 a year ago and the January-June output was 160,558,000 pounds against 156,388,000 pounds a year earlier.

June cheddar cheese production was a record 16,464,000, against 16,289,000 pounds in 1961 and the six-month figure was 47,806,000 pounds against 49,622,000.

Canadian Scientific Study On Cosmic Rays Confirmed

By DAVE SHERIDAN

OTTAWA (CP)—On Sept. 30, 1961, the American satellites Explorer XII and Injun I recorded a sudden and vast increase of earth-bound solar cosmic rays.

United States space scientists could not account for the upsurge, thousands of times more intense than normal cosmic ray bombardment.

On Nov. 12, 1961, the satellite Discoverer 17, a practice spacecapsule which the U.S. put into orbit and later retrieved, was found to be seriously contaminated with radioactivity resulting from solar cosmic ray bombardment.

In the meantime, physicists at Canada's Defence Research board advanced a theory that the earth's motion in the solar earth atmosphere creates a shock wave 40,000 to 80,000 miles beyond the earth, much as a supersonic plane creates a sonic boom.

They also concluded that the earth's wave of a plasma cloud given off by the sun would collide with the earth's shock wave, resulting in the acceleration of solar cosmic rays.

The theory developed by Drs. George Reid, 32, and Ian Axford, 29, and the observations which led to the theory satisfactorily explained the Oct. 1961 meeting this week of the American Geophysical Union in Washington. They filled pertinent gaps.

ENDANGERS ASTRONAUTS

Dr. Irvine Paghis, head of the space physics laboratory where the Scottish-born Dr. Reid and New Zealand-born Dr. Axford work, said the discovery that solar cosmic ray events present a special radiation hazard to space travellers—even to the men now making earth orbits. However, solar cosmic ray events are relatively infrequent.

Only about a dozen have been recorded as reaching the earth. About 100 events have been recorded in all in the last 11 years. Those not reaching the earth's surface are stopped in the ionosphere, where they absorb radio waves like a sponge to northern lights, thus blacking out communications.

The solar cosmic rays are restricted to high latitudes by the earth's magnetic field until the plasma cloud from the sun breaks down the magnetic barrier.

The potential danger of solar cosmic rays to astronauts could be avoided, Dr. Paghis said, if their arrival in space could be predicted.

There is one hitch. The rays usually follow solar flares, enormous tongues of fiery gas which flick out from the sun's surface every few days. They are found from earth. But they don't always follow a large solar flare, and so far scientists don't know why.

Solar activity runs in 11-year cycles. The next most active period for the sun will be 1967-71, just about the time when attempts will be made to put a man on the moon.

Dr. Paghis said by that time he expects to be ready for a moon trip it may be possible to know exactly how to avoid the rays.

Square Cheese Increasing In Popularity

Indication that square cheese is increasing in popularity is seen in this week's offering on the Belleville Cheese Exchange when close to one third of the cheese offered were of the square variety.

Total large cheese offered, including 6,864 specials, was 19,494, while in addition there were 7,367 square cheese boarded.

While cheese predominated with 9,205 first grade white being offered as compared with 1,507 first grade colored. Of the square cheese offered 2,000 boarded first grade white and 3,067 first grade colored.

First grade white cheese sold at 34½ cents to 34 11/16 cents and first grade colored from 34 11/16 cents to 34 13/16 cents per lb.

Oshawa Youth Says Men Threw Him Off Bridge

OSHAWA (CP)—A youth told police Thursday a gang of men threw him 45 feet from a bridge onto railway tracks and that a train passed over him as he was lying there.

Gerrard Gionet, 21, of Oshawa was in up for drunk early Thursday when he fell somewhile attempting his bail. It was the train going over him.

After the train passed, he crawled over to a policeman, called a taxi and went home. His mother took him to hospital.

He was described as being in satisfactory condition with a broken collar bone, scalp cuts and multiple scratches to his arms and legs.

Labor Party Retains Seat In Midlands

LEICESTER, England (Reuters) — The opposition Labor party retained its parliamentary seat in this industrial city in the English Midlands Thursday as the Conservative party suffered another byelection setback.

Trade union official Tom Bradley held the seat for Labor as expected, but the Liberal candidate was runner-up, pushing the Conservative to the bottom of the poll.

Bradley got 11,274 votes in a three-cornered contest. David Bobin Marlar 6,578, giving Bradley a majority of 4,696.

In a two-way fight with the Conservatives, the Liberal general election, the Labor majority was 1,431.

Blood's total was another success for the Liberals, making a political comeback in Britain after 40 years in eclipse.

It was the last in a series of byelections in which began in early spring and have seen a marked increase in Liberal fortunes, measured in terms of total votes. However, the party has not yet won only one new seat—from the Conservatives.

Teamsters Vote Return to Work Without Contract

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Members of Teamsters union Local 880 have voted to return to work but without a contract.

By standing vote, the local's membership agreed Thursday to go back to their jobs immediately on the condition that a contract will be signed until local transport companies include in the contract certain local working conditions that have been provided here for years.

Before voting, officials of Local 880 contacted the Ontario Motor Transport Bureau, bargaining agent for the transport companies, to see whether a meeting could be held to iron out differences over local practices concerned.

A meeting is expected to be held within 10 days. The contract would then be presented to the membership for clarification or rejection.

The province-wide Teamster strike officially ended last week. Local 880, however, refused to return to work because its members had rejected contract terms.

At Thursday's meeting, the members were told the local could not depend on further support from the international union because agreement was to have been signed on a province-wide vote.

Local 880 has about 600 members in the Chatham, Windsor and Sarnia areas.

Plant Will Not Close Says Official

PICTON — The town's newest industry, Proctor-Silex Company announced yesterday that, contrary to rumour, it does not plan to close down if employees are unionized. Currently, two unions are organizing employees for support. An official of the firm stated, "The future of the Company and its operations in the Picton area will be dictated by economic conditions and the certification (or otherwise) of a union would not in itself result in any decision by the company to suspend operations here".

The firm which located here a year ago, employs more than 100 persons.

Women PC's Hold Picnic At Wellington

PICTON — More than one hundred attended the picnic sponsored by Prince Edward Progressive Conservative Ladies' Association held in Wellington Park Wednesday afternoon. MP Gordon Dougall Aikenbrack and Mrs. Aikenbrack were present. At the supper hour a box table was loaded with tempting viands. A welcome was extended by the association president, Mrs. Walter Nind.

Mrs. Dougall, Liberals of the riding are having a potluck dinner at Sterling's Cove Beach, on East Lake.

Mayor Cancels Two Bills Owed By Corporation

PICTON — Picton faces a problem in not having a building in which various municipal offices can be housed. Mayor H. J. McFarland brought up the matter at town council this week. He requested that the town treasurer's office, in a building he owns, be vacated. It is rented by the town.

The town clerk's office is in a building, the town paying rent to the public utilities, with the assessor using a small space in the same building.

Though "conflict of interests" was not mentioned, it was apparent that the mayor is seeking to avoid doing business with town, while holding the office of chief magistrate. He cancelled $60 rent for the treasurer's office and a $94.00 bill for road supplies purchased from the company.

The mayor held council, "I am not going to pave anymore in town, and am criticized for everything I do."

Recent provincial legislation prohibits municipal doing business with a municipality from sitting as a council member.

White Cane Club Visits Parkdale Baptist Church

Last Sunday evening, the congregation of Parkdale Baptist Church was privileged to have as their guests, members of the White Cane Club.

Mr. Noel Duncan was guest soloist and brought inspiring messages in song. Pastor Michael Twilley spoke on "The Light and Life, in which he said that Communism, science, medicine, education, religion it self, could not bring spiritual life and light into any individual's heart. Only the Lord Jesus Christ is able to do this for He said, 'I am the light of the world, he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life,' John 8:12.

Following he service, the congregation gathered downstairs for a time of fellowship and refreshments.

50th Wedding Anniversary Celebrated at Home Where Couple Spent Married Life

HILTON — Mr. and Mrs. George Adams of R. R. 1 Hilton celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, June 20th, when about 200 friends and neighbors gathering at the home in which they have lived throughout their married life.

The bride of 50 years ago was Carol Isabella daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Ireland, who lived in the vicinity. The couple were married by Rev. Enos Farnsworth in the home of the bride's parents.

Their attendants were Miss Eva Gunter cousin of the bridegroom and Leonard Ireland brother of the bride both are deceased. Mrs. Charrow Maybee of Smithfield, sister of the bride, played the wedding march.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams have been active in community and church work all their lives. In the account of their wedding in the Trenton Courier of 50 years ago, this fact was commented on, the bride was the president of the Carman Epworth League, while the groom was the superintendent of the Bethel Sunday School.

Mr. Adams, who is still very active works on the family farm with his son Vaughan, farmed eight months in the year while the couple spend the winter as their home in St. Petersburg, Florida. There are four grandchildren, two boys and two girls.

HISTORIC POINT

The family home carries on many traditions and the farm is somewhat of an historic point in the area. Mr. Adams' grandfather, William Adams who was of English descent bought part of the land from the Crown and it has remained in the family ever since.

Mrs. Adams is active in the Eastern Star and is a Past District Deputy Grand Matron, while Mr. Adams is a member of the Masonic Lodge. The couple are active in the White Shrine of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan Adams received the guests at the door, while Mrs. Harold Collins was attending the guest book. Mrs. Victor Bailey of Belleville, niece of the bride, invited the guests to the dining room. Those pouring tea in the afternoon were Mrs. Enos Farnsworth of Belleville, Mrs. (Rev.) G. E. Glover, Marmora, Mrs. W. A. Smith of Wooler, Mrs. Sam Whitley of Hilton, Mrs. Harold Stevenson of Tweed and Mrs. (Dr.) Dunnett, Brighton.

In the evening Mrs. Martin Bird of Campbellford, niece of the bride invited the guests to the wedding reception. Mrs. Earl McKeever, D.D.G.M. of the Eastern Star of Fort Hope; Mrs. Hedley Ireland, Brighton; Mrs. Clifford Berenger of Belleville; Mrs. Preston Fay of Tyrendenora, Miss; Mrs. Clifford Baker, W.M., of Trenton; Mrs. James Brown, W.M. of Brighton, poured tea.

Servers were members of the Carman Church who catered to reception throughout the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan Adams served dinner to about 30 guests. Toast to the bride and bridegroom was proposed by their grandson, Gary Adams and responded to by the bridegroom, while their granddaughter, Gail Adams, read the account of the wedding of 50 years ago.

The home was gaily decorated with flowers while a large three-tiered cake was displayed. A small fountain in which the Adams brought with them from Florida gave off a fine spray to add to the table decorations. Mr. and Mrs. Adams received a number of beautiful gifts such as linen, silver, lantern. Guests were present from the United States.

Airwomen Joined RCAF Because They Like Travel

By EDNA BLAKELY

BADEN-SOELLINGEN, Germany (CP)—Leading Airwomen Edith Beyer and Annemarie Vandervliet both joined the RCAF because they wanted to travel.

For Edith, her present posting brought her back to the country she left at the age of 12.

"I wanted to see more of Canada and I ended up here," says Annemarie, a native of Holland.

Residents of this area are often startled when Edith answers them in fluent—German. She was born in Zenjershassen and moved to Canada with her parents and four brothers and sisters.

Because she speaks German, the 21-year-old airwoman frequently helps other RCAF personnel—those with landlords for housing accommodation in the towns and villages near the RCAF base.

While attending school in Hamilton and Windsor, Ont., she planned to get a job, save some money and travel to Germany for a holiday. She went into the air force several months after finishing school.

"I used to read the signs on the bus that said 'Join the RCAF and travel' so I decided to do it."

FAMILY THRILLED

Her family was thrilled when they learned she was returning to their native land. She had a chance to visit a few relatives in northern Germany and hopes to visit more before she completes her three - year posting in late 1964.

The tall, attractive airwoman is secretary in Baden to the chief administration officer. During an earlier Winnipeg posting she worked in the public relations section.

Her best friend, Annemarie, also 21, was born in Kapelle, Zeeland, Holland. She was just seven when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Poort Vlindervliet, moved to Ontario with their family of four. The family later farmed in the Stratford area and now lives in Dublin, Ont.

Annemarie, who arrived in April to work as a medical assistant in the 50-bed hospital here, says that about all she can remember of her childhood in Holland is a windmill and her grandmother's house. She hasn't had a chance yet to visit her Dutch relatives.

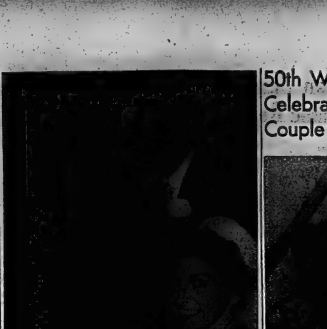
BASED IN GERMANY — Leading Airwomen Edith Beyer (left) and Annemarie Vandervliet, both 21, are satisfying an urge to travel that prompted them to join the RCAF. Edith, a native of Germany, is right at home in Baden-Soellingen with her fluency in German. Annemarie was born in The Netherlands. The girls, whose parents emigrated to Canada when they were mere children, work on needlepoint in their base quarters. (CP From National Defence).

1st Carmel G.G. Enjoy Waupoos Camp

On July 4th the 1st Carmel Girl Guides, enjoyed a visit to the campsite at Waupoos. When they arrived the Guides were received by their Commissioner, Mrs. Bannon and were presented to a suitable site to hold their winner roast.

In the afternoon, under the supervision of the camp swimming instructress, Miss Shirley Shoaldice, the Guides went for a swim and the following successfully passed their first class swim tests: Gale Dawson, Jennifer Morris, Carol Flagler and Nancy Huffman.

Gale Dawson and Anne Demmons were presented with their second year stars.



The highlight of the afternoon presented itself when a flat tire was discovered on one car, however Provincial Guider Miss Leda Dawson and Shirley Dafoe read the directions, Guide Lieut. (Mrs.) Sally Crone, assisted by Guide Mother, Mrs. Douglas Hunter successfully changed the tire, accompanied by lots of laughter and weird remarks.

Following supper time snack, the Guides prepared to return home, called into horseback riding lessons and Captain Mrs. Harold Howes and joined by their little guests for the day had a chance to visit a few relatives in northern Germany and hopes to visit more before she completes her three - year posting in late 1964.

ORD — HUNTER

On Saturday, June 30th, a lovely summer wedding took place at 3.00 p.m. in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, when Frances Ardelle Hunter of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hunter, became the bride of Robert John Ord, of Windsor, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ord. The Reverend Harry M. Davis, pastor of Bridge Street United Church, officiated before a background of delphiniums and Shasta chrysanthemums.

Mrs. L. Ledingham, church organist, presided at the organ console and furnished wedding music throughout the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Joseph Hunter, the bride was radiantly lovely in her floor-length bridal gown featuring a fitted bodice pointed in back and front with short sleeves, and full skirt, fashioned of white nylon organdy, embroidered with tiny blue rosebuds and daisies along the hemline and around the scooped neckline. She wore an organdy pillbox head dress with bouffant veil, and carried a bouquet of Shasta daisies interspersed with blue pompon 'mums, and ivy.

Her maid of honour, Miss Mary Jo Farnsworth was gowned in yellow shantung, styled alike with sandeau off Shasta daisies and blue 'mums and white accessories.

Flower girl, junior bridesmaid, Miss Victoria James, was in white embroidered organdy over yellow, with floral headdress of Shasta daisies, and blue 'mums. Her accessories were white and she carried a nosegay of similar flowers.

Mr. W. C. Powers, of Windsor, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Dave Ruddin of Ottawa, and Mr. E. J. Trasvick of Toronto, acted as ushers.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark James, McDonald Ave., Belleville, where the bridal table was appointed in the traditional manner with a hand-embroidered cerse linen cloth, centred by a three-tier wedding cake minted about the base with white tulle and strewn rosebuds.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Joseph Hunter, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Joseph Ord; the former in gold silk shantung, with matching hat and accessories, and corsage of bronze 'mums and the latter in pale blue silk, shantung with flower hat and white accessories, with pink carnation corsage.

For motoring to points east to Montreal, Quebec City, and the Maritimes, the bride wore a black and white tweed aensell material suit, fashioned in box style, with white accessories, and a corsage of rose-pink carnations.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Ord will reside at 25 St. George Street, Toronto.

Guests were present from Windsor, Toronto, Ottawa, Grimsby, Mitchell, Kingston, London, Ont., Petawawa, Whitby and Espanola Ont.

The bride, who, before her marriage, was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Janet Hunter, Kanata, a cousin, of Toronto; and at one given by her roomates, Mary Jo Farnsworth, Sheila Hill and Evelyn Hall. She was also honored at a dinner by Mrs. E. James at their cottage; at a miscellaneous presentation by the staff of West Toronto Victorian Order of Nurses.

and bemar in mid October. The anniversary services of the church will take place during September.

"FAITH"

The theme of the worship services was "Faith". The Scripture, Luke 7:1-10 was read by Mrs. C. Dawson. Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. J. Belding assisted Mrs. G. Brenton during the worship service by reading Scriptural selections.

"My Faith Looks Up to Thee" was sung by Mrs. Fred Pennage, senior, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. A. Boyd.

The devotional talk given by Mrs. G. Brenton was in accord with the theme "Faith". In part, Mrs. Brenton said, "We place complete faith in strangers every time we cross a street; faith in the drivers of oncoming traffic that they will obey the street signs. Our entire business economy is built upon our faith in our fellowmen. If we place our lives so completely in the hands of strangers as human as we, why should we not trust God for a moment, to place our lives completely in the hands of God. Who is all-knowing, infallible, merciful and just? If we believe God will provide the way, He will, for such faith is steadfast and sincere. If circumstances might provide the way our faith is faltering and we are told there is no way, receive only according, to our faith".

THE EARLY CHURCH

The Bible Study, conducted by Mr. C. Dawson was a continuation of last month's study on the beginning of the church in Jerusalem and Corinth, down to the present time. Mr. Dawson through the Bible, spoke of the type of men who founded the Early Church and the results of their being endowed by the Holy Spirit. Their teaching was based on three facts; Jesus' resurrection; Jesus' early return; and faith in preaching salvation.

"For this teaching, the apostles suffered all manner of persecution and it was through the years this persecution has gone on, even to the present day".

Mr. Dawson closed with prayer. Mrs. D. Brenton closed the meeting with a few words of appreciation to all who had taken part in the program.

Riley, Belleville).

JAMES — STAPLEY

St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was the setting on Saturday, June 30, at 2.00 p.m. for a very pretty wedding when Eleanor Ann Stapley, of Stirling, became the bride of David Fielding James, of Belleville. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne H. Stapley and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hedley G. James. The Reverend F. J. Hommersen, officiated, assisted by the Reverend Mr. Nicholls, of Plainfield, Ontario, before a background of assorted summer flowers in tall white standards.

Miss Gwen Wilson, of Foxboro, cousin of the bride, was soloist, rendering, "O Lord, We Pray" and the "Wedding Prayer," before the ceremony and during the signing of the register, respectively. At the reception she also favored with "The Things I Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly gowned in Chantilly lace in full-length featuring pleated nylon insets at the back, with fitted bodice having long petal-point sleeves. Her crown of seeded pearls held her fingertip veil of silk illusion tulle, and she carried a bouquet of red roses encircled with ivy and white stephanotis.

Her maid of honor was her sister, Miss Joan Stapley, of Stirling; and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Stephen, Safe, of Kingston, and Miss Carolyn James, sister of the bridegroom.

The little flower girl was Miss Heather Brooks, of Trenton, cousin of the bride. All were gowned alike in white organza, trimmed with mauve, and wearing mauve headdresses, white gloves and shoes, and carrying bouquets of crescent-shaped mauve 'mums.

The ring bearer, was Master Peter James, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom.

Mr. Gordon James, of Quebec City attended his brother as groomsman, while Mr. Gordon Tisdale, of Kingston, and Mr. Donald Wilson, of Foxboro, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Club Canara, Belleville, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, gowned in turquoise chiffon with white accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. She was assisted in the receiving line by the mother of the bridegroom, who wore a blue silk shantung, navy accessories, and corsage of white carnations.

The bride's table was appointed in the traditional manner with white damask, centred by a four-tier wedding cake, and flanked by tall white candles in silver candelabra.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a powder blue dress accented with dark blue embroidery matching plain dustcoat, a three-quarter length; white accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

Guests attended from Windsor; Toronto; Brampton; Ottawa; Quebec City; Kingston; Picton, and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower given by the teachers of Trenton High School, and at a linen shower given by Mrs. Dave Scott, of Belleville, with Miss Gwen Wilson as co-hostess.

Steak Fry At Five Oaks

by Mary Moore

On the Sunday afternoon after the Friday that Grade XIII exams were over we promised our Young People we would have a steak fry.

Barney Goldsmith (co-teacher) bought fifty pounds of sirloin at a reduced rate, because this was a church group. Three of the young people came to my house after church and shredded six large cabbages for cole slaw. We were expecting over sixty people in all, including the leaders, so I made 120 hamburg buns and a chocolate-frosted chocolate sheet cake (serves 60 or 70) and 48 bananas and 40 oranges.

The teenagers I bought interested me because they were so popular. By good luck I ran into a "special" on lemons at 49c. While was in half-gallon cartons and cost me 39c each. It had the desirable fresh lemon flavor which is so elusive in real lemon drinks and got only one-half cent per ounce which is economical by anybody's budget. For the fifty folks who turned up I had 7 qt. cans (which is concentrated lemade and two 10-oz. tins of apple juice and four 46-oz. tins of pineapple juice. This was absolutely even for a thirsty crowd who had been swimming and playing baseball. Be sure to measure the juice can opener if you take cans of juice. I nearly forgot this tiny indispensable tool.

Dinner Menu

FRIDAY

Fried Fresh Caught Trout or Pickerel; Tartare Sauce; Limas in Tomato Sauce; Corn on the Cob; Salad Greens with Bleu Cheese Dressing; Baked Custard with Fresh Plum Sauce; Coffee.

I may be telling you something that is fairly obvious, but because it is a first try for me and because it worked, I will risk it.

At Five Oaks, United Church Training Centre at Paris, Ontario, there is a large outdoor barbecue. It has been well designed, for the firebox is built high enough under the grill to cook the food without requiring a roaring inferno. Over the grill are laid thin sliced sheets of Ice Pyfrom, stationary-turned cook, loaned us two shallow pans from her kitchen which fitted over these steel plates perfectly. I greased and heated these and was able to grill 20 steaks at a time on them. We had portable barbecuer over which Doug McCallum and Helen Zarbrigg presided. I did the steaks for the "underdogs". They looked after the "well-cooked" gang. Some of the young people said "For once in my life I had enough steak".

We were all gratified at their generous help and willing acquiescence to our fairly strict drying and behavior rules. It was a happy day for their leaders.

MAIL CALL

Question: A friend called me from her office a few days ago — or, perhaps, I should say her secretary called me, since she's the only person I spoke with. The secretary announced that Miss Soandso was calling, and then I stood there twiddling my thumbs waiting for my friend to come on. I was in a hurry to go shopping, and after waiting for what seemed like ages, I simply hung up. When my friend finally did reach me, at last in the day, she was upset that I had left her dangling and for keeping me hanging was that she was busy on another phone. Her tone suggested I had insulted her very callously, but I'd like your opinion about which of us really was rude.

Answer: Without a doubt, your friend was. A phone call should never be put through unless the caller is free and clear and has the instrument in hand, it, as often happens in a business office, another call comes in on another line, it's better manners to offer to return it when the call on tap is completed. Under no circumstances should someone be forced to hold on until the person who is calling has time to get on the wire.

Question: My husband and I have a small one-bedroom apartment in the basement. When a couple came to dinner recently they stayed so late they missed the last train back to the city. To accommodate them I made up the sofa and a bed for me in the living room. Next morning the wife blithely — I hope — complained of a stiff neck from sleeping on the sofa and hinted we should get a softer bed them the bedroom. When a situation like this occurs, what should a host and hostess do properly do?

Answer: Whatever is most convenient. If the living room can be bypassed to get to the kitchen in the morning, there's no reason why guests can't take the accommodations. However, if the living room is in the line of traffic, it would be more gracious to give them the bedroom for the sake of privacy. Even when an overnight guest is impromptu guests still should be given the same-border treatment as far as possible.

Question: Is it permissible for women guests at a wedding to wear corsages? I was planning to wear a few carnations to brighten up a simple blue sheath I bought for a friend's wedding, but the salesgirl in the store said that only members of the wedding party are supposed to wear flowers. Is this fact or fiction? — Mrs. C., New Haven, Conn.

Answer: In fact, Corsages are worn by the mothers, and sometimes grandmothers, of both bride and groom. Women guests may wear floral dicorations in their hair, but only a half-hour, My aunt, who was visiting for the week end, said I should at least take time to eat them lemonade or a soft drink. I felt defeated they would stay only a short time, so I didn't think it was necessary to offer anything. May I have your opinion on this? — Mrs. C.A.V., Newark, N.J.

Answer: A hostess has a strong social obligation toward dropping. It's not necessary to offer refreshments, but it is gracious.

Women Will Sponsor Six Refugee Girls

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)— The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs agreed Thursday to sponsor six refugee girls at a teacher training and vocational training centre in Ramallah, Jordan, at a cost of $1,000 a year for two years.

Nazie Dace of Oromocto, chairman of the federation's United Nations liaison committee, said at the 18th biennial conference that other girls will be sponsored by federations in other countries.

The school is a project of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine refugees. The school, to open in September, is for 625 trainees.

At a seminar on the role of women in international affairs, delegates agreed that because Canadian women have become complacent about their rights, they are not so active in national and international affairs as women in emerging eastern countries.

One group said women must participate in government in Canada before preaching to other countries.

The five - day convention ends today.

Smoking and teen-agers. Why do we start?

Teen-Age Canada

Why Do Teeners Smoke?

By JACK HUSTON

A 15-year-old Winnipeg girl looked thoughtful last week after being asked just why she picked up the habit of smoking—particularly since she doesn't enjoy it!

"It's hard to say," she said, "but I don't think I was part of my school gang until I started. All of a sudden I wasn't a kid any more."

How many thousands of Canadian teenagers have started smoking in 1962 for this same reason? Doctors and health authorities across Canada wish they knew the answer.

Millions of words of research have been penned on this subject with only two basic conclusions: more young people are smoking and many are picking up the habit as early as 13 and 14-year-olds.

A prominent Canadian health authority turned to this column for confidential advice recently. "Why do they start?" he asked. "Don't young Canadians realize the risks involved? Is it a status symbol for them?"

He held in his hand a copy of a report entitled "Smoking and Health," which was released this year by the Royal College of Physicians in Great Britain.

"This was based upon the experience of British smokers, but it applies just as well to us," he said. "And I would advise any young persons to read it carefully." (You can get it at your local Rexall or McClelland and Stewart Limited, Toronto).

How long have men and women been smoking? "It was introduced into Europe in the 16th Century and quickly became popular," said the doctor. "Women didn't smoke much until this century, but they're rapidly catching up."

Is there evidence that smoking does a person harm? "Yes," said my friend. "It's certainly true that many people don't have ill effects, but the British report spells it out plainly that cancer, heart trouble and other diseases can be linked with smoking."

And what about young people? "The British researchers found children smoking as early as 10-years-old," he said. Most of them were at least experimenting by 13-years-old, although girls were slower."

One enigma faces authorities who would like to lessen the risks of smoking for future generations, he said: why does a young person start smoking?

"We hear all sorts of reasons—relaxation, easier social relationships and so on. Most people don't even believe the reasons that they give you. Do young people feel they're just acting grown-up, or is it something else?

"And how do you convince young people that no one will think less of them if they don't smoke? What would they think of a campaign to set up an opposite status symbol—let's say a pin for those who don't smoke?"

"If young Canadians don't know why they start smoking, it's obvious that adults are going to have a terrible time finding out," he added. "We'd like to hear from teen-agers who smoke and those who don't."

Authorities in North America and Europe have been experimenting with different methods of telling people about the risks of smoking without picking any one as best, he said.

Every Canadian teen-ager has the same choice to make about smoking: do the social advantages outweigh the medical disadvantages. Let's find out how we compare with the British reports!

COOKING BLUES

The following letter from Robin Martin—a 16-year-old budding cook from Vancouver—may find a lot of sympathy among other would-be chefs.

"Dear Jack—Since a few of us regularly follow your column, we decided to follow your suggestion about tackling a meal in the great out-of-doors to prove we males are better cooks than the girls.

"Have you any further advice about how to save face after a disastrous experiment? Four of us decided to borrow one of our folks' barbecue to show our girl friends how this is done. That was our first mistake.

"We put the wieners on the grill over the coals before the fire had stopped smoking, and it was hard to tell whether we were eating hotdogs or pieces of charcoal.

"We stuck potatoes in foil into the fire as you suggested. But the first batch came out hard as rocks, and the second batch were solid nuggets of coal.

"Anyway, thanks, and we'll keep reading the column anyway."

Thistletown Hospital

Article 2 of a 2-part series.
By MATTHEW B. DYMOND, M.D., Health Minister for Ontario

Last week in this column we discussed the Government's Children's Psychiatric establishment at Thistletown. I would like to continue now with a review of the treatment facilities at Thistletown.

The hospital admits for treatment, children between the ages of 8 and 12, who suffer from some psychiatric disorder and for whom short term residential treatment (up to two years) has some positive value. Brain damaged and mentally defective children are occasionally admitted for investigation or research purposes.

The Admissions Committee, composed of the superintendent, the clinical director, the chief psychologist, chief social worker, chief child care worker and one staff psychiatrist review applications for admission from any professional source and grant admissions. Parents or agencies responsible for children admitted are expected to visit the hospital at least monthly, and children are admitted only if their guardians agree to this; where case work is to be attempted much closer contact is expected.

For treatment purposes, the hospital is divided into four groups. Two of these, each with a capacity of 20 children, are completely open living situations. Each treat both boys and girls within the age range and different diagnostic categories. The remaining two groups are closed settings, each with a bed capacity of 12 patients. One is used to treat children who cannot tolerate open living conditions and also contains a 6 bed facility for the investigation and experimental treatment of brain-damaged children. The second group consists of 12 beds used for the experimental treatment of childhood schizophrenia.

The four settings are grouped in two units, each containing one open setting and one closed setting, and each served by its own professional staff. On admission to the hospital, a child is assigned to a unit, becomes the responsibility of a psychiatrist and normally remains on that unit until his discharge.

The entire range of treatment techniques is available to the team of each unit for use with their children. Diagnostic facilities include electroencephalography, neurological consultation, diagnostic psychological services and controlled observation. Treatment techniques include individual psycho-therapy, group therapies and every known method as well as attempting new ideas. The use of a gymnasium, swimming pool, carpentry shop, clay shop, dance and music therapy rooms, paint rooms, a children's kitchen and extensive grounds with outdoor facilities as well as planned community contacts, including attendance at Sunday School, are available to the professional team of each unit. The day to day care of the children and the activities program is in the hands of a fully trained professional child care staff.

The patient's family is the unit social worker's chief concern. Intensive casework treatment involves helping parents accept the need for in-patient care and active participation throughout hospitalization and discharge. The social worker interprets treatment plans and deals with serious problem areas within the home. The department provides foster aunts and uncles for children without families, works with other agencies and has a "touring" worker who services families too far away from the hospital to visit regularly.

Children at Thistletown are usually too disturbed to attend school in the community and school facilities are provided through the Institute of Child Study, University of Toronto. At the moment, 10 teachers are employed, with nine class rooms in the main hospital. Educational techniques for this type of child are a matter for continuing research and study.

Massive Flow of Cheap Textiles From Low-Cost Countries Hurts Lancashire

By ROD CURRIE

MANCHESTER, England (CP)—In Lancashire, they used to say, the sun never set on the breakfast table. Some time before the rest of the day is supply the world.

These days when Lancashire cotton thread spun around the globe are gone forever, as much part of the past as the old spinning wheel by the cottage hearth, the fodder-crop of an industry that grew to a world monopoly.

Current ills from which many here feel the industry may never fully recover are caused by a series of events since the golden days of the 19th century when Lancashire textiles and thread accounted for nearly half Britain's exports.

At the top of the list is the massive flow of cheap textiles from India, Pakistan, Hong Kong and other low-cost labor areas. These have swept away many of Britain's traditional markets and, because of Commonwealth preferences, millions of yards of imported cloth even found their way into Britain's market.

There are controls on imports from such countries as Japan but there are no tariffs or effective restrictions on imports from the Commonwealth. For instance, close to 40 per cent of the British demand for cotton cloth now is being met from Asian sources. In the United States and European countries, where there are restrictions, the proportion is only about two to 5½ per cent.

WANT IMPORTS CUT

As seen from Lancashire, the answer to the dilemma is deceptively simple. Cut imports, even from Commonwealth countries.

But for the government the problem is a knotty one. From the official point of view, it is illogical to pump aid into these underdeveloped countries . . . to train them to make things economically and efficiently, and then refuse to buy their products.

The Lancastrians' answer is that this, then, is a national responsibility and it is not fair for one industry to shoulder the whole burden.

There is considerable sympathy for this argument and a growing feeling that other countries should do more to help the Asian industries.

Commented the Financial Times:

"These issues are too large for Britain to solve them on her own, since what is needed is more protectionism for this country but more liberalism by others."

Some move along these lines may come out of the negotiations now under way for an international cotton agreement now taking place in Geneva.

The mill people, faced with the losing battle, feel confident they will still pick many industry in the world on the basis of quality, but this vision does not is a strong segment of public opinion here eager for Britain to enter the Common Market.

GOVERNMENT IMPATIENT

This, they say, would substantially limit cheap Commonwealth imports and put the Lancashire industry nose - to - nose with the quality producers on the Continent.

Meanwhile, the government, which three years ago devised a plan to help the mills, is showing signs of impatience with the cotton men on the grounds they are not doing enough to help themselves.

Recently 3,700 La n s shire textile executives, mill hands and factory girls in their best Sunday clothes went by bus to London for a march on the House of Commons. It was all for nothing. Only a few days later the government announced that the compulsory quotas on cotton imports would stand for another three years at least, unless Britain left the European Economic Community in the meantime.

The idea behind the government's £20,000,000 plan to put the efficient firms on their feet, to let the poor ones go on their own and generally to cull the industry down to a lean, hard size.

So far the first phase went well, with many inefficient and outdated firms passing out of the picture—anyway—eager to pick up government compensation money to close down. But the second part, re-equipping mills with modern machinery, has stalled.

"New equipment costs a lot of money even with government assistance and I'd need still more," said Mr. Hall, the mill owner. "And, to tell the truth, we just haven't got much confidence in the future of the industry."

Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN—The 4th wedding in Johnstown Church was held on Saturday afternoon, July 7th at 2 p.m. when Marion Bush (one of Johnstown's girls) was married to Jim Fayetti, of Trenton. An unusual thing about this wedding was that someone cooked up the bright idea of decorating the lumber wagon, putting a rug on it and a settee and a couple of parasols to keep the sun off. They drove to the door of the church and when the bride and bridegroom appeared they insisted they drive home of the wagon, so they being good sports did that very thing.

Mr. Frank Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Brooks and girls spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brooks of R. R. Consecon.

Mrs. Maitland Harder entertained the U.C.W. of Johnstown on Wednesday, evening.

The guest minister, of Johnstown United Church on July 15th will be Rev. Ray Rowley, of Calvin United Church, Pembroke, Ontario, the home church of Johnstown's present minister, Mr. Brien Thrasher.

Mr. and Mrs. George Warren of Agincourt, and Shirley were Sunday guests of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lohnes and Paul.

Married at 18, Now Loves Another

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am a man of 40, with a wife and two children. Ours was an "obligation" marriage at 18. I never had the love of my wife.

Four years ago I fell in love. I resisted it, but could soon see in this girl's eyes that she had a feeling for me. I could not longer stand it and confessed love to her.

When I told my wife about my feelings toward her, but not about the other woman, she threatened to go to me and asked me to try and straighten things out. So I said goodbye to my love.

Well I have tried, but it's no use. My children are nearly grown up. I am thinking of talking to them, arranging separation and asking them to stay with their mother, as she will need them more than I do.—SILL.

* * *

DEAR BILL—Teen-age marriages have a high percentage of failure. And it is better indeed to find love later, when you are not free.

Your choice will bring sorrow, either way. You owe loyalty to your wife, who has not only reared your children but is willing to stay with you, love or no love.

I'd say try again. Study what marriage can be, learn more about physical relations, hobbies, outings to be taken together. Now that the children are older, you could enjoy some freedom from responsibility, together.

It might surprise you to know that men who break away frequently find their second mate to be second best, after all. A marriage counsellor could help you think this out.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I have a girl friend who gets very moody and angry over the slightest thing. Everyone at school thinks she has no personality. She is very nice and I would like to help her. What can I do?—JUST A PAL.

* * *

DEAR PAL—You believe in her. This can be her lifeline.

And why is she moody? Probably because she is disappointed in herself, most. In her failure to cope. And she takes it out on others.

Help her by needing her. If she is good at something—offering her advice. Take it. And could you sometime let her see that her anger drives folks away?

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—Dick and I have been going steady for a year and a half now. Once in a while he says he loves me and then sometimes he doesn't.

Is this a girl going steady with a boy but he doesn't care or is it natural for a boy to be that way?

2. Should a boy going steady with a girl buy her gifts?

3. Should a girl going steady with a boy ask him to get her a gift, or card, or take her to the show, etc?

4. Should a boy going steady go (himself) to two weddings in a row? He did this because he was going to work the next day and he wouldn't have a chance to go to one again.

5. Does a boy really care for his girl friend if, for Valentine's Day, he sends her a card and then for Easter he doesn't or is it that he "just forgot" "as most men do?

6. Should a girl ask her steady to tell her he loves her, or ask if he'll miss her when he goes to work?—WONDERING BROWN, EYES.

* * *

DEAR MISS BROWN EYES:—

1. He is just being himself.
2. If he wants to.
3. No, no, no.
4. If he was invited by himself.
5. Valentine says he cares. Easter card is optional.
6. No. She'll only spoil things.

Going steady is a privilege but a convenience. If you keep trying to drag confessions of devotion out of your steady, you'll be without him, before long.

Which might be a good thing, at that. This is the time when you both need to find out how you feel about several people.

* * *

TO DISILLUSIONED—If it's all over, and he is living with a married woman, this is evidence for divorce.

Is it worth it to scrimp and save for a while to find the money? The wonderful feeling of freedom from such a man is worth it.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mr. T. R. She won't hit a stage at home and I want her to get out.

Mrs. T. R. She has nowhere to go and I'd worry about her.

* * *

Mr. T. R. — I think it's high time we got tough with Millie. What do you think of a 23-year-old girl who sits around the house all day, watching TV, reading and eating? Her mother is sticky, and so am I. She thought it would be a good idea for Millie to stay home, after spending through high school, that's what she wanted, to do — nothing! But I figured she'd help, her mother.

Instead she sat back and added to my wife's burdens. The work got so heavy I had to engage a maid. Now Millie asks the maid to do the things for her she used to make her mother or do — iron her dresses, serve her supper, straighten her room. I want her to get a job and take a room somewhere. Once I see her helping here herself, I'll be glad to chip in.

Mrs. T. R. — You don't just turn out a daughter. Where would she go? Millie has never been particularly ambitious. She barely finished high school and has no special training for a job. Maybe she could learn to be a "mother's helper" — from the unproductive dare she'd in.

Mr. — I agree with Mrs. R. that Millie shouldn't be turned out. She should be encouraged to help but not be turned inside out. Naive, dependent, unbried, her fate on the outside could be worse than it is now. She might fall easy prey to the wrong influences and Mr. R. would regret exposing her to the winds. Instead she should be led (preferably by a guidance worker) to seek a new feeling for living and that of giving instead of taking.

She will need help in standing up to her parents, her critics and her confused father. Her duties at home will have to be defined and insisted on. She must be a full membership does in the family. And the maid in the house will be, and must have been for many years. "What shall we do about Millie?" puts Millie in the position of the red herring upon which diverts attention from the main question which is not to be, and must have been for many years. "What shall we do about ourselves?" — ourselves, being Mr. and Mrs. R.

We'll bet there are dozens of sore spots in this marriage which these parents would like to explore and thrash out, but the only way they can safely bring to the surface is Millie. And we'll discuss it on the surface. But we cannot refrain from noting that Millie's apathy and parasitism may well be the end products of a childhood fraught with conflicts and a divided loyalties.

From the brief eulogy above we, already observe how her mother defends her from her father, how her father resents the expense and the indulgence tolerated because of her mother's invalidism. Each of these has more love than love bubbling inside.

As to Millie, she appears to be a non-bringer-up child. Any move to set her straight are about 20 years late, but may still be effective. To spoil things up, a psychological observer may be able to lead Millie to the answers most people have already groped for in their age, answers to: What am I best suited for? Where can I best serve? And am I for goals in life? Up to now she seems to have no more purpose in life than the cat in the yard. She too, may be headed for a "home," once she is jarred from the unproductive daze she's in.

ported its government's stand on the controversial medical care insurance plan, and asked the doctors to resume normal practice.

The Saskatchewan Federation of Labor said it will call for a boycott of business that refused to allow employees to attend Wednesday's rally to protest the act at the legislature grounds here.

Allen R. Miller, chairman of the Moose Jaw Keep Our Doctors Committee, said he was "quite sure the federation won't get much support from the membership in general."

'DIVIDE THE PEOPLE'

He said the proposed boycott will "only lead to further divide the people of our province."

A statement issued by the Moose Jaw Chamber of Commerce said the federation's stand "is a complete abrogation of the freedom of the individual." It said a boycott could have no other effect than to contribute to loss of employment to many who depended on boycotted business for a livelihood.

Dr. J. E. Miller of Moosomin in southern Saskatchewan said Thursday doctors should resume normal practice to create a better atmosphere for conciliation.

Dr. Miller, 32, a native of England who came here two years ago, is providing emergency service, free of charge at two hospitals in Moose Jaw. He said he has distributed a letter outlining his views to some 300 doctors in the province.

Of those he had heard from, about half were sympathetic to his views and half were opposed.

SEEKS NEW WAYS

Rod Thompson of Prince Albert, acting president of the Saskatchewan NDD committee said the group is seeking new ways to get the medical care plan suspended. He said he is sure rallies were planned.

In Saskatoon, a newly formed group called Saskatoon Citizens for Medical Care plans a campaign to enlist support for the government's plan.

A spokesman said the group will stick to supplying information to the public and not go in for what he termed "emotional rallies."

Announcing plans for the royal commission, Premier Lloyd said the government "is deeply concerned that these doctors should not be subjected to any public or professional harassment."

Deputy Premier Brockelbank said terms of reference of the commission have not yet been worked out nor has the commissioner been selected.

The commission, to be established under the Public Enquiries Act, will be in a position to investigate, make reports and offer recommendations, it will have no executive power.

Mr. Brockelbank ruled out Lord Taylor, British medical services expert, as the commissioner. Lord Taylor is expected here next week as an advisor, on invitation of the government.

Meanwhile, a group of British doctors who arrived in Regina by air Thursday night began registering Thursday to practise in the province. Additional doctors were expected to arrive tonight or Saturday from the U.S.

In Winnipeg, the Manitoba College of Physicians and Surgeons and the Manitoba Medical Association said they have received "26 letters from Saskatchewan doctors asking about conditions for practising in the province.

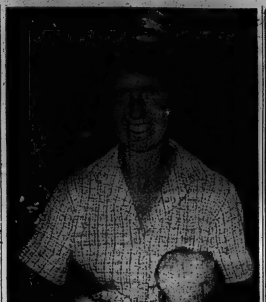
The announcement said eight doctors have already accepted hospital appointments or temporary or permanent location here since the advent of the Medical Care plan.

West Lake Spud Weighs 24 Ounces

They grow 'em big down West Lake way!

Take for example the 24-ounce potato which Mrs. Cecil Kleinsteuber dug out of her potato patch this week.

Mrs. Kleinsteuber is the first to admit that the pound and a half Irish Cobbler is somewhat of an outsize exception, but she says it has been a good "spud" year.



The Kleinsteubers this year planted an acre and a half of Cobblers, getting them in more than a week before Easter. A regular attendent on the Belleville market, she has been offering the new spuds for nearly two weeks.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JULY 13, 1962

Members of Stirling L.O.L., No. 110, were out in full strength yesterday with a band to celebrate the Glorious Twelfth Walk, in their own home town.

Probably the youngest marcher was Timmy Beacon, three years old, of Harrowsmith. He walked half way under his own steam, but returned aboard his father's shoulders. His father is William Beacon, of L.O.L. 451.

Robert Jeffery, of Belleville, is the master of Tanner L.O.L., No. 509. He had his small station wagon well decorated for the event, but marched afoot in the parade, as a drummer.

James H. Deacon was probably the oldest man in the parade. He lives in Kingston, but has been a member of Maberly L.O.L., No. 519, for more than fifty of his 93 years.

Ward Holland, of Madoc Lodge, No. 160, has been marching the Glorious Twelfth for 55 years now, with his wife. The couple live about three miles south of Moira Lake.

Orange Walk at Stirling Greeted With Fine Weather 27 Lodges Mark "12th"

The drums rolled out their beat and the fifes' shrill cry pierced the air throughout Stirling yesterday as the Orangemen, over 27 lodges strong, unwound their parade from an encampment on the fairgrounds and headed through the town on their walk in honor of the Battle of the Boyne.

From a distance the parade looked like a colorful caterpillar in hues of orange and blue and white and, as the lodges filed down the road, led by the parade marshal on his white horse and the Havelock Pipe Band, it indeed reminded one of what King Billy's army might have looked like as they headed for the Boyne.

The walk took over an hour to complete, finishing off with a circuit of the fair grounds where many hundreds had gathered to welcome the walkers back.

If anyone wondered how these people, both young and old, managed to get up enough energy for this exercise it was only too obvious when one sat down to the excellent dinner which was prepared and served by the two host lodges, Springbrook L.O.L. 442 and Tanner L.O.L. 509, whose members refused to see anyone get by with less than two servings.

Following the walk the Orangemen and their guests assembled to hear Grand Auditor Arch Miller of the Grand Orange Lodge of the World speak. The Brockville man noted that the Orange order was experiencing an upsurge after several years of decline. In the past two years of operation there had been a notable increase in the membership, he stated.

Mr. Miller urged the members of the lodges in Centre Hastings to put every effort into increasing their membership and adding up their lodges and suggested a number of ways of bringing new life to their order.

He also spoke on the basic beliefs which Orangemen support and decried the several instances where public funds were being used to support parochial schools and to pay the salaries of people of the cloth who taught in public schools in religious garb, a situation which was specifically contrary to legislation governing education in the Province of Ontario.

The principal speaker was introduced by Fred Bateman of Stirling, Past Grand Master of Ontario East; H. D. Pillen of Springbrook United Church. Past County Master of Hastings West; and Archie Sinclair, County Master of Hastings West; with a band to celebrate the Glorious Twelfth Walk, in their own home town.

Oust PC Govt. Way to Restore Confidence - Pearson

COBOURG (CP) — Liberal Leader Pearson, cheered on by a noisy overflow election audience, said Thursday night the best way to restore confidence in Canada is to throw out the Conservative government of Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Addressing the largest rally of the fiercely-contested Stormont campaign, he gave every indication that the Liberals are champing at the bit for another general election and do not expect the minority Conservative administration to last long.

The most important thing now is to restore confidence and strengthen faith, Mr. Pearson told the applauding crowd of 900 to 1,000 in St. Columban's parish hall.

He said the best way to do this is to throw out the Conservative government. The process began June 18 and could be aided next Monday by the election of the Liberal candidate in Stormont.

TORY HOLDS SEAT

The Liberal chieftain was speaking on behalf of Lochie Lamoureux, seeking to unseat Conservative Grant Campbell in the eastern Ontario constituency. Voting was deferred from June 18 because of the death of the original Liberal candidate, Albert Lavigne.

Mr. Pearson served notice that while the Liberals are disposed to co-operate in the government's austerity program as "necessary in a crisis," they want it modified as soon as the emergency ends.

He said the Liberals will not allow the emergency to be used as an excuse for government policies which would hinder the return to expansion, full employment and national prosperity, both social and economic.

Mr. Pearson, who ignored mild heckling from Desmond Sparham defeated New Democratic Party candidate in Toronto Rosedale, intimated he is thinking in terms of an early general election.

He said if the Conservatives thought they could get a majority they wouldn't be afraid to follow proper democratic practice and call Parliament into session this month.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said Parliament will meet in September.

DERIDES WEAKNESS

Surely, said the Liberal chieftain, the Conservatives will not wish to "cling to office" if it means relying on some of their bitterest enemies—apparently a reference to the NDP and Social Credit parties.

It had been a weak government when there were 208 Conservatives in the House of Commons.

"How effective can it be with 128 members?"

Taunting the government on its recourse to the United States for assistance in bolstering the Canadian dollar, Mr. Pearson said that before the election Mr. Diefenbaker "warned the Americans to keep their noses out of Canadian affairs; after the election he invited them to stick their noses in to the extent of hundreds of millions of dollars."

The government had warned British to stay out of the European Common Market.

Then it invited Britain to lend it $100,000,000."

Mr. Pearson said the "shameful deceit" practised by the government on the electorate as to Canada's economic position revealed in Ha "repudiation and defeat."

U.S. Ready to Offer Test Ban Concessions As It Nears End of Big Series

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It may be more than coincidence that U.S. State Secretary Rusk hints at the possibility of new Western concessions on a nuclear test ban treaty just as the U.S. nears the end of the atmospheric tests it began April 25.

Aside from one or two more possible attempts to explode thermonuclear weapons at high altitude, the United States apparently is at or near the end of its mid-Pacific testing activity and ready to concentrate on the disarmament conference with reopens at Geneva Monday.

Rusk now states that the preliminary results of seismic experiments conducted by the defence department give hope that the West can reduce its demands for control posts and on-site inspection as a vital part of any international ban treaty.

The curious part of this announcement by the state secretary is that it came on the day the Atomic Energy Commission announced the end of testing on Christmas Island and curtailment of activity on Johnston Island. Johnston Island is used for high - altitude experiments.

Rusk says the Pentagon's preliminary findings on seismic instrumentation do not eliminate entirely the need for some control posts and periodic inspection in such a large country as the Soviet Union. But he hints the number of both could be reduced from what the West previously requested.

This would help close the gap in East-West differences which have long blocked agreement on putting an end to military nuclear explosions. But it won't close the gap entirely. Rusk, of Russia persists in keeping its doors closed entirely against some international inspection.

The United States now appears to be attempting to shift some of the onus for making peaceful concessions onto Russia — and back up the contention that despite U.S. tests, the Soviet Union is the only country holding up a permanent ban.

This strategy seems just a little too apparent, a little too slick. The question immediately arises as to whether the Pentagon could have made its conclusions on seismic detection improvements earlier. Was there, in fact, strong interdepartmental co - operation to facilitate the timing of the Pentagon's conclusion?

Perhaps the public will never know. But it was apparent all through the testing period that there was much co - operation — even to the point where officials formerly eager to reveal the latest scientific figures suddenly becoming silent.

The facts, of course, were undertaken in the name of military security and undoubtedly in the case of the Pentagon the results were commensurate with the human risks involved.

But it is likely the U.S. government will tolerate a different tale if the U.S.S.R. decides to launch a new nuclear series of its own. It takes place, one may be sure U.S. experts be eager to tell all about the dangers of radioactivity emanating from behind the Iron Curtain.

Washington-Berlin Talks On Settlement of Issues Seen Grinding to Standstill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Berlin settlement talks between the United States and Russia seem to be grinding to a standstill.

State Secretary Rusk discussed Berlin and disarmament Thursday with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin. The hour and 45-minute talks failed to yield any progress on either problem.

Just before the meeting Rusk said that if the Soviet government continues to insist on discussing only the problem of how to reduce or to eliminate Western positions in Berlin "then there is no basis for serious negotiations in that direction."

Earlier this week Soviet Premier Khrushchev in a speech proposed that occupying troops in West Berlin be replaced by troops of the smaller West European countries along with those of Communist satellites under UN auspices.

Rusk flatly rejected this, saying it is just another Russian attempt to water down Western rights in Berlin.

CONTINUE TALKS

U.S. officials privately see no prospect of breaking the deadlock. Nevertheless, as Rusk said Thursday, they expect talks to continue on the ground that both Russia and Washington prefer to maintain contacts on major issues even if their efforts at agreement get nowhere.

Rusk said he due to go over much the same ground with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko at a meeting in Geneva next week. The two are scheduled to go to Geneva to sign final accords on the neutralization of Laos.

Rusk said the Russians have excluded "a great many things which are of interest of us." He cited as examples "the permanent peace settlement for Germany as a whole . . . or arrangements with respect to Berlin as a whole."

The only thing that is to be discussed is Western interest, vital interests," he continued, "and the only purpose of such discussion is to seriously reduce or to eliminate Western positions, then there is no basis for serious negotiations in that direction."

The clear implication was the Russians would have to improve their tactics in the exploratory talks and discuss matters in which the West is interested in settling if the talks are to make any progress.

MISSILE A SUCCESS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Titan II, the most powerful U.S. military rocket yet to be launched, scored a successful manned space flights, flew 10 miles Wednesday to register its second success in three test flights.

Officials Deny Any Secret Deal With Railway

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau deny there was any secret condition in last week's settlement of a strike in the trucking industry.

John A. Magee of Ottawa, executive secretary of the Canadian Trucking Associations, charged Wednesday that the bureau insisted on a "secret" condition that the International Teamsters Union (IBT) withdraw its objections to a CNR purchase of Husband Transport Limited before any labor contract could be signed.

Robert E. Curzon and J. W. Hines, who headed the bureau's negotiating team, issued a statement Thursday denying they made any side agreement with the Teamsters.

The bureau acted for eight trucking companies in Montreal, among them Husband Transport. The CNR wants to buy Husband Transport and the proposed purchase is being contested before Montreal Superior Court by the Teamsters in conjunction with the trucking association.

Two Killed In Car Crash

PORT ROWAN, Ont. (CP)—A man and a woman were killed and a third person was injured Thursday night when their car swerved off a gravel road near this Lake Erie community.

Dead are Mrs. Wilfred Swick and Rowland Smith, 36, both of Delhi, Ont.

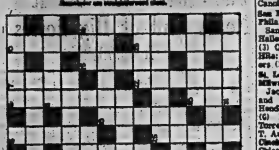
PRINCESS, 86, DIES



TRIESTE, Italy (AP)—Princess Leontina de Windischgraetz 86, one of the oldest members of Europe's nobility, died at her home here Thursday. The princess was a member of the court at Vienna during the last years of the Austro-Hungarian empire and was particularly close to the wife of Emperor Franz Josef. She was married to the tender Prince Hugo de Windischgraetz and bore him 11 sons. Seven of them were at her bedside when she died.

PLEDGE FUNDS

DETROIT (AP)—A group of auto industrialists and businessmen pledged Thursday to raise $12,500 to stage the Silver Cup race for unlimited powerboats here Aug. 26. A request by the Detroit Area Council Boy Scouts Association for a sanction to stage the race had been denied by the American Power Boat Association's unlimited committee because the council did not have the required $10,000 for prize money.

Seven New Marks Set

Records Go At Swim Meet

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — National records fell with regularity at the Canadian swimming and diving championships Thursday, many of them surpassed by the stars of the evening concerned.

Before the end of the 11 hours of competition at the meet's second day, seven new Canadian marks were on the books —three of them set by Montreal swimmers.

Meanwhile, two Ontario favorites took home the first diving silverware and immediately became possible members of the Canadian team that will compete in November in the British Empire games at Perth, Australia.

Ernie Meissner, 25, a travel agent from Kitchener who dives with the Etobicoke Aquatic Club, near Toronto, came from behind to win the men's one-metre springboard.

Tom Dingley, 21, of Vancouver, finished second, less than a point behind Meissner. Irene MacDonald, who represented Canada in many international meets before retiring this year, said they might finish one-two in Perth if both are selected to the Canadian team.

TOPS WOMEN DIVERS

Judy Stewart, a 16-pound 13-year-old Toronto Trojan, won the women's one-metre springboard and her performance in platform diving judges to say she is reaching international standard.

The team, to include 10 and possibly 12 members, will be named Saturday night.

Sylvie Rabinovitch, Allison Glendenning and the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association 440-yard freestyle relay team, anchored by Richard Pound, were the Montreal record breakers.

Rabinovitch twice lowered his own 110 - yard breaststroke mark, first in the heats which he led in 1:14.9 and then in the final where he won in 1:14.6, well below his previous 1:15.1 set in 1958.

Glendenning, 18, cracked the women's 100-yard breaststroke mark, leading from start and winning the final in the identical times of 1:22.4, compared with the previous record of 1:23.3 set by Janice Shepp of Winnipeg in 1958.

SETS RELAY RECORD

Pound brought the MAAA team from behind in the record-breaking victory in the 440-yard freestyle relay. The time was 3:58.9, well below the previous mark of 4:00.8 set in 1958 by the Etobicoke Aquatic Club.

The Tacoma, Wash., Swim Club had led until the final length in the 4-yard emptyspool and finished second in 3:59.2.

Other records fell to Tom Veith of Tweedie, Patty Thompson of Hamilton, Jack Kalso of Ocean Falls, B.C., and Mary Stewart of Vancouver.

Veith won the 220-yard men's freestyle in 2:08.1, beating by 1.3 seconds the record set last month by Addy Meinhardt of Vancouver.

Dan Sherry, 16, of Hamilton, had established a mark of 2:08.3 in the heats, but he finished fifth in the final. Pound, defending champion in the distance, was sixth.

Miss Thompson, 16, daughter of Jimmy Thompson who swam for Canada in the 1928 Olympic Games and who now coaches the Hamilton Aquatic Club, claimed the Canadian record in the 220-yard breaststroke as she FINISHES SECOND

But she had to settle for second place behind Carolyn Wood of Portland, Ore., whose winning time was 2:41.7 seconds, a Canadian open mark. Miss Thompson's time was 2:46.0, beating the record of 2:52.2 set last month by Susan Elliott of Vancouver who failed to reach today's final.

Helen St. aufferd the same fate in the men's 440-yard individual medley when Jim Webb of Portland won in 5:08.3 for a Canadian open mark. Ron Wilson's 5:13.0 goes into the Canadian record books as 32.3 seconds below the mark set in 1958 by Vancouver's Bill Slater.

Miss Stewart, 16, who holds world records in the 100-metre and 110-yard backstroke, set a record 3:39.9 in the women's 440-yard individual medley, an event she entered for the first time. Her time was 6.5 seconds faster than the mark set last month by Lynea Pomfret of Vancouver, who finished second to Miss Stewart Thursday.

Sara Barber, 21, of Brantford, Ont., Canadian backstroke champion for some time, entered the 440-yard individual medley and finished third with a time of 6:06.3, better than the previous national mark.

Harness Driver Succumbs

TORONTO (CP)—Frank McNally, 32, harness racing driver injured in a fall from a sulky at Sunderland Raceway, died in hospital Thursday.

McNally, of Oshawa, landed on his head when he was flipped from the sulky. He seemed uninjured and drove another horse that day.

On Sunday he complained of pain in the head and examination showed he was suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage. He underwent two brain operations and never regained consciousness.

Ottawa Squads Game

Rider Rookies Stand Out

OTTAWA (CP) — The red-team under veteran Canadian quarterback Russ Jackson defeated the white, 42-33 in the train Thursday night in an Ottawa Rough Riders inter-squad football game. About 4,500 fans attended.

Coach Frank Clair said he couldn't make any decisions on player selection before he looks at the films.

Possibly the most outstanding rookie was quarterback Ed Chachak of Western Michigan who passed for two touchdowns.

He combined with rookie Bob Rose of Florida A and M on a 46-yard pass-and-run touchdown play and later threw an 18-yard touchdown pass to Hal Dubois, who played briefly last season with Toronto Argonauts.

Dubois also scored another touchdown, by taking a four-yard pass from quarterback Ron Lancaster.

Another rookie who caught the eye of fans was Millard Fleming of Marshall College who notched two touchdowns, one on a 25-yard pass from Jackson, and the other on a three-yard line play.

Other rookies who scored touchdowns were Bob Beattie of Northern State College in South Dakota on a five - yard end sweep, Mel Anderson of Carey Lakeway, N.C., on a 40-yard run and Avram Smith of Ottawa University off a fumble.

Jackson scored on a 11-yard sneak play around left end, fullback Dave Thelen on a 40-yard smash through centre and end Jim Reynolds off a fumble.

Leading Yacht Wins Again

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)— Nefertiti had spinnaker trouble for the second straight day but came back for a victory over Columbia in the American Cup observation trials Thursday.

She won her eighth victory in the series against two defeats by two minutes and 23 seconds and leads in the series scheduled to finish Saturday.

Weatherly led Easterner all the way in Thursday's 15-mile race and won by one minute and 36 seconds. Weatherly is second in the standing with a 6-3 record Columbia is 3-6 and Vagabond 1-8.

Reach Ladies Golf Finals

TORONTO (CP)—Sue Hilton of the Lesdon Rund Club and Mrs. J. H. McCarter of Toronto Lambton Thursday played their way into the final of the Canadian ladies' golf championship.

Miss Hilton, 18, defeated Gail Harvey of Toronto 1 up on the 20th hole and Mrs. McCarter posted a 4 and 3 win over Mrs. D. H. Dixon of Toronto in the semi-finals.

Miss Hilton and Mrs. McCarter will meet in a 36-hole final today.

In the first flight, Lou Evans of Toronto and Nancy Smith of Windsor advanced to the finals. Miss Evans defeated Linda Ann Deeton of Woodstock Craigowan 8 and 7 and Miss Smith defeated Mrs. T. B. Hamilton of Toronto 3 and 2.

Koufax Injures Finger

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles Dodgers set New York Mets down for seven innings Thursday night with the index finger of his pitching hand as dumb as the Mets bats.

The sensational southpaw hurled with his left hand painfully swollen and the upper half of his left index finger almost numb.

He had yielded only three hits, one a bunt, when he left after the seventh inning. Larry Sherry finished up in the 5-0 Dodger victory.

"The hand hurt me all through the game," Koufax said. "And then I developed a blood blister on the index finger. so we decided not to take any chances."

"However, I dont expect to miss any time. The doctors have told me the only thing I can do for the condition is to rest, and I cant do that.

Koufax said he bought he developed the blood blister "because I may be baking the ball differently.

"The hand has been burning me for about a month, but for the life of me I dont know how it got that way."

The hand, which Koufax has used to pitch 14 National League victories this season including a no-hitter and an 18-strikeout game, has been getting worse.

His feats during the last four weeks stand at the mercy of his handicap.

From June 8 through Thursday night, the 26-year-old lefthander won six of eight decisions. His defeats were by 1-0 and 4-3 scores. His victories included the following decisions: 1-0, 2-1; 5-0, 15-1, 2-0 and 3-0.

During that stretch, Koufax permitted only 30 hits in 59 innings, walked 20 men and struck out 77. He has 200 strikeouts in 174 2-3 innings, a pace that is also 1946.

Sun Up Lead to 9, Bisons Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boom, Boom. And there went the ball game.

That was the story Thursday night as a pinch-hitter and a relief pitcher banged back-to-back home runs with two men out in the ninth inning to give Columbus Jets a 7-4 victory over Richmond Virginians in one of three International League games.

Richmond tried similar trick as Don Lock homered in the eighth from the Vees to break a 3-3 tie, but then Orlando Mc-Farlane equalled it and Don Blasingame finished the job for the Jets in the ninth.

The league - leading Jacksonville Suns, who stretched their lead to nine games over Tor-colo Maple Leafs, did it the other way. They collected only two hits off three Atlanta pitchers, but they fashioned them into four runs with the aid of walks and errors for a 4-2 victory over the Crackers.

Rochester Bisons jumped off for six runs in the first inning and four in the third for a 10-0 lead, then held on to beat Rochester Red Wings 12-6.

Blackburns home run gave him his third victory against four setbacks for the Jets. The loss was pinned on relief pitcher Jim Pactwa (2-2) who served the consecutive homers, Bob Bailey hit a homer for the Jets in the fourth inning.

That should enable him to surpass the modern major league strikeout record of 346 set by Bobby Feller of Cleveland Indians in 1946.

PLAN CHANGE — Michael Langham, artistic director of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival for the last seven years, will attempt to build a new reputation for the festival by presenting plays by other authors. Mr. Langham (right) directs festival actors during a rehearsal. (CP Photo).

Interest in Shakespeare Will Likely Decline in 10 to 15 Years Says Drama Expert

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — within 10 to 15 years the current have declined. When that happens, he wants the Stratford Theatre to be ready to carry on in other directions.

"The public's liking for Shakespeare comes in cycles," said the 41-year-old artistic director of the Stratford Shakespeare Festival. "It's more than likely he'll go out of fashion in the next 10 to 15 years although interest will never entirely disappear. When he does, the festival should be ready."

Langham said in an interview this season's production of Cyrano de Bergerac is part of a scheme to build a new reputation for the theatre to help it weather the Bard's expected eclipse.

It's also a factor in Langham's decision to stay on here after an earlier announcement that this would be his last season.

"It's always been my belief that theatres from time to time must undergo a rebirth through an infusion of new blood. I felt this applied to me, too, after seven years."

PLANS SABBATICAL

Originally he had felt this rebirth could come about only by going somewhere else. But after long consideration he decided it could be found in efforts to broaden the base of Stratford's reputation.

The British-born director who succeeded Tyrone Guthrie here shortly after coming to Canada in 1955 said that while Stratford will continue to present Shakespearean plays in coming years, it will also experiment with the works of such playwrights as Shaw, Ibsen, Brecht and Chekov to determine what sort of non-Shakespearean play suits the theatre's stage.

This doesn't mean, however, that Langham will devote all his time to Stratford in coming years. At present he's considering accepting the role of director for a Broadway production of Baker Street, a Sherlock Holmes musical, providing the right cast can be assembled.

In 1964 he will take a sabbatical from Stratford and Canada to stage two plays in London's Shaftesbury Theatre and has a standing invitation from Israel's Habimah Players and may at some time take it up.

After the present season here, Langham will look for a third theatre starting up in Minneapolis, he hopes that next winter the Minneapolis theatre, which like Stratford urges decentralization, will be included in the circuit for the Stratford Festival Universities tour.

Burnley Boss Says

'England Won't Win Cup'

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Lord, chairman of the Burnley club in the English League First Division, says "I don't think England will ever win the World Cup."

Lord, whose team lost out to Tottenham Hotspur in the final of the English Cup, is here on vacation.

He said selection of the English team to compete in the World Cup is "so much mixed up with soccer politics that it was hard to pick the best 11."

He said the team was selected by a committee—"I think it's made up of six or seven people and some of them are too old."

"If I had my way, the team would be selected by one man and he would be the boss."

RACKS MANAGER

Of Walter Winterbottom, England's manager, he said:

"Walter is all right by me but he has to answer to too many bosses. Let him run the team and we'd be better off."

Lord, one of the men responsible for the revival of the English League teams to allow their players to compete in the Eastern Canada Professional League, said Canada's only hope of becoming a power in world soccer is to develop its own players.

"I don't think that a highly skilled professional soccer player can play 12 months of each year. I personally prefer they have at least 10 weeks away from the game each year."

He advocated Canada do as Czechoslovakia, Austria, Germany, France and Switzerland South American countries have done—Czechoslovakia was runner-up in the World Cup at Chile last month.

Thirty years ago such countries, young in soccer skills, "hired English players."

"Now look at them. Why, they have showed us teachers how to play the game."

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Gramp's Pride won Thursday's featured fifth race at Woodbine over a sloppy track despite his past performance for dry going.

A severe lightning, hail and rain storm after the second race temporarily knocked out the power system and turned the track into a sea of mud. Horses in the third race weren't visible through the rain until they hit the stretch drive.

Gramp's Pride won the 1 1-16-mile race, defeating Popsaymo and paying $14.70. Champagne Velvet was a fast-closing third.

The daily double of Mister Ham in the first and Captain Hook in the second paid $212.60.

JAMES SIGNED

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manager Jim Ansley of the Canadian champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers announced Thursday that star Canadian fullback Gerry James "is signed, period." James, the only holdout since the club started training July 2, will be starting his 10th season with the Bombers.

Paul Lynde Now Enjoying His Work for First Time

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It took a movie to accomplish what a year of psychiatry and a few thousand-pep talks couldn't do—make Paul Lynde enjoy performing.

Lynde is that funny young man who has brightened Perry Comos television show during the last season; He is here now to re-create his Broadway role as the merried father of a swooning teen-ager in Bye Bye Birdie.

"This is the greatest thing that has happened to me, he remarked, "For the first time in my career, I am enjoying my work.

That sounds odd coming from a guy who has convulsed audiences in night clubs, Broadway shows and television specials.

"I have never got over being terrified in front of an audience. Oh, I know most performers get the jitters before they go on. My reaction is more like nervous collapse.

WENT ON COUCH

"I realized that this wasn't quite right; I should have been enjoying myself a bit more. So I went on the couch for a year to see if that would help. It did help a little.

"Until now, doing this picture is the first time I have performed with any degree of calm and confidence. There is no audience, because you can do it over again if it wasn't right the first time.

"It all started back at Northwestern University, he explained, "I got into a freshman drama class, and each of us had to do a monologue. Mine was de Bergerac.

"I did my scene and I thought it was pretty good. But my first assignment was to play the coffin fitting old player in The Male Animal. I asked the teacher how come, and she said, 'Didn't you know? Your reading of Cyrano was so hilarious that the obvious role for you I haven't had a chance to do anything serious since.

At the Belle

Elvis Presley in Fun-Filled "Follow That Dream", in Color.

Elvis Presley's latest film-filled film of "Follow That Dream", now playing an extended engagement at the Belle Theatre, is the Presley picture that Elvis stars as a natural-girl-shy young yokel, departing from his recent dramatic roles to present a natural sense of comedy pacing. A delightful blend of mirth, melody (Elvis sings five new songs) and romance, "Follow That Dream" co-stars Arthur O'Connell, Anne Helm, Joanne Moore and Jack Kruschen.

Based on the novel "Pioneer, Go Home!" by Richard Powell, the screenplay by Charles Lederer tells the story of a wandering Southern family who try to homestead in Florida on unclaimed land alongside a busy highway against the determined opposition of government officials, welfare workers and gangsters. It is an offering of the United Artists company, which previously presented "Some Like It Hot" and "The Apartment" — the most successful comedies of the past decade. "Follow That Dream", playing tonight and Saturday at the Belle theatre was filmed in Florida and Hollywood.

TWO COLOR FEATURETTES

"King of the Outdoors", an entertaining and fascinating Color Featurette, and a Color-fun Cartoon "Crow's Feat", are the two supporting "Follow That Dream", make a complete Color program.

Vandermeer To Manage Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Johnny Vandermeer, who gained pitching fame with Cincinnati Reds in the 1930s, was named Thursday to manage the limping Syracuse Chiefs.

The Chiefs, in their second year here after a long lapse of International League baseball in Syracuse, have been at or near the cellar most of the season. They are seventh in the eight-team league.

Vandermeer, 51, was been managing the Class D Tampa team in the Florida State League for the last several years. He gained fame in 1938 by pitching two consecutive no-hitters, against Brooklyn-Dodgers and Boston Braves.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Ran across my old boxing consultant, adviser and authority the other day. He is the honorable and venerable Harry Robinson, whose patron saint should be Christopher Columbus.

I say that because the estimable Chris put the first "squeeze play" on the Spanish Queen Isobella and scored with three historic explorer ships. He subsequently discovered America, foundered, I am told the "flights of Columbus" and set up a vast area so Harry could travel on it.

How the guy gets around! Over the past two or three decades one of sure personalities at a championship boxing match besides the contestants, was Harry, no matter the site of the fight. He has seen more champions in action than any two ring buffs I know.

I've had enough out-of-the-way pelaverde from this ex-railroad Marco Polo to fill a scrap-book. The only places I believe missed thus far are: Ball-Ball, Lower Mongolia, Allsavit, Sierra Leone, Beirut, Slobovia and the Kremlin. And I haven't given up hope.

Harry who saw most of the byways of England a year ago had just returned from Seattle where he gave the O.K. to the current World's Fair.

He hurriedly brushed away queries as to his Seattle visit and brought up his favorite subject. In fact he beat me to the punch by a couple of whiskers.

"Who will win the Patterson-Liston fight?"

There was no sense beating around the bush. 'You can't do that with Harry. He appreciates a fast quick-forward answer to questions like this. So he got it.

"Patterson in the fifth!"

Harry looked at me in what I thought with slight amazement. He half-smiled then shook his head. "Un-Huh. No sirree. You're wrong." He forgot to add "as usual."

So I stood back and awaited the famous Robinson opinion. He has a good prediction record, mainly because he knows the fight game so well and is a keen student of the whys and wherefores of past, present and future world boxing champions.

"Sonny Liston will knock out Patterson in the eleventh round." Period.

That was it. Harry turned away, shaking his head and waggling a forefinger. I shouted after him: "Patterson can throw four punches to Liston's one. How about that?"

Harry paused, half-turned and fired his parting shot: "Sure he can. But Liston's one punch in the eleventh will do the job." And he whistled his way through the Front Street population—and out of sight.

It makes one think. After all Mr. Robinson called the three Patterson-Johansson fights practically "on the button." But I insist there's a law of averages and for once my fine-feathered boxing prognosticator might pick the wrong "un.

Admittedly Liston has a glic-driver right. I saw it in the movies of his one-round knockout of the Sherman Westphal. It travels like a piston red just a short distance. The German willed like a week-old lettuce leaf.

However, Harry may have a point... If Liston is on his feet by Roland Eleven, the Robinson prediction could come true. I think Patterson will go all out to win in the early rounds with his rapid-fire punching.

But if Liston connects with a couple of those battering-ram rights to the champion's jaw, Floyd could be looking for Telestar in its orbit from a prone position.

And don't forget this. There has never been a more determined challenger step into a ring in quest of the heavyweight title than this lad Liston. His past history has been aired to the world. He wants to prove that he is not only a formidable heavyweight, worthy of the champion's belt but want to be an upright citizen.

Hmmm. Mr. Robinson could be right. But I'll stick by my opinion. Patterson, don't forget, has taken everything into consideration and isn't saying anything about anything. I think he will retain the title.

CHASED BY HALF-of-FAMER from his living room Wednesday night, police said Thursday.

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)— Dizzy Dean, who said McKechnie, soon to be inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame, acted swiftly when the men, wearing paper-ball star, grabbed a floor lamp bag masks, demanded his and chased two armed men money.

Essegian Powers Tribe To 6-4 Win

Angels Nip Yankees 5-4

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chuck Essegian of Cleveland Indians has broken out of his slump.

The 30 - year - old outfielder, whose batting average dropped 101 points since he reached his peak May 26, was tapped for pinch - hitting duty Thursday night and responded with a three-run homer that powered the Indians to a 6-4 American league triumph over Baltimore Orioles.

It was the second homer and seventh run batted in for Essegian since he hit six homers in six games, boosted his average to .304 and seemed to have found his spot at Cleveland after spending eight years with 18 different clubs in organized baseball.

Relegated to occasional appearances by his slump, Essegian faced the Orioles after Willie Tasby had opened a two-run pinch single, tying the game 3-3 in the ninth inning. Essegian then hit his homer No. 14.

Victory moved the second-place Indians to within .004 points of the league - leading New York Yankees, beaten 5-4 by the third - place Los Angeles as Felix Torres drove in four runs for the Angels. Southpaw Ted Bowsfield of Penticton, B.C., picked up the win for the Angels, making his record 5-3.

SPLIT DOUBLEHEADER

Washington Senators cut short homered Minnesota Twins 7-4 in 10 innings and Kansas City Athletics and Boston Red Sox split a doubleheader. The Athletics won the opener 5-4 and the Red Sox took the nightcap 9-4 in 11 innings.

It was a pitcher's duel at Baltimore for six innings when Ruben Gomez blanking the Orioles on three hits and Robin Roberts allowing the only run on Jerry Kindall's homer.

The Orioles scored in the seventh inning after Gomez left with a strained shoulder and moved ahead 3-2. In the eighth when Cleveland catcher John Romano dropped a throw home with the bases loaded, Tasby and Essegian pulled it out, giving the victory to Gary Bell (7-5) and tagging Wes Stock (3-2) with the loss.

Torres' first - inning triple with the bases loaded and a single for Lee Thomas sent the Angels into a 4-0 lead against the Yankees' Terrel Tarrant. A sacrifice fly in the third inning drove in Leon Wagner with the decisive run. Wagner had doubled for the only Los Angeles hit off loser Whitey Ford (4-5) and Jim Coates after the first inning.

The Yanks pushed across four runs in the seventh inning before Dean Chance got Roger Maris on a popout to end the battle and preserve the victory for Bowsfield.

Bowsfield worked 6 3/4 innings, giving up four runs off six hits. He issued two walks.

Jim King's second homer, a two - run shot that snapped a 4-4 tie in the 10th inning, followed by Harry Bright's solo homer, ended the Senator's seven-game losing streak and extended the Twins' skid to five games.

Camilo Cottier also homered for Washington while Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Earl Battey connected for Minnesota.

Dave Stenhouse (7-6) was the winner, Ray Moore (4-3) lost.

Pizarro (8-7) struck out seven men in posting his fourth consecutive triumph. He had difficulty only with Steve Boros, who doubled and scored the first Tiger run, then doubled to drive in the other.

The White Sox got their first run on Luis Aparicio's triple and a grounder by Camilo Carreon, scored their second on Joe Cunningham's homer and beat Don Mossi (7-10) in the eighth when Jim Landis doubled and Nellie Fox singled.

Ted Kor tied the opener 4-4 in the top of the ninth inning on Pete Runnels' three-run homer. But the Athletics came back to win it for John Wyatt (6-4) in the Boston half of a double by Ed Charles, a walk and a pinch-hit single by George Alusik. Mike Fornieles (3-4) was the loser.

Bob Cerv broke the nightcap open in the 11th inning on Jerry Walker's single by Russ Nixon. Jim Clinton's triple and Bob Tillman's homer off Gordon Jones (3-3). Clinton also hit two homers. Dick Radatz (3-4) won.

Batting—Hank Aaron, Braves, stroked .667 with seven hits, drove in four runs and scored twice in Milwaukee's 8-6 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

Pitching—Juan Pizarro, White Sox, allowed Detroit Tigers only two hits and one run over nine innings in 3-0 Chicago victory and posted fourth consecutive triumph.

Leads Nagle By Five Strokes

Palmer Blasts Record With A 67

TROON, Scotland (CP-AP)—Defending champion Arnold Palmer shattered the course record at Old Troon with a five-under-par 67 in the third round of the British golf championship today and carried a five-stroke lead into the final 18 holes.

The long-hitting star from Latrobe, Pa., clipped two strokes off the record for the tough course with his blistering round of 35-32.

His 54-hole total of 207 gave him a five-strokes lead over Kel Nagle of Australia, an old rival who beat Palmer by a stroke for the 1960 title. Lefthander Bob Charles of New Zealand was another three strokes back with 215.

Both Nagle and Charles had 70s today. At one point the 41-year-old Nagle had made up the two-stroke lead Palmer carried into the third round and gone ahead himself by a stroke.

PALMER BRILLIANT

Nagle reached the turn in 34 to Palmer's 35 but he was unable to match the American's brilliant play in the back nine.

Palmer unleashed a streak of birdies on the back nine after losing his 3-stroke lead early in the third round.

Palmer, whose putter cooled on him last month at Oakmont, Pa., and cost him the U.S. Open championship in a playoff with Jack Nicklaus, putted accurately today.

Palmer sent a tricky five-footer curling into the cup on the 10th for a birdie three and after getting a par three on the 14th racked up consecutive birdies on the 16th, 18th and 17th.

He canned a birdie at the 18th with a sensational chip from the rough skirted dead to the pin and then he ran in an 18-footer for a third birdie at the 17th.

He barely missed another birdie at the home hole. His approach landed 15 feet from the hole and his putt just skipped past the lip of the cup.

Nagle played steady par golf but it wasn't good enough to keep pace with Palmer.

Thirty-eight professionals and one amateur qualified for the final 36 holes of the tournament but most of the big crowd followed Palmer and Nagle as they battled it out for the title.

They took a short break for lunch after the first 18 and then returned to the course for the final round.

With 213, Bob Charles, one of the few lefthanders in top professional golf, was two strokes ahead of American Phil Rodgers and three ahead of Dave Thomas of England. Rodgers had a third - round 72 and Thomas a 71.

The remaining three American open qualified for the last 36 holes were well back in the field. Sam Snead had a 72 for 220, Dan Sasaki a 74 for 226, and Don Essig had a 79 for 227.

Palmer's incredible run of birdies brought a crowd of 30,000 swarming around the match. Some were impor-

Pointers Squeak By Trudeaus

The Point Anne Cementmen scored one run in the bottom of the 21st extra inning at the Point last night to shade the front-running Trudeau Motors squad in a 2-1 thriller.

The Cementmen had taken a 1-0 lead in the initial frame and Trudeaus tied it in the fourth.

That's the way it stayed until the eighth inning when Sheridan drew a walk after two were out. Jim Horwood decided the issue by slamming a ball over the outfielder's head to drive home the tie-breaker.

Dave Feeney, of the Pointers, and Junior Day, of Trudeaus, hooked up in a neat pitching duel. Feeney allowed four hits, struck out two and walked one. Day gave up seven hits, issued seven on strikes and passed a pair.

Jim Horwood's deciding triple and single by Graham Horwood and Gordie Green were the only Point Anne safeties.

Gerry Genereaux had a double and single for Trudeaus. Lyle Wannemaker hit a double and Dave Day a single.

The loss was number three for Trudeaus this season.

Canadian Amateur Golf

Battle Of Young Giants

TORONTO (CP)—The battle of the young giants promises to be one of the best matches today in the third round of the Ontario amateur golf championships.

Ross Bruce, playing out of Thornhill, will meet Phil Brownlee of Toronto's new Bridlewood Summit Golf and Country Club.

Bruce emerged as a giant-killer when he upset low medalist Bill Wong of Woodroffe Parkes shot a sizzling four-under 67 in the qualifying round of 144 cuts his score in the second round Thursday Wilson, 1960 Canadian junior champion, and Perkes when he canned a 12-foot putt. The match went into extra holes when Parkes missed a four-footer on the 18th.

Wilcox downed Mike Whitney of Kitchener in the first round.

Brownlee, 1960 Ontario junior champion now on a golf scholarship at the University of Houston, defeated Pete Kelly of Centralia 3 and 2 in the first round and then dropped Dick Gothric of Toronto 5 and 3 in the second.

COWAN SPARKLES

Gary Cowan, Canadian amateur champion playing out of Kitchener Rockway, shot an impressive 68 made up of five-four under par—in defeating Sandy McAndrew of Sudbury 1 and 2 in the second round.

In his first match of the day Cowan had no trouble with Ray Phelps of the host club and won 6 and 5. McAndrew upset Ernie Hauser of Kitchener 1 up.

Cowan meets Harold Barnett of Summit today.

Bob Jamieson of Peterborough, Ontario junior champion, will meet Gordon MacKenzie of Brantford in another pairing.

In another match today Ross Bruce of Toronto meets Jeff McGrath of Oshawa.

In one of the more surprising upsets Thursday, Bill Gardiner of Toronto took six-time tournament champion Phil Farley 6 and 4. Farley almost an institution in the tournament—1951-54-57-58-59-62.

The Morland brothers of North Bay, Dave and Bill, both were eliminated in the first round. Dave was Ontario Amateur champion in 1960 and Bill was runner-up in 1957.

Other results Thursday included:

Nick Weslock, Toronto, defeated Wilf Rathkopf, Kitchener, 3 and 2.

Bruce Carstor, Toronto, defeated Bob Mason, Welland, 1 up.

Carl Charlton, Trenton, defeated Bill Morland 6 and 5.

McGrath defeated Wib Goodison, Burlington, 1 up.

Bob JAMIESON ROUND

Bob Jamieson, Peterborough, defeated Ken Taylor, Kitchener, 2 and 1.

Herb Carnegie, Toronto, defeated Mike Crowchuk, Welland, 2 up.

George Rawsnor Jr., Toronto, defeated William Bowmer, Petrborough, on the 21st.

George Rawsnor defeated Fair 3 and 2.

Doug Bruton, Milton, defeated Waite 1 up.

McGrath defeated Charlton 3 and 4.

Kenmors Meet Ajax Here Tonight

The Kenmors senior baseball club tests the top-ranking Intermediate Ajax team here tonight in an exhibition tilt at the Fair Grounds. The game gets underway at 9.15.

With Kingston taking over the league lead, the Kenmors must needs play top baseball from here in. Peterborough Fannings have developed a sudden yen for wins and could make it extremely tough for the top "K" squad.

The Kenmors trek to Fort Hope on Sunday afternoon for a league tilt and they will go all out to grab back the points they missed in the Kingston "squeaker" Wednesday night.

Pat Asselline, who came up with a sparkling effort at shortstop the other night against Kingston was not cedited with his single in the coverage story. Pat lined out the hit in the third innings and later scored the frame's lone run on Guyer's clout and a passed ball.

The Kenmors fielding has been good with not too frequent bobbles. It pulled off a neat double play to squelch a first-inning Kingston rally. Barney Donald's running steeplechasing catch of Earle's blooper was another fielding highlight of that game.

The team faces a busy schedule next weekend. On Friday, July 30 they play Brockville here at 8.15 in an exhibition tilt. On Saturday they go to Peterborough and the following Sunday they meet Kingston in the Limestone City.

While Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants duel for National League supremacy, another fight battle is being waged for the batting lead. Hank Aaron, Frank Robinson and Roberto Clemente are challenging Tommy Davis of the Dodgers.

Davis managed only a single Thursday night but drove in his 81st run of the season as the Dodgers beat the last - place New York Mets 2-0 on a combined three - hitter by Randy Koufax and Larry Sherry.

Aaron clinched a four - hit night with a ninth - inning home - run blast with two aboard as the Milwaukee Braves an 8-4 victory over St. Louis Cardinals. Robinson had three hits and batted in three runs, including the clincher, in Cincinnati Reds' 5-4 decision over Chicago Cubs and Clemente helped Pittsburgh Pirates trim Houston Colts 6-3 with three hits.

Davis has a .353 batting average, Clemente has .348, Robinson .344 and Aaron .336.

Willie Mays—muddling along in the .300 area at the .308 mark—collected three singles and Orlando Cepeda his 23rd on the bases in leading the Giants to a 5-3 triumph over Philadelphia Phillies. The victory kept San Francisco at the league-leading Dodgers' heels — half a game behind.

THROTTLER METS

Koufax, buffeted by a sore pitching hand but able to go seven strong innings, won his fifth game against four losses in his first meeting with the Mets since he pitched a no - hitter against them June 30. He followed three hits and struck out six but needed giving way to Sherry, who held them hitless the last two innings.

The Dodgers didn't overwhelm right-hander Roger Craig, but got good mileage from their hitting. They broke through with two runs in the fourth inning on doubles by Jim Gilliam and Willie Davis, followed by Tommy Davis' single, then closed the scoring in the ninth when Ken Farley doubled and John Roseboro tripled.

The Giants built a 5-0 lead behind Jack Sanford but the right-hander weakened after holding the Phils to four hits through six innings. He needed relief from Stu Miller. Mays singled across the five run in the opening inning against loser Jack Hamilton and scored the clincher in the fifth with some devil-may-care base running.

SCRAMPERS HOMER

Willie singled off with a single, stole second, took third when Hamilton's attempt at an umpire Duffy Boggs, then made home with a sacrifice fly. Filipe Alou hit a routine hopper to short. Jose Pagan made it in a mad scramble in the sixth inning and Roy Sievers homered for the Phillies.

Hank Aaron rapped his grandslammer off Cardinal relief star Lindy McDaniel, who had not given up an earned run in 13 appearances. Hank's kid brother, Tommy, ignited the Braves' rally in the ninth with a pinch homer against Larry Jackson. Eddie Mathews also homered for the Braves.

Winner Claude Raymond (2-0) of Verdun, Que., and three other Milwaukee pitchers allowed 12 hits.

RUG HOMERS COUNT

The Pirates, holding third place 4½ games behind the Dodgers, played long ball in winning against Houston. Dick Stuart homered with Bob Skinner aboard in the first inning. Smoky Burgess connected after a walk to Stuart and a single by Clemente in the third, and Skinner homered with the bases empty in the sixth.

The Reds exploded with a vengeance in their ninth-inning rally that routed the Cubs, scoring across four runs on Gus Bell's pinch-hit triple, a double by Robinson, Vada Pinson's single and Leo Cardenas' triple which followed after an intentional walk to John Edwards.

Joey Jay won his 12th game of the season for Cincinnati with a six-hitter. He gave up two-run homers by Billy Williams and Andre Rodgers.

'Grandpa' Shoots Hot 65

DETROIT (AP) — Pete Cote, a retired grandfather without a major victory in four years, fired a sizzling 65 to grab the first-round lead of the $25,000 Motor City Open.

Playing the Knollwood Country Club course where he was once the pro, showed deadly accuracy around the green Thursday.

Doug Crampton, Billy Casper, Bob Shave and Dave Reed trailed by one. Followed by Don Massengale, Bob Harrison, Dan Sikes and Al Geiberger with 67.

Ingemar May Meet 'Ole Arch'

VIENNA (AP—Two former world champions, heavyweight Ingemar Johansson of Sweden and light - heavyweight Archie Moore of San Diego, Calif., probably will meet in Tijuana, Mexico, Oct. 15 it has been disclosed by the Swedish adviser.

Swedish promoter Edwin Ahlqvist said Thursday the fight is "almost sure" but the only closure when he said promoter Norman Baumgarten of Los Angeles came here to object to a proposed Johansson fight in Vienna before the Moore bout.

Ahlqvist and Parnassow, who wants to promote the fight in the Tijuana bullring, met here Wednesday.

"Nothing is definite yet because Ingemar first has to undergo an encyst operation on his shoulder, Ahlqvist said. He said Ingo hurt the shoulder in training before his recent knockout of Welshman Dick Richardson in a fight for the European heavyweight crown.

Score Was 9-4

Bobcats Trim Juniors

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

The Bobcats, sparked by veteran Bobby Green, downed the Rollins Juniors 9-4 at the Rollins grounds last night to move into a four-point lead in their battle for the final playoff position.

Bobcats have won five games and lost 1½ while Rollins have won three and lost 12.

Green, who pitched Monday's clutch victory over Rollins, repeated the decision last night. He retired the first 12 batters to face him before a lapse in the fourth inning gave Rollins their first run.

After the Rollins' rally, Clapp toddled in the seventh and scored later on a wild pitch. The winners added a trio in the eighth on a pair of walks, St. Louis' base hit, a sacrifice and two errors to seal it at 9-4.

Don Holoway gave up the six Bobcat hits, newer more than one per inning but six errors by his mates helped him to the loss. He struck out seven and walked the same number.

Earl Clapp repped two hard clouters and Floyd Crawford had his four-bagger to spearhead the Bobcat attack. "Shiner" Murray, Wayne Bovay and Gord St. Louis contributed singles.

ROLLINS JRS. — Locke cf, McGuire 3b, Weston c, Zakos ss, Duggan 1b, Burgess lf, McGrimmon 2b, Kellar ss, Holoway p, Robitaille (p.h. for Holoway).

BOBCATS — Wright 3b, F. Crawford c, Bovay rf, Green p, Clapp cf, Cole ss, D. Murray 1b, Crawford 2b, St. Louis lf.

Umpires — Keith Bentley (P) and Austin Watkin. Time: 1.40.

Minor Baseball

The Twins scored all their runs in two innings on their way to a 7-1 Bantam baseball league win over the Orioles at Alemite Field last night.

Twins plated four runs in the second and three in the third before the Orioles begged their loner in the third.

The winners outhit the losers 8-4.

Quinte Soccer

The league-leading Trenton Ambers and Batawa chalked up victories in the Bay of Quinte soccer league.

Trenton defeated the RCAF Flyers 6-3 at Trenton while Batawa downed Belleville Parsons Cleaners 5-1 at Batawa.

Cleaners spoiled Batawa's win by scoring three goals. Kulcsar booted two and Zipper had the other. J. Furey accounted for Parsons' lone goal.

Clough had a big night in leading the Ambers to victory. He scored four goals. Aldworth, the loop's leading scorer, scored the other pair. Gale and Patterson had the RCAF markers.

Woods Horlock Shuts Out Reide's 10-0

Ler Hall slammed a pair of three-run homers at the CNRA park last night as the Woods-Horlock Juveniles to a 10-0 win over Reide's Enneveling.

Wayne Woods looked after the pitching end of the shindig, limiting the Reide's nine back with another in the fifth.

Woods struck out three and walked five over the route. The only hits he allowed were Reide boy and Ler Hall.

Henry Poole pitched the loss, logged for eight hits in all. He fanned four and walked three.

Besides Hall's two homers, Cord Smith and Wayne Woods each had two singles. Malloy and D. Norris had a hit each.

DESERONTO

Reserve Conservation Area To Be Completed This Year

DESERONTO — The plan to establish a conservation area for wild fowl on Tyendinaga Reserve is being brought to fruitfulness this year. Last week Chief Melvin Hill announced that Ducks Unlimited, of Winnipeg, advised him that the contract for the construction of the dam at Mud Creek has been awarded to the Ransom Construction Co. of Belleville, and workmen are already moving in the equipment for the job. According to the specifications the dam is to be completed by September 15th.

This is an experimental project of Ducks Unlimited in cooperation with the Mohawks of the Tyendinaga Reserve and was first suggested by Chief Hill and his council. G. A. Campbell is supervising the project of Ducks Unlimited and he has advised Chief Hill that he will attempt to have a biologist view the area in August for suggestions to further improve the plans.

At present it is planned to flood a large area of the marsh and remove the many dead spring trees so that the propagation of wild fowl will be protected and all their natural habits to increase in this district.

NATURAL FEEDING PLACE

The proposed site of the project at Mud Creek is a natural feeding place for wild ducks and has long been recognized as the Reserve as a superb hunting spot. However, restrictions on hunting are planned, and the regulations will be strictly enforced.

The far sighted endeavors of Chief Hill and his council are highly laudable. Through their foresight and evidence they are bettering a natural habitat and breeding grounds for the wild fowl that people have come to take for granted and, through their efforts, there may be preventing the complete extinction of the species. At the same time, they are ensuring that future generations will have the opportunity to enjoy a grand sport.

Two Arrested After Stocks Are Stolen

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiable stock certificates worth $2,000,000 or more were reported missing Thursday from the vaults of Bache and Company, brokerage firm.

Police put the value at nearly $2,000,000, but a spokesman for Bache said it was $1,200,000.

As the loss was made public, the district attorney's office said one man attempting to sell some of the certificates was arrested here July 2 and that a second man was held by the Federal Bureau of Investigation Wednesday in Denver, Colo.

Authorities apparently had delayed announcement of the arrests in an effort to avoid tipping off others who might be involved.

The missing certificates were listed as representing 1,200 shares of du Pont, 2,400 of International Business Machines, 500 each of Polaroid and Xerox and 100 each of General Motors and American Telephone and Telegraph.

The man arrested here was identified as Isidore Gorlitsky, alias Richard Miller, 41, of the Bronx. The man arrested in Denver was named as Allen Louis Fisher of New York.

Bronze Plaque Unveiled at Chrysler Farm

DESERONTO — On June 30th, a group from Tyendinaga Reserve attended the unveiling of a bronze plaque at Chrysler Farm, near Morrisburg. As guests of the St. Lawrence Development Commission, Chief S. M. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Lewis and John A. Brant, represented the Mohawks of Tyendinaga and took part in the program. Also present were the Colors and members of the bands of the Brantford and St. Regis Reserves.

The purpose of the plaque is to commemorate the heroic part played by the Indians who were loyal to the crown during the American Revolution.

The wording on the plaque reads:

"To the Loyalists
OF THE INDIAN NATIONS
1755-1784"

To commemorate the services of the many thousands of the Indian Nations, who remained loyal to the British Crown at the time of the American Revolution and being much maligned and driven from their lands were settled in the new province of Upper Canada, the bedge of which province contains in their honor the Pipe of Peace.

INDIAN PARADE

Part of the program was given by the Indian dancers from the Six Nations Reserve at Brantford and Roy Padden and the Indian dancers from the St. Regis Reserve. There was also a colorful parade of all Indians in costume and the climax for the day was a lacrosse game between two boys' teams from the St. Regis Reserve.

Among the special guests attending was Mrs. Ethel Brant Monture.

Astrological Forecast

Saturday July 19
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—If you have attended to details, all is well. But if not, there are setbacks indicated. Avoid misunderstandings with fellow workers. Tendency is for others to lash out due to jealousy.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20)—Truth may not be pleasant but your best course is to stick to the facts. Money matters will claim much of your attention. But, tonight, tension eases if you let it.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—If you are determined to "pick and smokeless you will have trouble. But if you turn on Gemini charm, this should be wonderful day and evening. So forgive and forget!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Yes, there are pretty annoyances but they are not overcome by complaining. Instead, pace how as they exist. Do not expect utopia. There can be beauty in imperfection!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Pressure is key today but you come out on top by "pacing" yourself. Boredom is for sissies and so is the spirit of vacation relaxation, travel. Go with the tide!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—Good day for "flushing" decisions. No time to try hanging onto things, however, for there is a point of saturation which may have been reached. Be true to yourself.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—Good for communications, for writing, telephoning, letting others know that your ideas are sparkling, original. Try to make new contacts. Have faith in your own abilities.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) —Listen to "inner voice". Avoid speculation, but head hunches, remember past experiences. Let them guide you now, for action based on knowledge pays off today.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — No matter what others say they will do, you had better depend upon your own judgment, abilities. There are obstacles, but you are in a position to overcome them. Be confident.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You could flag the answer to perplexing problem if you stop pressing. The answer is close at hand, but you must not "frighten" it away. Be cool, calm, collected.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19). — Like Taurus, you can make this a meaningful day and evening by "enjoying friends and the "good" things around you. May be pleasant surprise for you in connection with money matters.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) —You can do your best if you accept suggestions from those who care. Avoid being arrogant, but insist on your rights. Put your best down and you'll be rewarded.

If today is your birthday . . . you must receive opportunity to enhance income potential. Much of what you want is close at hand. Look around and appreciate your life and those in it.

General Tendencies: Day when those who "brag" are asked to put up or be quiet. No time for "bluffing". The chips are down.

Sunday School Lesson

Faith in God's Ways

By Rev L. Smith

The Book of Habakkuk, in the old Testament, is a very strange one. Wherein the other prophets addressed themselves to the Hebrews, the author of Habakkuk addressed himself to God. Prophets like Isaiah, Amos, Hosea and Jeremiah charged the nation with its sins; Habakkuk dared God to explain His administration of the world.

HABAKKUK'S WORLD

When Moses was in the process of leading the children of Israel out of their Egyptian bondage, he told them that Jehovah stood ready to enter into a solemn agreement with them. If they would be God's people, accept His guidance, and obey His laws, He would in return assure them that they would be protected and prosper. This he declared, was for the purpose of enabling God to achieve a great work of redemption for all mankind.

It was quite true that the children of Israel had not kept their part of the bargain. They had disobeyed the laws and they had shared the paganism of their neighbors. And Habakkuk was quite willing to admit that they deserved punishment. But there was something the prophet could not understand. Why was God using a terribly wicked nation to punish a small nation that was far less vicious? If God were a God of justice, why did He not recognize the fact that the Hebrews, mistaken though might be, were far less deserving of punishment than those nations were which God was using for punishment?

IT'S AN OLD PROBLEM

The problem Habakkuk faced was an old one, even in his day. And in our day it is even more difficult to answer the question.

There is the case, of Tibet, for example. It is true that the nation has been living in isolation for generations, and it is true that the people have been held in darkness because of the prejudice of the religious leaders, and the ignorance of the politicians.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 15: Habakkuk Questions the Ways of God," Habakkuk; 2 Kings 23:30-37.

But the Red Chinese, their hands dripping with blood, were certainly unworthy to be called the agents of God. As they raped the little nation and pillaged the people, the pity of the world was aroused. But God did not seem to interfere in any way. And millions of godly people asked why. They were, in fact, asking the same question Habakkuk asked.

QUESTION OF FAITH

Deep within each of us there is a disposition to trust this universe. We have grown to the seasons, the actions of the storm, the combinations of the molecules, and the character of the elements dependable. But the moment we get into international affairs, race relations, international brigandage, power politics, and some of the other great world issues, the principle seems to break down. The moral government does not seem to be effective. It is unfortunate that the prophet Habakkuk did not declare his own faith, for he must have believed in God's administration of human affairs. But that does not appear in his book, except in a minor section.

But Christians, who put their faith in Jesus Christ, are prepared to say, "I do not understand, but I believe. There is a mystery here, but the day will come when God will clear it up. If God is such a one that Jesus of Nazareth could call Him Father, then I propose to trust Him as I would trust my father. I do not understand this situation, but because I believe in God I am perfectly sure that the time will come when God will explain this situation to me, and when He does I will be just as well satisfied with His explanation as He is."

LIVE BY FAITH

Faith was Habakkuk's anchor. He declared that he would believe, even though he could not see the outcome. Hundreds of years afterward the Apostle Paul picked up his words and used them as an expression of his own confidence, and in time Martin Luther echoed them once more, saying "The just shall live by their faith." It means that faith will pull us through.

DESIGNS FLAG—Toronto insurance agent Jarrott Hutchinson has designed this proposed Canadian flag, a modification of the Red Ensign, It features three gold fleurs-de-lis on a blue circle in the centre of the Union Jack with a branch of maple leaves in the fly. Designer Thinks New Canadian Flag Will Please Everyone

TORONTO (CP) — Insurance agent Jarrott Hutchinson, 49, has designed a Canadian flag he believes will please everyone.

Basically, it's the old familiar Red Ensign with something added and something taken away.

Added is a blue circle in the centre of the Union Jack. On the blue ground are three evenly spaced gold fleurs-de-lis.

The Canadian coat - of - arms has been replaced on the fly by a branch sprouting 19 green maple leaves — one for each province.

Mr. Hutchinson says his flag would bring together in one corner the emblems of the four "mother races" of Canada. The English Cross of St. George, Scottish Cross of St. Andrew and the Irish Cross of St. Patrick would be united with the French fleur-de-lis.

"The only alternative is to do away with the Union Jack and the fleur-de-lis," he said.

"That would throw away 200 years of history."

Mr. Hutchinson, a 49th generation Canadian of Scottish ancestry, attended McGill University and is married to an Australian.

He has shown the flag to Finance Minister Fleming and plans to send a copy to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Three Prairie Sandhill Cranes Seen in B.C.

VICTORIA (CP) — Three prairie sandhill cranes, a species never before sighted on southern Vancouver Island, have been visiting residents near here for several months.

Although they keep a police distance in open fields, the birds always announce their presence.

"They have a penetrating bugling sound," said C. L. Hyndman. "It's an immense voice-even for the size of the bird."

The sandhill crane stands about three feet tall and has a wingspread of six feet.

The most common habitat of the sandhill crane is southern Saskatchewan. The bird is under the protection of the Migratory Bird Protection Act and must not be hunted.

British Cabinet Is Shaken Up By Macmillan

Seven Senior Ministers Lose Posts in Shuffle

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan rocked the British political world Friday night with the most sweeping cabinet shuffle since the end of the Second World War.

Fighting to restore his party's prestige and voter-appeal after a series of sharp by-election setbacks, Macmillan dropped seven senior cabinet ministers who have been the target for Conservative party administrations for years.

To replace them, he reached into the party's erstwhile "second eleven" and younger men—the average age of the new cabinet is 50— in an apparent bid to give his government a new image of energy, drive and youth. The old cabinet averaged 55 years.

Among the ministerial heads that rolled in the ruthless shake-up were Selwyn Lloyd, 51, chancellor of the exchequer—treasury chief—onetime foreign secretary and party leader's choice as a future prime minister.

Others dropped were Defence Minister Harold Watkinson, 58, Scottish Secretary Walter Elliot, 58, housing and local government minister; John Maclay, 58, minister without portfolio for Scotland, and Lord Mills, 72, minister of power.

PICKS MAUDLING

To replace Lloyd, Macmillan picked Reginald Maudling, 45, former colonial secretary and an expert on European Common Market problems.

Into the defence ministery went Peter Thorneycroft, 55, former minister of aviation, and to the education post, Sir Edward Boyle, 40, former financial secretary to the treasury.

Lord Chancellor Kilmuir, the chief judicial official—was replaced by former Attorney-General Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller, 58, and Lord Kilmuir, 66, was given the new housing minister, William Deedes, 49, was appointed new minister without portfolio and Michael Noble, 49, replaced Mills as minister of state for Scotland.

In addition to the wholesale changes Macmillan also redistributed some cabinet posts and responsibilities.

In recognition of the fast-diminishing British empire, Macmillan named 54-year-old Duncan Sandys, former Commonwealth relations secretary, as Britain's first Commonwealth and colonial secretary, thus combining two formerly separate posts.

Sandys created the position of secretary of state and deputy minister in the government of Home Secretary R. A. Butler, 59, long the unofficial second man in the government.

As home secretary, to replace Butler, Macmillan picked Henry Brooke, 59, former chief aide to Lloyd in the treasury.

Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell called on the government to resign and hold a general election.

"This is a political massacre, which, as it is intended, is interpreted as a gigantic admission of failure," he said in Manchester.

"Instead of getting rid of his colleagues, the prime minister should resign and let the people elect a new government."

T.C. Douglas Will Seek Seat In B.C. Riding

WINNIPEG (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national leader of the new Democratic Party defeated in Regina in the June 18 federal election, said make a second try for a Commons seat in the British Columbia riding of Burnaby-Coquitlam.

Erhart Regier, NDP representative of the constituency who says he has the best organization in the country, announced Friday he will run as member in the next two or three days to make way for a Commons bid by Mr. Douglas.

"Yesterday I dispatched a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker informing him that it is my intention to resign in the next two or three days," Mr. Regier said. He had asked for an early by-election.

Mr. Regier said he will campaign as an employee of the national NDP organization in selected areas, and "return to the post of Commons member at the first opportunity."

Mr. Douglas, who stood before the press at the member made his statement following a caucus of 19 NDP members of Parliament, said he will "offer" himself as a candidate in Burnaby-Coquitlam.

Film Producer Dies in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hard-driving Jerry Wald, a former newspaper man who scrapped his way to top of Hollywood as one of its most prolific film producers, died Friday night at 52.

He suffered a heart attack—his third in two days—while reading in bed, his doctor said.

The dynamic, hyper Wald noted for his staccato-like speech and voluminous record of work at 20th Century-Fox studios Thursday complaining of a cold.

He recently was released from a hospital after receiving treatment for ulcers and a spinal growth.

He was the epitome of the high-flying, fast-talking Hollywood producer.

Since 1941, he produced 40 movies, including such classics as Johnny Belinda, Humoresque and Mildred Pierce. A current Wald film, Bolero, Tahara's Vacation, stars Jimmy Stewart.

Will Protect Reputations Of Doctors

LONDON (CP)—The Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Commission said today it will do everything possible to protect the reputations of British doctors who go to Saskatchewan to provide emergency services.

George Taylor of Saskatoon, legal member of the insurance commission, said at a press conference the provincial government also will do whatever is possible to safeguard the reputation of the British medical profession in general.

FOUR HAMSTERS, TWO MONKEYS ON BALLOON TRIP

Head for Edmonton From Goose Bay

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP) — The United States launched a huge balloon early today with two monkeys and four hamsters aboard in an effort to determine the effects of cosmic rays on the animals.

A spokesman at the Ames Research Centre here said the 300-foot-high balloon carried a 70-pound payload on a planned 65-hour flight from Goose Bay, Labrador to Edmonton.

The balloon was the first in a series of four launchings that are expected to provide basic research on radiation problems applicable to manned space flight.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said the balloon's payload will be exposed to about 30 per cent of primary cosmic radiation effects in deep space at 130,000 feet.

Telstar Gives U.S. Picture Of Princess

NEW YORK (AP)—A picture of Princess Anne was successfully transmitted from Britain to the United States Friday via the Telstar satellite.

The relay took the shape of Telstar V as the electronic picture signals were bounced off Telstar, the first U.S. communications satellite.

The switchboard in the sky received and then retransmitted the picture of the English princess, shown as she disembarked from a ship at Southampton after a trip to France.

Ban-Bomb Britons Argue 2 Hours With Soviet Crowd in Red Square

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Several Russians who described themselves as "ordinary Soviet citizens" tried to break up a prohibited demonstration by a group of British anti-nuclear campaigners in Red Square Friday.

But the Westerners, mostly members of Britain's Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, held their ground and argued with crowds of Russians for two hours—a far longer period than precedented here since the 1917 Soviet revolution.

A single Soviet policeman stood by without interfering—except for one of the Russians where to take two banners seized from the demonstrators.

The Westerners, here attending the Soviet-sponsored Peace Congress, went ahead with the demonstration after they were flatly refused permission at a last-minute meeting with Soviet officials.

They walked quietly from their hotel, the Moskva, to Red Square 600 yards away and began unrolling their banners near the Lenin Mausoleum.

A burly Russian woman of 50 in a green dress grabbed two of the banners, declaring she was a "simple Soviet citizen," and handed them to two young Russians in smart grey suits who also said they were "simple Soviet citizens."

The demonstrators hastily rolled up their third banner.

A young Russian asked one of the grey-suited men what was written on the banners but the latter shouted to other Russians nearby: "Who wants to read provocative banners?"

Someone else, however, told the curious young man that the Economy Nearly on Rocks As Europeans Flee Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—Moslem and French officials and businessmen say the economy of Algeria is nearly on the rocks. No one has any concrete plan for keeping it afloat.

"Confidence is gone," said one European banker. "Business activity is down to about one-third of what it was six months ago, and it is still declining.

"The events of the last few days, the disputes between the leaders, the lawlessness and the administrative chaos—all this has made people lose heart. Many who felt temporarily have decided not to come back, and others who were determined to stay, are now packing their bags."

Among the fashionable Rue Michelet and other streets of Algiers' European quarter, three out of four stores are closed. Faded policies on the iron shutters of most say "closed for paid vacation."

The owners, all Europeans, agreed among themselves to close down during the independence celebrations and take a holiday in Spain.

Many of them expected the celebrations to turn into large-scale riots and looting rampages. Three days before—except for a street battle costing 104 lives in Oran July 5.

Yet the Europeans are leaving the country in a steady stream despite desperate Moslem appeals to stay and help build the new nation.

The Moslem leaders know they cannot run the nation at present without the Europeans, who have a near-monopoly of technical skills and economic power.

Some of the Europeans are leaving way in a mood of resentment, as if they really wanted to sabotage a state which they sought to the last.

"We'll see what a mess they make of it," remarked one radio technician lining up with his family for a plane to Paris.

Other Europeans are exasperated by the near-anarchy, and say life is gradually becoming impossible for Europeans in Algeria.

One French director of the Sonatrach Electric Power Administration, a highly qualified man responsible for the design and planning of all electrical power development in Algeria, lived in a large hilltop villa overlooking Algiers.

Two days after independence, he was visited by a group of Algerian soldiers and told: "Your house is too big for you and your wife, since you have no children. You will have to move into a smaller house."

The official appealed to the Moslem authorities, who promised to put a stop to the arbitrary action. But two days later, the soldiers reappeared, more menacing then before.

When he appealed to the authorities a second-time, he was told: "Perhaps you better go as a fairy and it might be easy for you to slay where you are."

The Frenchman immediately decided to pack his belongings and move back to France.

He is the kind of a man who will be irreplaceable here for a generation," said the French diplomat who told the story.

Two Sheets of Aluminum Detect Far-Away A-Blast

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Two scientists have developed a do-it-yourself detector for above-ground explosions of nuclear bombs.

It consists of two sheets of aluminum stuck in the ground.

Dr. Milton S. Plesset, professor of applied mechanics at the California Institute of Technology, and Robert E. Deville, a research engineer, said Thursday the device told them about the U.S. hydrogen blast 800 miles away in the Pacific last May 9 more than a second after it occurred.

They reasoned that the high-energy blast would send out a sonic wave through the air, but when an electric current over the surface of the sheets was broken the device could pick up the signal.

The instrument consisted of a pair of two-by-four inch aluminum slabs placed in the ground 100 metres apart on a north-south axis, facing each other, with their tops six inches below ground, the instrument that measures electric current microvolts—a millionth of a volt—was wired to each sheet.

Drs. Plesset and Devine in Hollywood, recorded, to a second, wave radio broadcast from Johnson Island, scene of the test. The explosion disrupted the broadcast, they said, and seemingly the same instant the needle of their measuring device jumped off the graph.

"The signal apparently arrived at the speed of light," Dr. Plesset said. "We didn't expect

Brazil Cabinet Wins Approval

BRASILIA (AP) — Brazil's Chamber of Deputies Friday night approved a cabinet selected by Premier Francisco Brochado da Rocha, ending Brazil's 17-day political crisis.

The action broke a deadlock between the Conservative-dominated Parliament and President Joao Goulart, whose Labor party is in the minority.

The appointment of Brochado da Rocha as premier was interpreted Goulart's third attempt in two weeks to form a new government to deal with Brazil's growing economic troubles, marked recently by food riots and last more than a dozen persons dead.

AIRLINE PILOT DIES SECONDS AFTER LANDING

Had No Passengers On Atlantic Flight

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP) The co-pilot of a Constellation airliner, due to pick up 118 persons, collapsed and died at the controls today moments after setting the four-engined aircraft down on Prestwick Airport runway.

The co-pilot, Capt. Russell J. Rodriguez, 39, a veteran of the RCAF and a former pilot for British Overseas Airways Corporation, was described as a U.S. citizen.

The pilot immediately took over and succeeded in bringing the plane in. It was not damaged.

The Constellation, owned by the U.S. Flying Tiger Airline, had just completed a flight from New York to pick up 118 members of a Scottish sports club for a chartered trip to the United States. It carried a crew of six but no passengers.

He made a beautiful landing and was in the act of switching off the engines when he collapsed, for added braking power when he collapsed."

De Havilland Gets Contract To Design Plane

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Canadian company has been awarded a multi-million-dollar United States Army contract to design an unarmed type of tactical transport plane.

The army announced Friday that under a three-way contract the army will pay de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., Toronto, $1,000,000 to help design the plane.

Then it will put Aircraft Limited of Downsview, Ont., and Fairchild of the U.S. into competition for building 350 of the aircraft.

These will be known as the Caribou II, a likely successor to Caribou I, the light transport de Havilland has built. It has been buying from de Havilland for the last three years. Officials said the army has purchased "close" to 200 of them.

The Caribou II will be a pilot-driven, cabin-type plane for hauling soldiers and cargo into rough, unused terrain. The Caribou II will feature a bigger fuselage. It will be powered by two turbine-propeller engines and have the powerful enough to carry cargoes of three to five tons.

The Army said de Havilland won the contract over bids from the U.S. and Canada. The army will put up one-third of the initial production costs and the company will absorb the remainder. The army also will put up one-third each.

TO EASE CONDITIONS

MADRID (AP)—The government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco said tonight it is willing to ease some restrictions imposed on Spaniards since the end of the civil war in 1939. The government will seek to improve conditions, it said. It also said the government will seek the establishment of judiciary organizations and procedures, and pay attention to public opinion. The latter was taken to mean the government intends to ease press censorship on a gradual basis.

Ottawa University Pair Return After Central America Adventure

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Ottawa University men staying close to home for a while after a six-month tour of Central America by motorcycle and jeep say the desert, constant hunger, the risk of malaria, and even arrest, are unsuspected hazards of travel.

Thin and haggard, Pierre Nadon, 22, and Marcien Vanier, 21, arrived here by bus after driving their shaky two - cylinder jeep from Mexico City to Guatemala.

Nadon said in an interview: "We were beards and bush hats and looked a lot like Castro guerrillas. We were mistaken for them."

They were detained for a few hours until an army officer arrived, examined their passports and released them.

They found that Cuba and Premier Fidel Castro were the most common topics among Latin Americans. At a May Day rally in the Nicaraguan capital of Managua, workers shouted

Move Spreads For Non-Profit Medical Clinics

Doctors, Government Stage Charge Duel

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan government and the College of Physicians and Surgeons traded charges Friday. A United States Senator was the centre of much of the storm.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd said organized medicine in the province is using "fear and threats of discomfort and illness to their patients" in the medical care insurance dispute.

In a later statement, the premier said the college had been "lobbying" Dr. Gerhard Beck, who flew home to Jacksonville, Fla., Friday after he said he had been threatened with arrest for practising in the province without a license.

A college council member said the CCF government's announcement Thursday of a one-man royal commission to investigate complaints against doctors refusing to provide service was an implied slur on the integrity of college registrar Dr. G. W. Peacock.

NEEDS MORE ROOM

Mr. Lloyd made this in an interview: "We're suffering growing pains."

The clinic is leasing new office space in the same building and plans to move by August 1.

With the addition Friday of Dr. Ide Lipsett, who recently brought from Britain by the Saskatchewan government, the clinic has four doctors.

There is enough room in the new offices for six doctors and the organization hopes to have that many soon. Pharmaceutical and dental services are also envisaged.

PLAN CLINICS

Another clinic is going at Prince Albert and organizational meetings have been held at Weyburn, Regina, Moose Jaw, Kindersley, Biggar and North Battleford.

Representatives from each centre are to meet here next Tuesday to set up a provincial organization to start plans.

All are agreed to operate under the compulsory Medical Care Act.

The CCF government has been quietly supporting the movement which its backers describe as a grass-roots uprising against the voluntary withdrawal of services.

The emergency care is being provided by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons at 40 of the province's 154 hospitals.

Large Iron-Ore Deposit Found In Yukon Range

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia and Yukon Chamber of Mines reports discovery of a large iron-ore deposit in the Mayo district of the Yukon.

The discovery was made by Cream Explorations of Calgary, an exploration subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of California.

More than 650 claims covering an area of more than 160 square miles have been filed in the Mayo district, 175 miles from Blackstone Mountain range.

First of Three Garden Parties Held by Queen

LONDON (CP)—The London social season got off to a glittering start Friday with the first of the Queen's three summer garden parties to the 6,000 guests who thronged Buckingham Palace.

Close to 7,000 guests, including a number from Canada, Australia and Ceylon, paraded through the red-carpeted palace and out of the French door onto the lawn between the Queen and other Commonwealth countries will be invited to the subsequent parties on July 18 and 25.

Eight Canadians were among those selected to be presented to the Queen in the royal tent after refreshments were served.

The sun shone brightly as the Queen, Prince Philip, the Queen Mother and the Princess Royal strolled out of the north wing of the palace to greet their guests.

It was more than an hour later, after many curtsies and bows, an open structure with green-and-white striped canvas roof.

Raspberries 45 to 50 Cents On Market Here

Today's market was well attended with a wide variety of produce available from both district and Trenton growers. A profusion of flowers and canopies added to the color.

Prices of produce remained pretty much the same as over the past few weeks. A scarcening of price showed both red and black cherries selling at 45c a quart or $1.35 a basket. Raspberries sold at 45 to 50 cents a box, with gooseberries and red currants priced at 35 cents the quart.

Shucked peas sold at 90 cents a pint or 90 a quart while new in the pod sold at 90 cents a basket. Green and yellow beans were priced at 25c a quart and beets sold between 75 and 85 cents a basket. Potatoes sold at 75 cents a basket.

Hungarian yellow hot peppers sold at two for 5c. Red and white radishes sold at three bunches for a quarter. Many varieties of beautiful flowers were offered at prices from half a dollar a bunch up.

Eggs sold at 45 and 40 cents a dozen for large and large grade respectively.

Farmers Ask Drought Aid

NEW YORK (AP)—The federal government has moved to aid Pennsylvania farmers caught in the grips of a prolonged drought that has New York state also appealed for federal aid.

The drought has killed off many crops throughout the northeastern part of the United States and farmers say that a rainfall now, even by the backsliest, wouldn't help salvage crops already damaged.

The federal government Friday granted federal drought program benefits to farmers in 39 counties in Pennsylvania.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York has asked for federal aid for 16 drought-plagued counties in upstate sections of his state.

Friday Thirteenth Quiet and Orderly

We're in the doldrums.

And police and firemen had an exceptionally quiet night last night the beginning of the weekend.

City police reported no accidents, car or break-in, or other untoward events, while provincial police reported only one minor accident in which there were no injuries or charges laid.

And city firemen said "we didn't turn a wheel."

Fire Rating Tweed Forest District

Officials of the Department of Lands and Forests, at Tweed, said that there were fires are being patrolled today, bringing the total in the district for July.

One was called out yesterday, in Cashtown, but another replaced it in the same area. The other two fires were in Ashby and Marmora district. All three were started by lightning, the main cause of most of this year's fires to date, according to the Tweed office.

All fires are under control. The largest of the new creations is the one in Marmora township, covering six acres now. The fire danger rating is classed as "high" and the Department of Lands and Forests has once again appealed to campers, hay pickers and others using the forest areas to exercise extra caution over the weekend.

Order 1,100 Hogs Killed Due Cholera

OTTAWA (CP)—The agriculture department says 1,100 hogs have had to be ordered slaughtered in an outbreak of hog cholera in eastern Ontario and adjacent Quebec.

Two premises are under investigation for suspected hog cholera—pig farms about which cases were found.

Officials of the department's health of animals division said Friday it is too early to forecast the extent of the infection, or how far it might spread.

Infection was attributed to feeding hogs uncooked garbage in the form of table scraps.

The disposal was made on premises in Russell, Prescott and Stormont counties in Ontario and in Soulanges and Chateauguay counties in Quebec.

Farms in the affected areas are being urged not to purchase or consign pigs unless absolutely necessary. They should refuse to permit visitors in their piggeries.

Officials are also trying to track possibly infected animals that may have been moved at the result of commonsalvage operations. Community auction sales of swine have been placed under close scrutiny.

The department said auction barns have been quarantined, as have all farms on the western border of Quebec and the others are located east of a straight line drawn from Kingston to Pembroke.

Thurlow Ups Housing Construction

Housing construction in the township of Thurlow during the first half of the year was up approximately 30 per cent over the same period last year, according to the report of John Shurra, building and plumbing inspector.

Twenty-nine housing permits were issued to the end of June as compared with 20 last year. Permit value for new houses this year was $234,000 as compared with $172,000 a year ago.

Total building permits issued this year were given as 41 with a value of $345,900, as against 34 permits a year ago, having a value of $235,550.

Commercial construction this year dropped from $40,000 to $14,400.

He Backed Into a Bath

Ever stop too fast? This happened to Charles Calnan of 185 John Street, yesterday, in his roadlss boat as he was approaching the Bay Bridge yesterday upon hour; He stopped so fast that the wake from his craft washed up over his stern and swamped the boat. Alert bridge attendant called the Belleville fire department, who had their marine rescue unit on the scene in short order. Mr. Calnan had meanwhile bailed himself out of his predicament and made Belleville harbor without further incident.

Parkdale Baptist Church Turns Extension Sod

On Sunday, July 8, immediately following the morning service, the young people of Parkdale Baptist Church gathered outside the present Church building for the sod-turning ceremony. This event was to mark the beginning of an extension to the Church to facilitate the needs of a growing Sunday School and congregation.

Pastor Michael Twilley, surrounded by the Deacons of the Church, Trustees and Board, after which he read the account of Solomon's dedication of the temple from the Bible. He emphasized the necessity of each believer being divided completely to the Lord Jesus Christ so that He might be glorified through this work. For except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it" Psalm 127: 1.

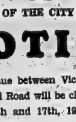
A prayer of dedication concluded the happy occasion.

Four Planes Hunt Aircraft

The search for a Piper Cub aircraft lost some 26 miles west of Roberval, P.Q., has assumed full search proportions with two Dakota aircraft being added to the two planes already employed, Trenton RCAF Station stated this morning. It was reported that the weather conditions over the search area were prefect by last night, the search and rescue mission is carrying on. If it is necessary to carry on with a night search additional aircraft, will be called upon from Rockcliffe Station.

Moira Authority Gets Grant of $600

Mr. Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. for Hastings East, has announced the approval of a provincial grant of $600 to the Moira River Conservation Authority for capital improvements at the Price Conservation Area.



The Price Conservation Area comprises 24 acres in Lots 2 and 3, Concession IV, Township of Elzevir. It is at the junction of Highway 7 and Highway 37 in the village of Actinolite.

In 1962 the Authority will drill a well for drinking water and construct a playing field and picnic site.

All member municipalities will bear the Authority's share of the development costs.

Bowling Notes

The Women's section of the Trenton Lawn Bowling Club held a successful Trade tournament on their greens on Friday afternoon and evening. The Belleville club sent six rinks to the 16 in play for the tourney and came home with two of the prizes.

Mrs. Norma Fligginbon skipped a rink of Mrs. Irene Trudeau and Mrs. Anne Avery to victory in the final game, 20-16 score. Mrs. Cleta Gilbert and Mrs. Kay Walkin, with Mrs. Carm Mott as skip captured the two-game high score and the consolation prize. They were captured by Mrs. Lil Mascaro. Mrs. Jessie Hunter with Mrs. Myrtle Smith as skip. The second win high was won by Mrs. Nora Rice, Mrs. Edna Thompkeys with Mrs. Edna Jackman as skip.

The other two rinks from the local club were: Mrs. Chris Hoard and Mrs. Grace Clapp with Mrs. Millie Smith as skip, and Mrs. Helen Putnam and Mrs. Hazel Boyle with Miss Winnie Smith as skip.

The greens were in excellent condition and the hospitality of the Trenton Mrs. Renaud and her rink from Peterborough won the tourney.

On Thursday in the Women's Bowling Club the winners were Mrs. Cleta Gilbert and Mrs. Lil Mascaro. The ties hostesses for the afternoon were Miss Winnie Smith and Mrs. Jessie Hunter.

Playground Activities

(FIREHALL)

BAYVIEW SCHOOL

On July 12, a "bicycle decoration day" was held at Bayview School playground with Sandra Slaght's playground in attendance.

The children decorated their bicycles and trikes, both in home and at Bayview school, in the morning, to be ready for the parade and judging in the afternoon. The gaily decorated bikes and their owners paraded around Elizabeth Crescent, Brigade Trail, Bayview Park and Lee Avenue to return to Bayview school as two o'clock for the judging.

The supervisor was assisted by Mrs. Blackford and Mrs. Cornbill.

After the judging, races, a peanut scramble and contests were held.

Approximately 75 to 80 children attended and a good time was held by all.

Winners were: Lynne Walton for the most originally decorated bicycle; Jackie O'Neill for the most attractive decoration and Marlene Adamson for the most originally decorated tricycle. A special prize was also awarded to Roland Walton for his originality. Donald Walton.

Winners of the races were: Marjorie Woodman, Jerry Mc-Lellan and Marie Reid.

Other winners were: Linda Morcae and Everett Adamson, for the contests.

KING GEORGE

"Hunt Day" at King George playground was a big success on Friday afternoon, July 13, with a participation of 45 children. Supervisors assisted of a "Treasure Hunt," "Scavenger Hunt," "Peanut Hunt" and "Potato Scramble." The winners of the Treasure Hunt were: Donald Way, John Reynolds, Doug Hannah, Donnie Way and Noreen Burchill. The winners of the Scavenger Hunt were: Richard Cronk, Bob Hampton, Connie Scott, Ronnie Scott, Maureen Walker, Paul Crossen and Lorraine Hall. Jane Ketcheson is the supervisor.

Friday at 10.00 am. Parkdale sent King George at King George playground for a Station baseball game. The Parkdale team won the exciting game with a score of 22 to King George's 12. The Parkdale players were Jeryl Baskey, Don Parliament, Doc Baskey, Wayne Hollis, Bob Rolston, Doc McMillan, Bob Yesrwood, Tom Hyate, Bill Andrews, Wayne Hollis, Jim Jewell and Bob Cone. King George team consisted of Leonard Way, Mike Keegan, Blaire Crossen, Paul Crossen, Gary Hannah, Derek Peel, Jim Dafoe, Ron Hannah and David Barnes. Jim Hunt was one of the supervisors from Parkdale, umpired the game with the assistance from King George's supervisor, Jane Ketcheson.

QUEEN ELIZABETH SCHOOL

It was Hallowe'en in July for the children at Queen Elizabeth playground on Thursday at 2 p.m. Approximately 60 children paraded through the neighborhood dressed in various costumes all of which were excellent. After the parade the costumes were judged by Mrs. Shinkle, Patti Bradford, Barry Campbell, Fraser Fenwick, and dressed boy — Mike Hall, funniest — Ricky Parsons; ugliest — Blaine Pollock; prettiest Judy Hume; best dressed under five — Tammy Thornton. Freshie and suckers were sold by Herbie Foster, Stephen Stuart, Jeff Hume and Hall Wishart. The money made will be used later in the summer for a playground party.

It didn't make much difference if you were three or fourteen years old. Everyone had a swell time at the Queen Elizabeth Firehall Playgrounds "Special Hallowe'en Day".

On Thursday, July 12 sturining at 9 a.m. there was a spacious assembly of children and even eight and under were considered juniors and those nine and over were considered seniors.

There was a variety of events for the two groups and the following are the list of winners:

Junior Building — 1st, Brian Gariepy and Bruce Shalton; 2nd, George Picard and John Cornfield; 3rd, Peter Foster and Brian Nelsten.

Fleet of the Leader — Tom Helm's team. The Spot Treasure Hunt was won by Jim Hillcrest and Debbie Cross, 2nd Lorrie and Gail Hasky, 3rd Patricia Gillis and Jennie Haley. Senior Scavenger Hunt 1st, Patsy MacMillin's team; 2nd, Bob Smallwood and Junior Scavenger Hunt, 1st, Carol Gervais team; 2nd Sandy Craney's team. Shoe Scramble 1st, Eric Barringer, 2nd Jack Wall, 3rd Leonard Rice and Girls, Tina Gaffney, and Leah Harper, Jeanette Kelch and Cathy Donohue; boys — George Picard and John Garvin 1st Bob Smallwood and Peter Walker. Wheel Barrow Race — 1st, Bob Hillcrest and Bruce Dolan; 2nd, Jim Hillcrest and Danny Seems.

To conclude the day a comedy relay race was held in which Bob Smallwood, Patricia Colwell, Jim Hillcrest, Danny Seems and Tom Helm; and Nancy Willis, Lynne Hann, Vicky Anderson and Diana Gaffney.

The day was fun-packed and with more than 100 children attending the competition proved more than exciting.

Quarter Million Goofballs Seized by RCMP

MONTREAL (CP) — The RCMP has disclosed the seizure of 267,000 goofballs in the province six months ago and the scheduled arraignment of one man next week on charges arising from the seizure.

One man is scheduled to be arraigned Tuesday in Montreal on charge of possession of goofballs. The second is to be arraigned in Quebec City Friday on charges of possessing and trafficking.

Insp. Maurice Nadon of the RCMP said Friday the planned prosecution resulted from a far-reaching investigation which exposed a goofball manufacturing plant in the basement of a residence at Cap Rouge, near Quebec City.

Goofball is a catalog term used to describe contraband barbiturates usually obtainable only on prescription and taken with alcohol for kicks, he explained.

Insp. Nadon said available information indicates the illicit drugmen were working to distribute the goofballs in various centres in eastern Canada.

He said the plant was regularly producing the drugs and a large quantity of money was sent to Ottawa to cover the cost of a manufacturing license.

On receipt of a license the goofballs were manufactured for distribution.

Evidence indicated the company shipped unsatisfactory tablets to manufacturers to legitimate wholesalers. When these were returned the company removed them on the illicit market.

Canada to Have Minute Share In TV Program

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadian telecast, including views of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Commonwealth Festival, is to be part of the first transatlantic television broadcasting via the U.S. communications satellite Telstar.

Spokesmen for Broadcasting Corporation, Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Telecommunications said Canada will be represented by about a month on the Canadian segment on the minute-of the 15-minute telecast. The satellite was launched July 10.

Signal Hill in St. John's, Nfld., where the first transatlantic wireless signal was received Dec. 12, 1901, for Guglielmo Marconi, will be included as well as shots of Quebec City and Montreal.

July 18, 19 and 23 have all been given as possible dates for the broadcast, but the final decision will depend on technical conditions.

The Canadian shots will be beamed to Toronto, Glace Bay or New York City where they will be mixed with the U.S. programs, provided by major U.S. networks and relayed to Andover, Me., the receiving site for Telstar transmission will take place. The show will be relayed by the satellite to England and France.

Trenton News

By SUZA BORTECK—Phone EX 3-3939

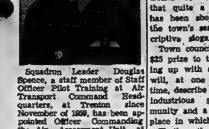
Squadron Leader Douglas Speece, a staff member of Staff Officer Pilot Training at Air Transport Command Headquarters, at Trenton since November of 1959, has been appointed Officer Commanding the Air Assessment Unit at RCAF Station, Trenton.

How About 'Hive-Haven'? Send Cheque

TRENTON — Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry reports that quite a bit of interest has been shown to date in the town's search for a descriptive slogan for Trenton. Town council has offered a $25 prize to the person coming up with a slogan, which will, at one and the same time, describe the town as an industrious go-ahead community and a relaxed, serene place in which to live.

That's rather a tall order, but so far, 34 persons have submitted phrases which they think will fit the bill.

The contest closes on July 21, and entries should be sent to "Slogan Contest", Municipal Building, 15 Dundas St. E., Trenton.



Will Add Layer Of Asphalt on Division St.

TRENTON — Town engineer Eric Aldersey said on Friday that, starting Monday morning, Dinhar-Farrand workmen would commence work on Division Street. Monday morning, asphalt surfacing, used to build up catch basins and manholes on the street, will be removed. Monday afternoon, the block between Dundas St. W. and King St. will be closed off to traffic, while the street is swept by the town sweeper and an asphalt primer is applied. Tuesday morning operations, adding an additional inch and a half of asphalt to the street's surface will commence on this block. The work should be completed and the block opened to traffic by Tuesday afternoon.

When the workmen move across King Street, on their way up Division Street to Front Street, the street should be open to one-lane traffic, as the width of the street at this point will enable workmen to carry out the surfacing operations in the lane and permit traffic to proceed in the other.

Mr. Aldersey said that the work should be finished by the end of next week.

When Division Street was reconstructed last year, town council, acting on Mr. Aldersey's advice, instructed the contractor to lay two inches of asphalt only, and to allow the street to "settle" over the winter months. Because Division Street forms a part of Highway No. 33, it was thought that three and a half inches of asphalt would be in order, as heavy trucks pass up and down this section of the highway lying within the town's borders.

Squadron Leader Clayton S. Olsen, CD, has been selected for duties in the Middle East with the United Nations Emergency Force at Gaza. From May, 1961 until June, 1962, S/L Olsen served at 4 Operational Training Unit in Trenton as Officer Commanding the Air Assessment Unit.

Brighton Men Sentenced For Assault

TRENTON — In magistrate's court at Cobourg on Friday, 21-year-old Leroy Carr of Brighton, was sentenced to 18 months' definite and three months' indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory on one charge of assaulting a 21-year-old Trenton woman, and two other minor charges of assault.

Gerald Jones, 32, also of Brighton, charged with assault against the same Trenton woman was sentenced to 12 months' definite and three months' indeterminate in the reformatory and 22-year-old Donald Stewart of Colborne, who charged with the same offence, was placed on a 2-year suspended sentence.

The men were found guilty in Brighton court last month, but sentencing was delayed in order that Magistrate R. B. Baxter might study pre-sentence reports.

The incident, leading up to the charges occurred in Murray township on March 1.

All four men pleaded not guilty to the charge.

PICTON

Heavy Storm Blows Down Cressy Trees

PICTON — A number of trees were blown down in Cressy district early Friday morning. The electrical, wind and rain storm was accompanied by hail in some areas, but there are no reports of serious damage. The inch of rain which fell will do a great deal of good to pastures and crops.

HONOR TEACHER

Miss Rosa Eaton, B.A., at the end of the school term, completed 21 years of teaching in the same school, S.S. 3, North Marysburgh. To mark these years of faithful and efficient services the community presented a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCormack. A suitable address was read by Mrs. Ralph Pierce, while the presentation of a bookcase was made. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

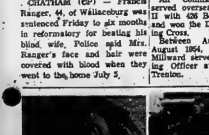
HELICOPTER POPULAR

A popular attraction at Lakeview Farm, at the north end of Outlet Beach, is a helicopter owned by Carl Dodd of Belleville. Many local residents, as well as tourists, are taking the opportunity to view the panorama of the district through a ride in the "whirly-bird."

Wing Commander Charles F. Sawle, CD, has been appointed to the directing staff of the RCAF College in Toronto, following a course of study with the United Nations Emergency Force in Gaza, as Air Staff Officer. From July, 1961 to February, 1962, Wing Commander Sawle served as executive assistant to the Air Officer Commanding Training Command at Trenton and from July, 1957 to June, 1961, he held the position of Senior Air Staff Officer at Air Transport Command Headquarters, Trenton.

Beat Blind Wife

CHATHAM (CP) — Francis Ranger, 44, of Wallaceburg was sentenced Friday to six months in reformatory for beating his blind wife, Police said Mrs. Ranger's face and hair were covered with blood when they went to the home July 5.



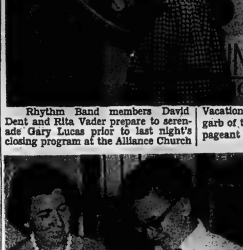
J. B. Millward Vice Marshal

TRENTON — Hon. Douglas S. Harkness, Minister of National Defence, has announced the appointment of Air Commodore James B. Millward, DFC, CD, to Air Officer Commanding, Air Material Command, at Rockcliffe, Ont., with the acting rank of Air Vice Marshal, effective Sept. 30.

He succeeds Air Vice Marshal C. L. Annis, whose appointment to the position of Vice Chief of the Air Staff at Air Force Headquarters was announced recently.

Air Commodore Millward served overseas in World War II with 426 Bomber Squadron, and won the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Between August, 1952 and August, 1954, Air Commodore Millward served as Commanding Officer at RCAF Station, Trenton.



DOREEN SINE JOAN THOMPSON

A reward of $25 has been offered for the return of two Belleville girls, Doreen Sine and Joan Thompson, missing from their homes here since Saturday of last week. Doreen Sine, 15, is the daughter of Mr. James Sine, 1 Fahey Street. When last seen she was wearing grey shorts and a white blouse, but is known to have taken some dresses with her. Joan Thompson, 14, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Thompson, 101 Purdy Street. She was wearing a white blouse and red shorts when she left home. Doreen had been reprimanded by her father for returning home late the night before. Police were notified of their disappearance last Sunday, but no word of their whereabouts has since been received.

Rhythm Band members David Denk and Rita Vader prepare to serenade Gary Luton prior to last night's closing program at the Alliance Church Vacation Bible School. Dressed in the garb of the Far East, Gary took part in pageant presented by teen-aged group.

Alliance Vacation School Holds Closing Exercises

Pageants and demonstrations based on the theme "Patriots for Christ" highlighted the closing program of the Alliance Church Vacation Bible School held last night in the Church Auditorium. Close to 200 parents and children attended the program.

The vacation Bible school under the direction of Mrs. Sackville Palmer, wife of the church minister, this year saw an enrolment of 240 — the highest in the history of the Bible school which has been operating each summer since 1934. Average attendance for the vacation school was 148.

Seventy five adults and children completed the 10-day Bible school with perfect attendance.

CLASS FOR ADULTS

This year for the first time the Bible school included an adult class and has been completely departmentalized. There were departments for beginners, primary students and juniors, as well as for young teens and adults. The Bible school staff included 31 teachers and helpers.

Church minister, Rev. Sackville Palmer, said the school this year was an outstanding success, the addition of an adult class doing much for increased attendance in all departments. For the convenience of teachers and helpers, as well as for adults, the school this year was held during the evening hours.

It was not all Bible study at the school. Handicraft work, classed according to departments, was included on the daily program.

Demonstrations by departments as presented at last night's program were as follows:

Beginner Department, "We Learn About Jesus"; Primary department, "The Lord Is My Shepherd"; Junior department, "The Christian's Birth and Growth"; Young Teens, "Answering God's Call"; Adults, "The Life of Continual Rejoicing."

Track Is Slow For London Race

LONDON (CP)—Pouring rain today changed track conditions at London's White City Stadium and probably killed any possibility of a record three-mile run in the "battle of the Bruces." The cinder track was certain to prove slower than expected for the contest between 18-year-old Bruce Kidd of Toronto, the Canadian boy wonder, and his 26-year-old rival from Morpeth, barefoot runner Bruce Tulloh.

Margaret Does 'Twist' At Posh Party

The hooking rhythm echoed until near dawn through the Duke of Marlborough's stately 300-room hall as 1,100 guests greated between gulps of lobster and champagne.

The glittering ball, attended by the cream of society, served a double purpose.

It also marked the 88rd birthday of his son, Lord Charles George William Colin Spencer-Churchill.

Princess Margaret, her hair an orange tinge and set in a new style, did a spirighty, but not a violent twist, spectators said.

Anti-Trust Action Faces Music Corp.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The U.S. government filed an anti-trust suit Friday against the entertainment industry giant, Music Corporation of America, Inc.

The firm is the largest U.S. producer of filmed television shows. It operates the biggest talent agency in the U.S. and has big plans for movie production.

The civil action asked U.S. district court to:

1. Strip MCA of its talent arm, which it already had promised to do effective July 18.

2. Compel MCA to divest itself of Decca Records and its subsidiary, Universal Pictures, both acquired recently.

MCA President Lew Wasserman has notified the screen actors guild that it will surrender its agency franchise on or before July 18. The guild has previously notified MCA that it was withdrawing a waiver permitting the participation of talent agencies in film production.

MCA was accused of operating its TV and talent businesses with a tie-in basis, making producers buy items they didn't want in order to get stars and programs that were in greater demand.

Nurses' Aides Balk at Union

GRANBY, Que. (CP)—All but two of 34 nurses' aides employed by the Provincial Hospital at Granby have decided to let themselves be fired rather than join a union.

The women said they had never been satisfied about the hospital's collective labor agreement last December with the Syndicate of Religious Institution Employees.

The contract contained a union security clause which required that all employees pay union dues. The hospital notified the nurses' aides last week that they had to pay their dues or leave.

1,000 Greet Diefenbaker In Cornwall

CORNWALL (CP) — Mrs. Olive Diefenbaker stood smilingly in a receiving line Friday night and pumped hands with about 1,000 persons at a reception for the Progressive Conservative candidate in Monday's election in Stormont riding.

Mrs. prime minister's wife took part in wheat turned out to be the largest ladies' gathering assembled by any of the four parties contesting the 265th seat in the House of Common.

Voting in Stormont, an eastern Ontario constituency fronting on the St. Lawrence Seaway, was deferred to Monday because of the death of the Liberal candidate nominated for the June 18 general balloting.

Mrs. Diefenbaker stood next to the towering figure of Conservative candidate Grant Campbell in the hand-shaking line. She was dressed in a two-piece, blue silk dress, with matching hat.

It was warm in the hall.

About 15 minutes after the receiving line wound to a halt, Mrs. Diefenbaker kicked off her high-heeled shoes and slipped into walking shoes for comfort.

The prime minister has taken no part in the Stormont campaign. The Conservative effort has been built almost entirely around the parliamentary record and grass-roots of Mr. Campbell.

In a brief address, Mr. Campbell charged that "scurrilous and slanderous attacks" have been made on Mr. Diefenbaker during the campaign.

He told Mrs. Diefenbaker the people of Stormont resent these attacks on your husband" and predicted they will register their disapproval on election day, Mrs. Diefenbaker did not speak.

Today, last day of open campaigning, the Conservatives were to stage a parade through the streets of Cornwall.

such slogans as "Cuba today, Nicaragua tomorrow" and in most Central American cities they saw pro-Communist leaflets and posters.

"People are split in their opinions on Cuba," said Mr. Nadon. "Castro is a hero everywhere, especially among workers, but most people we saw were strongly nationalistic and opposed to communism."

He found that his hosts had great respect for Canada because of her "non-interference" in Cuban affairs. They had a fairly good knowledge of Canadian geography and politics, although "many have the impression we're still a British colony."

Higher Objective Set

The board of directors of the Belleville United Appeal has set a goal of $93,000 for the 1962 campaign. This campaign will provide the operating capital for the 13 participating agencies in 1963.

Last year's objective of $80,000 was not met, although the 1961 campaign was the most successful of the past three campaigns, each of which has had the same goal.

This situation, which has been chronic in this community, could do but two things for the participating agencies in the United Appeal. Either they could reduce their services or they could go in for deficit budgeting, either a dubious course.

This year's budget shows, in part, what has been their choice. Some have actually reduced the amount which they expect the United Appeal to collect for them. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind and the Canadian Sea Cadets have both set their 1963 operating budgets below their 1962 requirements.

Other agencies, on the other hand, appear either to have experienced a considerable increase in the demands for their services or have been forced to catch up with the deficit budgeting or servicing which the past lean years have forced upon them.

With the exception of three agencies whose budgets have remained the same (the Canadian Red Cross Society and the two chapters of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire) every other agency has reported an increase of anywhere from eight to over 50 per cent of their 1962 requirements.

Increased demands for their services require increased operating capital for many but we also suspect that this year requires an increase because in the past the citizens of the community have been taking more out of the pot than what they have been putting in.

The new goal of $93,000 does not represent a maximum level of service or needs, either. It represents the minimal needs of this community. Any services of the nature offered by the United Appeal agencies. Many of the agencies' plans for either bettering or extending their services have been postponed because the United Appeal has not been able to see how these funds could be obtained in light of the community's past response.

In short, minimal availability of services which are very necessary are going to cost the citizens of this community more this year than last.

It is unfortunate that we cannot afford to obtain something better than minimal service for our community. If the agencies are to be there when we need them all of us will have to contribute when they need us and in the 1962 campaign they need to raise a sizable sum in this community.

Something New at Moscow

Another Soviet-sponsored "peace congress" is being held in Moscow. In the past these congresses have been little more than sounding boards for communist propaganda. But the present one seems to be different. Not only have at least two speakers, Canon John Collins of Great Britain and Professor Dale Pontius of Chicago, voiced criticism of Soviet Russia's noclear test, but Russia has given wide publicity to at least one of these criticisms. The text of what Pontius said was broadcast abroad by Tass, the Soviet news agency.

This is a first step in the right direction. The second step would be the publication of remarks by Pontius and Collins in Russia and the communist satellite nations. Then if some Russian should get up and criticize his own country, as did Pontius and Collins, at some gathering in the West, we should be getting some place.

Such a development is hardly likely in the near future. But there are definite signs that the Soviet Union is permitting freer discussion of various problems. Here in the West we must wait in hope that this trend will continue—and guard against any increase in the influence of rightist elements which would seek to silence men like Pontius and Collins who, while they may be mistaken in their criticism of the policies followed by their own countries, are obviously sincere and thoughtful men.

If a man sets out to hate all the miserable creatures he meets, he will not have much energy left for anything else; whereas he can despise them, one and all, with the greatest ease. —Schopenhauer.

It is preoccupation with possessions, more than anything else, that prevents man from living freely and nobly.—Bertrand Russell.

Members of Parliament Plead Poverty Plausibly

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — It is not often that Parliament gets caught in a squeeze of its own making.

True, the MPs, like everybody else, feel the pinch when Parliament raises taxes or devalues the dollar or the bank rate or otherwise experiments with the economy . . . but that's different . . . for in that kind of a situation, the Members are no different from the rest of us taxpayers.

It's in the business of cutting down to size that the Government's austerity program, with Parliament will itself a special personal pinch.

The MPs, when the new session opens in a few weeks now, are going to have to examine, and approve, if the Government is to be sustained, all the austerity measures.

And in doing so they will be kissing off what up to now has been almost an "entertainment" that they would be getting a badly-needed raise in Parliamentary pay.

For more than five years, individually and collectively, the MPs have been campaigning, both on and off Parliament Hill—for more money.

And they had it on the word of Prime Minister Diefenbaker that pay prospects at this opening session of the new Parliament would be "best, rather than promising.

THEY DESERVE IT:

Asked about a report that Parliamentary pay was to be raised from its present annual $10,000 to as much as $15,000, the Prime Minister had replied that he thought the MPs "generally, across the country felt an increase would be deserved."

That was before Austerity.

Now, the rank and file MPs and members of the Cabinet alike must reconcile themselves to the plain political bone truth that the taxpayers hurt lightening their belts, would scarcely tolerate Parliament raising its own pay.

Last time the Commons voted themselves an increase, there was a public outcry—especially when the Senate, too, insisted on the same.

To try it now, in these days of tighter money, tariff surcharges and government cutbacks, would be impossible.

The unfortunate part of it is that the MPs, if, definitely not the Senators, have pressing money, and need it urgently.

The current $10,000 simply won't cover, if the expensive, the cost of two households and the constant demands made on any MP.

Take Quinte Marhill, since 1957, the Conservative MP for Hamilton East, and now one of the election casualties.

Five years ago, when it was first came to Parliament Hill, he was operating a prosperous real estate and insurance business back home in Hamilton.

It supported him and his family, and a staff of 17 in reasonable comfort and contentment.

It was, he recalled the other day, as he said his goodbyes on Parliament Hill, "a good little business."

DOWN THE DRAIN:

But it isn't any more, now that he's got to go back to it.

"You can't run a successful business by remote control," he has found out the hard way. "I know, I tried it. You've got to be there in the driver's seat, or the enterprise runs slowly

On Arbitrary Measures

...Toronto Globe and Mail...

The most important issue at stake in the battle between the Saskatchewan Government and the doctors of that Province is not medicare but democracy. What happens in Saskatchewan when brand of medicare is not, in the long run, important. If government-controlled medical insurance is in the best interests of the people there it appears to the will of the people, some form of it will eventually be adopted, and not only for Saskatchewan; if it is not, it will be abandoned. All that the outcome of the Saskatchewan battle should be expected to be is a basis or delay its first test on this continent.

What it could do to democracy, however, is to substitute arbitrary measures for the due processes of the law; and if this should be the final result, the loss to Canadians would be great indeed.

• • •

The doctors have charged that the Saskatchewan Health Care Act is a labor relations act, which gives arbitrary regulatory powers to a commission that is not directly responsible to the Legislature. They have grounds for such charges. Every Provincial Government in this country has created dozens of such arbitrary bodies to handle different aspects of our public life, and has given them powers which are frequently absolute and cannot be referred to the courts. Such bodies have grown largely because of the complexity of modern government. They have been accepted by governments and by the people, and as creatures of government, responsible to government, they can be justified when they are given arbitrary powers such powers cannot be justified.

The Health Care Commission in Saskatchewan could be such an arbitrary body; even if the doctors fear it is so, they would be right to fight. Where they would be made liable for error is in their choice of weapons. They have used the bodies of the sick, when they should have used the courts.

• • •

The Medical Care Act was passed into law by a Government which was given a strong mandate by the people of Saskatchewan in an election in which the major issue was a compulsory health insurance plan, which the Government promised would be satisfactory to all. It was not drawn up in conformity with the wishes of the medical profession and the laws of Canada, and it is open to questioning in the courts, if the doctors felt it to be arbitrary they should have asked the courts to act. They should not have did not do so. It was not until after the strike against the Act had been bitterly launched that two individual doctors decided to test the Act before the courts.

The strike is in itself an arbitrary act, it is an effort by a few individuals who posses the power of life and death over a great many individuals to use that power to force a duly elected Government to repeal a properly enacted piece of legislation. If the doctors were to succeed in this violent a task on the democratic process, a precedent would be established whereby any group possessing similar power over life in a community could set itself above government above the courts, and above the people.

• • •

From the birth of this nation medical associations have been a law unto themselves. They have had absolute control over the recruiting, training, licensing and practicing of doctors; there has been no check on their autonomous, all-powerful union in the country. Some privileges have extended not only over members of the profession but, through its ethics, of the profession itself, into the lives of most of the people. They have raised infrequent objections to such control, the profession has always resisted the right of medical men could understand medicine, and therefore only rabbinic men can wisely decide matters of defence and war, in democracies the military arm of government is always subservient to the civil arm. So must it be with all specialists, for the specialist sees only his specialty. It is unfair, arbitrary action to see the whole man, and the whole community.

• • •

In permitting the medical profession to assume an arbitrary position, from which its latest arbitrary action in Saskatchewan is but a natural extension, the Canadian public has not been guiltless. For an arbitrary measure to be complete, there must be not only the man who acts but the man who submits; and we have all submitted. We have compromised a cardinal principle of democracy, which is that we are all responsible, and delegated our powers to those in community could set itself above government above the courts.

The Chief Magistrate in a democracy is the people, who rule themselves through their elected governments and settle their disputes in the courts. Loyal subjects of that Chief Magistrate in Saskatchewan will go from behind their barricades and seek present themselves to the courts.

Pills, Diets Unnecessary

Financial Post

The pill-consumers, and many diet fadditats, often forget that man and nature have lived together for a long time. Driven by providence or a fortuitous concatenation of atoms, as you prefer, the fruits of the earth nourish the human frame.

The Eskimo who must live on blubber or the Chinese who subsists on rice have a fortification of his diet. But this is not true of people who can buy meat, poultry and fish, butter milk, cheese and eggs, fruits, vegetables and bread.

The way to be healthy is to eat plenty, though not too much, of these excellent commodities. This may be a platitude but thousands of people manifestly do not accept it. It does not provide enough exercise for their activity. It is too easy to believe.

Cystic Fibrosis Not As Deadly As Once Thought

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

My two-year-old granddaughter has cystic fibrosis. I understand there is no cure for it but she is under medication with a doctor who is doing all he can for her.

From the results of a sweat test, I gather that she has a good chance. Can you give us any information? She is on a special diet at present and it is difficult. She doesn't have much appetite. — M.F.

Cystic fibrosis is one of those miserable, baffling diseases which, isn't as deadly as we once thought.

Unhappily, I cannot say this without serious qualifications; the disease is a vicious one, and children who survive with it are only the ones who have what we might call light cases.

Indeed, the disease itself wasn't recognized until recently. Before that, babies died of "pneumonia," or "lung congestion" or the like, nobody then realizing that this was a disease which caused a thickened, heavy mucous to clog the breathing passages, and interfered with digestion as well as with the normal operation of other vital organs.

As little as only five years ago, it was thought that children with this disease never grew up. Since then, a number of striking some who lived through high school, and college, and into the 30's and perhaps beyond that.

This confusion existed because, in the beginning, only the more serious cases were recognized as being what they were; the lesser cases simply went unrecognized at all.

Now, the disease is difficult to deal with, but much progress is being made by the use of antibiotics to curb infections, other drugs to prevent the thickened mucous from clogging vital processes, and diets to coax lots of calories into children who can't seem to eat enough of their food yet don't have normal, healthy appetites.

Basically, some doctors suspect (and I agree) that cystic fibrosis is one of a rather large number of congenital, acute, hard-to-understand diseases which are just beginning to be recognized. We no longer have to deal with what formerly were the commonest killer-diseases.

My heart goes out to the parents of children with cystic fibrosis, but I must in the sense say that my bet is off to the time when these babies now are waiting to help find the causes of it.

There are chapters of their organization all over the country, and those who don't now where the nearest group is, I suggest they write to the national headquarters: National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, 521 Fifth Ave., New York 17, New York.

It is a long, hard fight to keep these children alive — but progress is real and substantial, and I have every hope that we will find the causes (and, somebody the cure) before my work has substantially begun now.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've had a infected gall bladder about 15 years and it seems to give me a great deal of trouble now. My doctor has given me a dye and X-rays before, but it would be nice to know if you have advise me to have it removed? — M.F.

Have the X-rays. They'll give the answer to that's what they are for. Sixteen may have become used to the fact that the gall bladder should be removed.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the difference between twins and identical twins? Are multiple births entirely a hereditary trait? — Mrs. H.P.

Twins are mostly a family trait, but I would hesitate to say they are entirely so. In identical twins, a single female ovum, or egg, has been fertilized by two male reproductive cells. Coming from the same egg, the twins have to develop and look alike. With fraternal twins, two ova, or eggs, have been fertilized. The release of more than one egg is a family trait (as is usual) hence so are twins.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer must be simple. For a copy of his booklet "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains" write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 625, Dundas, Ont. Enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling and postage.

A completely new system of drilling holes in concrete has been developed in a British factory. It depends on the use of particularly-operated dustless drilling hammer and dust filtering tools.

Instead of blowing the dust out of the holes being bored, the new system directs a reverse flow of air to inhale the dust and dust particles. A drill-bit and rod, expelling them through a backbranched hose to the filter tanks. The bore remains clean throughout the operation.

The tool weighs just 10 pounds. Twelve drilling depth is 18 inches.

A Lift For Living

Character Valued Above Reputation

By Dr. Ralph W. Seckman

Unless we take our price marks from a higher source than the guess of public, we are often bound to feel cheap.

What are some of the situations which made us feel cheap? First, when we violate the social proprieties and do things that are "bad form." We like to be thought well of by others. Well do I recall the occasion, when I, as a student, was first served asparagus. I tried to eat the hard white end rather than the soft green succulent part.

But let's not worry too much about little errors of social etiquette. Remember how young Ben Franklin was laughed at when he arrived in Philadelphia, a poorly dressed and awkward youth. He lived to become Philadelphia's most famous citizen.

Such trivial reasons for feeling cheap are based on hurt pride. And the cure for that is to care more for our character than for our reputation. When we look to God rather than to men for approval, so many slights lose their sting because we are less afraid of public opinion.

Consider a second cause. In our hearts we should feel cheap when we choose lower associates so that they will look up to us.

Ruined Personality

I knew a man who had such an inferiority complex that he avoided the company of persons abler than himself. To build up his ego he cultivated weaker companions. Thus he stunted his own personality, the only way to escape such feelings of cheapness is to give the best we have to the highest we know.

We feel cheap also when we do something which makes us lose respect for ourselves. To forfeit our own self-respect is worse than to evoke the criticism of others.

Most of us must confess to occasions where we feel that we made fools of ourselves. Perhaps we lost our reserve, became garrulous and talked too much. George Herbert once said, "A civil guest will do more talk than eat all the feast." It may be that we lost our temper and said something we would give worlds to unsay.

When we look back at such disgraceful moments, we exclaim in disgust at ourselves, "Could I have done that?"

Yet just to feel humiliated is not enough. Humiliation turns us to remorse and remorse to a bitter rehashing of the bad that can't be undone. But God imparts the spirit of humility and lifts us from remorse to repentance.

Recall how Christ treated Zaccheus, the dishonest publican who felt so cheap and ashamed in the presence of his countrymen. Christ did not condone his chicanery. He so moved his conscience that Zaccheus disgorged his ill-gotten gains. But then the Master restored the publican's self-respect by addressing him as a "son of Abraham."

GOING AHEAD

The humbly repentant man does not sit looking at the bitter past. He turns away from that, saying, "Yes, it's bad, but that's over. God and I are going ahead."

There is another situation which makes us feel cheap. It is when we use cheap methods to attain our ends. After we have been in anyline of work for a while, we learn what we call "the tricks of the trade." And we learn also that we can get away with these tricks without being detected by those outside our specialty.

Suppose I am a teacher. As a teacher I am dedicated to the imparting of truth. But there are certain groups in my community who must be pleased. I need not tell Hess to please them. I can just keep quiet about some facts and put the emphasis on others, thus slanting my teaching in the trend desired. But down in my heart is a yellow streak and I know it makes me feel cheap.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

Good Night and Good Morning

When comes to the weary a blessed release,
When upward we pass to His kingdom of peace,
When free from the woes that on earth we must bear,
We'll say "good-night" here, but "good-morning" up there.

When fadeth the day and dark shadows draw nigh,
With Christ close at hand, it is not death to die;
He'll wipe ev'ry tear, roll away ev'ry care;
We'll say "good-night" here, but "good-morning" up there.

When home-lights we see shining bright-ly, above,
Where we shall be soon, thro His wonderful love,
I'll praise Him who called us His heaven to share,
We'll say "good-night" here, but "good-morning" up there.

"GOOD NIGHT AND GOOD MORNING"

A mother who was grieving over the passing of a beloved daughter composed this hymn to comfort others to whom death has brought the burden of crushing sorrow.

Mrs. Lizzie De Armond, who is known to countless lovers of hymns as the author of "Mother's Prayers Have Followed Me," was the grieving mother and the hymn which she penned dwellers to "His kingdom of to voice expression to her own peace".

emotions was set to music by the popular evangelist and song leader, Homer Rodeheaver.

In her hymn Mrs. De Armond pictures death not as something to be feared, but rather as "a blessed release" from earthborne woes and tribulations. The hymn closes on a note of rejoicing rather than of grief — rejoicing in the thought that Christ uses death to call earth-

A preacher of religion who practice the tricks of his trade. He can keep safely silent about sins to which his own congregation is addicted and then achieve quite a reputation for courage by thundering away at devils such as juvenile delinquency or race-track gambling. There are not many juvenile delinquents or racing touts in the Sunday pews. Shooting at absentee sinners is a favorite sport of some ministers.

But when Sunday is over and he faces himself in the solitude before he falls asleep, the preacher who resorts to such cowardly methods is bound to feel cheap.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Pamela K. — Wa'n't tell Jay he's adopted just as soon as he can talk.

Lawrence G. — That's terrible. I was happy until my parents spelled it out.

Pamela K. — I don't know all the reasons but we've been advised by the agency through which we adopted our darling son that it's best to be completely honest with him about how he came to us. He's only 10 months old now and it'll be a few years before he can understand it that we love him deeply. When he's old enough to enjoy a story we'll figure out how to let him know that we loved our way to his side because he was meant to be ours. He'll know that the only difference between him and other children is that other parents had to adopt what came, but we could choose exactly the child we wanted — our Jay!

We have a bachelor friend, however, who seems as set to say a word until Jay is a grown man. As an adopted child himself, he knew that the only thing stigmatized and set apart from other kids is he right?

Lawrence G. — Now that I'm out on a limb back, I think I'd rather have grown up believing I'd been born to my parents like other kids. But they followed the advice Pam got. They saved it, had it past, coin a present and a future which they would make as happy as possible. I was 10 years old when the full meaning of it all hit me. It was hard to feel so different. Other kids have relatives. I had adopted parents and my relatives weren't mine. They were my parents!

It was hard to swallow. I think it takes a successful, confident person, not a little boy, to accept the fact that his real parents rejected him. I kept wondering why. What was wrong with me? I worried that if I displeased my adopted parents too much they might reject me, too!

I urge Pam to shield her son until he feels secure enough to take this blow.

The Council: With each passing year, life should grow easier for the adopted and the adopting among us. As social barriers dissolve, it becomes more interesting and important to know who you are going when where you are from. No longer can a person make a career out of merely being a respondent. Respect and acclaim are now reserved for those who concentrate upon becoming worthy ancestors. That's within the power of everyone, whether born into a family or loved into one!

The "telling" received by Lawrence appears to have been complied, Nowadays about 200,000 children are adopted in the U.S.A. every year and parents are urged by the agencies, in some cases ordered, to inform their youngsters of the true relationship. Of course, there's a question as to when and how to tell it. called "All About You" by Marian A. MacLeod.

While The Council avoids commercialism, we wish to recommend this book because its sensitive volume as an ally to parents in the telling of the story of Jay's adoption story. It begins with space for pictures of "How You Looked up to When You Arrived" and "How We Looked to You." It invites records and mementos. Over the years it can build into a testament which speaks louder than words.

Eventually all children learn of their adoption. Learning it early from their parents in a warm, loving way enables them to take it in stride, adjust to it and steel themselves better than did Lawrence we hope!) against the ignorant, the malicious, and the malicious inevitably encountered.

"CIRCUS CREDENTIALS"

"At the circus my heart becomes a dreamer by the grace and daring of each performer." —Anonymous.

Warm, kind-hearted and wonderful are circus-people. Here are some behind-the-scene interviews of those with the Cristiani-Wallace circus which was in town last week.

Jerold Lovering — A tall, fair-curly-headed, shining-blue-eyed member of the circus crew. "No, I haven't been with the circus very long. Just since last March, when it was in Maine where I live in Augusta. I'm seventeen. I quit school. No, I like work. I help putting up and taking down the side-show tent. After the evening's performance it can be taken down and loaded in that truck over there in an hour and a half. I like this traveling about. But, when we cross the border again, I'm leaving to go back home to my folks. Then I plan to join the army.

Pat Swain — tall, slim girl with laughing black eyes and matching longhair in pony-tail; a youthful trapeze artist. "I'm from Dayton, Florida and have been with the circus for five years. When I first joined I weighed only 97 pounds. Now I weigh 107. But I still have to diet strenuously. I wear clothes like size ten. Seems crazy when I'm actually size 8½. . . . I am an Arabian dancing girl in what I wear then.

"I like it. It gives me too well, but you wear what the circus gives you to wear. No, after you have been with the circus for seven or one month, it gets into your blood.

After that, you're not happy anywhere else. See, this trailer is where six or eight of us girls sleep and keep our belongings. In this tent next to it, is where we make changes for our performances.

Oh, there's my boy-friend. He's waiting for me. We're going to go somewhere to get something to eat. I'm always starving after a performance . . . Goodbye!"

Hugo Zacchini — Aged 62, who has gained world-wide recognition from circus audiences as the man after his famous cannon grand finale, circus act, when his beautiful young daughter is shot from it into a net:

"It is true, I'm the originator of this cannon which you see mounted on my trailer. Where did I get the idea? (Hmm that's the easiest part. Put an idea into execution is be difficulty). But my father it was who designed the act. It's been my sorrowful lot to earn a living as an athlete and showman. Because I'm an artist.

"I was born in Cuaco, the old capital of Peru, one of 16 children. My mother was Brazilian. My father, Ildebrando Zacchini, a portrait painter, was Italian. But his art could not compete with the camera, a new invention about then. So he moved to Brazil with the family. We happened to live near a small circus, and my father began painting pictures of the acts on the tents and wagons so the illiterate people could understand the attractions. He became prosperous. I was sent, at the age of nine, to Rome on a scholarship, to study art in the academy there, until I was 17.

I also gained additional art sculpturing. When war broke out World War II I joined the Foreign Legion and for six years was a Captain. There it was in the desert, where sand and time are plentiful, I studied and learned (perhaps not too well) sight linguage. Then in 1939 my brother Bruno and I joined the Ringling Brothers Circus and traveled the world for the next nine years. In 1948, I moved to Tampa, where I have a studio, I'm perhaps the only artist who sculptures in raw cement, mixed with marble dust for whiteness. I've painted thousands of circus-life paintings — and still do. Here, let me show you this magazine . . ."

Entitled Bay Play at 30c per copy, the 1962 issue, published in Tampa, contains a personality article by writer Bob Fellows about Hugo Zacchini, accompanied by five photos of his paintings and sculpture. The last paragraph, in part reads:

". . . he continues to turn out, among dozens of other things, cameo-like scenes of that gaudy but always beautiful giant — the circus. Because of their modest prices and sheer volume, these paintings have already guaranteed an automatic immortality for the circus subjects and artist, alike."

And also sobs: "But Hugo is concern over his lack of recognition in art circles: "What good's it gonna do me to be famous artist after I'm dead?"

Sweet Dreams

By VERA WINSTON

A nicely balanced blend of nylon, Dacron and cotton makes a slightly-crisp fabric that is cool and light as a summer breeze.

The gown is gathered from the top, which is piped in green like the hem of a neck appliqued at the side. Piping also trims the hem above the flounce which is prettily printed in an intertwined design of roses, stems and foliage.

College Hill W.R. Club Hears Reports, Names Officers

The College Hill Wedding Ring Club met recently at the church for a short business session and then adjourned to Rainbow Lodge, near Frankford, with the ladies being guests for the evening and all enjoyed a delicious supper and dance.

The business was under the direction of Don and Muriel Clarke and consisted of reports of several committees and the list of the names of the new officers. The books are now in audited later. The bake sale committee of A. Dickens, N. Greenwood, D. Thompson and F. Watson reported a good sale which was held in David's window in mid June with proceeds amounting to $28.

The strawberry supper was discussed and plans were made with some new suggestions adopted.

LIST OFFICERS

The new officers are as follows: presidents — Monty and Sue Moorcroft; vice-presidents —Bill and Orlena Lott; secretaries — Boyd and June Moorcroft; treasurers — Charlie and June Crwy; press secretaries— Doug and Flo Watson; social convenors — John and Millie Townsend. The following group leaders and members of the group: Hilts — Carmen and Doris Sine; Bill and Doris McIlquham; Reg and Emma Armstrong; Don and Muriel Parker; John and Millie Lucas; and; group two leaders— Ralph and Vera Moyer; Lewis and Hilda McGuillin; the Rev. and Mrs. Veasey; Ken and Lela Belcour; Merril and Eleanor Walle; Monte and Sue Moorcroft; group three leaders — Art and Annie Dickens; Reid and Nellie Hiltz; Guy and Dorcen Thompson; Bill and Orlena Lott; Doug and Florence Watson; group four leaders — Ray and Ida Dafoe; Art and Nellie Greenwood; Boyd and June Moorcroft; Howard and Irene Hunt; Ron and Fryce McDonald.

Each of these groups is responsible for two programs or entertainment and lunch for the evening, with the ladies of the Club having the May meeting and the gentlemen in charge of the June meetings each year.

The supper was a most delicious repast of roast beef with all the trimmings and during the evening dancing posting, fishing and other sporting activities were enjoyed and brought to a close a highly successful event.

STRAWBERRY SUPPER

On June 26th a Strawberry supper was held at the College Hill Church hall and the was well attended despite a midway shower. Several of the teenage daughters were employed as attractive waitresses and during the evening with the mothers taking over later. These young ladies who served were: Misses Carolyn Belcour; Judy McIlquham, Linda Dafoe, Joan Kale and Linda Dickens.

The supper was well attended, ed with over 120 seated, which proved most profitable financially with over $200 netted. It is proposed this will be a yearly project with the Wedding Ring Club.

Co-convenors for the strawberry supper were: Evlyn McIlquham and Fryce McDonald; helping replenish and in the kitchen were: Mesdames Dodd, Greenwood, Dickens, Townsend, McMullen, Veasey Lott and Hiltz. Those helping to serve later were: Mesdames Moyer, Moorcroft, Dickens, Cronan, McIlquham, Watson, Hilts and McMullen.

Doug Watson and Reg Armstrong served tea and coffee, while Don Dafoe served generous dishes of ice cream to accompany the plentiful supply of luscious strawberries.

The men's aid work was a well attended event and reaped a good profit for the Club. The ladies also served tea and coffee and doughnuts, at this time.

Question: I'm attending a wedding soon and want to wear a suit. Is it proper? Also do I have to wear a hat and gloves? — N.I., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: A spiffy-tailored, dressmaker suit may be worn to a formal wedding in the daytime or to a semiformal or informal wedding that takes place in the evening or during the day. It should be accessorized with a hat and gloves, and gloves should be kept on through the receiving line, if suit also is appropriate for a very informal home wedding. A hat is not a "must" at this type of wedding, but I, personally, prefer to see one worn with a suit at least during the ceremony, after which it may be removed.

Question: I spent last weekend at the home of an unmarried friend who lives with her mother. My friend prepared all the meals, except for Sunday breakfast which her mother fixed and took me sightseeing and to visit a few of her neighbors. My friend sending my friend a thank-you note and a small gift, and wonder if I should send a gift to her mother, as well. — B.E., New Haven, Conn.

Answer: Since your friend invited you and was the active hostess, it would be thoughtful to send her a present in appreciation. It's not necessary to send a gift to her mother, too, but it would be gracious to send her a personal note of thanks.

Question: My request is for arrowroot pudding that would taste like the canned baby food variety. My five and six year olds love it but baby food is just too expensive to feed them. I watched hopefully when you were giving arrowroot recipes - - - Mary I. N.

Answer: I will give you two arrowroot pudding recipes. They are as close as I can come to the commercial baby food product.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Sausages on Stuffing or on Scalloped Potatoes; Cranberry-Sauce; New Carrots and Green Beans Julienne; Cole Slaw; Quick Nesselrode Pudding; Tea.

ARROWROOT PUDDING
(like Blanc Manges)

2 cups hot milk, 4 tablespoons arrowroot flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup cold milk, ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Mix arrowroot flour, sugar and salt with cold milk. Add slowly to hot milk in top of double boiler. Stir constantly until thickened. Cover and cook 20 minutes, stirring every 10 minutes. Remove from heat, add vanilla pour into moistened mould or moulds. Chill.

ARROWROOT SOUFFLE

4 teaspoons arrowroot flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons cold milk, 1 1/3 cups hot milk, 2 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Mix arrowroot flour, sugar and salt with cold milk. Add to hot milk; stir until thick. Cover, cook over hot water 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add whites of eggs; beat until well blended. Remove from heat; add vanilla; turn into moistened moulds and chill.

Question: This year we have a plentiful supply of mushrooms. I have frozen 3 large pailfuls. Could you please send me recipes to use them, as I only have a few for soup and sauce and would like to be able to try them different ways. Please send me all information on mushrooms you can — - - Mrs. J. F.

Answer: I have mailed you six former releases giving Mushrooms Bechamel, Mushroom Gravy, Mushroom Caisun, Mushroom Fried Rice, Creamed Mushrooms and Mushroom and Cheese Rarebit. They are all good but the recipe for Mushrooms Bechamel is a honey. Also try

MUSHEROOMS IN SOUR CREAM

1 lb. mushrooms, halved if large, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup dairy sour cream, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Wash the mushrooms and saute in hot butter or margarine for 3 or 4 minutes. Add flour, water and simmer 3 or 4 minutes more, stirring several times. Add the sour cream, salt and pepper. Heat gently and serve on toast or toasted muffins.

Novelties Draw Tourists To 'Frisco's North Beach

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

San Francisco — In 1906 the earth's crust twisted for a few seconds, and the holocaust that followed was assumed to have changed San Francisco forever. Gone, among other things, was the notorious Barbary Coast, the most wide-open district of any city in America.

But another earthquakes nor fires destroy traditions. San Francisco is a city madly in love with itself. It will go to any length to maintain and enhance its image, like a virile and beautiful woman. Today, more than half a century later, a new Barbary Coast has grown up on the site of the old one — minus, of course, the discreet upstairs rooms.

In its own mind-century way, the new Barbary Coast is just as unique, and probably more spirited. The area is now called North Beach, and to begin with it is not a beach. It is a conglomeration of old streets where three unlikely neighborhoods — Chinatown, the Italian section and the warehouse district — flow together.

In this tourist's never-never land, we find such novelties as a lawyer's office that is a sight-seeing attraction, a restaurant with no name on it, another where there are telephones on the table so you can get acquainted with any patron who strikes your fancy, and still another that features booths for psychiatrists.

The heart of the section is Jackson Square, a street of refurbished turn-of-the-century houses and newly painted signs. From a courtyard suite of offices trailed up in red velvet and antique, Lawyer Melvin Belli regards the passing parade. His reception desk appears to be a Barbary Coast bar, and his desk a judge's bench.

Jackson Square is also called Decorator Alley, or Boys' Town. Among the displayed items with which you may elaborate your home is a gilt statue of a Roman centurion with a fern planter, growing out of his head.

North Beach is best known as the headquarters of bestnik cafes with names like The Anxious Asp and the Co-Existence Bagle Shop. The one with the phones is called the Library.

But San Francisco's best

Summer Evening

By VERA WINSTON

Here's a delightfully feminine summer evening dress that is black chiffon beautifully. The diaphanous fabric is embroidered all over in a lily of the valley design—white blossoms and green foliage.

The neckline is pie cut front and back. A self sash and some fulness is achieved via gathers right below the waist for grace and ease.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

The engagement is announced of Patricia Elizabeth Walsh, daughter of Mrs. Frank Walsh, Belleville, and the late Mr. Walsh, to Mr. Dewaine Edward Doyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Doyle, Shannonville. Marriage to take place Saturday, August 4th, at 11.30 a.m. in Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wickett, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bowers, who have been holidaying in the United States, arrived home last evening.

restaurants are here, too. The one with no name is Jake's, and there is another called Jack's which never advertises and is unknown to tourists, yet is so popular that anyone can't get in.

What they all have in common is a cavalier disregard for the nine-a.m. nose of the restaurant business in other cities, a good location, Jack's is around the corner from a seedy but bond district. The elegant Blue Fox used to advertise proudly that it was across the street from the morgue — until they made it non-morgue. Jack's never named itself after the former occupant of its building. Station 2 of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. Maxine's was not a few others are hidden between warehouses.

San Francisco is never above kidding itself. There was a place here called the Poulet d'Or, but the cabaret singer hostesses couldn't come any closer to the French pronunciation than Poodle Dog, the management obligingly changed the name, and so it stands to this day.

Just Missed Earthquake

Ernie's is frankly done up in the red plush of Barbary Coast days, and just missed the earthquake. The drinks are rung up on a cash register that has been there since 1897. The $2.00 sticks, however.

Naturally, no Barbary Coast would be complete without night clubs. Finocchio's, Peredise's has girls on fire poles and swings, old-time movies and a shocking gallery for those who get bored with the floor show, or perhaps plan to spend the day.

At Gold Street they celebrate New Year's Eve every night, and there's confetti all over the sidewalk at 2 A.M. to prove it. One of the farthest-out of all is the Holey Tolay Club, a legitimate speakeasy founded by none other than Big Al Isbell, complete with shoot-out bullet holes, and just missed the earthquake. PAYETTE — BUSH

Johnstown United Church, Johnstown, Ontario, was beautifully decorated with white regal lilies and blue delphiniums, on Saturday, July 7, at 2.00 p.m. for the marriage of Marion Anne Bush, of Glen Miller, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush, to James Anthony Payette, of Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Payette. The Reverend Frank Cryderman, uncle of the bride officiated.

Miss Lena Baker, of Brighton, provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of white peau de soie featuring an embroidered silk organza overskirt, and fitted bodice with "V" shaped neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. She wore a bandeau type headdress encrusted with tiny seed pearls and sequins, finger-tip veil of illusion silk tulle, and carried a white Bible crested with deep red roses and white rosebud studded streamers.

Miss Thelma Silcox, as maid of honor, and Miss Rosemary Bush, sister of the bride, and Miss Diane Payette, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids were gowned alike in rose-shade brocaded satin with tight bodices having short sleeves and "V"-shaped neck-line. White net hats, gloves and shoes, and single strands of pearls, the gifts of the bride, completed their costumes. They carried crescent shaped bouquets of white Shasta 'mums.

Little two-year-old Miss Ruth Ann Sheddon, of Glen Miller, was a demure flower girl, in her white cotton dress with pink cummerbund matching the shade of the older attendants' gowns, white headdress, shoes and gloves, and carrying a bouquet of colored summer flowers.

The ring-bearer, Master Gregory Sheddon, brother of the little flower girl, carried the satin cushion with the rings.

Mr. Francis Sickle, of Brighton, R.R. No. 1, was groomsman, while Messrs. Robert Bush, and Barry Payette, ushered the guests.

The reception, which followed the ceremony, was held on the lawn at the bride's home, fragrant with regal lilies, white water lilies, pink roses and other lovely flowers, which also decorated the home.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a gown of green tulle over printed silk with white hat, gloves and shoes, and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in pale blue tulle over printed blue and green flowered silk, with white hat, shoes and gloves, and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to eastern Ontario, the bride chose a white two-piece suit of brocaded cotton with white accessories, red gloves and corsage of red roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto; Stirling; Frankford; Trenton; Grond and Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. Payette are residing at Glen Miller, Ontario (Trenton R.R. No. 3.)

MUNRO — IRELAND

On Wednesday, June 27th, a pretty summer wedding was solemnized in Bridge Street United Church parsonage, at 3.00 o'clock, by the, Reverend Harry M. Davis, pastor of the church, when Barbara Anne Ireland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ireland, became the bride of Rodney Howard Wayne Munro, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Munro.

Lovely baskets of pink and white gladioli, mingled with white baby chrysanthemums, and ferns adorned the room for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her white satin peau de soie bridal gown fashioned with fitted bodice having a scalloped neckline, finger-tip veil of French lace tulle was held by a tiara encrusted with rhinestones, pearl sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses and white chrysanthemums with white satin streamers.

Miss Patricia Ireland attended as sister, wearing sapphire-blue peau de soie satin gown with matching bow headdress, white satin shoes, and gloves, and carried a nosegay of pink and white 'mums centred with pink roses and tied with white satin streamers.

Mr. Robert Waite, of Belleville, was groomsman.

The reception was held at the Shrine Club, 31 Highland Avenue, where the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a coral pink sheath with brocaded jacket, white accessories and corsage of white and pink feathered carnations. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, gowned in turquoise blue sheath appliqued with pink roses; bone-colored accessories and corsage of pink feathered carnations.

The bride's table was appointed in the traditional manner with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped with two white doves holding wedding rings, white flowers of lily-of-the-valley, and white bells. Tall pink candles in silver holders, and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, Montreal and other eastern points the bride chose a white sheath dress with turquoise appliqued flowers, turquoise accessories, and corsage of white and tinted turquoise feathered carnations. On leaving, the bride sent her bouquet to the bridegroom's great - grandmother, Mrs. Jane Munro, Stirling, who was unable to be present.

Guests were present from Strathroy, London, Peterborough, Stirling and Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Munro are residing in Yarker, Ontario.

Business Women Seek Divorce, Abortion Study

By EDNA BLAKELY

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—Royal commissions on abortion and divorce laws will be requested by the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

This was the decision of some delegates both resolutions were given approval at the closing business session of the federation's 18th biennial convention on Friday.

The preamble to the resolution on abortion says the sections of the Criminal Code which deal with abortion are confused, conflicting and out of date and contain instances "cruel and unjust." The preamble noted that a royal commission would acquaint the public with evils of the present practice and provide an objective and non-partisan basis for amending the laws.

Kate Gregory MacGill of Thornhill, the new federation president, said she is aware of a division of opinion within the club but the federation is asking for clarification of the law, not broadening of the laws.

PASSED BY WIDE MARGIN

The resolution, which was passed by a 126-26 vote, asked that the royal commission to recommend clarification and amendments to bring the laws into conformity with the realties of Canadian life.

The same phrase was used for the divorce resolution.

Delegates agreed with a recommendation from the committee on the domicile of married women that the federation recommend that a married woman who has been deserted by her husband for one year shall be entitled to establish a separate domicile for the purpose of commencing legal proceedings in the province where she established her home.

A resolution which would have asked that the age for old age pensions be reduced to 65 from 65 years of age for women was soundly defeated.

Mrs. Margery Previtera of Cobourg, Ont., said the federation should be satisfied to asking for a special concessions for women when one-fifth of the nation's aims is to equalize the retirement ages for both men and women.

Another motion which asked the federal government to allow $1,500 personal tax exemption for both men and women at 65 rather than 70 years of age was defeated. Margaret Nairn of Moose Jaw, Sask., said that again the emphasis was on the wrong place and that the federation should strive for retirement and pensions at 65.

DUVALL — CULLODEN

A pretty June wedding was solemnized in Christ Church, Belleville, by the assistant rector, the Reverend Everett P. Smith, when Shirley Florence Culloden, of Belleville, was united in marriage to Robert Albert Duvall, also of Belleville. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur Culloden, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Culloden, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Duvall, of Belleville.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, supplied the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Betty Gardiner, who sang "The Wedding Prayer," before the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Alvin McKenzie of Shannonville, wore a charming bridal gown of white silk organza over taffeta, in full length, embroidered with lily-of-the-valley motifs. The graceful train was caught at intervals with small bows, lending a bouffant effect and the fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline and long sleeves. Her fingertip tiara held her shoulder-length veil and she carried a cascade of red roses.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Evelyn Warwick, of Foxboro, as matron of honor, and by Miss Patricia Duvall, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Thelma Smith, both of Belleville, as bridesmaids, and flower girl by Miss Annis Culloden, sister of the bride, as junior bridesmaid. All were gowned alike in street-length turquoise silk organza over taffeta with embroidered lily-of-the-valley flowers in similar shade on the bodices with scooped necklines, short sleeves, and were demurely caught with taffeta back bows. They wore matching headdresses, short white gloves, shoes, and carried bouquets of white and yellow 'mums mingled with red Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Robert Spry of Peterborough, was groomsman, and the ushers were: Mr. Gary Duvall of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Reginald Culloden, of Belleville, brother of the bride.

The reception was held in Christ Church parish hall, where the bridal table was prettily appointed with damask linen, and centred by a three-tier all-white wedding cake topped with miniature bells, and misted about the base with white nylon tulle. Tall white candles in silver holders, and driftwood bouquets completed the setting.

Mrs. Culloden chose for her daughter's wedding a mint-green linen sheath with sleeveless fitted bodice of lace, matching jacket, white accessories and corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Duvall, was gowned in powder blue embroidered linen sheath with white accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

For travelling to New York City and the eastern United States, rehearsing via Detroit, Michigan; the bride wore a sea-foam green linen sheath with matching jacket and headdress. The short sleeved bodice was of flowered silk. White accessories and a corsage of yellow roses completed her ensemble.

Guests were present from Belleville; Peterborough; Toronto; Detroit, Michigan; Tweed and Bowmanville, Ontario.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a linen shower held at the home of Mrs. Roy Joyce of Belleville; and at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Lorne Uens of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Duvall are residing at 342A MacDonald Avenue, Belleville.

French Ambassador Feels Many Projects in Canada Might Interest Financiers

By FRANCOISE COTE

OTTAWA (CP)—In his first 2½ months as French ambassador to Canada, Jean de Beaumarchais Bousquet says he has found many economic and industrial projects and developments that are likely to interest financiers and industrialists in France.

So far, most of them are in Quebec where the provincial government is setting up a general investment fund to which both the government and private investors would contribute, and where there is a great deal of talk about the establishment of a steel industry complex.

Mr. Bousquet said the projects have raised so much interest in France that a special industrial mission headed by Wilfrid Baumgartner, former French finance minister, is due to visit Quebec next October.

Mr. Bousquet, who came to Ottawa from the post of French ambassador to Brussels, often called the capital of the European Common Market, is a specialist in economic affairs who is largely responsible for and co-operative ear to feelers for French participation in Canadian projects.

MAY BUT FULFWOOD

Referring to the development of a steel complex in Quebec, Mr. Bousquet said negotiations for French participation already are under way.

A report on marketing possibilities, now being prepared by the Quebec bureau of statistics, is to be sent to the French steel industry research institute.

He said that if the Quebec government commits itself to forging a large part of its steel requirements from the local industry and that figures show a substantial local market in Quebec, the Maritimes and New England, French financiers may be highly interested in locating in Canada.

Mr. Bousquet said France is also interested in obtaining large quotas of pulpwood in Quebec. To make this possible, the provincial government would have to amend laws, adopted years ago, requiring that Quebec pulpwood be processed in the province.

Negotiations also are under way in connection with the establishment of an assembly plant by a French automobile manufacturer in Quebec. The plant did not say where the plant would be set up, but indicated the plan depended on studies on marketing opportunities in the United States in exchange for the purchase of spare parts there.

EXCHANGE PROFESSORS

During his first visit in Quebec City last May, Mr. Bousquet initialled an agreement with Jean Lesage and members of the cabinet for scientific and cultural exchanges.

He suggested that 10 young university graduates be invited from France to teach a year at the University of Montreal and Laval University in Quebec. Cost of the program would be split 50-50 between the French and Quebec governments.

The idea behind the program is that it is easier for young professors to learn a year out of their abroad than it is for visiting professors.

Mr. Bousquet also proposed reciprocity in a program whereby the French government pays $20,000 a year to bring young Canadian engineers to study engineering problems in France. The French would like to send their engineers to study roadbuilding and water purification techniques in Canada.

World's Most Popular Flower

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The famous French rose growers Meilland have been across Europe for the past 200 years. They have built up a fine business and could afford to assume the heavy expense of introducing a new hybrid rose.

It takes them ten years to perfect one. They cross-pollinate several hundred thousand and keep accurate notes on each plant as it goes into full bloom. From 10,000 plants they choose only those to bring along each year. From these, one is finally selected and the others are destroyed.

For many years this firm has attempted to breed a blue rose. Lavender girl, introduced four years ago will be the closest any one has come yet. It has a purple tint.

Mecklenburg Nurseries at Port Burwell, Ontario celebrate their fifty first anniversary this year. Brilliant Red Gumbo is their nursery and the 46,000 prospective customers are mailed the index page strawberry catalogue. It was mailed to 46,000 prospective customers in the middle of his nursery.

MOST POPULAR FLOWER

Donald McConnell the 26 year old vice-president says that roses are the world's most popular flowers and they account for one third of their present business.

McConnell's 200 acre nursery was selected as one of the 3 roses of the world wide group of rose growers named Roses Universal.

The roses are planted in Canadian soil in the spring and they become acclimatized by fall and they have developed a new root system.

It is practically impossible to develop hybrid roses in Canada, according to Mr. McConnell. "Our climate is too variable."

"The Canadian Shade" is a bid Americans will be growing for the first time a rose named for a former Canadian. It is the new John D. Armstrong, a brilliant red and this holds its color well. The blooms are profuse, coming in clusters of eight. The plants are vigorous, disease free, hardy and are long lasting and fine for cutting. This is the overblooming Armstrong grandiflora that won the 1962 A.I.S. American Award, McConnell's featured this one on the cover of their 1962 catalogue.

The man it was named for, John D. Armstrong, left Clinton, Ontario 75 years ago and is now the world renowned nurseryman and rose grower. At 85 he is still active in the multi-million dollar export business he built up from Los Angeles, California.

When Mr. Armstrong founded the nursery he named the place Ontario as a tribute to his former home in Canada.

BACK IN FAVOR

Bells of Ireland or Moluccella Laevis has recently come back into favor. It was introduced some 300 years ago and then fell into neglect. A few years ago it caused quite a sensation at the flower shows. The plant is also known as Shell Flower. It has a delightful scent and it keeps its bright green color when dry and is valued as an everlasting flower. Baby's Breath is another name for the same plant. The flower is similar to balm and are removed before the flower spikes are long enough to form a good family position picnic Saturday at Presqu'ile Point.

Mrs. Seymour Ashley and children spent a few days with Hiram Ashley, Sunday evening.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Christian Morality or Man-Made Hours?

DEAR DORIS—Columns such as yours are of considerable interest and, I believe, serve a useful purpose. However, I am always a little alarmed when letters from "authorities" are printed with unqualified statements.

An example is the letter you printed from the Director of a Canadian Child Welfare Agency who wrote "a realistic approach to divorce and marriage must be taken. He was to avoid a complete breakdown in [illegible] society morality."

I don't think people are really aware that governments may make things legal but they cannot alter their morality. In the twentieth or any other century the Christian standard is that marriage is "for better for worse . . . till death do us part, according to God's holy ordinance."

I should be happier if you made it clear that Christian morality cannot be altered at the whim of any government tempted to meddle with marriage and divorce laws.—FATHER B.

DEAR FATHER B—Agreed—and thanks for underlining this.

Social workers use every means to keep families together. They counsel, encourage, interpret; they get marriage partners to try to understand, to be patient, to grow more loving and mature.

There are still times when we must face the fact of a too-early, too-incompatible union for mental health or hope of salvage. When a child's healthy development hangs in the balance. Or when one partner just can't grow up.

For such disaster many of us feel a need for lawful means of extrication.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—At this moment I am a complometer operator for a large company. I am intelligent, but in this past year I have made so many errors and learned so little that there must be something wrong.

I haven't talked to my parents yet, but I want to return to school next fall. But the only thing I want to do is write and as yet that isn't a means of support.

I've got to find out where I can go best and earn money at it. Is there a place that I can have an aptitude test and some vocational counselling?

I am going out of my mind and if I don't leave here, I am afraid I'll be asked to do so.—SOON TWENTY-ONE.

DEAR SOON—Better to quit than be fired. Skill with figures and skill with words are often found at opposite ends of the spectrum.

Counsellors about vocations are scarce, but can usually be found through your Department of Education, if not the National Employment Office where you are. Hunt up your local vocational counsellor-about-careers.

Get back to school. Writing can be a means of support, if your education and skill with words is developed and steered into the right channel.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—I am a 16-year-old girl. My problem is concerning a 17-year-old boy, whom I like. He doesn't seem to pay any attention to me and dates other girls rather than I.

I am fairly good looking, try to have a nice personality, but am a little small for my age.

I would like to get him to like me? How can I make myself look 17 instead of 15?—DOUBTFUL.

DEAR DOUBTFUL—Act your age. Not a year or two older. If he is not tied up with some other girl, why not make a point and invite him as your partner? You could hold it at your house, play games, perhaps dance to records and have a real good time.

Go in for other outdoor activities, with everybody bringing something. Picnics, with all pitching in, are a grand way to get acquainted.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO TEEN-AGER—A toast expresses good will. When you toast your teachers give them credit for the job they do in filling your minds with knowledge and guidance. Be not heavy odds; for the after-hours they have spent guiding school clubs, directing school plays.

Make it light and loving. Tell a joke; smile; make it short and sit down soon.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—What do you go about a girl friend that always tells you who likes you or not?

It seems every time I go out with my girl friend she always starts telling me who doesn't like me. Mostly the kids around the school. She says it's either because I act too smart or something of the sort. I don't know whether to ignore her or not. Please help me.—DISCOURAGED.

• • •

DEAR DISCOURAGED—Ignore her. She's no friend. Some people pick on pets as a way of feeling superior. You do her no favor to put up with her criticisms.

The sooner she discovers that finding fault loses friends, the better. Critical people can have a very unhappy time of it.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—My steady told me he was going away. A friend of mine saw him a few days later and he was still in town. I've got a feeling he doesn't want to go around with me and that is probably why he gave me the story about going away.

Don't you think he was being unfair to me in saying he was going away, and if he doesn't want to go steady, shouldn't he come out and tell me?—M. A. X.

DEAR M. A. X.—It's not much of a friendship if it's not based on truth. Be glad you have this hint and be ready to sign off first.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO BEWILDERED BESS — Leave him as free as the air he breathes. How can you invent an apology, for something you haven't done? He may be avoiding you because he is honestly unsure. Forcing yourself on his attention will make him run faster and further.

Traditional Way of Doing Things in Cotton Mill Is No Longer Good Enough

By ROD CURRIE

MANCHESTER, England (CP)—The modern cotton mill is a sort of sunlit house of horrors.

Gone is an eerie, almost science - fiction atmosphere as the gleaming machines, hundreds of them, noisily go about the business of spinning and weaving with hardly a human in sight.

It's almost as though everyone had been suddenly evacuated, leaving the machines in high gear.

In the ground floor carding room, row upon row of great, square - shouldered machines, straining their steel muscles and leather tendons, pulp down miles of rough, felt-like cotton, the only person moving among them an old cleaning lady mopping gleaming brows with a leather duster.

It emerges as a stream of inch-wide cotton wool, as soft to the touch as whipped cream.

Upstairs these coils are drawn together again into machines that pull and twist them into a single thread. The number of coils and machines determines the end product — a heavy rope, or ordinary sheeting and the like, or a high-sheen thread for expensive shirting, dress materials or draperies.

MUST MODERNIZE

It is by this thread — the quality of which cannot be beaten anywhere in the world — that the Lancashire industry now hangs.

With little or no protection from the flood of cotton from the market from cheap-labor areas, Lancashire's mills, built up over a world monopoly — now find that the old traditional ways of doing things are no longer good enough.

As the industry expanded from the individual working at home into the factories it split up into a vast, complicated investment with separate firms, mainly family-owned, handling spinning, weaving, finishing, printing and marketing.

The resulting lack of coordination often delayed orders — and, in later years, lost customers. Also, the plants traditionally work only eight hours a day, their work being favored upon as disrupting family life as an extra shift. And a large portion of married women go out to work.

LIMITED SUCCESS

The first phase of a government-financed plan eliminated, with compensation, many of the old, inefficient mills. And one of the men now trying to light a fire under the industry, heading a better-off mill owners in James Hilton, director of the cotton board's productivity centre, responsible for pioneering new methods, says: "We have set tests for member companies including advice on management, training and modernization."

The board, an advisory body operated by the industry, has seen a limited degree of success. Some firms have already merged into vertical organizations handling everything from spinning to advertising, and using most of the man - made fibers, either alone or in combination with cotton. At least count, a year ago, there were 1,122 spinning and weaving mills and fewer than half of them still were working with cotton alone.

And most of the improved plants are working round-the-clock.

If more follow this trend, the board feels, it will give the industry new life for a second, treated result on the quality markets of the world.

SAVE OUR BIRDS

We hear a lot about the conservation of our forests but not about the conservation of our birds. Yet it is just as important to protect birds as to protect trees, perhaps more so. Many insect birds are to trees — [illegible] phoebe, vireo, warbler, chickadee, nuthatch, downy woodpecker, and flicker, to name a few. They do the job of keeping down the insects that would otherwise spoil the trees. And these birds are not choosy in their preferences and different methods of going about their business. Warblers, for instance, catch the tiny insects that would eat the foliage while nuthatches go for the insect eggs, pupae, and the insects themselves which are hatched in bark crevices.

Our crops, too, are saved by birds. The chickadee, vireo, junco, and goldfinch, for example, eat weed seeds. Indeed, it is a fact that seed eaters [illegible] a great many birds come to the table that actually prefer weed seeds to all others. The robin is a confirmed lover of juicy insects. Owls and hawks for the most part live on mice and rodents.

We would have many more flying insects if it were not for the coming of the whip-poor-will, nighthawk, swallow, kingbird, phoebe, and bat.

GOOD FOR US

Perhaps birds that are merely beautiful to look at should be counted out. But when they are combined with these others; but surely watching a beautiful bird or listening to the delightful bird song must be good for us. And we love to see birds, even if we cannot bring back a species. In less than a hundred years we have lost a dozen kinds of birds that were formerly abundant, while others are in danger as the pigeon, and the eskimo curlew, all of which became extinct because of the destruction.

Of late years we are learning. With the help of bird lovers, farmers, killing migrants and shooting regulations in some states and provinces have been made in both Canada and the U.S. The Migratory Birds Convention Act came into being in 1918. Our government has established many sanctuaries, and private societies and individuals have done likewise.

UNAVOIDABLE CAUSES

The starling is taking over many nesting sites from the bluebird; the cowbird is increasing at the yellow warbler. These are unavoidable causes. But diminishing numbers is usually avoidable. A case in point is the effort being made to save the whooping crane. These birds have actually been reduced to only 40) within the last few years owing to the drainage of marshes and U.S. governments are taking] guarding them when they [illegible] nesting and educating the public so that migration is made safer.

Proper Plug Saves Driver Gas Money

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Some motorists waste money by replacing spark plugs when they are cleaning and regapping would do the job nicely. Others do neither and waste dollars via the "gasoline route." A third group use the wrong type of plug — too hot or too cold.

The tip or firing end of a plug absorbs heat from the burning fuel. If the plug design is such that heat must travel a long path to reach the outer side of the cooling system passage, the plug has a high heat range" or is more overheating. Either way, gas mileage suffers, operation, a hotter plug is needed.

• • •

From E.N.: "Where should I look for trouble? The engine hesitates every time I jam down on the gas to get a sudden burst of speed."

(A) The carburetor is the most likely place to look. Accelerator pump first on the suspect list.

• • •

B.H. writes: "We're taking a vacation through the mountains, and I've been warned that my carburetor should be changed for the high altitudes. What kind of carburetor is needed?"

(A) The one you have is O.K., but the mixture adjustment screws will need a richer fuel ratio which is proper at sea level will be much too rich for high altitude driving.

• • •

S.S., asks: "Last fall and winter, my '60 sedan averaged 17 miles per gallon. Since the spring, I've been getting 20.2 mpg. How do you explain this?"

(A) First of all, for cold weather fuel economy adjustment is usually set richer, and the choke comes into play more often. Also provide a greater proportion of fuel for cold engine starting. Secondly engine warm-up takes much longer. You may average little better than 10 mpg for the first several miles.

• • •

From D.A.: "When the thermostat sticks, they say it wastes gas, is this because it causes overheating or overcooling?"

(A) Both, in one case — if it sticks open it will delay proper engine warm-up. If it sticks in the closed-position, it will promote overheating. Either way, gas mileage suffers.

Henry welcomes letters from readers, and awards each week a best-selling book for the most interesting letter he receives.

Dear Henry—I have a boy who does nothing but whistle. It gets on my nerves. What should I do?—UPSET MOTHER.

Dear Upset Mother—These days everyone wants a real complicated solution. But you can solve your problem by just saying nicely: "Johnny, could you please not whistle while I am around. It gets on my nerves." Then I bet he will stop. He will see that you don't want to be a Whistler's Mother.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am 14 and I am a girl. I have a very strict mother. Just a week ago I was permitted to wear lipstick and nail polish. My mother doesn't let me like a boy or even go out with one on a date.

Do you think this is for my own good? Or is she afraid something will happen to me? I do love my mother very much but I think that she is overdoing it.—RIGHT OR WRONG.

Dear Right or Wrong—Don't worry, your mother is no square. Last week she let you wear your colors, one day she will let you try them out. Your mother is giving it to you slow and that's the best way!—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have a problem which is difficult. My mother always gets mad at me because sometimes I don't do as she says. But sometimes she does it for nothing. She always gets headaches and sometimes I think she wants sympathy. What would you suggest I should do?—PROBLEMED.

Dear Problemed—The best medicine for your mother is some peace and quiet and you can give it to her.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I like this boy and I'm always trying to attract his attention. The more I do it the less he pays attention. I'm trying to get him to like me. I've tried everything I could think of. What shall I do?—SMOOCHY.

Dear Feline—I thought of a better name for you. "Smoochy" is a bad attitude. It seems the more you show you like this boy, the more he doesn't like you. So hate him and in a little time he will be on your back.—HENRY.

Dear Higfy—I have three older brothers who always tease me. What's the cause of it? What help can you give me? Why do the boys always like to tease?—PUZZLED.

Dear Puzzled:

The cause: They feel like teasing a sister.
Help: Keep out of their way.
Reason: None.

The Golden Years

Couple Has Sense of Belonging So Necessary in Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

A sense of belonging.

This is a phrase that is going about in the better conversational circles these days. To the person concerned with retirement it has particular meaning.

A couple in Westbourne, N.J., has some of it.

"I worked as an insurance agent in this town from 1937 to 1954, when I retired," says the man of the family, Joseph F. Sirr, of Westwood). "People thought my wife and I should go off to the sunshine country. My answer was 'Why?'

"We like this town, the people in it. We are contented here . . ."

This, according to the insurance agent, is why, and in his story you will see the sense of belonging that is making his retirement good.

"I average about six hours a week working for my church and its Sunday School. My wife works with the church Missionary League and with the Ladies Aid Society, of which she is treasurer.

WORKED AT ELECTIONS

"During the last three November elections I worked to get out the vote for our local candidates. I go to borough council meetings. Once a week I bowl with two other men who are retired. I read books — usually about 50 a year, mostly non-fiction . . ."

This man is one of the few in retirement who has learned the wonder of reading books. He has raised primarily on the Westwood Public Library, and says he has made his trips to the faraway places and met the world's famous people by reading the books it offers. After he finishes a book he writes a resume or his comments on it, which he saves.

"In 1959," he says, "a group of us who use the public library a great deal began a 'Friends of the Library' organization. I was elected the first secretary and treasurer, and since the group was formed I have been very active in it. It has been a small group, but through its dues, its donations and used-book sales it sparkplugged the community drive which has led to the library. And it gave the library more than $2,900 in furnishings. I wrote a 2,700-word history of the work the 'Friends' had done, and the local newspaper printed it early this year . . ."

MANAGE ALL RIGHT

The insurance agent — as an insurance agent would — has handled the finances of his retirement well. He says he and his wife manage all right on his pensions. However, when Christmas comes he goes to work — about nine days every year in the Post Office during the rush. He is paid for this.

Retirement, he says, means many things. It means a routine that has been happy before will be more so after retirement. (He and his wife have passed their forty-second anniversary.) It means keeping busy with things you want to do. It means "helping to make things a little easier for your life partner by doing some of the housework and some of the shopping for her."

The couple has found its contentment in a retirement house that is two blocks from a movie theatre, three blocks from a bowling alley four blocks from the public library and three blocks from a shopping centre.

The college said the registrar did not "cajole or threaten Dr. Back."

The premier said "patients have been pushed into the front lines of the battle without regard for their needs."

He renewed a pledge to "continue the sincere efforts of the government to secure a satisfactory settlement with the college of physicians and surgeons."

Mr. Lloyd reiterated that the government is willing to call an early session of the legislature to institute changes. An early session would depend on doctors resuming normal practice.

WANT ACT DITCHED

Doctors have said they will not return to normal practice until the government withdraws the act. Then negotiations on a settlement could be resumed.

Dr. H. D. Dakpetch, president of the college, said the proposal for the royal commission does not change the college's position in the dispute.

Dr. E. W. Barnoles, a college council member, said the college was concerned that the government would use the royal commission "as a cover-up for any errors in judgment made by the Medical Care Commission, which has been recruiting doctors to provide temporary service, in the administering body for the act.

Dr. Barnoles said the government might also use the commission to intimidate local hospital boards or to coerce the medical profession and act as a political body to manoeuvre for the licensing of physicians.

Deputy Premier J. H. Brockelbank said Thursday the doctors the government was concerned about when it announced the commission were Dr. Beck, Dr. Lis Fisher of London, transferred last week from Biggar Hospital, and Dr. Joseph Montgomery of Northern Ireland, suspended Sunday by the Brock Union Hospital at Arcola.

HAS NEW POSITION

Dr. Fisher was reported to have taken a temporary position with a Saskatoon clinic. The clinic was set up as a co-operative, non-profit operation after doctors began their boycott of the government plan.

In Saskatoon, about a dozen British doctors who have arrived in the last few days continued to register with the college to obtain licences to practise in the province.

The Saskatchewan Farmers Union scheduled a public meeting in Saskatoon July 19 with Britain's Lord Taylor as guest speaker.

Lord Taylor is due in the province Monday at the invitation of the government to investigate and advise on the dispute. He helped set up Britain's health plan.

In Biggar, a citizens, group applied formally to set up a medical clinic in the west-central Saskatchewan town to give the act a trial. It hopes to be in operation near the end of the week. The town's clinic closed July 1.

Meanwhile, Liberal opposition members of the legislature made a formal request for a by-election in the vacant Prince Albert constituency.

When interviewed whether the act might be put to the voters in a Prince Albert by-election, Premier Lloyd said he felt the medical care scheme should be given a fair trial first.

COINS DISAPPEAR

TORONTO (CP) — No trace has yet been found of more than $3,000 worth of Canadian coins, the collection of William H. Jackson, an insurance underwriter, following their theft Wednesday. The theft, one of the largest of its kind in Toronto, is believed by Mr. Sorrell to be the work of professionals. About $2,000 worth of jewelry was also stolen.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo H. Carver, Sports Editor

Several years ago Gordie Howe, Marty Pavelich, Johnny Wilson and "Red" Kelly munched roasted half-chickens in Larry Eggert's Rossmore cottage.

It was in the early summer and the hockey season was in the record books, new contracts were something to be thought of later, mine host Eggert's hospitality was, as usual, in the superb class, the sun was shining and all was right with the world.

The loquacious Pavelich, a sprightly young man with a terrific sense of humor, a natural jumping-jack and a rapid-fire talker held much of the floor. I think Johnny Wilson was thinking of getting married, "Red" was interested in the chickens, and Gordie sat quietly, saying little and smiling occasionally at a Pavelich quip.

At that time all four were members of the Detroit Red Wings organization. Pavelich and Wilson have long since departed, while the "Kelly Era" is well known. The latest stars in the Kelly crown are "Duffy", his first son; "Casey," his only daughter (to date) and a contract with the Pearson team in the Federal Political League.

Pavelich, looking for fresh material, started kidding Howe. "How many more years, Gord," he asked, "before you hang 'em up and take on a coaching job?"

Gordie grinned. He nibbled at a golden-brown chicken breast and thoroughly enjoyed the "bite" before answering.

"Maybe five, maybe six," he said, but there was a note of lightness in his voice. He never mentioned "twenty, years" in the big time. In fact I don't think at that time it entered his mind. If it did, it stayed there.

But later, much later, Howe expressed a desire to play twenty seasons in the National Hockey League. And there were those who laughed at him. "The Red Wings are killing him with overwork," they said. Part of it was true. Because of his great versatility, Big Gordie was being used in every situation—penalty-killing, power plays and just work.

When I saw him a month or so ago, Howe looked far from "dead"—from overwork or anything else. In fact he was so "weak" a few days ago he could scarcely muster enough strength to size his 17th contract. As he left for a three-week vacation, Howe said, "only three more contracts to go."

The big Red Wing star is 34 years of age. If he makes his 20-year stint with the NHL he will add another record to an illustrious list of puck-chasing achievements.

Only one other National League star has played 20 years in big chunks of time. He's Clapper, the ex-Boston Bruin star, now of Peterborough.

Gordie enjoyed his best season in three years in 1961-62, scoring 33 goals, 44 assists for 77 points, good for third place in the league.

He passed two milestones during the campaign, notching his 500th goal in March in New York, and playing in his 1,000th game in November.

Howe holds league records for the most games played, most assists and most points, all including both regular and playoff games. He trails only in goals, but has pulled to within 18 of Maurice (Rocket) Richard's 18-season mark of 544.

The extra work load that Howe has shouldered in the past several years hasn't seemed to affect the great right wing adversely.

Filling his summer schedule with plenty of softball and golf, he is only about five pounds over his playing weight of 210.

"I've slowed up a little," he said. "I think the major change in my playing style over the years has been that I no longer chase the puck when I know I can't get it."

Win Exhibition 9-0

Kenmors Blank Ajax

The Kenmors scored early hit. Duguid sacrificed, King and late on their way to a 9-0 win over the Ajax Merchants in an exhibition baseball tilt at the Fairgrounds last night.

Sid Forster's Lakeshore crew had a little too much on the ball for the Toronto-area squad. They romped ahead 3-0 in the second inning, added one in the fifth, three in the sixth and finished up with two in the eighth.

Meanwhile Gordie Vaughn blanked Ajax over the first seven innings and Stan Reid completed the shutout without too much trouble in the eighth and ninth.

Vaughn spaced five Ajax hits over the first six frames and that was all the losers got. He struck out nine and did not walk a batter. Reid claimed three more strikeout victims and handed out one free pass.

Reznick started and lost for the visitors with Stewart taking over in the fifth. They were for ten hits in all, striking out nine and walking four.

Carr got the Kenmors' initial rally under way with a base

Palmer Breaks British Open Record

PALMER HOLDS "PUTT" BREATH

Huge Crowd Pays Tribute

By KENNEDY WELLS

TROON, Scotland (Reuters)—British today was just wild about Arnie Palmer.

The 32-year-old Latrobe, Pa., stronger set out records and equalled another Friday in winning the British open golf championship for a second successive year, and from the look of things, the British golfing public would gladly give him the Tower of London along with it.

Palmer had to battle through worshipful throngs estimated at more than 20,000 on his Scottish seaside course to win the open by a two-stroke margin from Australia's Kel Nagle, the man who beat him by one stroke in the 1960 Open.

It was probably the greatest crowd ever seen on a British course, and Palmer's 71-69-67-69—276 on the par-72 course is Old Troon's most magnificent most mass' display of golf ever seen in the country that invented the game.

SETS ALL-TIME MARK

Palmer's total for the 72 holes was an all-time record for the event and his third round 67 a competitive course record. In addition, his six-stroke margin over Nagle tied the record set by the great Walter Hagen back in 1929.

The British never have forgotten Hagen and it seems they will never forget Palmer, even if he doesn't return to defend his title next year.

On the sports pages of Britain's newspapers all the stops were pulled out to describe Palmer's triumph, and the stories were as much a tribute to his personality as his golf.

The London Times' golf correspondent penned a message of decorum by referring to the champion as "A. Palmer," but went on to say that he was "must stand comparison with the best of any era," and called his achievement "a great sporting occasion on a scale that is seldom achieved in golf."

In The Guardian, Pat Ward-Thomas said "Palmer's personal question could rank with (Ben) Hogan as the supreme golfer of this generation and is quite alone in the world today."

And "for all the sum of his misfit achievements in titles and money," The Guardian said, "Palmer remains a delightful, friendly human being who commands respect and affection."

In The Daily Mail, the headline read "King Palmer the Great."

TIE FOR THIRD

Behind Nagle came 24-year-old Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., in a tie for third with five-foot, two-inch Brian Huggett of England at 280.

Rodgers' performance in his first visit to Britain and his first tournament with the small British ball while him a force to be reckoned with in the future.

Bob Charles of New Zealand was fifth with 290 and veteran Christy O'Connor, Jr., head of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., tied for sixth at 292 with four-time winner Peter Thomson of Australia.

Palmer started the day two strokes up on the Australian but Nagle birdied the first two holes and they were all square. The tie seemed to be just the tonic Palmer needed and he clicked off six birdies in his morning round.

Screaming jet planes from the nearby Prestwick Airport, dismal trains and the thoroughly undisciplined crowd of spectators did not faze Palmer's play, although he often asked the fans to be quiet, as did Nagle.

"I don't think I've ever experienced any crowds like this one today," Palmer said. "We had to wrestle with them all the way."

The crowds clearly expected Palmer to win from the start.

The bookmakers did, too. They established him a 2-to-1 favorite, cut him to even money after two rounds and refused even take a bet on him before the final round started.

The odds were quoted even though Palmer started with an eight-shot back. He wore under underwear to keep his back warm. It obviously loosened up without trouble.

Palmer's first prize money amounted today to $3,500 but the tournament is worth far more in prestige and advertising endorsements. Nagle's finish was worth $2,500 and Rodgers and Huggett pocketed $1,666 each.

Jets Trim Suns Twice, Leafs Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's nothing like a triple play to get a pitcher out of a jam. And perhaps there's nothing worse than the first baseman drops the ball to spoil it.

That's what happened to pitcher Ken Lehman of Jacksonville Suns of the International League Friday night.

In the first inning of the first game of a doubleheader, Lehman found himself in a quick jam, with Columbus Jets on first and second and nobody out.

Bob Bailey then lined to shortstop Tony Martinez who tossed to second baseman Larry Brown for the second out. Brown's flip to first baseman Ray Barker had the second runner out for 30 feet.

Barker dropped the ball. Back in the soup, Lehman served a home run to catcher Orlando Martinez and three more runs were enough as the Jets won, 4-3.

WINS PROMOTION

Tommie Sisk, a 20-year-old sinker specialist, pitched the win, and then learned he had been recalled by the parent Philadelphia Phillies.

The Jets swept the doubleheader, and cut the Suns' league lead to eight games, as two homers by Johnny Powers helped Tom Parsons to a 3-2 victory in the nightcap.

Runs were scarce throughout the league. Buffalo and Toronto battled for 12 innings before a homer by Wally Shannon won it for the Bisons, 1-0. The Leafs took the opener of the twin bill 6-2.

In a doubleheader, Rochester Red Wings spoiled Johnny Vander Meer's inaugural as a Bull with Syracuse Chiefs by scoring four times in the eighth inning for a 7-3 first-game victory but the Chiefs got a split with a 3-0 win in the second.

Wins No. 16, Giants Lose

Drysdale Eyes 30-Games Season

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

At 25 Don Drysdale is by far the youngest major leaguer involved in a race with time.

For Warren Spahn, Stan Musial and Early Wynn, all past the 40-year mark, the struggle with time involves the question of how many seasons may be left in their aging frames.

But for the tall Los Angeles Dodger right - hander the question centres around days and weeks. Are there enough games left in the season for him to become the first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean posted a 30-win mark in 1934?

Drysdale, who has never won 20, won 15 victories after beating New York Mets 5-4 Friday night and is making a determined try at becoming only the second National Leaguer to win 30 since Grover Cleveland Alexander in 1917.

With 11 weeks remaining and the Dodgers 71 games from the end of the regular NL schedule, big Don can expect about 20 more starts for the Dodger mum. To hit the magic mark, he must win 14. Figuring a couple of games in which he does not get the decision, and that leaves 18 to the close.

FAIRLY BREAKS IT UP

The swift, strong right hander has been a big winner since the benefit of Ron Fairly's ninth inning 7th-breaking homer off Al Jackson of the Mets, pushing his record to 16-4 with 13 complete games in the 20 starts.

The victory enabled the Dodgers to expand their National League lead to five games over the second - place San Francisco Giants who won 6-2 over Philadelphia Phillies and rookie Dennis Bennett in 10 innings.

It's been longer since a pitcher won 30 games than it has since a batter batted .400, a feat last accomplished by Ted Williams in 1941.

Chief characters of the magic mark since Dean's 30 have been Dizzy Dean (24-12) in 1935, Bucky Walters (27-11) of Cincinnati in 1939, Bob Feller of Cleveland in 1946, Allie Reynolds (29-9) and Dizzy Trout (27-6), both of Detroit in 1944, Robin Roberts (28-7) of Philadelphia in 1953 and Don Newcombe of Brooklyn in 1956.

COMES FROM BEHIND

Drysdale got into a 3-0 hole in the first inning when the Mets' Felix Mata hit a 1-1 pitch homer with two mates aboard, but the Dodgers tied it in the third, then went ahead with the Mets in the fifth and won it on Fairly's blast in the Dodger ninth:

Bennett, a 22-year-old rookie left-hander, threw a five-hitter as the Phillies knocked San Francisco Giants' ace off the pace. He suffered his only damage on Tony Taylor's homer in the fifth and three ninth - inning singles.

Milwaukee (8-2) allowed only a clean single to Don Blasingame in the ninth as his one-hit masterpiece against Cincinnati. The young Cub right-hander gave up only one walk and struck out four in beating Reds ace Bob Purkey (18-3) on an unearned run in the sixth.

Pittsburgh turned in four double plays in handing Houston Friend (9-9), who gave up eight hits in his well-supported shutout of Houston.

St. Louis right - hander Bob Gibson, who had defeated Milwaukee only twice in 10 lifetime decisions, tossed a three-hitter against the Braves in running his season record to 11-6. A three - run triple by Charlie James and Gene Oliver's homer provided all the support he needed.

It Is All In Your Head Says Wife

TROON, Scotland (AP)—A tip from his wife, Winnie, cured Arnold Palmer's putting troubles and sent him to a record victory in the British open golf championship.

Just before Palmer went out for his final rounds Friday, his pretty brunette wife said:

"Arnie, did you know—you are moving your head when you putt?"

"I am!" Arnold said.

"Yes, you are," repiied Winnie.

Palmer decided to hold his head steadier. Then he went out and shot a record rounds of 67-69 for 276 to win his second British Open by six strokes. It was the lowest score ever made in the 102-year-old tournament.

Palmer told of his wife's valuable advice after accepting the trophy later.

"Suddenly my putting came back to me," he said. "I haven't had it for six weeks and I did not understand why. On my record 67 this morning I had nine one — putt greens. I never played so well in my whole life."

"Let's hope it stays with me for the U.S. PGA championship in Philadelphia."

Had 'Sweet Daddy' Soured

'Thirteenth' Beats Kleen

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

There were no Friday the Thirteenth jinx or gremlins hanging around for "Sweet Daddy" Sikl the Beatnik Beautiful out of Greenwich Village last night.

But black cats and spilled salt-shakers will be given a wide berth by "Mr. Kleen" the husky mat Hercules whom Dame Luck "done wrong" in Memorial Arena.

Any bad luck that was evident was packaged in one lump and it fell without warning on the unsuspecting shoulders of "Mr. Kleen" in the third fall of the main bout.

There wasn't a man, chick or child in the house who wouldn't have predicted victory for "Sweet Daddy". In fact the blonde-haired Jamaican was already ready to toss in the sponge as it was.

"Mr. Kleen" who was forced to say "uncle" in the first fall after Sikl had clamped his patented "Beatnik Backbreaker" on him after nine minutes of mauling, reversed the decision in the second bout.

And he did it in short, precise order. "Sweet Daddy" never had a chance when the referee Bert Clow — put him into action. He handed out everything his disrespectful "Beatnik" self had "Daddy" practically begging for mercy.

He ended the "agony" and the fall when he twisted the colored blonde aloft with his crowned back-breaker and that was it as far as Sikl was concerned.

In fact he appeared so—be dizzy, dazed and somewhat dopey when the gong clanged for the third fall.

And "Mr. Kleen" picked up where he left off in the second fall. He flipped, flopped and flung "Sweet Daddy" in the corners and out of them.

Then it happened.

Mr. Kleen brought "Daddy" off the ropes with an overhead heave but somehow "Daddy" fell backward and on top of "Kleen". He stayed there long enough for Referee Billy Stack to toll the victory rounds on.

And the "Friday 13th" had been laid out for Miss Beatnik and a popular newcomer from "Newfie" Eric Pomeroy.

Sikl hadn't liked the tactics Bob and Stan and had the best of the going by a long way, even if a third uninvited partner one Tommy O'Toole helped him out.

It was a busy bout with Marcelic and Pomeroy having the upper hand until the "Newfie" trying to subdue Stan with a series of flying kicks, missed by a foot and was promptly tagged for the fall.

Expect World Record

Kidd, Tulloh Meet Today

LONDON (CP) — A floppy-armed Canadian schoolboy and a bareboot British botanist meet for the first time today in the British track and field championships at White City Stadium.

Track experts predict a world record may come out of the meeting between the two distance stars, Bruce Kidd and Bruce Tulloh, in the three-mile event.

Kidd, 18-year-old Toronto athlete who has dominated North American distance running, and Tulloh, a 28 - year - old from Portsmouth who discarded his track shoes long ago, will have a strong field pacing to act as pacemakers.

The track experts figure either Kidd or Tulloh could get around the 12 laps in under 13 minutes, 10 seconds. The world record set last year by Murray Halberg of New Zealand.

Kidd, 18 is still a schoolboy.

A wisp of a fellow, he's easily spotted in a lineup because at only five feet, seven inches and 130 pounds he's practically dwarfed by the other runners.

Kidd is not much more robust and is an inch taller, Both Bruces have much in common. Their tastes are of an intellectual nature.

U.S. Wins Singles

Cup Team On The Ropes

CLEVELAND (CP) — Canada's Davis Cup team was on the ropes going into today's doubles event against the United States in the first round of the American Zone tennis competition.

The U.S. team grabbed a commanding 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series Friday when singles wins over Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que., and Captain Gene Scott of Montana of Toronto, A U.S. win today would wrap up the series.

The first singles Friday went four sets, Godbout losing to Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., and Pontana to Jon Douglas, a former Stanford University star quartered by McKinley won 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 while the Douglas-Pontana sets went 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

Kidd himself takes his studies at the University of Toronto seriously.

Four Classes In Harness Meet

"ATOMIC SELKA" AND DRIVER DON HEATH

Thirty-two horses, the best in the district, will go to the post in the Scouts Driving Club's harness meet tonight.

Four classes with eight entries each form the largest card ever offered in a Fair Grounds race attraction.

Practically all the well known horses, who have raced here this season will be on hand. So will several newcomers.

Post time is eight o'clock. The popular pari-mutuels will be available.

The track is in excellent shape and club officials anticipate the largest crowd of the season.

Hunter Safety Course

A couple of local gun enthusiasts, licensed by the Department of Lands and Forests for the job, are offering a hunter safety course for any interested persons.

Gary Cranston and George Woodhouse are the two behind the project. Both have been license hunters for years. Anyone wishing to take the course is invited to get in touch with either of the men.

Cranston, an active member of the Quinte Trap and Gun Club, where he keeps his own shooting eye trained, outlined plans for the course yesterday.

"This project proved to be a very popular one last summer," he said, "when over 100 persons successfully passed the tests and were then able to buy a hunting license."

"A lot of people don't realize that any person buying a hunting license for the first time, as well as young fellows 15 years of age, must pass one of these hunter safety courses before they can buy license," he added.

The course being handled by Woodhouse and Cranston is a very detailed one. It offers information on many different types of guns, their limits, hunter-farmer relationships, safety rules, the proper handling of guns and ammunition and a number of other informative facts designed to acquaint the beginner with safe handling of firearms.

Lightfoots Clobber Pepsi's

Lightfoot Construction tightened its grip on the top spot in the all league's second spot last night by whipping the Pepsi's 16-3 at CNRA Park.

Jim Jones tamed the Pepsi's batters on three hits over the seven-inning distance to get the win. He struck out two and kept himself in constant hot water by walking 13.

Jones' mates gave him plenty of working margin with four runs in the first, two in the second and three in the top of the fourth before Pepsi's got two in their half of the fourth. Lightfoots wrapped it up with seven in the fifth.

Ted Young gave up 15 runs and nine of the winners' 13 hits before giving way to Joe Harvey in the fifth. Young fanned one and passed six.

Rusty Garvin and Chuck Bowbotham sparked the Lightfoot attack with three hits apiece. Vern Lynch collected the safeties with one apiece for Don Smith, Doug Moreau, Jack Canning and Jack Caddick.

Bamber, Dever and Perumbo shared the Pepsi's hits.

Eight Points Separate Top Three

Angels Drub Yankees, Indians Lose

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League spotlight focused today on three rings.

In the main arena were the top three pennant contenders—New York's world champion Yankees, Cleveland's runner-up Indians and Los Angeles' surprising Angels — separated by only eight percentage points.

Arrayed on either side were Charley Lau and Lu Clinton, two unlikely candidates who came up with outstanding individual performances Friday night while the men in the middle were battling for first place.

The third - place Angels knocked off the league - leading Yanks 5-2 for the second night in a row, moving within eight points of first place with a victory. The Indians, beaten by Baltimore Orioles and Lau 10-3, remained second, three points behind.

Lau, the Orioles' reserve catcher, tied a major league record by stroking four doubles. And Clinton, often a Boston whipping-boy, became the first American League slugger since 1960 to hit for the cycle—single, double, triple and home run—in the second single knocked in the winning run in a 11-10, 15-inning marathon with Kansas City Athletics.

PASCUAL WINS 12th

Standout pitching shows were put on at Minnesota, where the Twins' Camilo Pascual became the top winner in the league with 12 triumphs by blanking Washington Senators 4 - 0 on four hits, and at Chicago, where White Sox hurler Ray Herbert stopped Detroit Tigers 4-1 with a three-hitter.

Leon Wagner's 26th homer—tops in the majors — and Lee Thomas' grand slam in the third inning that drove in the decisive runs were the key blows for the Angels against Jerry Lebeter, a reliever, who was making his first start of the season. McNertney (9-3) went the distance for the victory, before a crowd of 53,561 at Dodger Stadium opened this season.

Lau doubled home the Orioles' first run in the second and then started a three-run rally in the fourth against the Indians. The Baltimore hitters then went over with John Powell hitting a two-run blast in the seventh and Brooks Robinson clanging a a three-run shot in the eighth. Jim Gentile's stark gave Hank Barber (7-6) the victory over Jim Perry.

CLINTON STATS HOT

Clinton, hitting .256 with 30-for-54 in the last 13 games including a 9-for-13 run of four doubles and three triples plus his 12 RBI, fired his first hit in the 15th with an infield single that set the fourth run batted in. That gave the triumph to Dick Radatz (4-4) and tagged Ed Rakow (6-3) with the loss. Norm Siebern and Ed Charles homered for the Athletics.

Pascual (13-5) struck out 10 while going the route for the 12th time in recording the fourth shutout. Tom Cheney (7-11) started for the Senators and was touched for a run in the first, Marty Kutyna took over for eighth and served a two-run homer to Harmon Killebrew.

Herbert (9-5) allowed only one hit for eight innings—a triple by Mike Hershberger that scored in the lone Tiger run when Billy Bruton hit a sacrifice fly. Jim Landis scored the first White Sox run and drove in the clincher in the second with a single off Paul Toyteak (7-4). Lolo Aparicio's homer accounted for the other runs.

TO DEFEND TITLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Italy's Duilio Loi will defend his world junior welterweight champion title against Eddie Perkins of Chicago in Milan, Sept. 6, international boxing agent Dewey Griffiths said Friday. The return had been postponed from July 3.

Weslock Meets Brownlee

Sue Hilton, London Wins Ladies Golf Crown

Ont. Amateur Semis

TORONTO (CP) — Defending champion Nick Weslock, 20, reached the semi-finals of the Ontario amateur golf champion-ship only by the skin of his teeth, today faced formidable opposition in his bid to retain the title.

The 64 - year - old Toronto Mississauga golfer was to meet Phil Brownlee of Toronto Scarboro in one of two semi-final encounters, in the other, Canadian amateur champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener was to face Bill Gardner of Pine Valley.

Brownlee was easily the best of the quarter - final players, routing Bob Lamoreux of Peterborough 9 and 8 for the most emphatic win of the tournament. He beat Brian Wilcox of Thornhill 3 and 4 in the third round Friday.

Weslock squeaked into the semi-finals with a 1-up victory over Lou Mosher of Toronto Bayview after the 4-and-3 win over George Revesz of Par-a-dise morning play.

Brownlee, 31, suggested after a so-so performance in the first day of play that his game was due for rapid improvement. Fri. day he elaborated.

"My putter is working again," he said. "I don't feel like a pillar any more."

Brownlee said he wasn't worried at the prospect of meeting Weslock.

Cowan, a pre-tournament favorite with Weslock, also had tough sledding in the quarter-finals. He needed 19 holes to edge Doug Roche of Trafalgar after trimming Harold Barnett of Toronto Summit 6 and 5 in morning play.

Cowan was even with Burton Cummings on the 18th hole and sank a four-foot putt for a par four and Bruton dropped a 10-footer to force play to an extra hole.

On the 19th, Cowan was on in two and Bruton put his second shot over the green. Bruton chipped 15 feet short of the cup and missed the putt, while Cowan sank his for the win.

Gardner defeated Ernie Bentley of Weston 1 up and continued in the afternoon with a 3-and-2 win over Jef McGrath of Oshawa.

TAKES OVER LEAD

LYON, France (AP)—Jacques Anquetil of France moved into a commanding lead in the 22 day Tour de France Friday by finishing 65 kilometres (40 miles) in one hour, 33 minutes and 35 seconds to win the 20th leg of the endurance race for professional cyclists. Anquetil's dash from Bourgoin to Lyon gave him the yellow sweater of the tour's overall leader and established him as an impressive favorite to hold back the pack in the final two-day dash to the finish line in Paris.

Stardom Runs in Hilton Family

Miss Suzanne Hilton, who Friday equalled a golf record by winning both the Junior Ladies and the Ontario Ladies golf championships in one year, is the daughter of a former football star from Belleville, it was learned this morning.

Miss Hilton, a student of the University of Western Ontario, is the daughter of Wally Hilton who starred with the BCIYC football squad and later with the Western Mustangs.

Wally Hilton is well remembered in this area for his great play with BCIYC teams and with the Mustangs, especially in the punting department.

Suzanne, keeping the Hilton name in the sports-spotlight with her outstanding ability, is the first to capture both the Junior and Open women's titles in Ontario since Marlene Stewart turned trick in 1961.

TORONTO (CP)—Sue Hilton, an 18-year-old blonde from London, Ont., made her hard-hitting game pay off as she won the Ontario ladies' annual golf championship.

"I've always played an aggressive game," she commented Friday after becoming the first player since 1961 to win the junior and ladies' titles in the same year.

And for 72 holes of golf against Mrs. Mary Jane McCarter of Toronto, Miss Hilton showed just how tough she can be. She pounded out long drives, made accurate use of her irons on long shots and hit the greens in regulation figures in scoring an 8 and 7 victory in the scheduled 36-hole final.

Belting 200- and 220 - yard drives from the tee, Miss Hilton carried four birdies, all on par-five holes, as she went 5 up over the 6,001 - yard par-75 course in the morning round. She scored a 79 compared to Mrs. McCarter's 84 - in that round.

Final rounds were also played in the other flights. Results included:

FIRST flight — Mrs. W. McNiven, Hamilton Oneida, defeated Mrs. T. Lambrick, Cou-chiching, 2 and 1.

Sixth flight—Mrs. B. Ingram, Bay of Quinte, defeated Mrs. Vi Seeder, Hamilton Chedoke, 5 and 3.

PICK COACHES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Coaches and officials for the Canada's swim teams in the British Empire and Pan American Games were named Friday by the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association. Eli Hanley of Montreal was chosen coach of the 1962 swimming contingent. Jim Wood of Toronto was chosen manager. George Gates of Nelson Falls, B.C. was named coach of the Pan-American team. Jack Kelly of Vancouver will be manager.

Yesterday's Stars

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching—Al Koonce, Cubs, allowed only one hit—an Ron Hunt ingame's fourth losing singlewinning his fourth straight game in Chicago's 1-0 victory over Cincinnati Reds.

Batting — Charley Lau, Orioles, and Lu Clinton, Red Sox. Lau tied major league record by hitting four doubles in Baltimore's 10-3 triumph over Cleveland Indians. Clinton became the first American Leaguer since 1960 to hit for the cycle—single, double, triple and homer—before slamming home winning run in Boston's 12-10, 15-inning victory over Kansas City Athletics.

Swim Records Broken

Sara Barber Comes Back

By JIM PRACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sara Barber of Stratford, Ont., has given the "aged" in swimming new hope.

The 31-year-old backstroker, out of training since the 1960 Rome Olympic Games, made her comeback attempt at least a partial success Friday when she won the 110-yard backstroke title in record - breaking time at the national swimming and diving championships.

Her feat was one of several highlights Friday as the Championships, from which a 16-member team will be selected for the November British Empire Games in Perth, Australia, moved - toward today's climax.

Among the others were seven record - breaking performances, two near - records and one tie and the upset victory — unofficial until later today — of a young diver in the men's three-metre springboard.

Miss Barber, an old woman in swimming these days, established a Canadian record of 1:13.4 in the 110-yard backstroke Friday, coming from behind in the last 15 yards to edge Vancouver's 16 - year - old Mary Stewart.

BREAKS OWN RECORD

Her time clipped half a second off the Canadian mark she had set earlier this year after resuming training in an attempt to earn a berth on the Empire Games team, to be named late today.

It surprised even Sara, who already has represented Canada in seven international competitions.

"Boy, was I worried," she said, climbing from the pool. "All I could see going out were Mary's feet."

Tom Dinsley, 21, of Vancouver, runner - up in the diving championships for the past two years, was just as excited when he learned unofficially that he'd beaten Ottawa Olympic veteran of Kitchener, Ont., in the springboard diving.

He gambled, using three dives more difficult than those selected by Seidemann in the three - metre final, and won by carrying them off well enough to maintain the narrow margin he held after the seven preliminary dives.

THREE DIVE TODAY

The result was not official because three Saskatoon divers — arriving late they weren't advised of a scheduled change — were to dive in the event today. But none of the three — Lawrence Hrnik, Larry Jensen and Ross Hetherington — was given any chance of catching the leaders.

The women's three - metre final was won by Judy Stewart of Toronto.

Four individual records and two team records were broken in addition to that set by Miss Barber.

Tom Veith, 23, of Toronto clipped the record in the men's free-style record with a time of 2:25.3. The old record was 2:43.6.

Steve Rabinovitch, 20 of Montreal lowered his own Canadian mark in the 220-yard breaststroke, winning in 2:44.4, well below the previous 2:52.3.

Patty Thompson, 16, of Hamilton, established a record of 5:09.7 in the women's 440-yard freestyle, where the old mark was 5:11.0.

BEATS OLD MARK

Aldy Reichenbach, 18, of Vancouver, set a Canadian record of 1:03.9 in the men's 110-yard butterfly, bettering the old mark of 1:05.4. But he finished second in the final to Chuck Richards of Tacoma, Wash., whose 1:03.3 stands as a Canadian record.

The men's and women's 440-yard club medley relay records both fell, the men's to the Ocean Falls, B.C. Swim Club in 4:34.1 set in the heats, and the women's to Vancouver's Canadian Dolphin Swim Club "A" team in 5:04.4. Previous marks were 4:46.1 and 5:30.9, respectively.

Miss Stewart, whose 1:09.0 in the 110-yard butterfly is the world's record, was within a second of that time in the heats of the event Friday, but she slowed up in the final and placed second in 1:10.4.

She was up to Rome Kosko Griffith to whip a man and a memory and he did it.

So today 23-year-old Emile is still the welterweight champion of the world.

The men he whipped was Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, the No. 1 contender. The decision Friday night was unanimous but Dupas was a lot tougher and more aggressive than most people expected.

The memory was Griffith's fight March 24 with Benny (Kid) Paret. The Cuban Kid was pattered into submission in 12 rounds and died 10 days later.

One thing was sure. The 26-year-old Dupas, known for his hit - and - run tactics, switched form and kept Griffith fully occupied for the full 15 rounds.

The crowd of 5,169 in the Las Vegas Convention centre was in an uproar of excitement for the full minutes of the action.

EXPERIENCE TOLD

There was much clinching and mauling but Griffith was the busy man, but still Dupas with his experience, kept coming back and the ever-present threat of a knockout by Griffith, made it a tight fight.

The fans really had to wait until the 13th round for the highlight. Griffin connected with a hard right to the jaw that hurt Dupas. He followed it up with lefts and rights as Dupas wobbled back, slipping eventually out of knockout range.

Emile was never able to land the knockout punch.

"I wasn't out but I knew I was hit," Dupas said later.

Dupas was very much in the fight and even close to the title until the last round when he slugged toe-toe with Griffith but could never really hurt him. And then Emile came on strong in the closing rounds to wrap it up.

Dupas thought he won the fight, but he followed it up with a plaint from his manager, Angelo Dundee.

"I feel I boxed a very good fighter," Griffith said.

Griffith said that recently a friend from New Orleans telephoned and warned that Dupas would be in with a 10-second flurry of punching in each round.

"It came true just as he said," Griffith observed.

Dupas did seem to land his best shots right at the bell, notably in the fourth, sixth and eighth rounds.

Dupas noted that Griffith was hurt when he marked in the fight. The champion had slight trouble in the right eye and in the middle of the forehead. Neither was serious and the doctor, Felicino claimed both were inflicted by butts.

Still Welter Champion

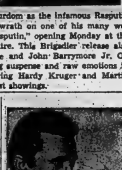
TICATS MAKE CUTS

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger Cats coach Jim Trimble Friday night narrowed his field of rookie imports to seven by releasing five and placing one on the injured reserve list.



Trimble dropped end Rudy Sohmitto, Tennessee Tech; guard Bob Gary, Florida, and RB and QB Tom Decker, Cortland State; back Charles Lotson, Temple; Chuck Martinez, Binghamton, Mich.; and Canadian Wales Gord Martin, Paul Hogan, Steve Hrnbl, Rene Riopelle, Gary Kaar, Jim Young and Chuck Martin.

Guard Jim Palmer, who suffered a broken ankle in the intrasquad game Wednesday, is on the reserve list.

AT THE PARK — Edmund Purdom as the infamous Rasputin focuses his attention and wrath on one of his many women in "The Nights of Rasputin," opening Monday at the air conditioned Park Theatre. The Brigadier release also stars Gianna Maria Canale and John Barrymore Jr. On the same program, thrilling suspense and raw emotions in "Cry Double Cross," starring Hardy Kruger and Martin Held. Both features are first showings.

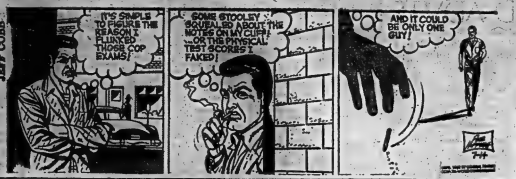
ALL NEW TRUE STORY OF RASPUTIN OPEN MONDAY
The authentic, extraordinary story of Rasputin, the religious fanatic who changed the course of history will be seen here beginning Monday at the air conditioned Park Theatre when Brigadier Film's "The Nights of Rasputin" has its local premiere. Starring Edmund Purdom in the title role and co-starring John Barrymore Jr. in the role played by his famous father. "The Nights of Rasputin" tells the fantastic story of a religious charlatan who preacher a gospel of salvation through sin. Lustful and wild, reckless and unscrupulous, Rasputin was probably the most unbelievable figure ever to cross the pages of history. Also appearing in the lovely Gianna Maria Canale in the role of the Empress.



On the same program, thrilling suspense and raw emotions in "Cry Double Cross" starring Hardy Kruger.

Astrological Forecast

For July 15
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Excellent for trying out new ideas, experiments in conversations with friends, loved ones; spiritual adviser. You sound "alive" today. Let family and friends benefit from this resurgence!

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Favorable lunar aspect to your sign, meaning you can "charm" the public. Best for presenting views to persons who can mean much to your future. No time for going into "shell."

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Emotional reward indicated if you look around you and see yourself, loved ones in true light. This is day for reflection. Dig deep within for answer to perplexing problem.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Cycle has been higher. Means today you would be wise to consider and re-consider. Plan for future, but check legal details. Plant "seeds" which reward if you attend their needs.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): What you do in time of crisis is of extreme importance. Today an associate may ask your advice. You best answer would come straight from the shoulder.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Emphasis on self-expression, change variety, romance.. No time to be buried in details or gloom. Get out and around, and stress communication. Full steam ahead!

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You gain most from reading, listening and exchanging views with members of opposite sex. No time for taking "superior attitude." Schemes which seem "funny" could prove workable.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Good for family outing, club, church or club affair. Excellent for short journey, dealings with relatives. Keep sense of humor and "self" will keep you out of difficulty!

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You may feel powerless in connection with finances, but this is temporary. Gather your forces and forts. Avoid frustration due to inactivity. Perfect procedures.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Cycle up, but you must avoid stepping into "foreign" territory. Stay within your own field if dispute should arise. Trust your intuition. Refuse to be "talked into" anything.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Don't look too far afield. What you seek is closer at hand than you might imagine. Individual thinking stressed. You may have answer in "back of your mind."

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): What you can do for others is stressed. Lunar cycle emphasizes friends, their needs and hopes. You serve yourself today by accommodating others. Be generous!

If today is your birthday . . . some of the "fun" and pleasure you have sought materializes next month. Attend to details now so you will be in better position to relax.

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Sagittarius, Capricorn, Aquarius. Stress on somber news in connection with individual and national responsibilities.

For July 16
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): May be some opposition between personal ambition and needs of family member. Diplomacy is key. Compromise and avoid emotional turbulence. Keep eyes and ears open.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Favorable lunar aspect today indicates long-range plans are closer to fulfillment. Good for journeys, including journeys of the mind. Pull yourself out of "rut." Avoid nagging, brooding, gloominess.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Money matters must be considered, but quality should not be sacrificed. This includes the "quality" of your taste, desires. Do not "give in" merely for sake of security.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): What you do today may affect future for short journey, dealings. Knowing this, proceed with caution. Refuse to be "manipulated." Take time to make the right decision.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Person who attempts to "bait" you could be in for surprise. Your best course is one based on consideration. Good for visiting those less fortunate. You will reap rewards, too.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Way of achieving most is your own way. Not time for changing course. Others may mean well, but you must base action on personal statistics, investigations. Open heart to romance!

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Make up your mind where you want to be, what you want to do. Indecision today could be costly. Temptation is to attempt to be in more than one place at a time. Be sensible.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): Member of opposite sex could help you over trying time. Excellent for an evening out, vacation activity, dining at a new restaurant. Also good for reading, writing, reflecting.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Change, travel highlighted. Money matters are to be considered, but should not be allowed to restrict you. Use imagination to find ways and means. By all means, seek adventure!

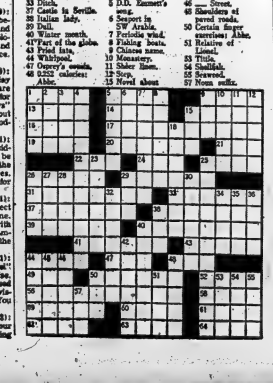
Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Cycle remains up, but tendency to make many decisions could create tension. Check with authorities before signing papers, contracts. A little caution could pay off in your favor!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Like Taurus, much of what you seek is close at hand, if you can avoid trap of making mountain out of molehill. Think clearly, not through imaginary trouble clouds.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Yes, friends do make promises, some of which are never kept. But this should not cause you to "carry grudge." Be willing to forgive and forget. You'll be happier, and so will they!

* * *

If today is your birthday . . . year emphasized by romance with a member of opposite sex; also by change, travel and opportunity for advancement. Are you moving with this exciting cycle? If not, check mental attitude.



* * *

General Tendencies: Conflict between reason and emotion indicated.

Aussie Tops Detroit Tourney

DETROIT (AP) — Bruce Crampton, who credits class living for his stamina, seized the second-round lead of the $35,000 Motor City Open with a sizzling 11-under-par total of 131.

The 25-year-old Australian, a pro golf player's complaint on the grueling PGA tour only 21 weeks this year, fired a 65 Friday to climb his first-round 66. He had a one-stroke lead over Sam Snead.

Bill Casper Jr. and Don Massengale followed at 133 and Gay Brewer Jr. and Charlie Sifford had 136.

Pete Cooper, the first-round leader with a 65 Thursday, ballooned to a 72 for a 36-hole total of 137.

Al Balding of Toronto added a 71 to his first-round 69 for a total of 140.

Montreal's Al Johnston wound up with a total of 145 with a 73 Friday, Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., was another stroke down at 146 with a 72 Friday.

Claire Cuts Down Rider Camp

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank Clair, coach of the Eastern Conference Ottawa Rough Riders, trimmed the football club's training camp squad by one more on Friday by dropping 10 American imports and one Canadian.

The Canadian was halfback Tom Newton who played with the Windsor Junior league team last year.

Other players eliminated were: Hal Dukes, an import formerly with Toronto Argonauts; Bob Blue, from Texas A and M; Bob Lemon from Ohio State University; Les Byrd from Drake University; Ray Sine from Central Michigan University; Jack Anderson, formerly in U.S. service football; Bob Gaunt, from Valparaiso University; Clyde Scarbrough from Hillsdale College; Burl Holmes, from West Virginia State College; and Richard Michel from Arizona State College.

Stephens Throws 4 TD Passes

MONTREAL (CP) — Quarter back Sandy Stephens from Minnesota Gophers, Montreal's prize offering each, threw four touchdown passes Friday night in leading the whites to a 27-14 win over the reds in an Alouettes intra-squad game before 5,500 fans. It was the first Montreal appearance of the Eastern Football Conference All-Star this year.

Don Clark caught two—one on a play covering 65 yards—from Dick Cobee and newcomer Jim McKinstry hauled down the others.

Stephens bit on nine of 16 passes attempted for 141 yards and ran the ball himself six times for 36 yards. He also booted three converts.

For the reds Gerry Thompkins passed for one touchdown to Howie Cissell and carried over himself from four yards out for another. Bob Ptacek converted by Bobby Jack Oliver.

Martin Lyle, a halfback from Aylmer, Ont., averaged 45.3 yards on seven punts for the reds.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

When Canadian sports fans are getting hepped up about this year's Grey Cup football final in Toronto, four youngsters will make their annual early warmup suits in a West Australian town 12,000 miles away for their races of the year.

If they win — and some folks say their chances are fairly good — the pre-Cup celebrations should be drowned out by the popping of bottles of champagne sports followers across Canada. Canada has been an always-in international track and field medal winner since Miss Fraser in the 1928 Olympics. The Australian was supposed to be over the hill at that time but she showed the world.

WON GOLD MEDALS

In the 1938 B.E. Games at Cardiff Wales, Miss Fraser established with two gold medals—in the 100-yard freestyle and as a member of the Australian 440-yard freestyle relay—and two second-place bronze medals, she was beaten out by team-mate Lorraine Crapp in the 440-yard freestyle and was a member of Australia's 440-yard medley relay team that lost to England.

Another personal duel is shaping up between Kidd and 28-year - old Murray Halbert of New Zealand, considered the most versatile runner in the world. They've split two meets this year in North America and the rubber match is set for Perth.

Halberg, a reformed miler who covered the distance once in 3.57.3, is the B.E. Games champion over three miles. He'll defend his title and in the field will be Kidd. He also has the 5,000 metres in the 1960 Olympics and, over the years, has been New Zealand champ at distances from one mile to the marathon.

He knows all the tricks of the trade, learned in world competition since 1951. On top of this, he's at an age where distance runners hit their peak.

Her personal target at Perth probably will be five - foot - one-inch Miss Stewart, a frolicsome 19-year-old who trained out the Australian's world mark in the 110 - yard butterfly. There's little doubt these two will meet in Perth, and it should be a dandy.

The Canadian girl has been improving at a remarkable rate since she finished sixth in the 100-metre freestyle behind gold-medal winner Miss Fraser in the 1950 Olympics. The Australian was supposed to be over the hill at that time but she showed the world.

BAN-BOMB

banners protested against both American and Soviet nuclear tests.

"I agree," the young man said—and a tall Russian in a beret immediately began discussing the issue with him.

By this time several hundred Russians were gathered around the Westerners in animated linguistics. RCC photographer Frank Bourboltzer tried to film the scene but was interrupted by "simple Soviet citizens."

The banners read in English and Russian: "We condemn Anglo-American tests." "We demand no more Russian tests" and "All people act against all tests."

Ronald Sampson of Britain, surrounded by a group of Russians, gestured toward a stocky Russian in a brown suit and said: "This great boy by her answer . . . I claim the right to protest against tests everywhere."

A Russian seemed in a black study then retorted: "It is all right for you to demonstrate in your own country but not in this country."

The brown-suited man told Sampson: "We stopped tests a long time ago already."

Niels Mathiesen of Norway interjected: "But fact fall you broke the moratorium."

A middle-aged Russian with a work-lined face put in a word: "Nobody wants war."

Sampson replied: "Nobody wants war in America or England. But the tests go on."

Some of the demonstrators displayed membership badges for the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament and they were eagerly grabbed by Russians standing around.

Russia Accepts U.S. Proposal On Arms Cut

West May Compromise On Test-Ban Controls

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Soviet Union said today it is ready to move toward American proposals for cutting international armaments and for reducing the risk of war.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin told the 17-nation disarmament conference that the Soviet Union also is ready to set up rapid and reliable communications between heads of government and the United Nations secretary - general, as well as agree to an exchange of military missions between states.

Zorin announced the Soviet decisions after Arthur Dean, chief U.S. delegate, had called for some "much - needed and long-overdue realism" by the Soviet Union in the negotiations.

Zorin said his delegation considered it important to accelerate the work of the conference's three-nation sub-committee on a treaty banning nuclear tests. The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union are its members.

MAY MAKE COMPROMISE

Dean indicated Saturday that the West might drop its insistence on inspection of Soviet territory in return for a testban treaty. Zorin said he welcomed apparently that this depended on technical questions and on the Soviet Union's shedding other positions.

Zorin described today's decision as "meeting the position of the Western powers in a number of important questions halfway." He said he hopes the West will "duly appreciate this act of good will" and act speedily to conclude a disarmament treaty.

His proposals included agreeing to the American plan to reduce conventional armaments by 30 per cent in the first stage, but reducing the 30 per cent from the initial levels in the second stage, and to levels necessary for defence, in the third stage.

Dean said the United States is seeking formal or informal sessions of the conference on the question of identifying nuclear explosions from long distance. He said the United States would contribute new scientific data on this question.

Zorin pointed out that the United States and Britain are holding "intensive preparations" on the site preparations" on the site preparations" on the site

Drop From High-Flying Balloon Fatal to Monkeys and Hamsters

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—The United States scientist in return to bush country 60 miles northeast of this city today to recover three capsules dropped from a high-flying research balloon.

The capsules, containing cosmic rays, hamsters, beetles and instruments were to be picked up by helicopter from a spot five miles north of Candle Lake and flown directly to Edmonton.

It was learned that the monkeys and hamsters were dead.

A spokesman for the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which is handling the research program, said that the three capsules, which were tied together, were found Sunday night.

Dr. Webb Haymaker, who heads the research group, said the balloon flight from Goose Bay, Labrador, was "90-per-cent successful."

FLIGHT SETS RECORDS

He said the flight set records for the length and duration of balloon flights carrying animals. The balloon was sent aloft to test cosmic radiation.

Dr. Haymaker followed the balloon in a Cessna 180 Tracker aircraft from its Goose Bay launch point. This aircraft also radioed the balloon to release its payload sent-word of Prince Albert Sunday evening. It became apparent the balloon would not reach the Edmonton area—its intended target—by nightfall.

Dr. Haymaker and his party are to leave here about 8 a.m. CST for the bush and making a helicopter trip from Prince Albert today to recover three capsules dropped from a high-flying research balloon.

'Ca Va' Wins Yacht Club Championship

Fair winds favored district sailors on the Bay of Quinte this past Sunday with brisk sailing and occasional gusts made the event exciting. Eleven boats gathered off Grenadier Island to contest the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club's championship event, which was won handily by Ian Morch aboard his 30-foot sloop Ca Va.

Other contenders for honors in the Freeman Cup race to be held on Lake Ontario in early August.

The course ran from Grenadier's wharf east to the first black buoy at Nigger Harbour, then back to the Redcarville wharf on the south side of the Bay of Quinte and over to the starting point on the north side to complete the triangle. Choppy water was encountered on the western end of the course which made sailing especially exciting and well the most of the centreboard class boats and crews.

Early modifications carried out by "Ca Va" owner over the past few weeks definitely appear to have given the local boat a considerable turn of speed. The boat, about the 4.8-mile course in 1.18.00 to establish a new record for the boat boat section. The boat was crowned by Jack Sills, Arthur Alyea and Jerry Mendelson.

Second was Al Wickerson's "Schooner" with an elapsed time of 1.33.50 and a corrected time of 1.29.45, followed by Airsquall's boat "Blacker" Williams aboard "Astra" with an elapsed time of 1.34.40 and a corrected time of 1.29.43. "Ca Va" had no corrected time, which is handicapping, as she was scratch boat.

An excellent dost was conducted in the O'Day Sailors class of the centreboard boats between George Beggs and Kirk Reid with the latter easily winning the line honors by two seconds ahead with a time of 1.32.00 to Beggs' 1.32.02. Closely challenging was Bowman Burrowe, who crossed the line with a time of 1.22.45.

Bringing up the rear of the class was Steve Forrester (1.25.00) and a Starcraft Club entry (1.21.55).

The other centreboard class featured the club's new Hornberg Class boats. First in class was John Ward with a time of 1.41.00 followed by a closely contested finish for first place between William Finkle (1.51.50) and William Finkle Jr. (1.52.40).

The next set of races will be held next Sunday off the fleet of the Airsquall Club of Trenton will be turning out in force to join with the local club's enthusiasts, for a full afternoon of racing.

Severely Hurt In Car Crash

Murray Kleinsteuber, of R. R. 1, Carrying Place, was severely injured Saturday in a single car motor accident. Mr. Kleinsteuber's car left highway number two, about a mile west of Belleville about 3 p.m.

Provincial police described the car as a total loss. Mr. Kleinsteuber was admitted to Belleville Hospital with his skull fractured, his jaw broken, a broken arm and multiple abrasions. According to hospital authorities, his condition is improving.

Fire Rating Tweed Forest District

"Dry" lightning and blustery pickers accounted for three new wood and grass fires over the weekend.

Nonetheless fires are now being patrolled by rangers, with all being under control.

Tempest and lightning are said responsible for minor blazes in Brougham township.

A young army of berry pickers in the Tweed area and in Kaladar and Sheffield, according to department officials.

He said in the June 58 federal election "the people voted on what I would describe as no uncertain voice. They rejected the former premier of Saskatchewan (T. C. Douglas) and the set he had surrounded him."

Mr. Douglas was defeated in his try for a seat in Parliament in Regina constituency.

PRAY FOR SOLUTION

In Regina, an ecumenical service conducted in the O'Day Sailors' class of the centreboard boats between George Beggs and Kirk Reid with the latter easily winning the line honors by two seconds ahead with a time of 1.32.00 to Beggs' 1.33.05. Closely challenging was Bowman Burrowe, who crossed the line with a time of 1.22.45.

Bringing up the rear of the class was Steve Forrester (1.25.00) and a Starcraft Club entry (1.21.55).

The other centreboard class featured the club's new Hornberg Class boats. First in class was John Ward with a time of 1.41.00 followed by a closely contested finish for first place between William Finkle (1.51.50) and William Finkle Jr. (1.52.40).

The next set of races will be held next Sunday off the fleet of the Airsquall Club of Trenton will be turning out in force to join with the local club's enthusiasts, for a full afternoon of racing.

Brewers' Strike Not Foreseen Says Official

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario brewers and officials of the Brewery Workers Union (CLC) met today at a two-day social to settle differences in a work contract that have dragged on for more than 10 months.

"Negotiations are going smoothly," a company spokesman said today, but he added the union could strike at midnight tonight if it did not break down. A strike was not foreseen, he said.

The 3,100 Ontario members of the Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink, and Distillery Workers of America International at least a five-per-cent across the board pay increase, a 35-hour week and a guaranteed one-year contract.

The companies made a package offer to the union July 7 at the suggestion of a conciliation board, but both sides agreed to disclose on details of the offer to the public.

The company spokesman indicated today the union was satisfied with the offer but said today's meeting was chiefly concerned with ironing out local issues.

The Brewery workers are involved in all aspects of Ontario's beer and ale production from brewing to transportation and distribution.

Their contract ran out last December and negotiations have long been going on since.

The companies said it is likely negotiations would continue past the strike deadline at least a slight tonight even if absolute agreement is not reached.

Trenton Bowler Wins District Singles Title

William Fuller of Trenton won the lawn bowling singles championship in District 16 of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association held at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club on Saturday. He defeated George Ostrosky of Campbellford, 21-16 in the finals.

Mr. Fuller will be back in Belleville on July 28th to take part in the Eastern Ontario district playoff. The winner will represent Eastern Ontario in the provincial championships at Brampton on August 6th.

There were nine entrants for the district championship and the preliminary was won by Gerry Hyde of Belleville over Austin Watkin, also of Belleville, 21-8.

In the first round Howard Jagger of Kingston, defeated Ken Peacock of Trenton, 21-17; William Fuller defeated Ev. Al Boyce of Trenton, 21-19; George Nicholls overwhalmed Jack Coutts of Trenton, 21-3, and Gerry Hyde defeated Harold Buck of Kingston, 21-18.

The semi-final round saw Fuller down Kingston's Howard Jagger, 21-15, before going on to take championship honors by defeating Campbellford's Nicholls, who won his semi-final match by defeating Hyde of Belleville, 21-17.

Churchill Continues On The Mend

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill continued his recuperation during the weekend, Mid. Glesse Hospital sources said today, and will be sent home in the near future if the improvement is maintained.

Most of the day at home, probably at Chartwell, his country house in Kent, the 87-year-old wartime prime minister will be permitted to finish his recuperation on the French Riviera, the informants said.

IN MEMORIAM

LLOYD — In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Nettie Lloyd, who passed away July 17th, 1956.
Sad and sudden was the call,
Death came and took our all,
Left us to mourn and weep,
As in the hour she passed away.
Sadly missed by daughter and family

CAMPBELL — In loving memory of my mother, Mary, who passed away July 16th, 1962.
She is gone but not forgotten,
And as years roll swiftly by,
Memory keeps her picture
Thoughts of her are always near,
Sadly missed by her daughter Ina.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within the heart concealed.
Lovingly remembered by son Leonard Hamilton.

Kingston Man Dies After Car Accident

TRENTON — John Peter Aitken, 21, of 21 Beverley St., Kingston, died in Trenton Memorial Hospital at 8:35 a.m. Sunday morning as the result of injuries sustained in an accident in the village of Brighton, late Saturday night.

Mr. Aitken was a passenger in a car driven by 24-year-old Louis Orazietti of 138 Coleman St., Belleville, which overturned on a curve on Quinte St., in Brighton, around 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

The driver and another passenger, Miss Margaret Pennell, 18, of 133 Catherine St., Belleville, were taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital. A hospital authority said today that their conditions appear to be satisfactory.

Corporal Lloyd Lyle of the provincial police detachment at Brighton, investigated. Crown Attorney H. R. Deyman of Cobourg said today he had instructed Cpl. Lyle to lay a charge of careless driving against Louis Orazietti; hence no inquest will be held.

Kingston Pair Wins Parker Bowling Cup

TRENTON — Members of the Trenton Lawn Bowling Club played host to players from Madoc, Peterborough, Kingston, Stirling, Campbellford and Belleville on Saturday. Club president Bill Fuller welcomed the guests.

Winner of the coveted Parker trophy, in place since 1947, were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cable from Kingston, with a three game score of 43 plus 3.

Gord Watkin and his mother, Annie, Watkin of Belleville, won the "tie" for the second three-game bowl against Morley Galt and Muriel Stridger of Kingston, both couples with a 43 plus 2.

Ted Barbard and Rosa Spry of Stirling, came in under the three-game wins with 41.

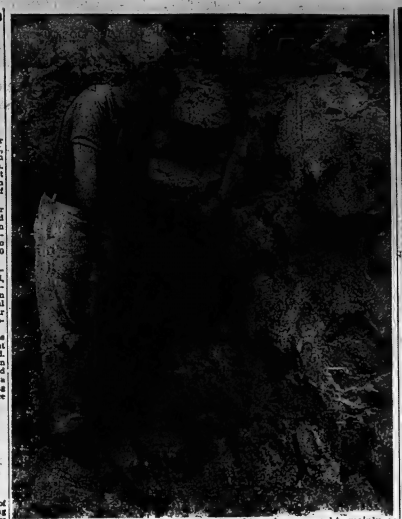
Howard and Stella Buck of Kingston, came in with the highest score of the day with a two-game score of 48 plus 9. Horace and Rachel Ormshaw of Trenton were close with 44 plus 5.

Bill Duncan and Vi, left the green early but took honors for a one-game high, of 29 plus 5. Clint and Florence Mitts of Trenton were close behind with 25. The Mitts won by a toss from Doug McCorquodale and Kitty Owens.

Record Number Of Boats On The Trent

TRENTON — The lockmaster at No. 1 Dam on the Trent reports a record weekend, with 26 boats of assorted shapes and sizes being locked through about half south-bound, half north-bound.

Great activity was reported from the government dock at Trenton and the water-by-pass-canal activity at the Murray Canal bridge.



Trenton officials concerned with distributing publicity about the town's water facilities, like to think that this upactivity is due to their country-wide campaign.

Missing Plane Returns Safely

TRENTON — A float-equipped Piper Cub, missing in the Roberval district in Quebec since last Thursday, returned safely to Lac Lonchamne today. The pilot, Don Robitaille, said he had set down some 15-minutes' flying time from his destination, Lac a la Croix, to await the end of bad weather. He flew back to Lac Lonchamne without incident. RCAF search aircraft had been searching for the plane and Rescue Co-ordination Centre at Air Transport Command Headquarters here had established an advanced search base at Bagotville.

OBEY COURT RULING

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Thailand reports it has withdrawn from the border temple of Preah Vihear, relinquishing it to Cambodia in compliance with a world court verdict. Interior Minister Gen. Praphas Charusathien, supervised the withdrawal Sunday from the 800-year-old ruins, press reports said today.

Carl Bozlak, operator of Princess Quarry, near Bancroft, is seen using a jack hammer to quarry Sodalite, rare mineral specimen, sought mainly as collectors' item.

Bancroft Quarry One of Few

Blue Sodalite Ore Collectors' Item

The Bancroft area in North Hastings is still the rock collector's paradise.

Rock collectors and geologists from all over Canada and the United States stream through the area during the summer months collecting unusual types of rock, and minerals.

Quite often the collectors are members of rock collectors' club who make the trip in a party.

One of the most unusual specimens of mineral rock sought by the collectors is Sodalite, a mineral of rich azure blue color, used mainly for decorative purposes and for costume jewellery.

Rock collectors are interested because of the richness of color which is brought out in the mineral when polished.

The Bancroft deposit of Sodalite is the only one in Ontario and one of the few such deposits on the North American continent. One other such deposit is in Maine and another in British Columbia.

History of the Bancroft-Sodalite workings goes back to the turn of the century and it was last worked extensively in 1905 when 400 tons was taken out for shipment to England for use in the decoration of Marlborough House.

ADMIRED BY ROYALTY

The story goes that the Prince and Princess of Wales during a visit to Canada around the turn of the century were presented with specimens of blue marble among which was the variety known as Sodalite.

The Princess so much admired the richness of the deep blue color that arrangements were made to ship a quantity to England.

In 1906 about 130 tons of Bancroft Sodalite was mined and used in the decoration of the residence of Sir Ernest Cassell in Park Lane, London.

From that time until last year the Bancroft deposit has been worked only spasmodically, with enough being taken out each year to partially satisfy the rock collectors' demands.

In recognition of the interest of English Royalty in the rock the Bancroft deposit has been known by the names of Princess Quarry, and it still goes by the same name.

In recent years the Princess Quarry has been owned by Bancroft brothers Thomas and William Morrison.

Last year operation of the quarry was taken over by Carl Bozlak, Stirling prospector, who is developing the property more along commercial lines.

The Princess quarry is about three miles east of Bancroft and just off the No. 500 secondary highway leading to Hermon. The quarry is in a rock prominence, just a few rods north of the road.

This year Mr. Bozlak has filled in the old working, where rock was taken out in 1905 for shipment to England and has uncovered two additional veins of considerable promise.

The Sodalite veins are found in solid rock and slope downward from surface outcroppings to still undetermined depths.

From a labor standpoint the big disadvantage is that several tons of "ordinary" rock must be quarried to get a relatively small amount of Sodalite.

And a particular quarrying hazard is that Sodalite is brittle and is shattered by heavy dynamite blasting.

As result quarrying has to be done carefully with rock sections being split off by wedging rather than by blasting. To ease the labor problem Mr. Bozlak has a drill compressor and jack hammer for boring shallow holes following which the rock is blasted by light charges of dynamite. A small bulldozer is used to shove surplus rock out of the way.

Sodalite apparently is more common in countries where there is known action. The geological explanation is that thousands of years before the glacial age nepheline rock being invaded from below by igneous chimneys gave the rock its deep cobalt blue coloring.

Museums and universities are the main volume customers for Sodalite rock, but collectors, better known as "rock hounds," also show a big interest in the Bancroft deposit.

And their interest is sufficiently great that they are quite prepared to shell out a dollar a pound for the rock in its raw state.

Later they will have it sawn into shape and then polished for use as a gem stone.

Lived Happily For 25 Years, Kills Wife

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—In 25 years of marriage, said Mack Stewart, he and his wife had never had an argument.

Then, Sunday night, his wife, Ethel Mae, 52, went to sleep on a couch while they were watching television. Stewart, 50, went to the kitchen for a glass of milk.

He said that he returned with a 10-inch butcher knife — and stabbed her to death as she slept.

Then he called police.

"I just stabbed my wife," he said. "Come and get me."

Police booked Stewart on suspicion of murder and quizzed him about his motive.

"I don't know why I did it," Stewart said. "I just don't know why."

the $3x of more than $100,000,000 last year.

Asbestos, with sales of some $97,000,000 last year, granted tariff-free entry as was a group including copper, lead and zinc ores; nickel; copper matte and waste and scrap of copper, aluminum, zinc and magnesium. Sales of these products totalled some $57,000,000.

The EXM tariff on unwrought aluminum — more than $25,000,000 last year—will be cut to nine per cent from 10.

MARKET PROMISING

Present EXM tariff treatment of a number of oilseeds and oilseed products were bound against future change. Canada's exports of these to the Six were nearly $18,000,000 in 1961, and the future market is considered a promising one.

The complicated agreement on wheat provides for negotiation by the Common Market Six before next June 30 on the terms of access for Canadian wheat under the EXM common agricultural policy—a policy "which is not yet firm."

The Six agreed that until the policy goes into effect, they won't increase restrictions on wheat imports from Canada. They also agreed that afterwards, if Canadian wheat sales fell below certain levels, the EXM will correct the situation under the settlement to be negotiated next year.

A few of the EXM concessions given earlier to the U.S. were also granted in the deal with Canada.

Among these were binding of duty-free entry to the Common Market for synthetic rubber, hides, logs including pulpwood and pitprops, and dissolving woodpulp. Canada's pulpwood sales to the Six totalled some $3,560,000 last year.

Canada obtained EXM binding of free entry for a number of other goods and wood products, including timber, planks and boards. The EXM duty on Douglas fir flooring is shaved down to 14 per cent from 15. Other plywoods have been bound against increase at 15 per cent and plained wood is bound at 10 per cent.

Tariffs were reduced on a number of Canadian fish products, notably frozen and canned salmon where last year's exports to the Six totalled some $2,500,000. The reduction on frozen salmon is to 10 per cent from 16, and on canned salmon to 15 per cent from 20.

LIGHTNING KILLS 12

CALCUTTA (AP) — Twelve persons were killed at Mirzapur in Bihar State by lightning, reports reaching here said today.

Sodalite veins at Bancroft deposit are found buried under tons of solid rock. Here, Mr. Bozlak uses prospectors' hammer to chip away useless rock leaving Sodalite vein.

Patrick Bozlak, 9, son of the quarry operator, is developing into 'rock hound' himself. He is seen displaying chunk of Sodalite containing visible veinlets. Ore sells for a dollar a pound to collectors.

Man, 86, Dies Was Charged With Murder

WELLAND (CP) — Robert Dean, 86, charged with capital murder in connection with the shooting death of his 72-year-old wife, died Sunday night in hospital from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Dean had been unconscious in hospital since last Wednesday, when he was found in his garage overcome by car exhaust fumes. His wife was found dead in the kitchen.

Dean had been remanded until Thursday on the murder charge.

Divers Explore Ocean Bottom 6 Miles Down

TOKYO (AP) — French deep sea explorers dived nearly six miles down in to the Japan trench in the second deepest plunge ever made by man. They reported finding "intensive life" during their three-hour stay on the bottom.

Sunday's near-record dive of 31,350 feet by French Cmdr. Georges Houot and navy engineer Pierre Henri Willm in the French bathyscaph Archimede was made 120 miles southeast of Urup Island in the Kuriles chain. Their depth was second to that achieved Jan. 23, 1960, by U.S. Navy Lieut. Don Walsh and Jacques Piccard in the navy bathyscaph Trieste in the Marianas trench off Guam. Walsh and Piccard went down 37,800 feet but remained only half an hour.

Houot and Willm spent three hours at the bottom during which Houot messaged that they "made observations, surveys and took pictures." Floodlights of the bathyscaph lighted up the blackness at the great depth.

"Bottom slightly inclined with sensible current," he said. "Intensive life. Presence of pennatulare." This is a French word apparently referring to winged or feathered sea animals found on sea bottoms.

Cash And Currency

The Investment Dealers' Association of Canada urges the Federal Government to place less reliance on Canada Savings Bonds in its money-raising programs.

At the end of 1961 there was $4,079,000,000 in savings bonds outstanding. The attractive feature about these bonds for the small investor is that they can always be turned into cash at their face value. This means that the Canadian public could call on the government for four billions in cash any time it pleases.

We do not know enough about finance to judge whether this is as dangerous a situation as the Investment Dealers seem to think. It strikes us that any time confidence in the dollar and the solvency of the Federal Government is so low that all savings bond owners might seek to cash—and of course to spend—their savings, things financial would be in such a bad shape that they could not possibly be made worse. That, however, is something that the experts to wrangle about and we will take the Investment Dealers at their word, pending some contrary opinion from others with equal qualifications.

Of one thing, though, we are certain. If the Investment Dealers were in any way responsible for the parenthetical information, in a Canadian Press report, that the value of savings bonds is equal to twice the amount of currency circulating in Canada, they were merely confusing the issue. Our financial system depends only partially on currency. Two billion in currency does not begin to cover the liquid assets of our citizens, for it amounts to little more than $100 per capita.

Savings bonds are not the only asset which, in theory at least, can be readily turned into cash. Most life insurance policies have cash surrender values. Then there are bank loans many of them payable on demand, for which the banks are entitled to demand cash just the same as individuals are entitled to demand cash for their savings bonds from the government. The amount of currency in circulation in Canada would be far short of meeting demands if all the owners of these types of assets suddenly demanded payment. But currency is not that important. It is just a convenient way of keeping track of transactions. As a matter of fact, a dollar bill does not even pretend to be a dollar—it merely states that it can be exchanged for a dollar at any time the owner desires. "The Bank of Canada will pay to the bearer on demand . . . ."

Too Quick On The Draw

Tuesday Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the Soviet Union proposed that American, French and British troops in West Berlin be replaced by Norwegians and Danes, or by Belgians and the Dutch.

Within a couple of hours a spokesman of the British foreign office rejected the proposal, stating that the presence of Western forces in West Berlin is not a negotiable factor.

We do not for one moment suppose that this quick rejection closed off any worthwhile prospects of a Berlin settlement. The disadvantages to the West of substituting the troops of minor powers for those of the big powers are too obvious to need comment. Khrushchev would have to make wide concessions to make such a change worthwhile to the West.

Still, there are concessions which would be well worth the price of changing the guard. We wish both sides would stop this nonsense about certain things not being negotiable. Everything is, or ought to be, negotiable by both sides, providing that the concession demanded by one side is balanced by the concession offered by the other. Khrushchev did not make any offer of a concession, as far as we are aware. But there was no reason why the West could not have made certain he was not prepared to offer anything before rejecting his proposal out of hand.

In Distinguished Company

Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society in the U.S., says that General Charles de Gaulle is a communist.

De Gaulle thus joins such distinguished Reds as President Eisenhower and the late John Foster Dulles.

The line forming on the left of Mr. Welch is now so long that about his only company on the right is Prime Minister Verwoerd of South Africa and the Secret Army in Algeria.

Cupid Irks Red Bosses

Hamilton Spectator

Cupid, that impish god of love, is causing annoyance and disorder in Moscow, Red Army quarters. He has begun to defy about through the pages of Komsomolskaya Pravda, a paper which seems more of the design of Hearst than of Marx, call-girls communism.

A recently published novel, titled "Ship of Fools" by Vladimir Voinovich is typical of the sort of thing that is causing the difficulties. It is all about love, romantic love; there are lyrical, passionate, tender scenes, and, to the angry comment of the directors of Soviet culture, occasionally kisses.

The title of the book is bad enough. How can anyone "wait to be happy" when, in the opinion of their government, they are already happy? The Literaturnaya Gazeta has stated this kind of writing and sees in it a problem of "basic principles." After all, those of this sort are nothing more than a compensating fantasy for the objective real in plant and laboratory and on the farm.

When we were young and susceptible (and that, alas, is so long ago it was in the days when we were all calling Communists "Bolsheviks") we grew on a library shelf an English translation of a Russian novel. It was called "Red Love" or "I Love", and its authors name was Arvyenko.

The thing with such a title can scarcely be resisted when one is eighteen.

In spite of the title, however it turned out to be the dullest, best dulled piece of fiction imaginable. The hero was a Russian locomotive engineer, a good party member no doubt, and he was in love with a girl who served for the worship of locomotive production norms and beautiful locomotives.

This, of course, was in the days when marriage in the Soviet Union was a matter of "registration", and divorce was equally simple. A couple merely decided to become "unregistered."

* * *

Soviet heroes were then not romantic. They were called stakhanovites; workers who had exceeded production norms in factories and went to Moscow to be decorated for their zeal.

The heroines were buxom and rollicking girls, and a phenomenal number of titles from patient Russian cows. They too were well known. Their pictures appeared in the papers of the time. Often they were sturdy, with plain, unpresentable features and what our magazines would call "plenty legs". A far cry from the maidens of modern Russian light literature where, if acquaintance is to be believed, all earn in arm with their lovers while enjoying romantically about "falling in love" and other delightful thrills.

Young Ivan and young Justa may have been united in a socialist environment but they are showing increasingly that like Western John and Mary they have the dreams of youth in the middle of modern housing. Light literature when it accepts as to be believed, sit arm

TORONTO (CP)—Trading in Violamac Mines, the little Timmins speculative property, during heavy morning trading on the stock market today.

The stock jumped 47 cents to $3.50 a share on a turnover of more than 200,000 shares. The company has reported a copper strike in progress at its property. Reports were that the first assay showed 4.71 per cent copper across 10 in a 70-foot core.

FACES CRISIS

The Sunday Telegraph says the leader now faces the biggest personal crisis in his political career. The paper's political correspondent quotes high-level ministers as saying the prime minister has staked his whole future on the strength of the purge to stop the government's electoral rot. "If it fails, he will face irresistible pressure for his own resignation."

There are also suggestions that the reconstruction is an act of desperation. The Telegraph quotes senior Conservative sources as saying "Macmillan panicked when the party's central office warned him that its candidate in the Leicester-by-election faced disaster.

Fire Destroys County Barn, Blame Children

PICTON — Children playing with matches and a candle are blamed for a fire which resulted in a barn being destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. The barn, owned by Picton lawyer, R. E. Nourse, was located at Salmon Point. Lost in the blaze was a quantity of hay and a combine. The fire department from Picton Picton responded to the call and kept the fire from spreading to other buildings as grass was very dry.

Ten-Year-Old Struck by Car

PICTON — Ten-year-old Jack Connors escaped with cuts and abrasions when struck by a car on Saturday. He ran in front of a car driven by Mrs. Keith Hubbs of Guelph, who was visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Yourt at Wellington, who were with her in the car. No charges are being laid.

Queen Approves New Portrait For Stamp Use

MONTREAL (CP) — Ernst Roch, 33, an Austrian - born artist featured in Montreal during the weekend that a portrait he did of the Queen will be reproduced several million times.

Roch was advised in a telegram just from the post office department in Ottawa that his design bearing a portrait of the Queen had been approved for the Canadian postage stamp in general use.

Roch lives with his wife and three daughters in a six-room apartment in Montreal Notre Dame de Grace.

"I was so glad the Queen liked the portrait," he said.

"I knew the stamp design had been accepted but it could not be published until the Queen gave her final approval for the portrait."

SLIGHTLY ANXIOUS

"You see," he explained," it is not a photographic portrait, it is rather a stylized one. That's why I was slightly anxious."

Roch came to Canada in 1953 after completing a five - year course at Gratz State School of Arts in Austria.

It did not take him long to emerge as a promising young artist on this continent. Some of his works were soon appearing in United States, Swiss, Japanese and Canadian magazines while others were entered in several international exhibitions.

Between 1956 and 1961, Roch was 13 awards from the Toronto and Montreal Art Directors' Clubs.

The Montreal club also awarded him two plaques for his outstanding work.

In 1959, the post office department sent Roch across the country Montreal artist and asked him to submit some designs for a new Canadian stamp.

"I submitted six layouts and they selected one," he said.

"Then they sent me to London where the Queen sat for me on two occasions for sketches.

LIKED CANADA

"She was very charming and very nice to talk to. She told me she liked it in Canada and liked it very much."

Asked what the stamp would look like, Mr. Roch would only say that the portrait was a side view. The Queen faces to the left.

"You see," he added, "the post office will issue a picture of the stamp next week and a picture, as you know, is worth a thousand words."

A statement by Postmaster General William Hamilton said, however, that the design employs a new approach and a simplicity not found in other Canadian postage stamps in the past.

The new stamp shows the Queen in profile in the centre with a symbolic design representing one of five major phases of Canada's economy in the upper left corner of each stamp. The denomination is shown in the lower left.

The economic symbol on the five-cent stamp, the first to be issued, is a head of wheat representing agriculture.

Depleted Health Services May Bring Crisis Shortly

SASKATOON (CP) — With no immediate prospect of a settlement of the Saskatchewan medical care dispute, the province's depleted health services may soon enter a critical stage.

One of the major questions is how long can adequate medical services be provided for the 938,000 residents of Saskatchewan.

The province has survived the first two weeks of the mid-withdrawal of normal doctor services mainly through a Canadian Medical Association emergency program staffed by members of the College of Physicians and Surgeons free-of-charge.

Most recent estimates say 186 doctors are working under this scheme in 40 hospital centres; compared with about 200 in 35 centres two weeks ago.

In addition the government says about 10 doctors are in full normal practice outside the plan, leaving 40 others providing some kind of service to patients also outside the plan, and approximately 50 doctors, mostly from Britain, have been recruited from outside Saskatchewan for temporary duties.

Up to now most people apparently have been able to obtain adequate medical treatment, though some who have had elective operations have had to postpone them or go outside the province.

Doctors also say they have not been able to provide the normal continuous care for their regular patients, including house calls.

Those patients who have submitted bills to the Saskatchewan medical care insurance commission have been able to claim reimbursement for up to 75 per cent of the cost of Parliament according to the commission's scheduled list of fees. The annual premium of $12 per single person and $24 per family has been waived for the first six months of the plan's operation.

However, spokesmen for the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons have expressed the view that if the present emergency situation continues for several months it will have a disastrous effect on the general health of the province.

Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, college president, indicated at a press conference in Regina last week that the falling factor may be the supply of available doctors.

Although the college estimates about 100 of the 800 doctors on the books have left Saskatchewan since Jan. 1, it believes many other doctors decided to leave things slowly before making a final choice whether to stay here or quit the province.

In addition to those working on the emergency scheme, some have gone on vacation or have simply dropped out from the scene to sit things out quietly for a while.

Cuba Charges 20 Shots Fired At Sentries

HAVANA (AP) — The armed forces ministry charged that U.S. forces at the Guantanamo naval base fired 20 shots at Cuban sentries stationed outside the base Friday.

In the 14th such charge, the armed forces ministry said Sunday the lives of the sentries were endangered by the alleged shootings. It said the American guards fired at various times Friday between sunrise and 10:15 p.m.

The Communist newspaper Revolucion said the base "plays a monstrous role" on Cuban soil. It made the statement in reporting the arrest of a Cuban fisherman authorities claim was killed by Guantanamo sentrymen. The body of Rodolfo Rosell was found in a boat in the bay waters by Cuban fishermen Friday.

Political and military officials, speaking at the funeral in Guantanamo Town, north of the base, charged Rosell was tortured and slain inside the base.

Officials also announced the slaying of a milliaman Friday near Guisa, 37 miles southeast of Haynas.

Nuclear Device Tested in Air

CAMP MERCURY, Nev. (AP) — A nuclear device was detonated in the air Saturday above the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site.

It was the second atmospheric nuclear test in the continental United States since a 1958 moratorium and was described as a "low-yield" device—in the range of 20 kilotons or less. A kiloton is the equivalent of 1,000 tons of TNT.

Other tests are pending, including one in which bodys will be deployed beyond reach of the blast for military manoeuvrer. No troops were involved in Sunday's shot.

Raspberry Ripe

by Mary Moore

Bowing to popular request I am repeating some of last year's most - often - asked - for raspberry recipes, but adding one new idea to change your raspberry dessert this year.

FREEZING RED RASPBERRIES:

Select fully matured, sweet and ripe plump berries and freeze them as soon as possible after picking. Clean and remove stems and wash gently, lifting fruit from water. Drain. Dry pack is most popular. To each quart of raspberries add 3/4 to 1 cup sugar. Amount depends on your sweet tooth. Mix gently but thoroughly. A sprinkle of vanilla is a good tip for this. Besides being a preservative, sugar acts as a preservative of color, texture and flavor. Turn into freezer jars and seal with freezer tape. Freeze at or below zero. (Moisture vapor-proof) containers are recommended and available at locker plants and paper supply stores and mail order houses. Frozen berries (all frozen foods) must be tightly sealed.

SUNDAY Dinner Menu

Broiled Shoulder of Lamb; Fresh Mint Sauce; Mashed Browns; Parsnips; Creamed Spinach; Green Cabbage and Celery Salad; Chilled Compote of Sweet Cherries; Coffee.

RED RASPBERRY JAM:

Four cups ripe red raspberries (about 2 quarts), 6¼ cups sugar, ½ bottle liquid pectin. Prepare fruit by crushing thoroughly about 2 quarts fully ripe red raspberries. (If desired, sieve half of pulp to remove some of seeds.) Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into clean hot glasses. Cover jam at once with ⅛" hot paraffin. Makes about 10 8-oz. glasses.

FRESH RASPBERRY PIE.

Filling for a 9" fresh raspberry pie. 2-3 to ¾ cup sugar, 4 tablespoons flour or 2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, ½ teaspoon cinnamon (optional), 4 cups fresh, washed, hulled and drained raspberries, 1-3 tablespoons butter. Mix together the sugar, flour or tapioca and cinnamon and stir gently into berries. Line a 9" pie plate with tender pastry. Pour in filling. Dot with butter. Cover with gashed top crust and seal edges. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. about 35 to 45 minutes or until crust is golden and juice begins to bubble through slits in crust. Wonderful served warm with homemade vanilla ice cream.

FRESH RASPBERRY ICE CREAM:

2 cups 18% cream, 2 cups 10% cream, ¾ cup sugar, 1-16 teaspoon salt, 2 cups fresh raspberry pulp (sieved to remove seeds), about ¾ cup sugar (second amount), ½ teaspoon almond extract, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

In top of double boiler heat together the creams, sugar and salt until it shimmers. Remove and cool. Sprinkle the ¾ cup sugar over the berry puree. Add to the cooled cream. It may curdle but do not worry. Pour into freezer trays. (Or into crank-type freezer). If in freezer trays freeze until fairly firm at edges and mushy at centre. Remove to chilled bowl and beat until smooth. Return to trays and freeze solid. (Note: Or repeat this freezing to a mush and beating in cold bowl if you have time and crave very smooth ice cream). This is a superior product when frozen in an ice cream freezer.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Jeanne F. — He doesn't have to leave an alarm to awaken on his own.

Clark F. — She doesn't have the least concept of what I'm up against.

Jeanne F. — I'm 30. Clark is 33 and we've been married for seven years. After making two infants during shotgun courtship we were able to have two more. They're now nicely toddlers — more or less of 2 and a little girl of 18 months. Naturally I don't have an easy time of it especially at my age. If ever I needed her telephone around — regularly I do right now.

But Clark lives only for his job. He eats it, drinks it, breathes it, dreams it, talks it — endlessly. I can be (!) at on my back with both kids screaming for attention, but one phone call from his office and he's off to New York or Canada! The children barely know him. I tell him he's betting on the wrong horse. He'd regret neglecting us.

Clark F. — The cameo of marrying a spoiled darling, Jeanne has never really found out in the world the word divorce from a dedicated life under her father's roof to a brief marriage with a rich playboy. Then we married and she tried with her indulgent parents until our marriage to me. I was deceived as to her maturity, despite her being older than me. Our talks had paid. Like a 6 rearmold over things I can't control. A true helpmeet would understand my side of our difficulties.

I gave up college to get an early start on a career with a good corporation through my trade. Hard work quickly. Although I started as a salesman I soon managed the training department. This takes lots of thought. Many I can't get done at home, due to the kids' and Jeanne's fretting. I travel for the company efficiency wherever I happen to be.

The Council: Anyone with half an eye can see the trouble here. Jeanne and Clark aren't speaking to each other. They're each too engrossed in their own little world of complaints to enact their marriage means reaching out to bridge the load and brighten the road for someone else.

Clark thinks Jeanne should be content that he's earned his second a higher salary and she should put no roadblocks — like companionship and help — in his way. And Jeanne thinks Clark's life is a may compared to hers, which is anchored in the home sport by chores, child care and loneliness.

At present, home to Clark is somewhere to send his cheque and then, a place to flee! But since a home is more than a building with front and back lawns, his cheque is on the way to being marked "insufficient funds." Home is a retreat usually requiring more than dutiful hello's, goodbye's, and letters. And is the guise of "ambitiousness," a young father like Clark may be burying himself in a form of work to escape from home responsibilities he dreads. He figures, mistakenly of course, that increased dollar earnings will make up for shortchanging his family of the husband/hood and parenthood departments.

But Jeanne has made the mistake, worse than it need be by her semblance of self-pity, of how she's been through a lot. If she'd do more of her age and childbearing difficulties, she needs more household help and gobs of reassurance as to her attractiveness to her husband. The former can be provided by paid housekeepers if not by Clark; the latter must come only from him.

Where her sympathy toward Clark, however? Here's a guy who, competing with college men, feels he must run fast just to stay in one place! Insecure, he spends nerve-wracking days figuring ways to go beyond the call of duty in order to impress his employers. Jean could at least help him do the figuring at home, by providing a peaceful treatment there at certain hours.

Here, though, is our big brainstorm for this pair: Beg, borrow, steal or hire a baby-sitter. Take Jeanne along, Clark, on your next business trip. This will accomplish at least three big things, all good: Jeanne will see for herself when a stiff competition you're up against. She'll have a therapeutic respite. He from child care. And she can enjoy a touch of the old togetherness.

• • •

Mrs. J. R. Ashbury, 187 Catherine Street, has recently returned from a three-weeks' holiday trip to Vancouver, B.C. where she visited her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Moore. She also visited the World's Fair at Seattle, Washington, and spent an enjoyable evening with Mr. and Mrs. Dolph McFadden, formerly of Belleville.

Bride-to-Be Honored by 20 Friends

On Thursday evening Mrs. W. J. Tuepah, 31 Isabel St., Belleville as hostess with Miss Mary Alice Tuepah as co-hostess entertained about 20 ladies to a cup and saucer shower in honor of Miss Patricia Walsh bride-to-be.

Pink and white streamers bells and balloons filled with confetti were used for decoration.

The group enjoyed bingo, contests and games.

The guest of honor was given a special seat in a decorated chair, and Miss Mary Alice Tuepah read an appropriate address and Miss Barbara Walsh and Joan Goodmurphy made the presentation of a large array of cups and saucers.

The recipient unwrapped her parcels and expressed warmest thanks for both party and gifts and invited the ladies to visit her when she was settled in her new home. She joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow".

The hostess with her assistants, served dainty refreshments and those in attendance expressed their personal wishes for her future happiness.

Playground Activities

C.N.R. PLAYGROUND

On Friday, July 13, C.N.R. Playground was the scene of a gala Field Day. Commencing at 1.30 p.m., the fielding, in their war paint, marched up to Pine St. playgrounds, where they sang "We Are the Boys".

After returning to their own park, Indian games were held and the children joined in races, archery, basketball throw and Indian wrestling.

Costumes, bows and arrows, necklaces, head-bands, drums and other noisemakers were made by the children at the playground during the week in preparation for this special event.

After the competitions every one joined in making potlatch from sabastian. The peace pipe was smoked and the prizes were presented, marking the climax of "the day's events."

Winners of Indian wrestling judged by Mike Coughlin, were Tommy Coughlin and Wally Dalnard (16), under 16 and Mark Lasza, boys, over 8.

Costumes were judged by Peter Smith, Philip Bardy, Wayne Zakaras and Murray Dalnard, who found Bonnie Mundrey to be the best dressed girl and David O'Hara, best dressed boy.

In the race winners were: Cheryl Bunnett, girls under 8; Donna Tugnette, girls over 8; Tommy Coughlin, boys under 8, and Brian Morrison, boys over 8.

Winners of handball throw, judged by Mike Coughlin, were: Wally Dalnard, boys under 8; Janet Begley, girls under 8; Brian Morrison, boys over 8, and Cathy McRoberts, girls over 8.

Winners of discus throw, judged by Brian Coughlin, were: Tommy Coughlin, boys under 8; Brian Morrison, boys over 8, and Donna Tugnette, girls over 8.

Winners of archery, judged by Paul Quarrington, were: David O'Hara, boys under 8, and Lauren Irwin, girls over 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharp are shown following their recent marriage in Christ Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Grace Elizabeth Deagle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Grace, of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. James Sharp of Belleville, and the late Mr. Sharp. (Photo by Lumbers Studio, Belleville.)

SHARP — GRACE

At high noon on Saturday, July 5th, in Christ Church, Belleville, Archdeacon J. E. Cooper, rector of the church, united in marriage, Grace Evangeline Grace, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Grace, and Charles George Sharp of Hamilton, Ontario, son of Mrs. James Sharp and the late Mr. Sharp, before an altar adorned with white Shasta daisies and the chancel by standards of white gladioli and apricot mums. The guest pews were designated with white asters bows.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, rendered the wedding music, using Purcell's "Trumpet Tune", for the processional, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ross Arber, of Kingston, cousin of the bride, as she sang, before the ceremony, "The Wedding Prayer", and "God, My Shepherd", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Elwood Ross Grace, the bride was charming in her silk organza bridal gown over taffeta, with pop top sleeves of Alencon lace on the fitted bodice, elbow-length sleeves and jewel neckline. The very bouffant skirt was accented in bustle effect and highlighted with roses. She wore a matching fly veil in elbow-length, with organza rose headpiece, and carried white Bebe frosted with white gardenias and garden mums on a knotted white satin streamers.

Her maroon of honor was Miss Gwen Thornton (nee Martin) of Scarborough, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Ross White, of Belleville, sister of the bride, and Mrs. George Jacklin, also of Belleville. The junior bridesmaid was Miss Janice Marquis of Hamilton, cousin of the bridegroom. The senior bridesmaids, and matron of honor were in apricot shade silk organza over taffeta fashioned with fitted bodices having tiered bell-sleeved sleeves, scoop necklines and full skirts trimmed with two rows of organza pliques with peek-a-boo bonnets. The junior bridesmaid was gowned similarly, only in white silk organza over apricot taffeta, all carried white Bebe frosted with white gardenias of orange Delight roses entwined with white feathered streamers.

Mr. Albert Thornton, of Scarborough, Ontario, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Ed Dobrucki and Mr. William Pirie, both of Hamilton, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Quinte Motor Hotel, where the bride's mother received the guests, wearing gown of lace silk organza over taffeta, with matching accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, who wore a loden green linen gown with lace over taffeta top, matching accessories and corsage of orange Delight roses.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white delphinium, and centred by the traditional three-tier wedding cake, topped with white bells and lily-of-the-valley, and misted about the base with white tulle. Tall apricot and white candles in crystal candelabra, and lace wedding bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

For the wedding trip to Calgary, Banff and north to Yellowknife, N.W.T., the bride chose a three-piece white linen knit ensemble, with navy accessories, and corsage of red sweetheart roses.

Guests were present from Hamilton, Grimsby, Scarborough; Verona; Sydenham; Napanee; Ottawa; Weston; Kingston; Toronto; Calgary, Alberta and Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharp will reside in Hamilton, Ontario.

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. William Pirie with Mrs. Charles Bridgeman co-hostess, in Hamilton, also one at the home of Mrs. R. Bolver, of Hamilton, and in Belleville at the home of Mrs. Douglas Thompson, with Mrs. James Jeffs and Mrs. Albert Thornton as co-hostesses, prior to the bride's marriage.

CHASE — MONTGOMERY

St. John's United Church, Tweed, was prettily adorned on Saturday, July 5th, at 3.00 p.m. with baskets of white gladioli and fern for the marriage of Elizabeth Helen Montgomery, daughter of Peterborough; only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold C. Montgomery, of Tweed, Ontario, to James George Chase, of Havelock, Ontario, elder son of Mrs. F. Chase of Havelock, and the late Mr. Chase. The Reverend W. K. Pace, of Napanee, assisted by the Reverend J. Payton, of Tweed, officiated.

Mr. Fred Porter, church organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Chris Mills, of Tweed, who sang, "The 23rd Psalm" before the ceremony, the "Lord's Prayer", during the ceremony, and "The Wedding Prayer", while the register was being signed.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in her formal bridal gown of white peau de soie designed with French imported rosepoint lace bodice, having a jewel neckline and short sleeves. The front of the skirt featured a straight panel, sweeping to the back, and cascading into a chapel train. A bandeau rose accented the waistline. She wore a four-tier fingertip veil of silk illusion caught to a headdress of silk organza flowers and buds, and carried a bouquet of Cascade white gladioli florets mingled with pink Sweetheart roses.

She was attended by Miss Nellie Short, of Peterborough, as maid of honor, nursing classmate of the bride, and by Miss Donald Montgomery, of Toronto, and Mrs. Karl Belanger, of Belleville, as senior bridesmaids, and by Miss Mary Lou Juby, of Peterborough, as junior bridesmaid. The maid of honor and the senior bridesmaids' gowns were fashioned in pot-length, with bell-shaped skirts, of melon-pink polished cotton with matching cummerbund of pink silk organza which swept to the back complemented by full organza roses. Their headdresses featured over the face veils sequinning shades of pink silk organza roses and they carried cascades of pink Sweetheart rose and white carnations.

The junior bridesmaid wore a full-skirting gown of melon pink polished cotton with cummerbund of pink silk organza, the back accented by a large organza rose with streamers to the hemline; white accessories, and she carried a bouquet of white mums and pink carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. James Delaney, of Norwood, Ontario, and the guests were ushered by Mr. Clifford Chase, of Ottawa, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Donald Montgomery, of Toronto, brother of the bride.

For the reception, which was held in the church parlors, the bride's mother chose a gown in turquoise flowered silk, in sheath design, under turquoise organza, with white accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses. Assisting in the receiving line, was the bridegroom's mother, attired in a Nile green sheath dark beige accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses.

The bride's table was prettily appointed in the pastel style with the traditional wedding cake, highlighted by tall candles in silver candelabra and the bouquets of the bridal attendants.

For motoring to Cape Cod, the bride wore a two-piece summer suit of coca brown and white linen, with corsage of white gardenias, and white accessories.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at the home of Mrs. W. Hamilton, of Tweed, with Mrs. H. Connors as co-hostess; also at the home of Mrs. R. Juby, of Peterborough, with Miss Nellie Short as co-hostess.

The happy couple will reside at 167 Bernardo Street, Peterborough, Ontario.

Riley, Belleville.)

WILSON — BOX

Tall standards of white gladioli 'mums, carnations, baby's breath and ferns formed a lovely setting in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill on Saturday, June 30th, at 2.00 p.m. for a very pretty summer wedding when Gillian Elizabeth Box of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Box, became united in marriage to Harry Edward Wilson, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wilson, by the Rev. L. Arthur Page, rector of the church. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

The wedding music was provided by Mr. Frank Moore, church organist, who also accompanied the soloist, Miss Gail Sprague of Trenton in her rendition of, "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her full-length bridal gown of trillium white embossed taffeta, fashioned with scoop neckline and fitted bodice etched with seed pearls and crystals. The long sheath-like sleeves ended in lily-pointed over the wrists. The skirt, which fell gracefully in unpressed pleats was worn over bouffant crinoline and the back waistline was enhanced by a crushed rose of the same material. She wore a queen's crown headdress of seed pearls and four-tier waist-length veil of silk illusion tulle, and carried a cascade of white Sharia 'mums and baby's breath studded with pink Sweetheart rose and ivy. A single strand of cultured pearls, with matching earrings, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her costume.

Miss Lorraine Brown of Belleville, as maid of honor, Miss Linda Wilson, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, as senior bridesmaid and Miss Rita Page of Niagara Falls, cousin of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, were gowned alike in shell-pink organza over taffeta featuring molded bodices with Sweetheart necklines and full crinoline skirts accented by shirred panels. Their headdresses were double crowns of shell-pink organza with seed pearl-se-due-like veils. They wore cultured pearl droplets and earrings, the gift of the bride, and carried crescents of baby white carnations, baby's breath Sweetheart roses and fern.

Mr. Jack Wilson, of Belleville, attended his brother as groomsman, and Messrs. Paul Humphrey, cousin of the bridegroom, and Colin Box, brother of the bride, both of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Shrine Club, on Highland Ave., for 100 guests, where the bride's table was appointed with the traditional white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, decorated with lily-of-the-valley, topped by two doves holding rings, and misted about the base with white tulle. Tall pink candles in antique silver candelabra and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting. The guest tables were decorated with tall pink candles and bowls of pink and white sweetpeas.

The bride's mother received, wearing a two-piece ensemble of pure silk in rose-pink shade with matching accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses. The bride-groom's mother, who assisted, was gowned in Riviera blue silk with matching lace bodice, white accessories, and corsage of gardenias.

For the wedding trip to the Niagara Falls, Powassan, London, Ont; Roslin, Tweed, Toronto and Trenton.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was entertained at a personal linen shower held by Mrs. Wilson and Miss Linda Wilson as co-hostesses; at a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Diana Berdon, and Miss Mary Reid as co-hostesses; and at a cup and saucer shower held by Mrs. Jean Miller with the Misses Andrea and Nancy Miller as co-hostesses. A crystal shower was also held by Mrs. Harriett Edwards and Mrs. Marion Wrenshall, as co-hostess. Friends of the bridegroom sponsored a party for him and presented the couple with a bridge table and chairs.

How To Get Along With Neighbors

DORIS CLARKE

DEAR DORIS—I live next door to a French family and my little girl is six. She has four children, the oldest being six. If one speaks carefully to the mother she understands, but when we are both excited she cannot seem to understand what I say.

She has a boy of six and when my girl played with him, his type of play seemed so rough and sadistic I stopped her playing with him. So now she won't allow her three younger girls to play with her.

I wanted so much to get along with the people in the neighborhood, but I never seem to do anything right.—BUNDLE OF NERVES.

DEAR BUNDLE—Get a good hold on yourself and try again.

Know any French words? If yes, use them. If no, learn some. Nothing will prove better to your neighbor that you want to be friends than to greet her in her language. Then when you talk English to her, space out your words. Don't talk at all when you have to rush at it.

It may sound silly to you to talk slowly, but if it makes sense to her, she may come to know the real you. The little boy isn't all bad; so how about a smile for him?

Nothing can be more ruinous for your child than to separate her from her playmates. Don't make a snob of her; help her to hold her own.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I am a young girl with an old problem (boys). I am very much in love with a boy three years older than I. He is not what you would call handsome, but what you could call a wonderful personality.

But then we started getting serious about each other and we started having a lot of fights. Lately he has almost stopped seeing me, and goes with an awful lot of my friends. He asks them in front of me, and I feel like a sucker.

Last Friday I went with a boy from the same town to a show, because I was mad at him, and about half way through the show a little girl came in and told me he wanted me and I told her to tell him to run along. Now he won't speak to me, and I just feel terrible. I cry at home all the time and am forever trying to pick a fight with my mother or sister.

Send me advice in a hurry. I am going crazy with dread. —ALONE.

DEAR ALONE—You told him to run along. Good. But now you want to run after him. It won't work. He'll only run faster.

Crying won't help. Fighting with family won't help. He goes out with others. So should you. Lose yourself in sports, books, anything but your own hurt feelings.

And read well the little book on dating which I mentioned in my letter to you. It will help you in learning how to cope with the opposite sex.

Newfie Court Ruling Awaited On 'Sex Books'

By DAL WARRINGTON

HALIFAX (CP)—Focus in the Atlantic provinces "sex book" controversy shifts to Newfoundland this week. A judge's ruling due Wednesday in Corner Brook could influence the course of a newsstand "clean - up" drive in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick by Halifax radio evangelist Perry F. Rockwood.

Newfoundland Attorney - General L. R. Curtis took the issue to court last month. District Judge W. R. Kent was asked to decide whether 25 publications seized in a Corner Brook drug store are obscene under terms of the Criminal Code.

Peter Oksen, Halifax County Crown prosecutor, says Judge Kent's decision may help decide future policy here. Prosecution in a Halifax case launched by Mr. Rockwood was suspended several weeks ago after R. M. Marshall Limited, the area's biggest magazine distributor, voluntary withdrew about 50 publications from sale.

Charles Marshall, the company's managing director, says about 15 titles have since been restored to the stands. Among them are the Canadian papers Hush and Flash.

WITHDRAWS 38 MAGS

New Brunswick's leading distributor, Saint John News Company, has withdrawn 38 magazines. The action is said to have been based on rulings by censoring authorities in Quebec, Ontario and Alberta.

However, the New Brunswick attorney - general's department says it has received a petition from a group of St. John Valley citizens criticizing this action.

Mr. Rockwood, fundamentalist preacher at the People's Gospel Hour on 47 Canadian and U.S. radio stations, says he plans to continue his campaign against "sex and filth" on the newsstands.

He claims support of "the entire Roman Catholic Church" and criticizes Protestant clergymen for not backing his stand.

DEFRAUD BANK

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Rolls of 25-cent pieces, filled out with metal washers, were exchanged for $170 in bills at a city bank Friday. Bank officials said the man and woman who passed the rolls made from $20 to $40 on the deal.

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Displaying wedding gifts poses a few problems. If you plan to honor this custom, here are some questions you might want answered:

1. Where are the wedding gifts customarily displayed?
2. When are the gifts put on display?
3. How should the tables be arranged and covered?
4. Should they be decorated in any way?
5. Should the donors' names be left on the gifts?
6. How should gifts be arranged?
7. Suppose there are duplicates. Should only one be placed on view?
8. Should gift cheques be placed in full view?
9. May shower gifts be included in the display?
10. Is it permissible to show the bridal trousseau along with the other gifts?

Answers:

1. Gifts are put on display at the home of the bride, even if the reception is held elsewhere.
2. If the reception is held at home, gifts may be viewed by the guests at the same time. If it's held at a hotel or club, gifts are displayed at home in advance of the ceremony and a party given so guests can see them.
3. If possible, the tables should be arranged along the walls of a room, so guests can pass by easily, and covered with white cloths, preferably damask or lace.
4. Arrangements of fresh flowers help dramatize the display.
5. No. Cards are removed and gifts are numbered to correspond with numbers listed alongside donors' names in the gift listing book.
6. According to category. Silver is grouped together, and so are china, glassware, linens, etc.
7. In case of duplication, both gifts are shown but they are separated as far as possible.
8. Sometimes they're displayed in such a way that the amounts are covered but the signatures may be seen. Usually, the amounts are written on plain white cards, without mention of the donors' names, and then placed on a table.
9. Yes, especially when shower gifts also were meant to serve as wedding presents.
10. No. Personal items for the bride are never shown.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Years ago before they had mechanized agriculture—they called it farming in those days—and Old Dobbin did the work of present-day push-button monsters—I used to ride "Old Maud" when dad was single-cultivating corn and tomato fields.

"Old Maud" had a dinosaur backbone—and the plodding gait of the old mare was tough on a tender sacro-iliac region. I drowned my little sorrows there port when sitting down to meals. But I also developed a love of horses.

During my tenure as a World War beardless "trooper-to-buster" I had a despatch-rider mare called "Betty." This stony-faced little beast had more human sense than a lot of humans I know have of the horse variety.

She trembled and snorted when we came within range of the German guns. But when all was quiet, so was Betty. I slept with her in a ruined French building—we forced barriers. She would slicker a "good morning" with the dawn "boots-and-saddles" bugles.

She died an equine heroine's death the morning the German dropped a "whiz-bang" in the cobbled road directly underneath her belly. The rider had a miraculous escape. I buried Betty "piece-by-piece" so to speak. Her picture is still a treasure.

I like horses—and horse stables. I like the atmosphere and the honey smell. I like the sleek coats and the whickers and the touch of a soft oat-thirsty muzzle. The only thing I find wrong with a horse is that it cannot talk. There are not enough "Mr. Ed's" around.

Take Saturday night when I had a one-way interview with "April H.", Miss Reia Herrington's fine young three-year-old colt.

Brighton's Miss Herrington, by the way, is one of Ontario's top women harness drivers. She has her own stable. In it are "Billy H Sunday," one of the crack pacers of his class, and "Herrington," another fine sidewheeler. But her "baby" is "April H", a tender youngster, just starting to cut his racing teeth.

But "April H" is wise in the ways of horses and horsemen, and it appears, nevertheless, wisest that after a youngster has been confided to me would have sent me home with visions of a new Cadillac—or at least a second-hand 1958 model—and the parimutuels operators out looking for me.

"April H" was in his shedrow apartment at the Fair Ground. I "talked" with him prior to the Quinte Driving Club meet. He told me, through his driving owner, that he didn't expect to win, but hoped to be up with the pack under the wire.

For an equine youngster who hasn't seen much of the racing world, or sky other for too long, April H developed a sort of sly look. I thought, when I queried him about his chances. It could have been an inadvertent horse-flip that made him lower his head, shake it and snort once or twice.

Actually I don't suppose he knew it at the time, but the spirited youngster after testing the field and finishing fourth in the first heat, apparently said to Miss Herrington's driver, "Let's take those nags for a ride."

He did, finishing in front of the pack in the second heat while a lot of part-mutuellers tore up tickets. But, what is more to the point, he backed the youngster and walked away from the "scene" ticket, tucking $121.60 in his wallet. Any daredevil bettor who bet him to place Confidential $14.10.

Anyone got a book on "How to Make Confidential Friends Out of Horses?"

May Increase Games Team

Swimmers Crack 25 Marks

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Improved competitors and the addition of eight events to the swim program may prompt an increase to 14 from 10 in the number of swimmers and divers representing Canada at Perth, Australia in November.

Canadian Amateur Swimming Association officials, who opened 10 team members and four alternates for the Empire Games team Sunday, said they will press the games committee to include all 14 on the Perth team.

The 10-member allotment for swimmers and divers was set before the eight events were added to the Empire Games program. It was set, too, before swimmers cracked 25 Canadian records during the Canadian national championships which ended with another record-shattering spree Saturday.

"We believe," said E. Allan Harvey of Vancouver, first vice-president of the CASA, "that we can show by the times and figures that the addition of these people (the alternates) would have a real effect on the number of medals Canada can win at Perth."

Two team members expected to bring home medals are divers Tom Dinsley, 21, of Vancouver and Ernie Meissner, 25, of Kitchener. Ont. Dinsley came on strongly to win the three, metre springboard and tower titles here, upsetting Meissner, defending Canadian champion and fifth in springboard at the last Olympic Games.

Both were named to the 10-member team.

NAME SWIMMERS

The swimmers named are:

Mary Stewart, 16, Vancouver, world's record holder for the 110-yard butterfly.

Sara Barber, 21, Brantford, Ont., backstroker now on a Canadian international team for six eighth time.

Helen Armstrong, 16, Montreal, national breaststroke champion.

Madeleine Sevigny, 17, Montreal, national freestyle winner.

Judy Gilchrist, 18, Ocean Falls, B.C., freestyler and distance man.

Steve Rabinovitch, 20, Montreal, national breaststroke champion.

SET RECORDS

Eight marks fell Saturday, three to B.C. teams in sectional relays.

The records, with the previous mark in brackets:

Women, 440-yard freestyle, 57.6 (58.2).

Dan Sherry, 18, of Hamilton, 220-yard butterfly, 2:30.8 (2:34.8).

Gary Stratten, 19, Toronto, 220 yard backstroke, 2:29.5 (2:30.7).

B.C. team, men's 440 - yard medley relay 4:36.7 (4:46.8).

B.C. team, women's 440-yard medley relay 5:00.9 (5:20.8).

LONDON (CP) — Canada's Bruce Kidd may be an "ugly duckling" on the cinder path but one day he will emerge as great as another "ugly runner," Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia, says a former British Olympic gold medalist.

Christopher Brasher, writing in The Observer Sunday, had nothing but praise for the 19-year-old Kidd after the fine showing the Toronto student made in finishing second to one of Britain's best distance runners, Bruce Tulloh, the barefoot botanist.

Brasher, who won the gold medal for Britain at the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne by sweeping to victory in the 3,000-metre steeplechase, says Kidd's performance was "another one to be read to Tokyo."

The Olympic Games in the Japanese capital in 1964 may show Kidd to be one of the "all - round athletes," Brasher adds.

Kidd, the Canadian and United States champion at three miles, tried his hand at the same distance as Tulloh, first-class international field in the Union track and field championships Saturday at White City Stadium.

TRACK IS SLOW

It had rained all morning and the cinder track was covered somewhat.

In the battle of the Bruces," Tulloh, 26, won with a brilliant clocking of 13 minutes, 16 seconds. The Scot finished 10th last year in 1959 by Murray Halberg of New Zealand.

Kidd was a scant second slower—about four yards behind Tulloh. But the 19-year-old of Toronto freshman was greatly impressed by the performance, the fact the 13:13' clocking was the fastest he's ever run the three miles and the fact he finished two miles ever run by a Canadian.

Obviously Kidd's cheeks cannot be recognized as a Canadian record since it was not set on Canadian soil. That mark of Gary Iobke the Canadian record at 13:46.4. He set it in 1956.

Brasher in a separate article compares Kidd, with Zatopek, one of the greatest distance runners who set world records in 5,000 metres, 10,000 metres and 5,000 metres on the post-war years.

SEEMS UNFIT

"Kidd if really one of the oddest distance runners ever to appear on a cinder track. He is almost shaven down to his large skull and, with his long face and lantern jaw, he looks like an unfit boxer.

"He carries his arms well away from his body, with his hands flopping as if they were dead.

"But what do looks or style matter? Kidd is a fine runner as great as that other ugly runner, Zatopek."

Zatopek won three gold medals at the 1952 olympics in Helsinki, Finland. Kidd was third in the 5,000 metres, 10,000 metres and 5,000 metres.

Kidd Saturday showed a tremendous improvement in losing his "grate-fever" — stage fright, in relaining his US. three-mile title last June in Fort York he was clocked in 13:48.8.

Here he had some of Britain's finest runners behind him on.

SETS EARLY PACE

Martin Hyman, like Tulloh a resident of Portsmouth, set the early pace from the opening gun as he set the fast early pace.

He and his fast Kidd is the fastest teen-age distance runner he has ever seen.

"You ran great and you have great races to run," he told Kidd after the race. Hyman finished fourth.

These stars played together until the last of the 12 laps. Just as the bell was sounded Tulloh crashed the lead and it looked as though he might have won easily. Kidd was on his heels.

Brasher didn't have it to catch Kidd, but Tulloh responded to the challenge, came back with a fine burst of speed and outsprinted him down the straight-away to the tape. Brasher finished third.

ALS CUT FIVE

JOLIETTE, Que. (CP)—Five players were released by Montreal Alouettes Sunday as coach Jim Trimble began the final cuts from the club's training camp in this community 55 miles northeast of Montreal.

Two Canadians and three players from the United States were dropped, trimming the roster to 53.

They are tackle Rufus Grandstaff, 24, Prairie View (Tex.) A and M; Halfbacks Reggie Lee, 25, Tinicum Athletic Club of Pennsylvania, and Don Stephenson, 24, Grambling (La.) College; guard Don Marzman, 20, Montreal, and and Mark St. Louis, 18, Trois-Rivieres, Que.

Leafs Split With Bisons, Vees Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain forced the first - place Jacksonville Suns to the sidelines but their main rivals in the International League missed the chance to advance in the standings.

The second - place Toronto Maple Leafs and third - place Buffalo Bisons split a doubleheader. The Suns still enjoy a seven-game lead in the race.

In the other end of the loop, Richmond Virginians swept two games from Atlanta Crackers, but it was not enough to head them out of last place, even though Dave Jolly relief ace, Atlanta Chiefs dropped a pair to Rochester Red Wings.

Joe Gibson struck out a four-hitter for the Bisons in the first game; while his mates backed him with 10 hits for the 6-2 victory. Jim Frey hit a grand slam off Buffalo relief hurler Seth Morehead's first pitch during a seven-run uprising in the sixth inning.

Toronto's Jim Constable pitched an eight-hitter for his fifth victory against six seventh victory against two losses. Frey homered again for Buffalo.

Richmond romped home 8-2 in the opener against Atlanta with Bill Fischer, 5-5, coasting with a 14-0 victory on Hal Woodeshick's one-hitter and unearned run in the nightcap. It was Stowe's third shut out of the season and snapped a losing streak of eight games for him.

Fischer's mates collected only two singles, but a throwing error let the only run of the game in the first inning.

Rochester's Dan Kravitz hit a three-run homer and John Glenn got a two-run homer for Syracuse in a 5-2 victory in the seventh inning was the difference for the Red Wings who took the opener 5-3.

John Anderson blanked the Chiefs until the seventh in the nightcap and got a 2-1 victory. The Wings scheduled twin bills tonight.

Columbus belted Buffalo 7-1, Saturday. Syracuse edged Rochester 5-4, Richmond beat Jacksonville 3-0, and Atlanta edged Richmond 10-9 in 12 innings.

The National League set a new high for fruitfly Sunday after 10 games, stretching over seven hours and 10 minutes, all 10 clubs were right back where they started.

Five split doubleheaders left Los Angeles 2½ games in front of San Francisco and 6½ in front of Pittsburgh, St. Louis still trailed by 10 and Cincinnati by 10½.

The Mets' Still 34½ games out and 39 games below .500. But they gave the San Francisco Giants fits, torturing the 35,462 fans who turned out to see the former tenants of the Polo Grounds.

After beating the Giants in the opener 5-3, the Mets staged a 6-run uprising in he eighth inning of the second game before finally succumbing 9-8. And Giants manager Al Dark was forced to call on his ace, Stan Mariscal. He got the relief stint of the season to put them down.

LOSE TO MAHAFFEY

The Dodgers also had trouble with the Phils — once. After breezing past the Phillies in the opener 5-2, on Duke Snider's two-run homer and Johnny Podres, they lost 2-1 to Art Mahaffey who never before had beat them.

St. Louis and Pittsburgh fought to a standoff. Fred Whitfield's pinch homer in the 10th gave the Cards the opener 3-2. The Pirates won the second 6-7 on Roberto Clemente's 11th inning triple. Pittsburgh was three games ahead of Kelso. The time eclipsed Round Table's track mark of 2:01 1-5 set in 1947.

The winner paid $8, $3.20 and $2.80. Kelso paid $2.60 and Shoemaker and the 4-to-5 favorite, paid $2.60 and $2.20. Beau Pere returned $2.80. Carry Back collected $70,947.50, $42,160 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap, earning $102,100. Kelso's 16th victory and new Canadian record, Canada, third.

Prove It returned $5.20, $3.20 and $2.60, Windy Sands $3.80 and $3.20 and Nasty Deed, who won the $100,000 added Californian early in the month, $5. The fat purse increased Prove It's earnings to $436,970.

Hidas, who won his first start since a second-place showing in the May Preakness, zoomed through the mud to score a seven - length victory in the $102,250 Arlington Classic in Chicago. Mighty Fennec was second and Admiral Avenger third.

Hidas, a 4-to-5 favorite riddden by Avelino Gomez, returned $3.60, $3.30 and $2.60. Mighty Fennec paid $17.40 and $7.60 and Admiral's Voyage $2.20.

The victory, Hidas's fourth in this season, was worth $84,750.

Minor Baseball

The Braves overcame a 3-1 fourth-inning deficit to whip the Cubs 10-4 in a Pewee division baseball game at the Centre Field Saturday.

Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the fourth, two in the fifth and four in the sixth to win going away.

Jim Cockburn starred for the Braves with two home runs, a double and a triple. Mark Acquafredo was the winning pitcher while Bill Howe was the loser.

Braves outhit the Cubs 10-7 in an errorless contest.

Kenny Lane Outpoints Hernandez

NEW YORK (AP) — Kenny Lane, pint - sized Muskegon, Mich., lightweight, came off the canvas to outpoint Carlos Hernandez in a 10-round bout Saturday night that knocked the Venezuelan right out of the title picture. Lane weighed 136, Hernandez 134½.

Hernandez, who had a seven-bout streak going, is the No. 1 contender for Carlos Ortiz's world lightweight championship.

Referee Arthur Mercante warned him twice for low blows and once for hitting and holding. The exasperated Mercante finally took away the sixth for hitting and holding and the ninth for hitting below the belt.

Mercante scored it 7-2-1. Judge Bill Recht 5-4-1 and Judge Jimmy Riccio 5-3-2, all in favor of Lane.

In the third round, a right to the head by Hernandez sent Lane reeling to the floor. Lane took a nine-count and got up with a small cut over his right eye.

A right at the start, Lane went with his left hook scoring time and again. Twice in the first round, Lane staggered Fernandez, but Hernandez, he connected again and Hernandez had to shake the cobwebs out of his head.

Aussie Sloop Arrives For Big Race

PORT NEWARK, N.J. (CP) — The Australian sloop Gretel, which will challenge for the America's Cup in September, docked at a pier Saturday by freighter en route to Newport, R.I., for the sailing classic.

Also aboard the Australian freighter City of Sydney was another yacht, Vim, which has been leased to the Australian syndicate that Gretel is to give crews experience with the big 12-metre vessels and test Gretel in races.

Meanwhile, at Newport Harbor-side, the U.S.S. Quincy, is begining to convince the doubters about her America's Cup candidacy.

The $300,000 vessel concluded the America's Cup observation trials with a decisive victory over her chief rival, Weatherly, Saturday.

In combat with three veteran 12 - metre yachts, Weatherly emerged atop the standings with 10 triumphs and two defeats.

Sara Breaks Record in Time Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — Transportation problems kept Sarah Barber of Brantford out of the Canadian swimming championships but she broke one record and cracked a Canadian record for the event in time trials.

Miss Barber, a longtime Canadian backstroke champion making a comeback at 21, arrived at Empire Pool about three minutes too late to get in the scheduled heat.

Canadian Amateur Swimming Association officials allowed her to swim in a later heat for time for use in selection of the Canadian team for the Games, going to Perth, Australia in November.

Miss Barber, winning the heat by more than 30 yards, clocked the distance in 2:41 flat, trimming 5.3 seconds off her previous mark set in 1958. Her time Saturday was 7.8 seconds faster than Donna Cook-Scott of Montreal who paced the qualifiers for Saturday night's final.

Leaf Signs Contract

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs announced Monday they have signed Ron Ellis, 19-year-old defenceman from Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A league.

Carry Back Defeats Kelso

NEW YORK (CP) — Carry Back smashed into the lead midway down the home stretch and drove to a three-length win as he captured the $109,150 Monmouth Park Handicap in a spine tingler that saw favored Kelso finish second. Beau Purdy, who had scored the biggest win in the July 4 Suburban Handicap, was third.

Expertly ridden by Johnny Rotz, the 1961 Kentucky Derby winner got home in 1:59 4-5 to wire in 2:00 3-5 for Saturday's 1 1-16 - mile trip, three lengths ahead of Kelso. The time eclipsed Round Table's track mark of 2:01 1-5 set in 1947.

The winner paid $8, $3.20 and $2.80. Kelso paid $2.60 and Shoemaker and the 4-to-5 favorite, paid $2.60 and $2.20. Beau Pere returned $2.80. Carry back collected $70,947.50, $42,160 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap, earning $102,100. Kelso's 16th victory and new Canadian record, Canada, third.

Prove It returned $5.20, $3.20 and $2.60, Windy Sands $3.80 and $3.20 and Nasty Deed, who won the $100,000 added Californian early in the month, $5. The fat purse increased Prove It's earnings to $436,970.

Hidas, who won his first start since a second-place showing in the May Preakness, zoomed through the mud to score a seven - length victory in the $102,250 Arlington Classic in Chicago. Mighty Fennec was second and Admiral's Voyage third.

Hidas, a 4-to-5 favorite ridden by Avelino Gomez, returned $3.60, $3.30 and $2.60. Mighty Fennec paid $17.40 and $7.60 and Admiral's Voyage $2.20.

The victory, Hidas's fourth in this season, was worth $84,750.

Bombers Whip A's; Tribe Drops Pair

Yankees Grab Big Lead

By BOB GARDNER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe this time it's for real.

New York Yankees have moved into first place on every one of the times they've been on the rest of the American League roster this year. But the chances of their staying there this time seem slim.

Each time, however, the Bombers rallied, or merely moved into first place by default, started acting like any other baseball club. The result has been New York's most frustrating League years in history.

Well, the Yankees are in first place again.

They romped on Kansas City's A's 9-3 Sunday for an 11th inning 10 home run Monday in sweeping a doubleheader from the Athletics, 6-4 in 10 innings and 11-3. The victories gave New York a lead of 3½ games, the largest enjoyed by a league leader this year.

Only the Yankees are in first place again.

They pounced on Kansas City's Dan Pfister for a 5th inning 10 home run Sunday in sweeping a doubleheader from the Athletics, 6-4 in 10 innings and 11-3. The victories gave New York a lead of 3½ games, the largest enjoyed by a league leader this year.

Only the Yankees are in first place again.

Los Angeles Angels regained second place when they defeated Washington 9-1 Sunday while Cleveland Indians slipped into fourth spot by losing a pair of games.

The Angels beat Washington Senators 6-1 in their first game but lost 10-4 in the second. Cleveland dropped a pair to keep the pace when it lost its third and fourth straight, 6-4 and 5-4 to Baltimore.

Minnesota Twins made it a banner day, Washington defeated Minnesota 4-3, Baltimore 5-2 and Detroit 3-1 while Boston and Chicago downed Detroit 4-3 and Cleveland 5-0 in second games.

Home runs accounted for 10 of the Yankees' 13 runs in the doubleheader. Roger Maris hit his 23rd and 24th of the year, Mickey Mantle his 23rd and Bill Skowron his 15th.

Clint Courtney homer in the 10th off Ryne Duren in the eighth frame forced the opener into overtime. Ken Hamlin's single in the 10th scored Courtney from the 10th. Bill Skowron's two-run homer in the 10th off Pfister in the second game provided the winning margin.

DENNIS EACH GAME

Jim Gentile's home runs decided both games. Gentile's 23rd knocked the Indians out of second place, 6-4 in the 10th inning of the first game and his 24th homer in the 6th decided the ninth inning of the nightcap, Chuck Estrada limited Cleveland to six hits, including a two-run homer by Willie Kirkland, in the opener.

Hi Gribe, who has a 6-0 career record against Washington, pitched the distance for the first time in 17 starts in pitching the Angels to their first game victory. Joe Koppe drove in three runs for Los Angeles runs on a homer and a single.

The Senators, however, punished six Angel pitchers, with 17-hit attack in the nightcap. Bob Burnside drove in three runs and Ken Hamlin two. Hamlin also stole three bases.

Jim Perry's double was the key to a two-run White Sox rally in the seventh inning against Detroit. His sharp hit that bounced off third baseman Don Mincher's glove was the one that broke a 3-3 tie and pushed Chicago's winning string to four. Rocky Colavito's 24th home run had tied the knuckle in the Tiger attack in the 6th.

Harmon Killebrew drove in four runs with a pair of doubles in Minnesota's victory over Boston. Jerry Kindall's single in the nine men in order in a three-inning relief appearance to save it.

WINS AUTO RACE

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Shanklin of Indianapolis, driving his first race of the year, won the Valvoline-sponsored ninth annual Metropolitan 200 at Dayton Speedway Saturday night.

Shanklin, driving a 1961 Ford, was leading a field of 39 cars when rain caused officials to stop the race at the end of 200 the Indianola asphalt track was last. Speed for the distance on 92.936 miles an hour.

Ashbury Wins at Valleyfield

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP) — Art Ashbury of Vancouver, Ont., drove Mix Canadians to a Canadian record for Class 398 power-boats in the annual Valleyfield Regatta on Lake St. Francis off this community 40 miles west of Montreal.

Ashbury covered the five-mile race—three laps on a course of 1 2-3 miles—at an average speed of 81.467 miles an hour Sunday to shatter the previous mark of 81.135 set in 1953 by Bernard Dacost.

Harold Bucholtz of North Tonawanda, N.Y., was second in Too Bad II and Bud Schroder, Jr., of Niagara Falls, N.Y., placed third in Miss Nimcould.

Stock Car Racing Kills Woman Driver

LANCASTER, N.Y. (AP) — A young woman stock car racing driver was killed Saturday night in a three-car accident during a race at Lancaster Speedway, just north of Buffalo.

The victim, Mrs. Shirley Rose Smith, 27, of Tonawanda, N.Y., was driving a late-model car, speedway officials said. She rolled over four times and she was thrown from it. None of the other drivers was severely hurt.

A crowd of about 2,700—including her husband, Thomas, who was in the pit area—witnessed the accident, which took place in front of the grandstand.

BREARS RECORD

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—Vancouver athlete Dave Steen, 20, broke his Canadian meet record set record Saturday with a throw of 56 feet, five inches, in the javelin event of the track team at the University of Oregon. He trimmed two feet, nine inches off the mark he set in Vancouver in 1960.

South Hastings Baseball League

Foxboro moved into a three-point lead at the top of the South Hastings baseball league standings on the weekend by dropping Latta 9-1 on Saturday night and then whipping them 8-3 count Sunday afternoon.

LATTA 1 FOXBORO 9

Foxboro broke open a 3-3 game with a six-run rally in the seventh inning, featured by Fred Young's three-run double.

Gerry Mann pitched the victory. He allowed only five singles and five walks in going the route.

Bill Pannage was the loser before being chased in the seventh with Lorne Crookwright taking over. They gave up ten hits, nine by Pannage, who fanned four and passed seven. Crookwright whiffed one and walked two.

Pete Young spearheaded the victors with his key double and two singles. Gerry Mann had two singles with one apiece for Gary Little, Al Dever, Glynn Reynolds, Keith Dickey and Bill Pannage.

Lorne Crookwright, with a double and single, and Don Harris, with two singles, paced Latta. Doug Rollins and Bill Sunnage also hit safely.

SHANNVILLE 2 FOXBORO 8

Foxboro trailed 2-0 count Sunday afternoon before scoring four runs in the fifth and four more in the sixth to pull out the decision.

Gordie Campbell hurled the win, scattering nine hits over the route while striking out four and walking only one batter.

Billy Hill, Dave Lewis and Bill Barberstock all scored one apiece for Shannonville, giving up 11 hits against them.

Pete Young once again led the Foxboro hitters, along with Keith Dickey, with a pair of doubles and a single. Other base hits were by Gary Little, Glynn Reynolds, Keith Dickey, Brian Skinner, Gary Little, Roy Sunnage and Gord Campbell.

Stub Bennett and Billy Hill had two hits apiece for the Shannonville squad. Bradshaw, Lewis, Reid, Barberstock and Bill Barberstock split the other safeties.

Lone Bettor Collects $121.60

Hits Bonanza On Hoofs!

By GEO. H. CARTER
Sports Editor

There was a four-pocket bonanza for those who bet wrong at the Quinte Driving Club harness meet Saturday night—but only one bettor had the Midas touch.

He placed two dollars "on the nose" of Reta Harrington's three-year-old colt April Hi — and the youngster returned the compliment by winning the feature head by his nose and paying $121.60. Place bettors took $14.10.

"Ken-the-Man" MacRoland, hockey personality, won the first heat with Miss Cheer Grattan, but finished third in the second.

The first heat saw "Kerry Bellini" owned and driven by Bernard Hunt, Tweed set back from second to fifth position when judges ruled "interference" with "Scottie Hy" responsible for the turn. "Bellini" placed second in the second heat.

The meet was the best of the officials faced with a large entry were forced to expand the card from four to five classes.

The crowd was good despite threatening weather and the racing fraternity by the evening finishes had issues in doubt up to the wire.

Temps 'er in brilliant stretch efforts, won the top class mooing out "Billy K. Sunray" with Keith Sellen driving. "Hy" in bunched finishes. The times were the best of the season 2.12 2-5 and 2.14 1-5.

"Sundown Direct" electrified the crowd in the fifth heat by sweeping from seventh position to win the second best over speedy "Polly C" first-best winner

Belleville - owned "Buddy C. Abbe" gave his backers a thrill by winning the fourth heat with "Miss True Volo" another city horse.

"Sunday May Gretton" had to go all out to hurl back the "Queen of Diamonds" Grattan and "Count Direct" in the B Classified race.

"Tripper Grattan" led the pack to the stretch in both heats but with the wire in sight "Sunday Max" flashed into the lead with "Betty Rennon" practically at the finishing wire!

In the hurriedly - arranged D-3 Classified, "Tripper Grattan won both heats handily with "Rapid C" the only threat.

The pari-mutuels office housed by Ballantyne Bros. caterer's office was again proved popular. The estimated "handle" was $2,200.

Both features are first showings.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE - IN — A scene from "Tammy Tell Me True," filmed in color and featuring Sandra Dee and John Gavin opened tonight at the Belleville Drive-In theatre. 2nd feature attraction also in color, is "Navy Air Patrol" starring John Derek and Diana Lynn.

Life in Alberta Foothills Full of Freshness, Pleasure

CALGARY (CP) — W. O. Mitchell, who left Toronto 12 years ago to find his "grassy tower," says small-town life in the Alberta foothills has helped him recapture the freshness of his childhood.

The author of Jake and the Kid radio and television series who recently won the Leacock award for humor, says that at last he has an opportunity "to stand still, stare and listen" to the community of High River, 40 miles south of here.

His "grassy tower" should not be confused with an ivory tower. It's a much more pleasant thing—"a green and cooling fragrance of sweet peas perhaps."

"I don't suppose there's an ivory tower anywhere now as untenanted — where I could bring along my wife, two sons, my dog and my cat. Dogs. If I could I don't think I'd like there. I'd miss quite a few things."

His haven in the foothills is "the beginning of the illusion of reality the writer tries to create —making sure that his life is steeped in that reality."

Mitchell said he has never been able to wax lyric about asphalt, gasoline fumes or the ozone that fills the air after a bus has gone by.

"Perhaps this is because I had a grassy tower childhood on the Saskatchewan prairies. Now I value the opportunity to stand still, to look and to listen. You can do these things well in a grassy tower."

WELL TIGHTOPE

What he calls "childhood freshness" is most of the magic of the writer's illusion of reality. It is the technique of reaching to the bottom of the bag of his own experience.

"I have often wondered what lower other trade writing can be compared to and sometimes I think the writer is like a professional magician and sometimes I think he is more like a trapeze artist.

"I know that both are in dire danger each time they perform. The magician is in danger of being found out. The trapeze artist is in danger of only losing his life."

In Alberta, Mitchell says, he has been able to rid himself of all distracting weights and as a writer can walk the tightrope with only sincerity and faith on his shoulders.

There is a garage in High River which has a wall with pigeon - holes for generators, regulators, fan belts and other automobile parts.

"And so in the grassy tower the writer finds his stock always full and varied," said Mr. Mitchell. "There's a mental pigeon hole for neighing and reeding laughs, a curse over a snoozle tube, a here a thrill, touch of an ancient hand.

These pigeon holes have a way of filling up in the grassy tower.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Hail Dipper, owned by Walter P. Mack of Windsor, Ont., set a track record of 1:49 2-5 for the 1¼ longs in winning the 57th running of the $9,945 Victoria Stakes as Woodbine's summer racing scene now shifts to Fort Erie.

The official feature of Woodbine's closing program — the 33rd running of the $12,725 Toronto Cup — was won by Burnt Rumor, who beat Yaze, Gun Shot Junior and Puss 'n Boots as the first four horses hit the wire with less than one length separating the first and fourth horses.

Hail Dipper, ridden by Charlie McFee, defeated Swerve by one length in a driving finish, as Aim a Fire, the pacemaker, hung on to collect third money. Hail Dipper, making only his s ond start, clipped one - fifth of a second from the track standard established by Cee Jay Hanover in 1957.

Hail Dipper picked up $6,186 and paid $5.60 to win.

It was the second stakes victory of the season for Burnt Rumor, a four - year - old related filly. Her 1962 earnings to $30,145. He p.d $14,80 to win $4.60.

Red Spray in the first race and Little Relick in the second paid a $178.80 daily double.

Beats Gardner In Final

Weslock Takes Amateur

TORONTO (CP) — Bill Gardner sent a lot of golfers to the showers early in the four-day Ontario amateur golf championships. But that was before he met Nick Weslock, 44-year-old perennial competitor on the provincial amateur scene.

Weslock old enough to be the 20-year-old Gardner's father, put an abrupt halt to the young golfer's round of upsets Saturday by defeating him 7 and 5 in the tournament's 51st match-play round.

And, the veteran said after it was all over, that he thought he played his poorest round of the tournament against Gardner.

Weslock, who won the Ontario Open at Windsor a few months ago, also took the amateur title in 1961, 1958, 1950 and 1944.

PUTS UP UPSET

Gardner, of Toronto's Pine Grove, achieved a major upset in the semi-finals when he defeated Gary Cowan, Canadian Amateur champion from Kitchener Rockway, on the 20th hole.

Gardner, now attending the University of New Mexico after giving up a golf scholarship at the University of Denver, rolled in a 12-foot putt for a birdie two on the second extra hole to beat the 24-year-old Cowan.

On his way to the final, Gardner, also heavily qualified for the tournament with a 76, eliminated some outstanding players, including Phil Farley of Scarborough, six-time winner of the Ontario Amateur.

Weslock carded an approximate metal score in the morning semi-final of 36 on the par-37 front nine and a three-over 37 on the back nine of the heavily wooded Summit Golf and Country Club north of Richmond Hill.

In the afternoon he was about par for the 2,500-yard front nine, while he finished five-up over Gardner, before going on to shoot four more pars.

Horlocks Blank Pepsi's 1-0

A home run by Malloy in the first inning stood up all the way as the Woods-Horlock Juveniles blanked the Pepsi's 1-0 at CNRA Park Saturday night.

It was a pitching battle from the start between winner Wayne Woods and Joe Harvey of the Pepsi's.

Woods allowed just two hits, striking out three and walking one. Harvey allowed four hits and neither fanned nor walked a batter.

Malloy's homey was the big blow while other Woods-Horlock hits went to Smith, with a double and single, and to Bonc, with a single.

Both clubs played good ball, the winners being charged with just one error and the loers with two.

LIKE FATHER — LIKE SON

For the first and probably the only time in motion picture history, the actor who plays the father figure is currently playing the very same role which his father made known throughout the world. The actor is John Barrymore Jr. and the role is that of Hardy Kruger, Martin Held and Felix Yousoupoff, the man who, in real life shot and killed the infamous monk, Rasputin. Also starring Edmund Purdom in the title role, "The Nights Of Rasputin" will begin its local engagement starting tonight at the air-conditioned Parks Theatre. Gianna Maria Canale has the featured feminine role in this Brigadier Films release.

On the same program thrilling suspense and few emotions, "Cry Double Cross" starring Hardy Kruger, Martin Held and Ingrid Van Bergen. A crime planned to go off like clockwork . . . fury and vengeance set the trap.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States, having swept aside Canada handily, is looking ahead to Mexico as its next opponent in American Zone Davis Cup tennis competition.

Americans Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston completed a 5-0 series blasting of Canada in the first round with straight-sets singles victories over Harry Fauquier, a native of Vancouver who lives in Toronto, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2. Ralston belted across seven service aces and beat Godfoot, from Waterloo, Que., 6-2, 9-7, 6-4.

The Italians now move into the zone final against Sweden, which defeated South Africa 4-1 at Basstad, Sweden Sunday.

Italy Routs Britain 5-0

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Italy routed Britain 5-0 in the European zone Davis Cup semi-finals.

Pierto Gardini put the finishing touch on the easy triumph by trouncing Mike Sangster 6-1, 4-6, 8-6 in Sunday's closing singles match after Nicola Pietrangeli had won, 8-6, 6-0, 6-1 over Tony Pickard.

The Italians now move into the zone final against Sweden, which defeated South Africa 4-1 at Basstad, Sweden Sunday.

McKinley and Joe Douglas won two four - set singles matches against Godfoot and playing captain Don Fontana of Toronto last Friday. McKinley and Ralston teamed to win the doubles Saturday in three sets against Godfoot and Fontana. The scores were 11-9, 7-5, 6-1.

WIN ONLY TWO

The Canadians captured only two sets in the three days, one by Godfoot and the other by Fontana.

Pigeon Racing

Only eight of 29 birds released early Saturday morning made the 370-mile trip in the allotted time.

Pigeons owned by Tom Woodcock took the first remaining positions behind Salmon's birdie.

The winning bird was clocked in at 3.40 Saturday afternoon after being released at 6.30 a.m.

Astrological Forecast

Tuesday, July 17.

BY SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Full Moon in "top" part of Solar horoscope indicates day of challenge, in which only your best will suffice. Keys are challenge, originality, drive.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — No matter how you press for immediate action, the best results come from long-range planning. Full Moon stresses vision, beauty, appreciation.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Stress on finances, but this is no time to go "bargain hunting". Strive for the best and you will receive it, at "right price". Show loved ones you care!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Day in which you achieve best results by using your brain, not brawn. Tonight: Good relaxing exchanging ideas through stimulating conversation, or reading newspapers and books.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — No time to overdo pleasure or work. Let moderation be the key. Trust hunches. Others may say they were talking "sense", but you must make your own decisions.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Full Moon favorably aspects your sign; today excellent for progress, travel, change, inspiration. Self-expression highlighted. Give of yourself, maintain honest policy of fair play.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct 22) — Details should be attended to early so you can relax tonight. Home improvement stressed, both physical and emotional. Listen to advice of trusted relative.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Chips are down where important relationship is concerned. Best course is truth and sympathy for viewpoint others may express. Be willing to talk and listen!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Find out early where you stand financially. No time to "pussy-foot". Stand tall and insist on your earned position. Otherwise, co-worker is tempted to "push".

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Full Moon in your sign highlights personality, personal interests, and how you "appear" to the world. Check public relations. Make sure your intentions are clear.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — No time for "secret fears." Ask questions and insist on answers. By so doing, you gain repect of others and also self-respect. Maintain sense of humor.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — End of cycle indicated . . . which means you should prepare for the new. Pull yourself out of rut. Let no habit "chain" you. Evening good for social affairs, romance.

If today is your birthday . . . don't attempt to force issues this month. You gain most by relaxed attitude. Enjoy vacation or brief holiday. Worry over finances does not help.

General Tendencies: Full moon stresses "showdown" between those who demand action and those who want more time. Indications are that persons born in July and November "win out".

Orange Parade Led by Scot Official

TORONTO (CP)—Orangemen, who traditionally celebrate the anniversary of their faith's victory at the battle of the Boyne, brought another parade Monday to Toronto Saturday Night.

Dr. Roger Bresnahan, Toronto lawyer and Scottish-born Orangeman, honorary deputy grand master of the Loyal Orange Lodge in Scotland, was sworn in as grand master during his visit to Canada.

Orangemen annually commemorate the Battle of the Boyne, fought July 1, 1690, on July 12—actually the date of the Battle of Aughrim. The celebration, held to mark a victory for the Protestant cause, is observed in Canada on the Saturday nearest the 12th.

The parade, through Toronto starting 12:00 marched and 30 bands, marked the victory of William, prince of Orange, over the Roman Catholic King James II.

Centenary

CENTENARY — Miss Emma Worden of Toronto is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ray.

Mrs. Roy Thrasher is visiting Miss Grace Wright in Utica, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Edmondson of Toronto were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Edmondson.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Koschenn and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest and Mrs. Moosely, of Trenton were visitors on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Edmondson of Toronto and Mr. and Mrs. R. Edmondson attended Centre United Church service on Sunday and had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Edmondson and family, in Napanee.

TERE IN CHILE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Skilful Columbia seizers and fishing methods will be introduced in Chile by the B.C. firm of J. H. Todd and Son Limited, which has acquired a one third interest in a new company at Iquique. A reduction plant, for anchovies and a fleet of five seiners will be operated.

Mrs. Smallwood Christens New Sealer

PORT WELLER, Ont (CP)—The St. John Crosbie was christened Saturday by Mrs. Joseph Smallwood, wife of Newfoundland's premier.

The 2,000-ton vessel was commissioned by Crosbie and Company Limited of St. John's, Nfld., and will be operated by Clyde Shipping Limited of St. John's as a sealer in Arctic waters.

A large crowd watched Mrs. Smallwood smash the traditional bottle of champagne against the bow of the ship at the Port Weller dry dock near St. Catharines.

After a luncheon following the ceremony, Premier Smallwood said:

"The christening of this beautiful ship brings us hope that we will now begin to see a great restoration of sealing—a trade which has all but died out in Newfoundland."

Frankford

FRANKFORD — Miss Gloria Patridge is spending a holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hodge and family in Trenton.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Chapman on the birth of a baby daughter in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Grant and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Chapman are spending a holiday with relatives in Alberta.

Master Randy Partridge underwent a tonsilectomy in Belleville General Hospital on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller are spending a holiday with relatives in Manitoba.

FAMILY REUNION

Approximately 60 members of the Wood family gathered at Presqu'ile Point on July 7 for a family reunion. Present were families from Toronto, Perth, Peterborough, Belleville, Frankford, Newcastle, Orland, Orono, Bowmanville and Hilton.

A ball game was enjoyed, also swimming, after which a sumptious dinner was served.

South African Artist Queried On Black Christ

CAPE TOWN (AP)—A young mulatto artist says South African police have asked him to explain his paintings of the Crucifixion showing a black Christ with the face of politically banned Chief Albert Luthuli. Two Roman centurions in the scene resemble segregationist Premier Hendrik Verwoerd and his justice minister Balthazar Vorster.

The painting, now hanging in St. Luke's Anglican Church in nearby Salt River, has stirred a controversy.

Ronald Harrison, the bearded 22-year-old painter, said police took him to Cape Town police station Saturday and requested him to make a sworn statement explaining the motives behind his work.

Harrison said his motives were entirely spiritual and had nothing to do with South Africa's segregation policies.

Bonarlaw

BONARLAW—Miss Sharon Burkitt, Miss Lois Morrow, Mr. H. Bagerman and Tim Finkle spent Sunday at Bencroft and Parkmen Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Dickie, Toronto, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dickie.

The Spry Settlement Sunday School rally was held on Sunday afternoon on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mc-Cann with 119 present.

MacMillan Fires 9 More Members Of Government

24 New Appointments To 'New Youth Look'

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan has made a radically transformed administration in the House of Commons today following his second series of wholesale ministerial changes in less than five days.

Macmillan, who dropped seven senior ministers from the cabinet Friday, fired nine more members of his government at a meeting last night and also made a total of 24 appointments to add to the 11 announced last Friday.

It was the second instalment in Macmillan's plan to give his government, and the Conservative party, a new, younger and more vigorous look in an attempt to recapture the voters who have been flocking in support the opposition Labor party and the resurgent Liberals in recent by-elections.

Monday night's appointments affected only one cabinet post, the aviation minister. Most of the changes were in ranks of ministers outside the cabinet and ministerial assistants.

As part of his new "youth look" Macmillan brought 12 young and promising backbenchers — one a fellow member of Parliament—on to the government team.

EVERYBODY MELEES

The "baby" of the new seven is 31-year-old Christopher Chataway, former sub-commissioner and TV commentator who was named parliamentary assistant to the education minister.

Among the major new appointments was that of Sir John Eccles, 59, as aide-to-premier.

Eccles succeeds Sir Reginald Manningham - Buller who was made lord chancellor, Britain's chief judicial officer, in last Friday's shakeup.

Julian Amery, 43, Macmillan's son-in-law, was promoted from the junior ministry—a military department—to aviation minister, in charge of civil aviation.

Amery was succeeded by Hugh Fraser, 44, former parliamentary undersecretary to the foreign office.

Lord John Hope, 50, minister of works, was replaced by Geoffrey Ripon, 36.

Katanga Riot At Roadblock Leaves 3 Dead

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) Three Katangans were reported killed and 15 were wounded when 10,000 screaming Negro women besieged a United Nations roadblock for three hours here today.

President Moise Tshombe of Katanga said a girl of 17 and a five-year-old boy were killed by bullets from the Indian UN troops who manned the roadblock. But a Red Cross worker said three persons were killed.

Indian officers, however, denied anyone had been shot and said shots were only fired above the heads of the crowd storming the roadblock. But a reporter said he saw a young woman shot while she was standing beside him.

Tshombe spoke to reporters after the shrieking women attacked the roadblock chewing at Indian troops and hurling them with stones.

The women dispersed after the UN brought up three armored cars in addition to one on the scene. Helicopters also patrolled overhead.

SWING RIFLE BUTTS

The Indians attempted at first to disperse the women peacefully but several of the soldiers lost their patience and waded into the mob with their rifle butts swinging.

The women—many of whom had babies slung on their backs —carried placards proclaiming the women of Katanga demand the withdrawal of the murderous United Nations mercenaries."

The placards also declared "down with the Kennedy-Adoula - Nehru clique." Cyrille Adoula is premier of The Congo.

Observers feared the demonstration might start another round of fighting between Katangan and UN forces though Katangan forces so far had taken no action on the side of the women.

Katangan soldiers and male civilians near the roadblock stood by laughing at the frantic attempts by the Indian troops to break up the demonstration.

Emergency Needs Prove Easy to Meet

SASKATOON (CP) — After the first 15 days of providing emergency medical services in Saskatchewan, the organizers of the scheme operated by the Canadian Medical Association say they are managing to get by with far fewer doctors than originally thought necessary.

Co-ordinators of the program, staffed free-of-charge by members of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons say experience also has proved that doctors are not suffering from exhaustion or overwork.

The latest estimate shows 189 doctors are working in 80 hospital centres, compared with some 220 in 28 centres July 1, when most doctors in the province stopped normal practice with the implementation of the controversial Medical Care Insurance Act.

CCF GATHERING AGREES TO HEAR DOCTORS' CASE

Convention Grants Physicians' Request

REGINA (CP)—Arrangements have been shaped for the first face-to-face talk between principals in Saskatchewan's bitter medical care dispute since doctors withdrew normal medical services July 1.

The CCF provincial convention at Saskatoon agreed Monday night to a request from the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons to have a representative of the college present the doctors' case to the convention Wednesday.

The convention will be attended by Premier Woodrow Lloyd and, as I know, I suppose does, what anti-rocket means, because we do have them." Western Canada Medical Association carried out by the United States Air Force in connection with the action of our global rocket," he declared.

The Soviet premier made clear he had no immediate intention of buying about a dozen of his provincial cabinet. Doctors were threatening to strike if the province in protest against implementation of the government-sponsored, prepaid medical care insurance plan.

It is not known whether the college representative will be college council President D. M. Dalgleish or Harry Link of Saskatoon, president of the provincial CMA association.

The request from the college marching one-time a few weeks before the act went into effect by Premier Lloyd. He asked only one question from the floor and the government's case on medical care insurance to the legislature session of the province's doctors.

Expect 8,000 Laid off In Oshawa

OSHAWA (CP) — About 8,000 workers at General Motors of Canada Limited will be laid off temporarily by the end of the week as the company starts its annual changeover to 1963 models.

Layoffs among the 11,000 members of the GM division of United Auto Workers (CLC) Local 222 have already begun. The annual vacation period for most production workers starts next week.

A GM spokesman said about 3,000 people will remain at work preparing operations for the new models. He said it is not expected most of the men will be at work by the end of August until the remainder by October.

Buggy Went Before the Horse, Dobbin Follows It to Oblivion

OTTAWA (CP) — The horse apparently is following the buggy into oblivion in Canada, farm results of last year's census indicate.

Figures published today by the bureau of statistics show that the horse population has dwindled by 812,631 from 1,306,639 to 1951 and 3,113,909 in 1931.

If horses continue to decline at the same rate—60 per cent during the 1951-61 period—there will be only about 300,000 left in nine years.

Among other trends pointed out in the census were sharp upswings in cattle breeding and turkey raising and drops in sheep production and dairy farming.

The decline of the horse was general although particularly noticeable in the prairies where 685,000 fewer were counted in 1961 than in 1951.

The census of farms with cattle fell to 376,058 last June from 432,487 five years earlier and nearly 600,000 in 1941. Total value was placed at $1,646,012,-765, up $51,000,000 in 10 years.

Milk cows fell to 2,987,261 head from 3,160,679 in 1956.

Alberta and Ontario now account for more than half the country's cattle.

Diefenbaker reversed a government decision to hold the census in 1961. He said he was influenced by children's letters.

The census in June last year indicated that livestock and poultry owned in Canada, Dominion-wide, were worth nearly $2,000,000,000, Ontario accounted for $1,000,000,000 and $390,-011,381, Alberta's big beef herds reached that province second at $387,000,000.

Canada's remaining horses were valued at $29,260,000 against $94,751,734, in 1951 and a whopping $414,808,000 in 1921.

Only 203,237 farms had horses, down 115,000 in five years and 250,000 in 10 years.

The cattle population increased 68 per cent between 1951 and 1961 to 11,941,184 head. There were 8,371,056 head in 1951, 7,098,000 in 1941 and 10 years earlier.

K. Says Russ Have Rocket That Cannot Be Destroyed

MOSCOW — Premier Khrushchev says the Soviet Union has a global rocket that can "hit a fly in outer space" and cannot be destroyed by "any anti-rocket means."

Khrushchev made the claim near the end of a 3½-hour interview with 13 American editors during which he also stressed that West Berlin is the crux of East-West dispute and must be settled by getting Western troops out of the city. But he set no new deadline for that.

"I am not boasting," Khrushchev told the editors in his Kremlin conference room, "but we actually have a global rocket which cannot be destroyed by any anti - rocket means, and I know, I suppose does, what anti-rocket means, because we do have them."

The high altitude explosion carried out by the United States

He added: "I repeat that the action of our global rocket," he declared.

Gordon Suggests Overhaul Of Rail Labor Regulations

EDMONTON (CP) — President Donald Gordon of the Canadian National Railways calls for an overhaul of regulations governing both labor negotiations and transportation to help the publicly-owned rail system meet growing competition.

Mr. Gordon said collective processes for dealing with union demands, Mr. Gordon suggested some form of voluntary binding arbitration might be the answer.

Mr. Gordon also said government regulations should be relaxed to allow the CNR to meet mounting competition from other modes of transportation.

He told a joint meeting of the local Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and the Chamber of Commerce Monday that measures to improve CNR efficiency should be part of a constructive drive by all Canadians to "improve our standard of living in our world environment."

Calling for "a greater measure of realism" in labor negotiations, Mr. Gordon said that "there is a tendency to overlook the rules of the game in the labor code so that there be equal rights and responsibilities for all parties and more adequate machinery for

Algeria Awaiting Outcome Of Military Chiefs' Talks

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Algeria today awaited the outcome of talks between a delegation of top nationalist political and military leaders and rebel army commanders in the Algerian provisional government.

The talks, aimed at preventing a conflict of Wilaya—the six military commands—from breaking out in the country—was aimed at devising a political basis for the Evian peace accords. Front (FLN) which led the nationalists per-war against France but has been split by quarrels that set unit and the remainder by October.

Once a political bureau is set up, the FLN will have a delegate for the elections set for Aug. 12 to vote in Algeria's first National Assembly.

Information Minister Mohammed Yazid said Saturday night that the meeting of the Wilaya leaders was being held midway between the camps of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda and Deputy Premier Mohammed Ben Bella.

Yazid said the quarrel between the two men was over the direction of the FLN and not over the political aims of

Killing Self Not Intent Of Soviet Spy Informs Court

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Robert. Soblen told a London court today he knifed himself aboard a New York-bound airliner not in an attempt to escape trenching British soil—and British justice.

In an affidavit supporting his fight against removal to the United States to face a life sentence as a Soviet spy, Soblen said he had no intention of committing suicide.

"The wound I inflicted on my wrist was insignificant," he said. "Had I inflicted a circular wound across my wrist, I would have bled to death.

"Similarly, the cut in the abdomen was insignificant. The skin and belly muscles, but did not penetrate into the abdomen itself."

Soblen said he jumped his bail and fled to Israel in the last month "because I was convinced of my own innocence of the counts against me, and because I felt that justice had not been done to me in the American courts."

Soblen was brought before the three-judge panel from Brixton prison on a writ of habeas corpus seeking his release from

FRENCH HOUSE BACKS PLAN FOR OWN DETERRENT

Defeats Censure Of de Gaulle Policy

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle's plan to give France her own atomic strike force won a political victory early today in the French National Assembly.

After Premier Georges Pompidou delivered an independent deterrent in an hour - long speech, the assembly voted at 1 a.m. to defeat a motion of censure aimed at blocking French production of atomic weapons.

A total of 306 deputies voted for censure—just the 244 of the majority needed in the 480-seat assembly.

The motion of censure was introduced by the Socialist and Radical Party and supported by some Roman Catholic and conservative critics of de Gaulle's European and military policies.

Observers saw the vote as significant because it constituted the endorsement of de Gaulle nuclear policy won without any concessions to his critics on the left or in western European strike force.

The defeat of the motion was considered to mean that effective parliamentary opposition to a French deterrent is finished and that de Gaulle can go ahead with his long-planned reorganization of the French military forces on a peace time footing without fear of obstruction.

DEFENDS POLICY

In his defense of the policy, Pompidou denied charges that an independent French deterrent would harm the solidarity of the Atlantic alliance.

"Far from weakening the alliance, it will strengthen it—by its existence and by the fact that it will be controlled by a country exposed to the first danger.

"It is in this way that it will play its real role as a deterrent because it is the only adversary in no doubt of the consequences of even a limited aggression."

The censure motion was specifically aimed at stopping the approval of government funds to build a French isotope separation plant and the 200,000,000 new francs ($40,000,000).

The plant can be used to build hydrogen bombs as well as to provide enriched uranium for industrial purposes.

Find Baby Girl Left in Car

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt of suburban Weston were astounded Monday when their baby disappeared while shopping to find a baby girl, apparently abandoned in their daughter's car.

Now they say they'd like to keep the blue-eyed two-year-old.

The Dicks, who have an 11-year-old daughter say they would like to adopt the baby.

GRANT CAMPBELL

CORNWALL (CP) — Stormont riding returned to the Liberal fold Monday by a scant margin of 92 votes of more than 25,000 cast.

In a battle that saw the lead change several times, Lucien Lamoureux, 41-year-old lawyer, watched the seat from Progressive Conservative Grant Campbell, who had taken the constituency from the Liberals in the 1958 general election.

Mr. Campbell, 39, and also a lawyer, said he will seek a recount.

Radioactivity in Babies' Glands Not Considered to Be Dangerous

WASHINGTON (CP)—A number of U.S. babies acquired mementoes of U.S. nuclear testing-instead of teddy bears, a state thyroid gland.

But a public health official said Monday the quantity of radioactivity detected was not considered damaging or dangerous. It did not warrant switching the babies from fresh milk to powdered milk.

Late last month, after alarm had been raised in the environment by contamination from U.S. nuclear testing in the atmosphere, the U.S. government flew 30 babies and their parents from Kansas City and St. Louis to New York for special scientific analysis of possible radioactivity in their thyroids.

Dr. Merrill Eisenbud of New York University, who made the analysis, later cautiously reported that there was no reason for alarm; that while the radioactivity in the Kansas City babies was found to be higher than in those from St. Louis, and Thursday, July 19th at 8 p.m. by order West. 219-21

ANGLICAN BISHOP DIES

GLOUCESTER, England (AP) Dr. Wilfred Askwith, 12, Anglican bishop of Gloucester, died Monday night after a long illness.

Council Agrees to Plan To Secure City Property For Paved Parking Lot

Belleville city council yesterday agreed in principle with the city parking authority in its long range plan for the acquisition of Pinnacle and Campbell Street property to enlarge its present Pinnacle Street parking lot.

The parking authority went on to acquire the Y.M.C.A. on Campbell Street and the Bedell property, Thompson property, and the Salvation Army property on Pinnacle Street for increased parking facilities.

The plan would be to raze the buildings and turn the properties into a paved parking lot, Glenn S. Templeman, parking authority chairman, said last week the four properties would about double the area of the present parking lot.

The recommendation of the parking authority was that the four properties be purchased or if need be expropriated.

Council however reworded the recommendation exempting the Salvation Army property from expropriation proceedings.

Mayor A. M. Haig told council it was his understanding that the Salvation Army was anxious to sell its Pinnacle Street property.

Irving Shulman, chairman of the downtown businessmen's association, told council that his association heartily endorsed the proposal of the parking authority to provide additional off-street parking.

He said there was a "crying need" for parking in the downtown area and the plan proposed would be a step forward in the progressive attitude of the city.

He said it was most vital that additional off-street parking become a reality instead of just talk.

He noted that the cost of the project would be borne by the parking authority and not by the ratepayers.

Ton Templeman, local solicitor, spoke on behalf of Dr. Gerald Morton, noting that his client was currently in the process of purchasing the Stobie property for use by Radio CJBQ.

STANLEY PARKETTE

Friday the 13th arrived as a lucky omen for all, while those of the Stanley Parkette Playgrounds waited with fingers crossed for the Pet Show to go without a hitch. The morning was filled with the various preparations for such a show and races, and when the two o'clock hour arrived almost feel the excitement in the air.

The prizes went to: Brian Kullen and John McLaughlin for the best pair; Stephen Thompson for the goldest fish; Debbie Dobson and Sandra Barker for the most obedient pet; Stephen Thompson for the goldest fish; Debbie Dobson and Sandra Barker for the most obedient pet; Stephen Thompson for the smallest dog; Kim Allen for the dog with the longest ears; Chris Willis for the dog with the most; Hilary Brown for the most loveable cat and Barbara Hayman for the pet with the funniest name.

After a brief interlude, prizes were given out.

After the pet show, races were held for the different age groups and the winners of these races were:

Girls, 5-7 — Terry Lynn Fleming, Sandra Fleming, Martha Fleming; boys, 5 - 7 — Billy Green, Mark Butler, Larry Kirby; Girls, 8-10 — Susan Sinclair, Brenda McLaughlin, Linda Kullen and Donna Kirkman; boys, 8-10— Thomas Woodman, Thomas Kumph and Michael Kumph; boys, 11-13 — John McLaughlin, Maurice Nellechen, Ron Wyke.

A baby race was held and Wendy Lloyd was the winner.

Much of fun was had by all of the participants and by the parents who attended, and it is almost certain that the visitors from Bayview School Park enjoyed themselves also.

Chas. Whytock Laid to Rest At Madoc

Funeral service for Charles N. Whytock, one of Madoc's best and most highly respected residents of Madoc village, was held from the Madoc United Church on 16th from the MacKenzie Funeral Home in Madoc. Interment was in Lakeview Cemetery.

The funeral was largely attended by friends and relatives and by acquaintances from Madoc and district. Graveside service was held Sunday evening and was under the direction of Madoc Lodge A. F. and A.M. No. 45, Monday's funeral service was conducted by Rev. R. A. Milley.

The bearers were George Duffin, Ralph Neal, Russell Lewis, Kelvin Kincaid, William McCoy and Gerry Neylon.

Mr. Whytock, who until his retirement 20 years ago, operated a grocery and meat store, died Saturday in Belleville General Hospital. He had been in failing health for the past few years.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Whytock, he was born at Madoc and lived all his life in the village all his life where he was a member of Trinity United Church.

He took an active part in the affairs of the community and was a member of the Madoc high school board for 25 years.

He also took a keen interest in sports and as a young man played on one of the early lacrosse teams of the district. He was also fond of curling and baseball with interest.

He was a life member of Madoc Lodge A. F. and A. M. No. 45 and R.A.M Chapter 161 Madoc.

Mr Whytock is survived by his wife, the former Miss Bertha Brown, a son Dr. Carl Whytock of Sharbot Lake and a daughter Mrs. H. (Mary) Hamilton of Montreal.

Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Alex (Lolie) McGregor of Napanee and four grandchildren. A son Captain Don Whytock was killed during World War II while serving with the Canadian Army.

Woods-Gordon Co. Hired To Study Administrative, Works and Police Depts.

TRENTON — In spite of opposition from Trenton Police Commission, Trenton council voted last night to hire the Woods-Gordon Company, consultants in the field of city government, to conduct an investigation into the workings, expenditures, etc. of the staff of the public works department, the police department and the municipal administration set-up of the town.

Three members of the commission, Police Chief F. J. Lloyd, Secretary Anderson and Magistrate T. Y. Willis, disapprove of the proposed investigation. Mayor James MacDonald, a commission member by virtue of his office, strongly favors the enquiry and voted with council with the exception of Councillor C. V. Graham, who opposed the investigation on the ground that the experts, ("best in the business" according to mayor) could show them how to run the three departments, the town's 14 police agencies more efficiently and more economically.

C. V. Larry, clerk-comptroller, who heads up the town's administrative system, said that he "welcomed the investigation." Engineer Eric Alderney, head of the public works department, echoed Mr. Larry's sentiments.

Councillor Todd, as did several others, stressed the fact that the proposed investigation is not designed to criticize the administration but but is a way of finding out if things are being run as efficiently or can be run more efficiently. If Woods and Gordon discover that more staff is needed in any department, council will go along with that, too.

GRAHAM OPPOSED

Councillor Graham is against the idea. "You'll get a heck of a lot of bum publicity out of it," he declared.

"This investigation was prompted by other cities' experiment heads and town employees," insisted Councillor Donald McDonald. "All big companies call in expert advice," added Councillor James Duncan, chairman of the public works' department. "None of us has the time to do it ourselves," he added.

"We're amateurs at this type of thing," agreed Councillor Lloyd Worrall. "To me, whole question is one of expense," said Councillor Ross Burtt. "We're not counting people's money. Maybe we don't need so many. I'm not sure," said Councillor Todd.

Council, (again with the exception of Councillor Graham,) voted to hire Woods-Gordon agreeing with the police commission that the consultants were not to expert. The cooperation of all departments of the police force, once the consultants are on the job, in spite of the disagreement of Mayor MacDonald and the police commission.

Estimated spending in the Trenton Departments for 1962 is approximately $457,600.

FIREMEN'S PROBLEM

Town solicitor Roderick Campbell reported to council that under the Ontario Highways Traffic Act, a motorist should "come to a reasonable stop to the right hand of the road as possible," when he hears a siren of an approaching fire truck, and that "no driver should follow a fire truck at a distance of less than 500 feet from the vehicle."

Acting on a complaint from Fire Chief Bill Ellis, that motorists obstruct the passage of fire vehicles by "attempting to keep up" behind the fire, council had asked the solicitor to bring down an official ruling on the expected action of motorists.

Having learned the official viewpoint, as laid down by the highway act, town council now feels that the matter should be brought to the attention of the police and fire chiefs to see that, it is strictly up to members of the force to apply the terms of the act.

Archie McNeill of Quinte Plumbing and Heating has made an offer to purchase two-and-a-half unopened lots on the west side of Sidney St., south of the Grill-Tool plant. This is serviced land, designated by town planners as "industrial." The Trenton Economic Development Committee, headed by Councillor Lloyd Worrall will discuss the matter with Mr. McNeill, and report to the individual who has put in a bid for some other parcel of land, when a certain retail business would be more in order.

Fred Chard of Edwards St., has made an offer to the town to purchase a lowerwood (and unused), lane at the back of his property, which he wishes to use as a carport. Town engineer Eric Alderney will look the situation over, find out what other street residents, if any, object to the closing of the lane, and report back to council.

TO PAVE SHOULDERS

Since the Distar-Ferrand Company of Toronto is engaged in laying asphalt on Division St., it seems to the town fathers, that since the company's equipment is "already reasonable", now might be a good time to improve a certain sex, that since the company's west as far as funds will permit—the north-side of Dundas St. this much-travelled street, and would also be a good idea.

The town solicitor will see what the Highway Traffic Act has to say about the advisability of coal-carrying trucks and other heavy traffic, and merchant is obliged to cover the coal load in this kind of weather, so that it won't blow around.

TO SAVE SHRUBBERY

Since the town's gardens commission is having trouble with its septic tank. To build a "by-pass" around it, the present process runoff—from a nearby street—would have to be diverted, council $10,000. Council settled for the building of a "back-drain" from the tank to the creek for $150. The town engineer will arrange for this work to be done.

Councillor Ross Burtt asked for an explanation of the law which to bar the roof of the town hall on King Street, west.

Councillor Graham reported that he and Councillors C. V. Larry and Councillor McDonald had visited the Ontario-Baptiste-Cedar and Ferry St. area, for the purpose of looking into complaints from some residents that weeds were growing and that the area abounded in old out-buildings.

As for the most part, said the councillor, the committee had met with co-operation from street residents who had promised to remedy the situation. Two railway companies have already cut weeds along C.N.R. tracks.

However, one Cedar St. resident said that he "would tear down his garage if it was not good and ready," and another disclosed that a building permit, required for him to effect repairs to his leaning chimney, had not been issued that he had decided to leave the chimney the way it is.

TO CLEAR WEEDS

Council decided to back the Trenton health board in whatever action it deems fit to clear the town of weeds. The board has advocated that weeds must be cleared up by a certain date, and after that, the town crew will cut them down and remove the weeds, and charge the cost of the work back to the land-owners in taxes.

Some well-meaning residents have thoughtfully removed dead limbs from trees but have tossed the limbs onto the street.

The town engineer will arrange to have signs reading "Community Gardens," accompanied by a directive arrow, erected at the corners of Bay and Dundas St. E.; Bay and Flindall Sts., and Dundas St. E. and Flindall St.

Councillor Graham reported that the Trenton Traffic Committee had ruled that a proposed recreation committee street dance was to be held in September could be held in one of three places and the government dock (favored by the traffic committee), the municipal parking lot on Albert St., in front of the library.

The traffic committee has recommended that a school guard be hired for the West St. crossing of Kitchener St. for students from Queen Elizabeth School. A recent survey established that the bulk of children who cross West St., cross at Kitchener and one of them "don't even look," for oncoming traffic.

Existing parking conditions and proposed parking regulations were discussed at length, although council was rather at a loss to explain a reference to "street cars," contained in one clause of the town's parking by-law. It was decided to place a sign near the corner of Front and Dundas St. W., where the absence of a meter would indicate that parking is not allowed but where motorists park just the same, making it difficult if not impossible, for traffic to turn right on Front St. after crossing the bridge.

Group Views Bridge Sites

TRENTON — Last Friday, Ontario Minister of Highways, the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, and Elmer Sandercock, MLA for Hastings West, visited Trenton accompanied by Mayor Macdonald and Councillors Graham, Burtt and Duncan, looked over proposed sites for a second bridge for the town. Mr. Goodfellow is understood to have been "appalled" at the lowness and general condition of the railway underpass in North Trenton, (close to the CNR junction) and on Sidney St.

Boys Rouse Tenants in Burning Block

WAWA, Ont. (CP) — Two youths ran through the halls rousing sleeping tenants today as flames swept through a bowling alley and apartment building.

No one was injured but 15 persons were left homeless. Five other families were forced out of an adjoining apartment block by smoke.

Wawa is 140 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Urge Stricter Supervision At 'Y' Camp

BALA, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury recommended Monday night that stricter supervision be carried out on visitors' days at the Young Men's Christian Association camp on Cedar Lake, five miles east of here.

The jury was inquiring into the death of James Hord, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hord of the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke, who drowned at the camp July 8.

While finding the drowning accidental, the jury recommended that older counsellors be responsible for all children under the age of 13 and that the boat where the boy drowned be designated as a boys' boat.

Bala is about 40 miles north of Orillia.

IN MEMORIAM

CAMPBELL — In loving memory of Mary Campbell, who passed away, July 18th, 1949.

Time is gone but not forgotten,
And as years another reel,
Memories keep you ever with us,
Dear Mary, until we meet.

The day of sadness will come over me,
Dear Mary, when I think of you.

But little know the sorrow,
That lies within the heart concealed.

—Lovingly remembered by son Leonard and family.

tario constituency had been deferred two weeks because of the death of the original Liberal candidate.

Final returns gave Mr. Lennox current, an aide to Liesel Chevrier who represented Stormont in the Commons for 10 years, 11,981 votes to Mr. Campbell's 11,388.

Social Credit candidate Mel Rowat and NDP candidate Mrs. Marjorie Cohen trailed far behind with 1297 and 970 votes respectively.

NIP AND TUCK

The result was in doubt until the last of 168 polls came in. Only five polls before that Mr. Campbell had taken the lead after switching every a 46-vote margin his Liberal opponent had built up.

Mr. Campbell led by 60 votes with 165 polls counted.

Poll 38, near the centre of Cornwall, gave Mr. Lennox an 80 votes to 69 for Mr. Campbell. Then rural poll 9 at Cryder came through with 101 votes for Mr. Lennox to while giving Mr. Campbell 38 that put the Conservative candidate behind by 34 votes. This time Mr. Campbell stayed behind.

Poll 50 in north Cornwall added four votes to the Liberal's margin and rural poll 16 at Moose Creek, traditionally a Liberal stronghold, supplied the clincher by giving Mr. Lennox a resur 100 votes to Mr. Campbell's 35.

The result drew mixed reactions from party spokesmen.

Liberal Leader Pearson said Mr. Lamoureux' victory is a "further condemnation of the Diefenbaker government and it emphasizes the absolute necessity of the Conservatives, who are a minority government, initiate parliament together immediately."

REFRAINS FROM COMMENT

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who reserves comment on by-elections, followed this practice by refraining from comment. But Thorvaldson, national president of the PC party, said there was "not wholly unsurprised with the result." He described Stormont as "as safe as Tory holds it was". —Mr. Campbell's 1958 victory was the only defeat from the Liberals in the riding's history —and said the strong PC showing in Cornwall proves the government program since June 18 is "receiving a generally favorable response in Canada".

Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, said he found some satisfaction in the fact that Mr. Rowat received almost four times as many votes he he polled in 1958—2,287 compared with 825.

Real Caouette, Social Credit's deputy leader, said the result showed Stormont voters "are not concerned," that they "are satisfied with the high and austerity."

The was no comment Monday night from the NDP.

Among those in the Liberal reconstruction party was Mr. Chevrier, who now represents Montreal-Lafontaine in the Senate, Mr. Lamoureux was executive assistant to Mr. Chevrier when the latter was minister of transport in the St. Laurent administration.

Mohawk Indians of the St. Regis reserve of Cornwall and Hogansburg, N.Y., had a big influence. River here, generally considered Liberal, fearing that by voting they would forfeit their treaty rights. There are 344 Indians eligible to vote. Only seven cast ballots.

Will Not Join Westend Roads

No action will be taken at this time to connect Wright Ave. and Glen Road and thereby allow extension of the city bus route to the Avondale area.

The recommendation for no action was presented by members of a special city council committee to the council meeting with township of Sidney officials.

It was noted that the township disapproved the layout of the proposed street, while there was also possibility of objection by organization by owners of the land involved.

Some weeks ago the city transit committee requested connection of the two roads to allow extension of the bus route in the area and provision of a better bus service.

Rotarians Hear Talk by Fair Board Treasurer

The 1962 Belleville Fair will offer the finest line of attractions which the fair has ever produced in its 100-plus years of operation as the premier exhibition of local produce and agriculture in Hastings County, fair board vice-president and treasurer Robert Phillips told local Rotarians at their weekly dinner meeting in the Hotel Quinte yesterday afternoon.

In an endeavor to set a new record for attendance and to top the 76,000- mark there have been a number of changes made this year to attract more people to the fair, he advised. This was being done in the form of a greater variety of top-flight, grandstand entertainment featuring the Ontario dirt track motorcycle championship races, a card of ivy wrestlers, harness racing under the lights with pari-mutuel betting privileges and an ice capades show.

Few people realize that in Canada agriculture is 25 years ahead of the Russians and that Canadian farmers supply the rest of the world with quality cattle, Mr. Phillips stated. Many of the finest examples of these cattle will be seen at the Belleville Fair, he said.

There is more to a fair than the midway and the grandstand show, the speaker declared. There is a lot to be seen elsewhere on the grounds where the cream of the crop of local agriculture is on display and in competition to determine which is the best of the species or class. This feature of an agricultural fair is undoubtedly what has made fairs an important part of Canadian agriculture and has helped this industry to achieve such a great lead over the agricultural achievements in the communist world, he asserted.

Mr. Phillips indicated that it was hoped that space for displays by local industries and firms would be improved in the near future. This year, for the first time in the fair's history, there would be a 24-hour patrol of the grounds to ensure that displays in the open would be protected at night.

PARTNERS IN PROJECT

He complimented the local Rotarians on being the first service club to take an active part in promoting the Belleville Fair and welcomed them as "partners" in one of the major community service projects in Hastings County.

Following the guest speaker's address he was presented with a "Belleville Fair Hat". Rotary president Harry Burns, Rotarian Bob Lansing then outlined the club's project and hat were quickly sold to Belleville, Fair president Carl Thompson and Rotary; president Burns.

The proceeds from the sale of "Belleville Fair hats" will be used to help crippled children, the Rotary Club's major service project. This means of raising funds first got its start last year when the club sold all out to sell hats to publicize the International Plowing Match.

A hatting bee followed the adjournment of the meeting as the club members clustered about the hat hawkers to get outfitted in the 1962 style.

It was announced during the meeting that the 1962 Easter Seal campaign had realized a net record of $5,160.37 in contributions.

Council Suggests Remedies For 'No Gas, Fast Parking Tickets'

The inability of visiting motorists to purchase gasoline after 11 o'clock at night, and the habit of city police and parking attendants to be a little too fast with the parking ticket pencil were matters of concern for city fathers at a special meeting of council yesterday.

The complaint was that a motorist driving on 401 highway had driven into the city during the night in an attempt to buy gasoline and when he had his attendants to be a little too fast with the parking ticket pencil were matters of concern for city fathers at a special meeting of council yesterday.

The complaint was that a motorist driving on 401 highway had driven into the city during the night in an attempt to buy gasoline and when he had his attendants to be a little too fast with the parking ticket pencil were matters of concern for city fathers at a special meeting of council yesterday.

And Alderman Jack Ireland said also there was considerable complaints about parking tickets being handed out in Bellleville.

However, he said that steps were being taken to remedy such as at getting immediately the city parking authority had authorizes the passing out of 15 minute "courtesy" tickets on the city's two municipal parking lots.

And he said that the matter would be taken up with the traffic committee with the view of giving motorists the consideration at street-side parking meters.

Mayor A. M. Haig said in his opinion a bit more discretion should be used in the handing out of parking tickets and also tickets for speeding, especially to strangers passing through the city.

He suggested a bit more leniency should go dutch for better public relations.

Alderman Walter Elliott broached the matter of Belleville being a "gasless" city at night and said there is a serious matter for strangers who are directed off 401 for food and accommodation only to find they cannot buy gas after 10 o'clock.

He noted that according to the local service station law new gasoline cannot be sold after 11 o'clock.

Ald. Haig suggested the by-law needed immediate revision in the 24 hour service by certain stations.

Pay Parking Fines Now, Not Later

Belleville motorists may soon be able to pay their overtime parking fines by dropping a few coins into a curbside box rather than trek to the city hall as is required at present.

At the special meeting of city council yesterday it was noted that this was the policy in Toronto other centres and was meeting with good response especially with visitors.

The procedure is that special curbside boxes and envelopes are provided for the use of overtime parkers.

They merely drop the cash in an envelope along with their parking ticket and that is the end of the matter.

But in Belleville payment of a late afternoon parking ticket is a much more complicated matter especially for strangers. Parking tickets say they may be paid at city hall, but the municipal offices close at 4:30.

Those in the know realize tickets may be paid at the police station when city hall is closed but a stranger doesn't know this and the only recourse he has is to mail in his fine.

City councilors are interested in the curbside boxes and have authorized City Clerk Adam Stalker to contact officials in municipalities where they are used and get more information.

W.C. Purcell Is New City Engineer

A new city engineer replacing Malcolm M. Turnbull who has gone to St. Catharines, was hired by Belleville city council yesterday.

He is Wilbur C. Purcell, 37, currently municipal engineer for the urban development area of Manitouwadge in Northern Ontario who will arrange his new duties here on September 1st. He will receive a salary of $9,200.

Since Mr. Turnbull left the municipal city engineer Richard Kraft has been acting city engineer for Belleville.

Mr. Purcell is a native of Fort William and holds a bachelor of sciences degree in civil engineering and a masters degree in sanitary engineering. He was formerly township engineer for two years at Atikokan in Northern Ontario and was assistant city engineer at St. Thomas for three years.

A naval veteran of the last war, he is married with four children.

Will Rezone Part Church St. To 'Commercial'

City council yesterday approved a recommendation from the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board calling for the amendment of the Official Plan and Zoning by-law to allow rezoning of the west side of Church Street between Bridge and Campbell Streets from residential to commercial.

The proposed re-zoning recommendation was before council several years ago but was objected to by one of the owners in the area.

The change in zoning would be to allow the Quinte Hotel to establish a parking lot at 216 Church Street.

It was noted that the parking lot already existed but the owners had no authority to tear out cars other than those owned by hotel customers.

Alderman Stuart Robb noted that members of Bridge Street United Church now use the lot and suggested if the zoning was changed the hotel could use of the lot to church members.

"You're not suggesting that they continue to use the lot illegally" asked Mayor A. M. Haig.

He said that for the church to object to the zoning change was an envelope along with their parking ticket and that is the end of the matter.

If the court rules in the 60-year-old fugitive's favor, his lawyers plan to press his appeal to the home office for asylum as a political refugee. He is suffering from leukemia—incurable cancer of the blood.

Israeli authorities refused to let Sobibo stay in Israel and on July 3 put him aboard a chartered airliner bound for New York via Athens and London. With him were an Israeli doctor and U.S. marshal James McShane.

The fugitive spy's affidavit, read to the court by his chief counsel, F. Elwyn Jones, said he knocked himself about an hour after the plane left from Athens.

Sobibo's affidavit indicated he was silently bleeding in the herself airsick, bleeding his wounds anew, until 25 minutes before the plane was due to land at London Airport to report.

The espionage charge against him is not extraditable under the Israeli-British and the United States. He made the flight to Israel on a dead brother's Canadian passport.

His case is somewhat similar to that of Soviet agent Gerhart Eisler, who jumped bail in the United States in 1949 and escaped the Atlantic on the Polish liner Batory. British agents removed him from the ship at the request of the United States but a British court ruled that Eisler went to East Germany and is the propaganda chief of the Communist regime there.

City Firm Makes Large Crest For Calgary

A local firm achieved a milestone in its production of specialty items yesterday. Aluminum Star Products shipped out an 11 by 10 foot casting of the coats of arms for the city of Calgary, the largest crest which the firm has made to date.

Primarily interested in the manufacture of aluminum letters for buildings and stores, the firm, which is directed by Stan Kvarda, started into the casting of crests in a small way over a year ago.

Since that time, when they perhaps received such an order every three weeks or so this specialty line has grown - in both volume and size. Where the crest 30 inches in diameter was considered large now a crest seven feet in size is considered as quite normal.

Orders for crests, heraldic shields and coats of arms have come in from municipalities, governments, churches, institutions, firms and private individuals.

An order is completely fulfilled on the firm's premises. From the drawing up of the plans for the mould, through the rough casting and machining to the final polishing in proper colors the local firm handles everything if necessary.

Locally examples of the firm's efforts in this specialty line may be seen in the county's coat of arms on the county administrative building and in the provincial coat of arms on the new Ontario Provincial Police building.

Dangerous Driving Brings Fine of $25

James Frederick Chumbley of Belleville, this morning in city magistrate's court, was fined $25 and costs, and had his license to drive a motor vehicle suspended for three months. He was convicted of careless driving, on police evidence that he had been clocked at speeds up to 70 mph on the city of Belleville, had gone through a red light, and had turned corners dangerously.

Chumbley was eventually stopped by the police when he was forced to slow by a heavy truck, which blocked his path.

Conscience Money Sent From Belleville

The Department of Finance through F. R. McNaughton, departmental accounts, has acknowledged receipt of ($250.00) "conscience money" received in an envelope addressed "To Government of Canada, Ottawa, Ont." postmarked Belleville, Ontario, July 10, 1962, 6 p.m.

for the settlement of disputes such as those that have characterized the railway industry."

HOLDING VALUE

Federal conciliation procedures now are in operation in a dispute between the major Canadian railways and 25 unions representing about 100,000 non-operating employees some 74,000 of them CNR employees. Union wage and job-security demands would cost an estimated $46,000,000 annually—about $35,000,000 to the CNR.

Mr. Gordon said that while many major industries deal only with a single union each, CNR has almost 200 labor contracts with 16 different unions and "continuous day-by-day negotiation is therefore unique to our industry and never ceases."

The CNR president also urged revision of traditional rules and policies along the lines of recommendations published last year by the royal commission on transportation.

In particular, he said, there is a need for freedom to set freight rates "in accordance with economic reality;" freedom to drop uneconomic branch lines and passenger services; separation of national policy from national transportation policy and freedom to adopt flexible transport services through the use of systems other than railways.

Cannot Trust Our Eyes

A psychologist shudders at the thought of appearing in court of law, with good reason. Having studied the human mind, he well knows how fallible it is, a factor lawyers often choose to ignore.

"Is this the man, or is this not the man?", is one question too often asked. "Did a vehicle pass while you were standing on the corner, or did no vehicle pass?", is another another. The witness may be unsure, but too often a cross-examining lawyer will press for a positive statement anyway. The psychologist must reflect that even when the witness is sure, there may be room for considerable doubt. Mistaken identity is an old bogey in the courts. It is perfectly possible for a man to stand alone on a street corner, with only one car passing in an hour, and not be able to say for sure whether that car did or did not pass. He may even be sure he saw it, if it had happened," is not evidence enough. There are too many factors affecting what is seen consciously, and what is not seen consciously, even of the relatively restricted subject matter passing in front of our eyes. In concrete terms, we cannot trust our eyes even to convey correctly what we are looking at.

is a common example of an optical illusion. The more intelligent a person is, the less likely he is to notice that the word "the" is repeated in this phrase, when it is written in the pyramid form. In certain circumstances, almost anything may be hidden from conscious sight, within almost any context. Freudian theory points up how countless other sights and sounds, perceived consciously, can become clouded in memory. The human eye contains a positive blind spot, where the optic nerve enters the eye ball, which can, (but normally does not), obscure details of a scene.

Scopomaline, often mis-named a "truth serum" is often useful in getting an unconscored account of an event clouded by a person's subconscious, or unconscious, distortion. The also misnamed lie detector is helpful in getting at truth. Neither is permitted in court, as both are considered fallible. Hypnosis may be, but few psychological tricks for unfolding the mistakes of the human mind are as fallible as the mind itself.

Credit Union Crazy-Quilt

"Credit union membership in the United States and Canada does not follow any fixed pattern or clear trend," says the 1962 Credit Union Year Book. A quick glance at a map of the United States and Canada printed in different colors to indicate the percentage of the population who are credit union members tempts one to contest this statement. The lowest concentration of membership appears to be in the Canadian Arctic, populated by Eskimos, and in the hill-billy and Deep South areas in the U.S. Then, suddenly, one discovers that populous and wealthy New York State is in the same classification.

A credit union is defined in the booklet as "a group of people who save their money together and make loans to each other for good purposes at low rates of interest." Belleville has several credit unions. An estimated 14.68 per cent of Canadians belong to credit unions, compared with only 4.96 per cent of Americans. Provincial with over 10 per cent of the population as credit union members are British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Quebec and New Brunswick.

As the booklet says, there seems to be no fixed pattern here. The high percentage of credit unions in Saskatchewan is probably the result of encouragement from the CCF government. The interest which the Catholic Church has taken in promoting such unions probably accounts for their popularity in Quebec and perhaps also in New Brunswick, where there is also a large French-Canadian population. A possible explanation of the popularity of the movement in British Columbia would appear to be the large number of people from Britain residing there—until consulting another map one discovers, to one's amazement, that Britain, the birthplace of the Rochdale co-operative movement, has less than five credit unions. Equally startling is the fact that co-operative-conscious Sweden is shown as having no credit unions whatever.

In Catholic Central and South America, only one country, Uruguay, has no credit unions and only two Nicaragua and Paraguay, have less than five. But Cuba not only has no credit unions but has expressed no interest in establishing such organizations.

New Election Unlikely Now Socreds Want a Trial Run

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — There is evidence around the country that the major parties are afraid of another election soon.

Meetings of Liberal and Conservative candidates — both elected and defeated last June — have been held in Ontario and Quebec.

These are soul-searching sessions — they are asking themselves why they lost where they did, why they won where they did, how their opponents got at them.

The imbalance in the House of Commons leads them to believe the minority Tory government will not last long.

But there seems to be a different opinion among the mass of freshmen Social Crediters.

They are clearly preparing themselves for a solid session of Parliament.

And they — with 30 fat seats to their credit — hold a very large balance in Parliament — when it gets around to meeting.

It's a plain fact — the government cannot be defeated unless the Socreds vote against it.

It's a not-so-plain fact that the Socreds are not keen on doing this at once. They seem to want to try themselves out in the Commons for a while.

Some evidence of this has been presented within the past week.

Only one newly-elected MP — George Hahn, from the Liberals in Ottawa West — managed to have himself sworn in since the Quebec Socreds arrived en masse to have themselves placed in office.

SOCREDS ACT QUICKLY

Premier Manning's top-as-deputy leaders of federal Socreds, led by his Quebec followers like so many drones.

He saw them sworn in office (some of these way-out-right-bop leaders had insisted on the oath, of allegiance to the Queen being dropped) and to a committee room for a series of lectures on Parliamentary behavior.

It was a real family affair. Wives, mums and even M.L.A.'s sat in with them — easy conversation and wisecracks filled the sessions when it was all over.

But Caouette came through strong and the Socreds, when they left the first meeting, were all clutching the little green copies of Parliament's rules.

They had been told to study them and they did. When the next meeting began the following day, they were ready to answer the right questions.

The relative position of Caouette and party leader Robert Thompson showed strongly in those sessions.

Caouette ran the new members. Thompson sat up to three hours late for the last meeting — it was finished, as a matter of fact.

When the meetings were over, Thompson and Caouette answered some questions in a way which made it plain they were leg on leg for an election.

They were not even in a hurry for a meeting of Parliament — it seems they want a chance to get their strength there.

THIS was a last switch from the stand taken by Caouette a week earlier. He was not wearing it then, and while Thompson told reporters he was willing to go

CAOUETTE HAS PROBLEM

More Facts On Futility of Death Penalty

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Not only do I believe that capital punishment is morally wrong and socially pointless — as most penologists would agree — but I also believe the wrong victims.

In my public mind, for instance, the word "murder" is associated with carefully planned killings, usually in underworld types. But this is not at all the case. Cangaled killings are a small minority, and the culprits are rarely found.

A new study of homicides conducted by the New York City Police Department, Professor Sellin's own study, startling and illuminating facts about the pattern of murder in large cities, according to the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

According to this study made in 1961, "as murders are not carefully planned nor are they of the gangland or underworld type; most are unpremeditated and the bulk of them are committed in homes and many occur as the result of family disputes."

Last year there were 488 murders in New York City; of these, 206 occurred in homes (42 percent), while only 4 percent were committed by dope-addicts, and a mere one percent which resulted from lone-wage thefts.

Family squabbles, resulted in 58 murders, in most of which husbands were slain by their wives, or by their "common law" husbands. Others in this large category include killings by jealous lovers, quarrels over [illegible] killings by [illegible] lovers, and so on.

More than 90 percent of the gangland murders in a city such as Chicago, for instance, remain unsolved. They are perpetrated by hired professional killers, who do their neat job with dispatch and then vanish from the scene, and often leave the city. These victims are usually other gangland figures who have refused to pay their loans, or who have held out a larger share of loot than they were entitled to.

It is only the very poor, the very stupid, or the spontaneous killer in rage, who are apprehended, convicted and sometimes put to death in the prisons. This does absolutely nothing to deter crime from professional murder.

Most European countries, for these reasons, have abolished the death sentence for murder, without the slightest rise in the homicide rate. So have many American states — often following a decrease in homicide. I again urge you to read Warden Duffy's new book, "88 Men and 2 Women" to convince yourself of the unjust folly of capital punishment.

Vegetarians Eat Far More To Get the Same Protein

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is general to the medical profession's attitude with respect to vegetarianism. Thank you, D. G.

My friend, you ought to say thank you after asking me with such a question. I don't speak for the whole medical profession, I just speak for myself, although in general I pretty well go along with the beliefs of the profession to which I belong.

So here's my opinion.

Nature, by whatever inscrutable processes, has evolved a system whereby many kinds of creatures inhabit the earth, each according to their own rules, preferences, needs.

Fish swim in the water, animals and most breathe, Birds (small ones, anyway) live nicely on insects, worms and crumbs. Hawks and eagles and owls thrive on catching small animals. Cows live on vegetable provender, but convert it into milk. Cats like milk — and mankind turns milk into cheese and butter.)

Rabbits eat lettuce and other greens; foxes ratch and eat rabbits; bees like pollen, and so on. I suppose a rabbit would starve to death on a diet of fish; foxes can't live on either on a diet of unlimited salads.

Some other creatures thrive on a mixture. Dogs will eat vegetables, but their diet bears eat a mixture of things. And people will. And pigs, I don't make these observations, by. But chickens like grain.

Anyway, the prehistoric man evidently was better at hunting and drawing pictures than he was at farming. He ate somewhat in the dark concerning him, but we know that he originally a meat-eater who, at great length, at last learned to plant and harvest crops. Also is agriculture.

The American Indian was a great hunter, but ate berries, raised a little corn, and would have been utterly baffled by an artichoke.

Man is a highly adaptable critter.

His best diet is a mixture of meat and vegetable foods.

I can't find a particle of evidence that "vegetarianism" is better for people — but if some folks think so, fine be it mine to hurt them.

Meat-eating ethnic groups are from me to spoil their fun. It seems pretty obvious that we are rugged. The vegetarian races are less so. The latter may be more peaceable, too, and in that respect, maybe they're right, I don't know.

From the standpoint of sheer nutrition, vegetarians have to eat more in volume. They also have to consume lots of the "non-protein" substances in the diet — such as fats, breads, to make up for the relatively high protein fish-meat dishes.

A "pure vegetarian" would have a hard time getting along without milk, butter, cheese, which are "animal food products."

In short, the theory of vegetarianism is nothing more than a theory. I don't think it don't do any harm in it. Personally, I like a good steak — and a salad. And I don't need to eat twice the volume of food to get the nutrition I need. Except for that, I have no quarrel with vegetarians.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have read that cabbage juice is recommended for ulcers. How it is taken and what does it do? — Mrs. C.D.

This idea was proposed several years ago. A research project gave some indication that extract of cabbage juice might help heal ulcers. There hasn't been any confirmation of this, so far as I can learn — and in any event, many other old remedies are required to produce a little of the extract. So forget it for now; just stick to the known methods of treating ulcers, and don't waste time hoping for some wondrous cabbage juice short cut.

"Don't Quite Because of Arthritis" is the title of my booklet designed to help all who suffer the aches and pains of arthritis. If you prefer to write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 138, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long self-addressed unstamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling and postage.

Finance Co. Loses Suit

Edmonton Journal

Judge Bruce Fraser of the British Columbia County Court at Prince Rupert has ordered his voice to those of other [illegible] in a decision against certain finance companies for trying to hide behind the law. They have been consistently using loot its suit against [illegible] had "misrepresented" the vacuum cleaner for $346 plus $46 interest and a $3 "registration fee." The court found the vacuum cleaner was worth $70.

The couple returned the vacuum cleaner the day after buying it but have continued paying letter from a finance company. The finance had taken over the sales contract.

Judge Fraser criticized the close relationship between the selling company and the finance company. He said more and more cases were coming before the courts with finance companies attempting to hide behind the Bills of Exchange Act.

The judge said that parties must act in good faith in a business transaction. The Bills of Exchange Act has not been being used for purposes never intended.

One benefit the Saskatchewan controversy between the government and the doctors has conferred upon the people of Canada has been the appraisal all of us have been obliged to make in regard to our own situation in society. To what extent do we want our welfare to be provided by a department of government? To what extent are we willing to pay for it? To what extent should a department of government be allowed bricks-and-mortar power over the right to say how many bricks he will lay per day? Saskatchewan opens the question.

And oh, how about newspapermen? Should newspapermen be free to say what they like?

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The four-day-old speculative boom was being deflated during heavy morning trading on the stock market today.

Violamac Mines, the Timmins copper prospect which started the run last Thursday on news of a mineral find, slumped 75 cents to $2 a share on a volume turnover of 211,600 shares.

The stock fell sharply late Monday after reaching a high of $3.70 a share. Reports were that copper findings in a second drill hole were disappointing. Results of the company's first drill hole were reported to show an assay of 4.73 per cent copper per in a 70-foot core. The stock started to move Thursday from 75 cents a share.

New Rickey located near Violamac, dropped 3½ cents to 13 cents a share on a turnover of 117,000 shares.

On the industrial board, banks led a broad decline with Imperial Bank of Commerce down ½, Bank of Montreal ¾ and Bank of Nova Scotia ½.

On the exchange index, industrials lost 2.19 at 393.31, golds 20 at 302.26, base metals 32 at 163.18 and western oils .64 at 96.27. The 11 am. volume was 638,000 shares compared with 1,650,000 at the same time Monday.

International Nickel led base metals down with a 1½ point drop. Falconbridge was down a point. Among golds, Dome lost ½.

voted to Berlin—an issue on which Khrushchev said "there is much in common" in the Soviet and American positions.

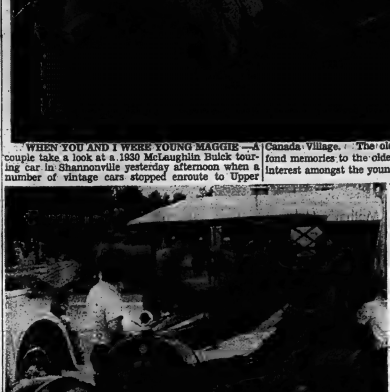
He declined to go into detail on points of Soviet-American agreement because he said talks still are under way and also he did not want to "embarrass" U.S. policy-makers.

Khrushchev accused the Western powers of clinging to West Berlin as a "military bridgehead."

"As long as the occupation forces of the U.S., Britain and France remain in West Berlin, they will play the role of an irritant which will raise the temperature in the relations between states."

If the Western troops depart, Khrushchev said, the Soviet Union is willing to join the allies in a pledge of nonintervence with West Berlin life, a guarantee to be "sealed with the seal of the United Nations."

RELEASES DEMANDED



Khrushchev repeated his demand that the Western powers agree to a peace treaty with all Germany and leave West Berlin a free, demilitarized city.

The interview was released the same day the Soviet Union rejected a U.S.-British-French proposal that four-power talks be called in Berlin to try to ease tension caused by shootings along the dividing wall.

Soviet notes again disputed Western charges that the East German communist regime is irresponsible for the violence.

WHEN YOU AND I WERE YOUNG MAGGIE — A couple take a look at a 1930 McLaughlin Buick touring car in Shannonville yesterday afternoon when a number of vintage cars stopped enroute to Upper Canada Village. The old cars brought back many fond memories to the older people and created much interest amongst the younger set.

HEY, LOOK ME OVER — The vintage Dodge pictured above doesn't have to say it, the people do it anyway. A few youngsters take a close look at how people travelled and packed back in the 1920's when motoring was an adventure as much as it is second nature today. With that all-weather protection shown above no wonder it was an adventure.

Parade of Ancient Cars Pauses at Shannonville

Highway and local traffic literally crawled to a stop yesterday afternoon in Shannonville when a large number of vintage, classic and antique cars stopped in to visit Ken Vivian, local old car enthusiast, collector and parts supplier.

The first car in was a 1929 Chevrolet coupe, owned and driven by Bill Parker of Toronto, arriving well in advance of its touring mates and enabling its owner to delve into a pile of "parts" vehicles standing in the Vivian "back 40" and come up smiling with a gear shift lever knob and several hub caps for his pride and joy.

Next in was a 1936 LaSalle coupe owned by Ray C. Hyrna of Toronto. This car drew a flock of admirers and its well preserved state which showed no signs of anything but original finish throughout, drew the inevitable comments of "they don't build them like that anymore."

Local interest was merely whetted by the arrival of these two vehicles well in the vanguard of the rest of the vehicles and by the time a bevy of Rolls Royces, Packards, Fords, Dodges and such a rarity as a Darracq sports car of yesteryear arrived over the crest of the hill into town a sizeable crowd had gathered.

The visitors' cars were closely scrutinized by the local populace and the many vehicles garaged in the Vivian haven for old cars were examined by the visitors.

Finally, after coffee and cookies and many an enquiry after some part on vehicle, the visitors departed for Deseronto where they stopped overnight before resuming their tour to Upper Canada Village.

This visit is an extension of the enthusiasts annual London - Brighton run, sponsored by the British American Oil Company, which is organized by the Classic Car Club of Canada as the North American equivalent to the traditional British Lonjdon - Brighton. This was one of the earliest annual tests of competition for motor-cars which has evolved over the years to an annual event in which antique cars only may compete.

Council Concurs With Chamber Request for Liquor Referendum

Belleville city council at their special meeting yesterday concurred with a Chamber of Commerce request that a referendum be held in the city on the question of liquor sales under a dining room and lounge licence.

It is expected the Liquor Control Board will order the vote for some time in September.

The questions would be:

1. Are you in favor of the sale of liquor under a dining room licence for consumption with meals in a licenced premises, and 2. Are you in favor of the sale of liquor under a lounge licence for consumption on a licensed premises.

Costs of the referendum, estimated to be in the neighborhood of $3,500 would be paid by Chamber of Commerce members requesting the vote.

The recommendation to concur with the Chamber of Commerce request was brought in by Alderman Jack Ireland and Ben Corke and were carried without discussion in open council.

'BOMB' CAMERAMEN

BERLIN (AP) — Television cameramen of Radio Free Berlin were met with smoke bombs and tear gas Monday when they tried to get pictures at three locations of East German workers strengthening the Red wall and fences around Berlin.

Ralph Campbell Reaches Jordan

Professor Ralph Campbell, head of the economics department at the Ontario Agricultural School, has arrived in Jordan where he has been sent by the Ford Foundation to assist that country in a five year development plan.

Prof. Campbell son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell, of Foxboro, left Canada by air July 1st and after stopping over for two days in London, flew on to the Middle East. His wife and family made the trip with him.

Mr. Campbell said today he had received a letter from his son since his arrival in the Middle East.

Prof. Campbell wrote that he had been agreeably surprised by the developments in Jordan although he was struck by the marked distinction between the poor and rich classes.

Swedish Thimble Cookies

by Mary Moore

Today's cookie is a controversial one. In my opinion it is a delicate morsel that is adaptable to many variations. But I know mothers who make this dough up into cookies by the dozen and dip it in crushed flakes and fill it with jelly while hot and let the family pilfer them at will.

Sue for her in and day out eating I think there are cookie doughs that are more economical and just as much work and more nourishing.

So run your own judgment, but if you listen to me make these for special occasions such as last receptions and Christmas. They keep excellently.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Chicken Stew with Dumplings; Carrots; Tossed Greens; Canned Peaches and Spice Cake; Tea.

SWEDISH THIMBLE COOKIES

½ cup butter, ½ cup granulated sugar, 1 egg yolk, 1 cup white separated, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, finely chopped nuts - could be walnuts, almonds, filberts or Brazils or some of each. (Or crushed corn or bran or oat flakes), red jelly or jam or marmalade cherries (see below.)

Cream butter and sugar until light (use the electric beater). Add egg yolk, beat well, then add flavoring and flour until dough is smooth. Put egg white in a shallow bowl. Put finely chopped nuts on large saucer. Form dough into 1" balls and drop in egg white, until covered, then lift out with a fork and drop into finely chopped nuts, roll over until coated and lift to buttered cookie sheet, placing them 2" apart. When all are on cookie sheet, dent centre with thimble on your third finger (or use your thumb tip) and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 18 to 22 minutes - denting them again at centre after they have been in the oven for 8 minutes.

VARIATIONS: We made three variations. 1) One-third of the cookies were coated with finely chopped almonds. (I like these best). 2) One-third of the cookies coated with finely chopped walnuts. 3) One-third of the cookies were coated with crushed oat flakes and into centre of each of these was pressed a whole maraschino cherry and the sides were drawn up with finger tips to form a "nest" around the cherry. (These are similar to the cookies called "cherrie winks").

When cookies are baked, cool on racks and store in covered containers in layers separated by wax paper. When ready to use fill dented centres with raspberry or blackberry jam or red currant jelly. Or when you are making up a tea plate full of a variety of cookies for a party try filling half of them (the almond dipped ones) with green mint jelly and half of them (the walnut dipped with apricot jam. Colorful conversation pieces.

Now Pyjamas Correct Wear For Dancing

FLORENCE (Reuters)—Princess Irene Gallitzine of Rome presented bowler hats and pyjamas for evening pyjamas Monday, the third day of Italy's autumn-winter fashion showings here.

The bowlers were made of fur — black astrakhi, brown beaver or pony skin—and had matching fur scarves. They were designed with day suits and coats, cut with moderately wide trousers.

The suits had bulky, barrel-shaped skirts and short fitting jackets. The princess used black net for a trouser evening outfit with the legs moderately wide and cut short at the knees.

A recent trip to Japan inspired Galitzine's dancing pyjamas, in red and gold printed silk. They were worn with a deep V neck and two pockets on the front, loose back panels suspended from the shoulders.

THE BAREBACK

Tight-fitting sexton amphasized the high waistline of Galitzine's dresses, which had bloomy, puffed bodices with kimono sleeves and straight, slim skirts.

So Pat Lucas presented a quietly elegant collection of wearable and impeccably cut clothes.

The girls dressed in cuts one piece and shaped by darts. The pants suits coats had inset sleeves, which were a little longer than last year, reaching to about five inches above the waist. Some widened out below the elbow with soft cuffs.

Most of his dresses had high necks and no sleeves.

Women's Institute

MOIRA W. I.

MOIRA — The Moira Women's Institute held their July meeting at the home of Mrs. John Holden with an attendance of 11 adults and eight girls.

The president, Mrs. Milton Vanderwater, opened the meeting after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read; also correspondence read, and other business dealt with. A report was given on the decoration service held in Moira Cemetery on July 1st, and of the donations received. A report was also given of the executive meeting held in Belleville following the new banner.

Mrs. Jean Thompson and Mrs. Alice Mumby, conveners for the girls' meeting, were in charge of the program as follows: reading, May Collins, "Angel Work"; topic by Linda Ketcheson, "How to Serve a Meal"; reading, Emma Thompson, "Your Cruise"; and musical selections, Alice Mumby, and a reading by Mrs. Ellerby.

The girls displayed a lovely array of jellies and Mrs. John Holden, Mrs. Wallace McInroy and Reader Hulbert were the judges who awarded a prize to each of the girls.

The meeting was brought to a close and a lovely lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clayton Vanderwater.

SEGREGATE SEXES

MONTREAL (CP) — Council of suburban Verdun is drafting a new bylaw to ensure that massage parlors use "males to massage males and females to massage females." Montreal itself, and all its other suburbs already have laws to cover this.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. S.O. — I don't know whose side to take — hers or the camp's?

Louise O. — I'll skip swimming till they get more showers.

• • •

Mrs. S. O. — My daughter, Louise, is 11 and is attending a day camp. The dippers have arranged for Louise's group to use a small private swimming pool every afternoon. But since the owner of the pool is away today, the swim suits are all silks, grey lacetards which have been pinafored. They are handed out to the girls as soon as showers have been taken. Because there are only two showers and the swim session is short, the counsellors want the girls to strip fast, get showered, change and then jump into the suits and dive right in.

This means that there's privacy. Most of the girls don't seem to mind disrobing and showering in front of each other. But Louise does. I've always encouraged modesty at home, and this paralyzing speech has what should I do — make her adjust or talk to the directress?

• • •

Louise O. — I'm not the only one who's been sitting out the swim period at camp. At first, half the girls refused to get undressed that way. Each day a few more weaken and join the public display, but there are still three of us who are on strike against being forced to undress and bathe in a group. If the camp can't get a bigger pool or one with dressing rooms, my mother should ask for her money back and let me stay home. Maybe the other kids will quit, too, and then we can find a public pool somewhere and go swimming by ourselves.

Some of the kids who don't mind these crazy rules are kids who have to run away to all-summer camps. They say you lose all your modesty fast in those places. Well, even if I went to an overnight camp, I'd still want to be left alone to dress and undress — even if I had to hang myself a sheet out of a sheet!

• • •

The Council: At the risk of living letters of protest from dedicated nudists, we must favor Louise's position as against the camp's, and advise Mrs. O. to do the same.

Clearly this bathing question is the prospectus which itemized all the camp's attractions for Mrs. O. before she signed on the dotted line. Nowhere did they come-on-say, "Your daughter's prudishness guaranteed to be demolished." For what's prudishness or squeamishness in one family, may be a becoming and valued modesty in another. At any rate, even Gypsy Rose Lee would agree that open-to-view stripping should be optional and voluntary, not commanded.

We know of camps for tots, 4 years old and under, where nude sunbathing and swimming is part of the program and is carried out with no serious consequences. Older children begin to become more body-conscious. Those who come from cultist homes stressing "naturalism" may be more clothes-conscious than normal about exposing themselves. The sensitivities and preferences of the others, however, should be respected.

At Louise's age, especially when a child is filled with surprises and wonder at her burgeoning development, privacy ought to be quickly provided. Finding herself overdeveloped or underdeveloped among her peers might introduce unnecessary anxiety in a youngster. Even a birthmark, a scar or a pimple would invite unwanted questions. No, Louise's body is her own to hide, and the camp's ruling is an invasion of her person in one sense.

Mrs. O. can help her daughter in three easy stages. First, talk over with her whether it's really that bad, or whether she's dramatizing the picture in order to draw attention to herself as a smasheot. If Louise insists that the whole setup goes against her grain, then Step No. 2 is a plain talk-out with the camp directors. If they can't provide more comfortable facilities for Louise, there's Step No. 3 — withdrawal.

Striking Designs Feature Italian Fashion Show

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Striking designs in heavy soft wools and wide military shoulders featured the collections of Schuberth and Lancetti shown Wednesday night as part of Italy's fall and winter high fashion.

Schuberth tended to blanket his new lines under a cloud of accessories — handwarmer muffs, capelets, neck scarves, baskier in the hand, ribbon cockades.

But underneath were some striking coats, suits and dresses.

Done in heavy soft woolens, they featured front and back apron panels. Straight skirts were lightly shirred.

Lancetti did wide military shoulders, often with epaulette pads, to a narrow silhouette.

Many gowns were flat, but toned spirals of fabric.

MAIL CALL

Question: My daughter is marrying a young man she met in college. He comes from out of state, and, while we know his family, we are not familiar with his friends. Two of the boys who will be ushers are children of friends. Their wives be invited to the wedding as well? Also, who takes care of their hotel expenses while they're in town? We've arranged to have a few bridesmaids from out-of-town, and some far-flung relatives stay with friends and neighbors. But, I'm afraid the groom's attendants will have to make other arrangements. Who should handle them? — Mrs. C.V.W., Mt. Vernon, N.Y.

Answer: Formal invitations should be sent to wedding attendants, as well as to other guests, and, if any are married, their wives or husbands should be included. They also should be invited to all pre-nuptial parties. Housing for his attendants should be taken care of by the groom. If any expense is involved, he's obliged to assume it.

Question: My godson was 5 last month and for the first time, I completely forgot his birthday. I understand from a mutual friend that his mother was miffed that I didn't even send a card. Ordinarily, I send presents as well. Is annual observance of a child's birthday part of the obligation of being a godparent?

Answer: Not necessarily. The primary obligation of a godparent is spiritual. Visiting the child and remembering birthdays do help establish a bond, and this is what a conscientious godparent tries to do. Many godparents make a habit of sending a gift each year, but it's not an obligation and, certainly, should not be taken for granted by the youngster's parents.

ITALIAN SHOWS

ROME (AP)—Italians spent $361,000,000 on entertainment of various kinds last year, officials report. This is a seven-per-cent increase over 1960.

Parkdale LMF Hears Report On Missions

On July 5th the Parkdale Baptist L.M.F. met at the home of Mrs. Stewart Bird, 18 Borden Boulevard, president, presided over the meeting at which 14 ladies were present. The meeting opened with the hymn, "My Savior, First of All", followed by the Scripture reading in unison of Philippians 2:1-16.

After the business portion of the meeting, the ladies heard a missionary report by Mrs. Marion Foster.

Mrs. Foster spoke of the mission field in Europe and told of the urgent need of missionaries in that area, and the difficulties encountered by those already working in the European field. People in Sweden, Norway and Denmark are mostly protestant, have heard the gospel, while people in the other European countries have been denied the gospel by their leaders. In some indifference is the biggest grawleigh; in Germany half the west end of population of 56,000,000 attend church, the biggest threat there is communism.

A Bible institute was opened in 1953, and was one to Baig in 1961. Eighty per cent of those living in Italy vote Communist. It is a country overshadowed torn between communism and idolatry with no religious liberty in spite of constitution. The conditions in Spain are even worse, on one hand, power of cathedrals, on the other, squalor with out sanitation and living in caves. All missionary work has to be done furtively, attendance at church means persecution by police, attempts even loss of employment by friends and to add to the difficulties there is, rent hunger among the population.

MISSION PROBLEMS

In the Scandinavian countries of Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and Finland, the Lutheran Church is predominate with a percentage of 95. The greatest problem missionaries have in these countries is immorality and drunkenness only 5 per cent of these people of Skookum attend church. Sweden holds the dubious record of consuming the most liquor per capita, and it comes second in having the most suicides of any country; Switzerland having the greatest numbers. With conditions such as these, the mission fields are indeed ripe for with harvest but the workers unfortunately few, those who are there working against great odds fearing reprisals and even bodily harm.

Mrs. Foster concluded her talk by asking three young ladies present if they would volunteer. "What can we do about it? Can you go? Can you give? The meeting was brought to a close by the president with the singing of a few choruses.

The ladies enjoyed a cup of tea and cake and a time of fellowship.

BRANSCOMBE — MARVIN

PICTON — Baskets of mauve and white gladioli and pompon daisies decorated Wellington United Church Centennial Parlor on Saturday, July 14, at one o'clock when the Rev. Alfred Poulter, of Belleville, formerly of Wellington, officiated at a double-ring ceremony when Miss Carol Kay Marvin, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Marvin, Wellington, became the bride of Mr. Burton Wayne Branscombe, of Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Branscombe of Bourne Bay, Ontario.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Jack McNeill, church organist, and Miss Lorna Bird, Bowmanville, sang "I'll Walk Beside You" before the ceremony, and "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a short length wedding gown of silk organza over taffeta, with bell-shaped skirt. Brussels lace was appliqued at the waist line. The long tight sleeves tapered to points over the hands. She wore a shoulder-length veil of fashilace cut to a flowered seed pearl crown and carried a beautiful maurve orchid with white pompoons streamers interwined with Stephanotis on a white prayer book, a gift from the graduation from CGIT. Her jewelry was pearl and she wore a pearl drop pearl necklace.

Mrs. Charles (Shirley) Crawford, Toronto, the bride's only sister, was matron of honor, attired in a short white gown of apple green nylon sheer over taffeta with white accessories. She wore a necklace of seed pearls, with matching pearl drop earrings, the bride's gift.

BABBITT — FARGEY

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, was adorned with standards of pink gladioli and white shasta chrysanthemums, with white satin bows on the guest pews, on Saturday, June 30 at 2.00 p.m. when Miss Peggy Fargey of Belleville, was united in marriage to Mr. Stanley Gordon Babbitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reverend R. D. MacLean. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. St. Fargey of Belleville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Babbitt, also of Belleville.

The wedding music was provided by the organist, Mr. W. P. Youdale.

AMAN — YOUNG

PICTON — Demorestville United Church was the scene of an interesting wedding recently when Faye Aletha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Young, of Big Island, became the bride of Keith Donald, son of Mrs. Cecil Aman, of Solmesville. The Reverend Gordon Kingsley and the Reverend C. W. Coleman officiated. White Shasta daisies, lilies, and ferns decorated the altar, and white satin bows and flowers marked the guest pews.

Mrs. Inez Sallaca, of Demorestville, played the traditional music and Miss Linda Mac-Dermaid, soloist, sang, "The Wedding Prayer", and "I'll Walk Beside You".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length satin gown with chapel train and petal point sleeves. The bodice was appliqued with white daisies encrusted with pearls.

A tiara of seed pearls held her silk illusion veil, and she carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses mingled with blue forget-me-nots, and white shasta chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids were full street-length gowns, the matron of honor, Mrs. Stanley Young, pink organza over pink taffeta, white Shasta daisies; the bridesmaid, Miss Hazel Young and Doris Aman, sisters of the bridegroom, were also in pink organza, and carried bouquets of white Shasta daisies. All the attendants were headdresses of pink organza accented with seed pearls, which held their shoulder-length veils of silk illusion.

The little flower girl, Miss Marcia Brenton, of Scarborough, was dressed in similar style in the bridesmaids and carried an old fashioned basket of white and pink Shasta daisies.

The ringbearer was Master Terry Aman, nephew of the bride.

The groomsman was Mr. Harley Aman, of Wellington, and the ushers were, Messrs. Stanley Young, brother of the bride, and Douglas Aman of Bramalea, Ontario.

The reception was held in Demorestville Hall, where the bride's mother received, wearing a blue linen sheath with white accessories, and orange corsage. The mother of the bridegroom's mother chose a flower-print brown linen dress sheath with beige accessories, and corsage of gold-tinted mums.

For the honeymoon trip to the United States, the bride wore a pink fine cotton with scoop neck-line accented with panels of tucked lace, white hat with matching gloves, white accessories and corsage of white gardenias.

Guests attended from Toronto and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a kitchen shower given by the staff of Queen Elizabeth public school, Scarborough, of which she was a teacher.

Also at a shower in Belleville at the home of Miss Joanne Hartley, 101 Bell Blvd., Miss Hough, as co-hostess. At the presentation of an item by the staff when she left school and a cut crystal vase and dish by the pupils of her class.

Mr. and Mrs. Babbitt will reside at 93 Wellington Street, Kingston, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Malloy are shown following their recent marriage in Bethel Chapel, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Marilyn Elsie Belch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Belch, of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Malloy of Turriff, Ont. (Photo by Gordon Jenkins, of Bancroft, Ontario.)

MALLOY — BELCH

Tall white standards of pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums adorned the chancel in Bethel Chapel, Belleville, and white satin bows the guest pews on Saturday, June 23rd, at 2.30 p.m. for a lovely summer wedding when Marilyn Elsie Belch, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Belch, became the bride of Leonard Charles Malloy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Malloy, of Turriff, Ontario. Mr. William E. Belch, father of the bride, assisted by Mr. Ernest Welch, Belleville, officiated.

Mrs. Ernest Belch, of Arkenna, Ontario, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Clare Rupnow, of Belleville, as he sang, before the ceremony, "The Marriage Hymn" and during the signing of the register, "The Wedding Song" and at the reception, "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. William E. Belch, the bride was adorable in her wedding gown. The bridal gown of white silk organza and lace featuring an embroidered organza overskirt, and fitted bodice having lily point sleeves accented with seed pearls, and scalloped neckline appliqued with pearls and seed pearls. The graceful skirt was accented at the waistline with an organza flower. She wore her bridesmaid headdress of crystals and seed pearls, and carried a cascade of pink roses. A necklace of cultured pearls, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Douglas Stark, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and was attired in white organza over pink taffeta with tucked bodice featured a scalloped neckline, short sleeves. She wore a matching floral headdress, white accessories, and carried a Valentine ribbon of pink and pink roses.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Douglas Plumpton, of Belleville; Miss Anna Malloy, of Toronto, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Cheryl Belch, sister of the bride, and Miss Joan Belch, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Cheryl Belch, was junior bridesmaid. All were gowned similarly to the matron of honor, but in white organza over blue taffeta, with matching headdresses. They carried nosegays of pink-tinted mums and pink roses.

The little flower girl, was Miss Karen Belch, of Arkenna, Ontario, four-year-old niece of the bride, sweet in her floor-length frock of white organza over rose taffeta with matching unnumbered ascended by a white organza rose at the waistline. The tiny fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline. She wore a headwreath of white and rose-tinted flowers, white accessories, and carried a nosegay of rose-tinted mums and pink roses.

Mr. Harold Griffis of Belleville, was groomsman, and the ushers were: Messrs Stuart Malloy of Toronto and Robert Malloy, of Turriff, brothers of the bridegroom.

The reception was held in the chapel parlors, where the bridal table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with two white doves holding a silver wedding ring, and flanked by white candles and bridal flowers.

During the reception the bride presented the little flower girl with a gift, and the bridegroom a replica of the bride's dress, made by the bride's mother.

Mrs. William E. Belch received the guests, wearing a mauve silk sheath with matching accessories, with corsage of pink roses, and Mrs. John Malloy, a green flowered crepe with white hat and accessories, with yellow rose corsage.

For travelling to Lake Placid, and southern New York State, returning via Niagara Falls, the bride chose a blue linen suit, with white blouse, white hat and accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Out-of-town guests, were present from Toronto, Beavercroft, Turriff, Peterborough, Harding; Toronto; Lakefield and Port Hope.

The bride was the honored guest prior to the wedding at a miscellaneous shower, held at the home of Mrs. Douglas Plumpton, with Mrs. Douglas Stark, as co-hostess; at a cup shower at the home of the bride of Mrs. Peter Murray, with Mrs. Douglas Plumpton, as cohostess; and at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Douglas Stark, with Mrs. Murray, co-workers at Lorne McDougall Public School, Belleville, attended. The congregation of Bethel Chapel also held a miscellaneous shower in honor of the bride and bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Malloy are residing at Belleville, R. R. No. 4.

BURKITT — PETERS

A lovely June wedding was recently solemnized in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, by the Rev. C. W. Coleman, pastor of the church, when Betty Doreen Peters, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peters of Newburgh, Ont., became the bride of Douglas Burkitt, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burkitt. Baskets of white and yellow chrysanthemums adorned the chancel rail and the satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. Clifford E. Templer, church organist, presided at the console of the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. E. A. Hughes, of Belleville, who sang before the ceremony, "The Wedding Prayer," and "Because," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of silk organza, fashioned in full length, fitted pleated bodice inserted at centre front, having a rounded neckline and long slim sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The skirt was accented at the back in a triple tiered effect edged with organza ascending to form a chapel train. Her headdress was a pearl-studded tiara of diamente in Juliet style, with bouffant white-length veil of bridal illusion, and she carried a bouquet of white Pinocchio roses centred with yellow Swebheart roses.

Miss Audrey Swan, of Peterborough, maid of honor, wearing a turquoise nylon organza over taffeta, having a scoop neckline at front and back, enhanced with deep empire waistline flowed into a graceful bouffant skirt with a large picture hat of matching turquoise nylon organza and tulle with gilded quin trim and large back bow. Her flowers were in crescent style of white Shasta daisies.

The bridesmaids, Miss Joan and Miss Penny Simmons, also of Belleville, were in yellow and organza gowns fashioned on lines similar to that of the maid of honor. They wore matching yellow hats and carried crescent bouquets of white Shasta daisies.

Mr. Gus Donaldson, was groomsman, and Mr. Donald Phillips, and Mr. Donald Moore both of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception following the ceremony, was held at Club Chanera, Belleville, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a beige sheath in lace over taffeta with matching jacket, beige and brown accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in turquoise linen in sheath style, with white accessories and corsage of yellow Shasta daisies.

The bridal table was appointed in the traditional pastel manner with white damask and a three tier wedding cake flanked by tall white candles in silver holders. The bridal bouquets added a lovely pastel accent to the setting.

For touring Northern Ontario, the bride chose a light beige suit with beige and green accessories, and matching stole, with corsage of yellow Shasta mums. Upon their return they will reside at 343 Bridge St. E., Belleville.

Guests were present from Kingston; Napanee; Newburgh; Detroit; Sillsville; Toronto; Peterborough; Campbellford; Tweed, and Belleville.

The bride was feted prior to the marriage by a linen shower at the home of Mrs. Marilyn Phillips, with Mrs. Douglas Phillips and Mrs. Ronald Hiles as co-hostesses.

Pretty Brunnette Studies Trans-Canada Hwy. Rocks

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTTAWA (CP) — Somewhere in Northern Ontario Ann Sabina Bell has blue jeans heavy boots each morning and sets out for work with a haversack over her shoulder.

The pretty brunette, a geology girl with the federal government's Geological Survey, is making a 2,500-mile motor trip from Ottawa to a point about 20 miles inside the Manitoba border.

Her work: collecting material for a booklet for lobbyists on mineral deposits along the Trans-Canada Highway.

A lot of material has been written on the subject but it's been aimed at professionals, not amateurs. Miss Sabina is explained before setting out July 9 with fellow geologist Gordon Carson, of Ottawa on their three-week trip.

During the last four years, Miss Sabina has been answering questions from amateur rock collectors sent to the Geological Survey. This year's field trip "is a natural development." First move to bring information on rocks and minerals to the people.

"The locations can't be vague. We must have the pinpoint," she says, as travellers and tourists can find them with a minimum of trouble.

TAKE TURNS DRIVING

Before starting the trip, she was busy compiling a booklet which deals with mineral occurrences in all of Canada, based on material in old reports and from other geologists. The field trip is expected to result in the first of a series of booklets dealing with specific areas.

Ann and John planned to take turns driving a government station wagon. They did not plan to camp out.

Their route was to North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie, along the north shore of Lake Superior to the Lakehead, and then into the Falcon Lake area of Manitoba.

Miss Carson, an Ottawa resident, is a recent graduate in arts working for the summer with the mines department.

Miss Sabina, who was born and raised in Winnipeg, started out studying geology as an extra subject at the University of Manitoba and became so interested in it eventually in the geology course.

She studied the federal government department 10 years ago after graduating along with half a dozen girls in her class. Both her mother, Mrs. Pauline Sabina, lives in Winnipeg.

During the last 10 years, interest in collecting minerals and rocks as a hobby has been stimulated. There are about 40 clubs of amateurs in Canada, most of them in British Columbia.

WEDDING BELLS

BELCH — MALLOY

The marriage took place in Bethel Chapel, Belleville, on Saturday, June 23rd, at 2.30 p.m. of Marilyn Elsie Belch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Belch, Belleville, to Leonard Charles Malloy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Malloy, Turriff, Ont.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was attired in a floor length gown of white organza over taffeta, with fitted bodice featuring a scalloped neckline, and long slim sleeves ending in lily points over the wrists. The skirt was accented at the back in a triple tiered effect edged with organza cascading to form a chapel train. Her headdress was a pearl-studded tiara of diamente in Juliet style, with bouffant white-length veil of bridal illusion, and she carried a bouquet of white Pinocchio roses centred with yellow Sweetheart roses.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored by classmates of Montreal.

Guelph; by fellow members of the Yearbook Committee of Hamilton Teachers' College, from which she is a successful graduate.

A shower was also held at the home of Miss Maria Narusevicius with Miss Ann Aman as co-hostess.

The bridegroom was honored by a presentation from the members of the Brockville Chapter of the Ontario Provincial Police of which he is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Brockville, Ontario.

Government Announces Bond Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—A bond issue proposing to pay out $325,000,000 in capital debt maturing Aug. 1 was announced Monday by Finance Minister Fleming.

It involves two new issues of long-term government bonds totalling $200,000,000 and sale of $85,000,000 in 366 - day treasury bills.

The long-term issues will be:

1. Seven-year, two-quarter 5¼-per-cent non-callable bonds due Oct. 1, 1969, at a price of 99 per cent to yield about 5.37 per cent to maturity;

2. 12-year 5½ - per - cent non-callable bonds due Aug. 1, 1980, at a price of 98 per cent to yield about 5.68 per cent to maturity.

The issues are available to investors immediately and the Bank of Canada already has agreed to acquire a minimum of $80,000,000 worth. Amounts of each issue will depend on demand.

CENTENARY STAMP — A new stamp to go on sale Aug. 20, commemorating the City of Victoria's Centenary, included a miniature reproduction of the 1860 Penny Rose, the first stamp ever issued in British Columbia. At the top of the stamp was a drawing of the B.C. Legislative Building, flanked by sprigs of Dogwood, the provincial flower. (CP Photo).

Romania Satellite Nation Where Red Record Is Best

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BUCHAREST (AP) — Romania, said a Western diplomat, is the one East Europe country where communism is most likely to succeed.

Compared with what it was, Romania really is booming along.

It is impossible to generalize what 18,000,000 people think. But Westerners who have been here some time feel more Romanians are satisfied under communism than are discontented.

On the other hand, Communist Romania preserves all the trappings of the tight Balkan kingdom it used to be.

A closed elite runs the show. It has a proud, self - satisfied military caste, and the movement of the average citizen is as controlled as it was in the days of King Carol and Madame Lupescu.

Romania is completely isolated from the West. Its longest border is with Russia. "And the Romanians," said one diplomat, "are an easy-going people who in the mass are bon vivants and haven't a clue as to what democracy means."

I was last in Romania nine years ago. Coming back again, you can't fail to be impressed by the progress.

BRIGHTEST CITY

Bucharest is the brightest, most colorful city this side of the Iron Curtain. In 1953, it was still exhibiting the marks of the war. There was no new building. People were almost near starvation.

Today, it has dozens of imaginative new apartment houses with gaily - painted balconies, several impressive new congress halls, modern movie houses and supermarkets, elegantly laid out parks and clean lakes.

Instead of the acrid fumes of soft coal which float over Budapest, Prague and East Berlin, there is the sweet perfume of summer blossoms and the music of dance bands and gypsy orchestras from outdoor restaurants.

In the provinces, there are scores of new modern factories and plants and at least a half dozen new neatly laid out towns with good apartment houses, attended gardens, shopping centres and cultural centres.

Industrial production, according to official statistics, is leaping 15 per cent a year—a record, for the East bloc.

HAD TO MAKE PROGRESS

Why the progress? Industrialization in Romania started from the bottom of the pile. It was bound to make progress, diplomats say. Romania is endowed with immense natural resources which were largely untapped in 1945.

With incredible fanaticism, Communist boss Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej and his colleagues have concentrated on building new steel, oil refining, petro-chemical, mining and cellulose industries — and on collectivizing agriculture.

What does this mean to the Romanian people?

At the moment, it means the average Romanian eats better than anybody else behind the iron curtain, including his Russian neighbor.

He works two weeks to buy a suit but the selection of consumer goods is not a shameful nor as cheap as in Czechoslovakia.

I make 800 lei ($80) a month, the average wage, spend 20 lei ($2.30) on rent, can buy a meal out in a restaurant for five lei (45 cents) and I am better off than years ago," a chemical worker said.

WIVES WORK

And—as elsewhere throughout the satellites—his wife works. "We spend our money on eating and drinking and go dancing on Saturdays and it is warm most of the year, so I hardly need any clothes except a few shirts and slacks."

He had never had it so good, he said, and he doesn't care for culture and ideas.

Even if he did, he wouldn't find much in Romania. The Communist party bars getaway with the most sterile press in East Europe and there are no Western books available in translation apart from a few classics.

Romania is the only place behind the curtain where there are police checks at the entrances of every town of size. You can't move unless your papers are in order. These controls existed in pre-war days, and they haven't been dropped under communism.

But foreign visitors are not followed as they were nine years ago.

Not In Love! Should He Marry Her?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I have been going with a girl 17, five years younger than I am. I thought I loved her until she got pregnant. Now I think my feeling is just sympathy.

I am in no position to marry anybody as I am taking care of my sick mother and only make a small wage. We have discussed having the baby adopted and she agrees. But still she talks of the possibility of marriage.

Please advise me what legal action could be taken against me if her attitude should change.—ANXIOUS.

DEAR ANXIOUS—You won't be forced to marry at the point of a gun, if that's what's worrying you. Today we have more concern about the innocent unborn victim than to give him parents who don't want each other, or him.

But you will be expected to help with hospital bills and his support if you can. If he is adopted later, your responsibility ceases.

You would be wise to make a clean breast of things with your child care agency. The workers there will keep what you tell them in strictest confidence.

In Belleville this is the Children's Aid Society, 69 West Moira Street.

* *

DEAR DORIS—I am planning a party for my sister's 25th anniversary party. I was going to have a full course supper and an orchestra and collect $5.00 from each couple. (This was done for me two years ago.)

Now I am told friends are talking about me collecting money. Do you think I should go ahead with the party?—NEW CANADIAN PETE.

DEAR PETE—Not unless all invited know this custom and accept it.

In Canada we would rather serve coffee and doughnuts, gratis, than ask for a penny. It's the good will and the getting together that counts.

* *

DEAR DORIS—You mentioned about a short cut course for adults to complete high school.

My husband, who is 39, is one of those ambitious types and feels he would like to complete high school. Any information would certainly be appreciated.—MRS. A. L. H.

DEAR MRS. A. L. H.—Get in touch with your own Department of Education. Arrangements vary in different areas and with each individual being admitted to special course.

* *

DEAR DORIS—I like the way you discussed "Choosing a Career" and thought the enclosed resume on the mechanical field from our school paper might be of interest.

Young folks looking for new fields to conquer might well consider Canada's Northland. There's a great future in mining itself and in mining towns (such as Thompson, Manitoba). There are many jobs for both boys and girls. Teachers, hotel and restaurant workers, store clerks, beauticians, and many others will be needed.—GUIDANCE DIRECTOR.

DEAR DIRECTOR—So there's still "gold in them thar hills!" Thanks for the idea.

Career Choosers, are you listening? Write to me for more information on the Undressing North, or for my leaflet on Choosing a Career.

Reds Report Trouble in Farm Lands

The Communist party newspaper reports "Wastefulness and an irresponsible attitude toward the management of the economy" in Kazakhstan, the sprawling republic in central Asia.

He was accused of failing to train and attract enough tractor drivers and combine operators to harvest the vast virgin lands Premier Khrushchev ordered plowed eight years ago in an attempt to solve the Soviet food problem.

Soviet reports cite a critical shortage of skilled farm machine operators for the republic's 48,000,000 acres of farmland.

Pravda, in a report from touring teams of reporters, cites as an example a state farm that had only 17 operators for its 77 combines.

"On what are the state farm managers planning their hopes?" Pravda asks. "They go out to railroad stations and zealously importune passers through to come to them for the harvest, promising them high wages."

Competition among farm directors for extra hands is so keen that some are even sending recruiters as far as the Crimea, about 1,000 miles away.

One of the governments chronic troubles in the virgin lands has been the refusal of skilled farm labor to put up with the rugged living conditions.

BLAMED FOR FIRE

REUS, Spain (AP)—Investigators today blamed burning coal from a passing locomotive for an automobile fire that killed two of the four occupants of a small automobile. They said the coals fell from the railway engine on an overpass directly into the compartment housing the car's small rear engine, causing an explosion.

"QUALITY AT FAIR PRICES"

The simple truth about car prices is that Rambler American is the lowest priced Canadian built car...by $68.20!

Automotive manufacturers often get into price comparisons. More often than not, these comparisons tend to confuse the public. Let's set the record straight. The Rambler American is the lowest priced Canadian built car. In fact, the Rambler American sells for $68.20 less than its nearest competitor, regardless of size or model!

But price alone doesn't make the Rambler American the value it is. You also get the features for which Rambler is famous! The Rambler American is the most completely rustproofed car in the world. It gives you a Ceramic-Armoured muffler that is guaranteed for as long as you own the car. You also get two year guarantees on both the radiator coolant and on the battery. The Rambler American, has, as standard equipment, self-adjusting Double-Safety brakes. These allow the front and rear brakes to operate independently—for a double margin of safety. No other Canadian built car offers this feature. And there are many more exceptional features to add to Rambler's value.

Yes, value is the reason for Rambler's success. A success so great we've gone into a second shift to meet the demand for new Ramblers. We feel we've developed a formula for success: economy, worthwhile features and the lowest price of any Canadian built car. See your Rambler dealer soon. Test drive a new Rambler American. Find out for yourself why we say it's Canada's best all 'round car value.

'Flybirds' Find Weatherman Bad But Enjoy Pair of Breakfasts

PICTON — The weatherman has been unfriendly to pilots at times, but on occasion it can do them a good turn. Eight planes left Picton airport Sunday morning for a breakfast flight to Brockville. At Gananoque, a low ceiling forced them to turn back to Kingston where club members proved their hospitality with a fine breakfast. The weather cleared and the planes took off for Brockville, arriving in time for a second breakfast. Accompanied by another plane, they went on to Ottawa where a tour of the aviation museum was a highlight. Due to the two breakfasts, the visitors held off lunch until three o'clock, with the Ottawa club repaying the hospitality accorded to them in Picton in June. The Ottawa club was invited back.

Pilots making the trip were: Doug Marvin, Wellington; Frank Verity, Gunnar Marvin, Frank Foley, Clare Faulkner, Gib White of Belleville; Dick Cleary, Colborne; Ray Irwin, Batawa; Don Foot of Belleville who is currently employed in Brockville.

Bride-to-Be Feted by China Shower

PICTON—Mrs. Russell Alexander, Mrs. Don Beaumont and Mrs. Raymond Smith were co-hostesses last Thursday at the latter's home, Bloomfield road, at a happy event honoring Miss Rosemary Lockyer, whose marriage to Mr. Roland Mouatt takes place this month.

The theme was lovely with baskets of flowers and decorations were carried out in pink and white.

Misses Janet Alexander and Patricia Lockyer carried in the decorated basket containing the lovely cups and saucers.

Vacationers On Increase In County

PICTON — The number of holidayers in Prince Edward county is increasing, according to resort owners and bookings are good well into August. The first two weeks of July were a bit disappointing to cottage owners.

The Outlet Provincial Park had approximately 7,000 people using the beach facilities on Sunday, as 1,734 cars passed through the gates. In addition there were 250 parties occupying the camp sites, though none was turned away.

There was plenty of activity in addition to bathing and picnicking—the helicopter and plane rides over the scenic area, pony rides, trampoline show, waterskiing— provided entertainment for those who preferred to sit and enjoy the cooling breeze.

Walters Family Celebrates Anniversary

PICTON—Members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Walters, Bloomfield, gathered at their home on Sunday on the occasion of their 40th anniversary and held a noon picnic dinner.

Mrs. Walters was the recipient of a red rose corsage and a dozen red roses for their ruby anniversary were presented to the guests of honor by their family. Bouquets of sweet peas were arranged in the home by Mrs. Lyle Hagerman.

Refreshments included a lovely anniversary cake and were decorated by their daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Kellogg, of Wellington.

Guests attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Don Walters and Douglas of Islington; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kellogg and family, Wellington; Mrs. and Mrs. Arthur McCormack and family of Mrs. Ben Walters, Fenelon Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hagerman and family.

Soldier Hurt In Car Crash

PICTON — Gunner Charles Keyth, of Belleville, suffered a broken wrist Friday night when his army jeep was in collision with a car driven by Frank Newton, 168 Bridge Street, Picton. Both cars were travelling in the same direction on Highway 33 in the village of Hillier. The car allegedly swung in front of the jeep which caught the rear fender, causing the driver to lose control. It overturned and left the highway. A passenger in the jeep escaped with a cut knee. Damage to jeep was about $250. The car did not overturn and damage was only slight.

County Constable Earl Marvin investigated. Witnesses were "out" for 90 minutes after the accident, faces a charge of drunk driving.

Smoke Warning Prevents Fire

PICTON — Early discovery prevented a serious fire at the home of Andy Cole, 4 Main Street West, Monday afternoon. Smoke gave the alarm and investigation revealed a corner of a bed in the children's bedroom to be on fire. It had apparently been smouldering for some time. The room was blackened by smoke and other upstairs rooms filled, but little damage was done by fire. Members of Picton fire department promptly responded to the call. Origin of the blaze is not known.

of the medical scheme, college and government have traded views and charges in prepared statements.

A tasteful program featured both Premier Lloyd and Dr. Dodgson, but they were interviewed separately.

Direct talks between the college council and the cabinet broke down last month.

MANY WILL DECIDE

Dr. Dodgson said Monday many doctors will decide within the next few days whether to remain in the province. He said this is the week of decision for individual doctors.

At the time of withdrawal of normal service, many doctors said they would remain two weeks to see how things worked out before deciding on a permanent course of action.

There are no exact figures on how many doctors have left the province and how many of these went because of the medical care plan. The college estimates about 100. Of these, it is not known how many left permanently or combined a vacation with a job-seeking trip and may return.

In Regina, the city's emergency service coordinator, Mr. Clayton Crosby, said Saskatchewan doctors are "lousy and disgruntled" at terms under which British doctors are coming to the province.

The Medical Care Insurance Commission, administering body for the act, has been recruiting United Kingdom doctors to provide temporary medical service. About 85 have been recruited and about half of them already are in the province.

The British doctors are being flown to Saskatchewan, licensed for practice in the province, then being sent to points which are not covered by emergency service centres.

They are on short-term agreements which provide cost of living allowances both ways, expenses involved in practice and salaries ranging up to $500 a month.

Dr. Crosby said the province's doctors are not feeling the strain of financial pressure "this is no fairy," he said.

He said doctors engaged in the emergency service are wedding voluntarily and providing free medical service, Dr. Crosby said of the doctors who have come into the province under arrangements with the government.

"It is humorous to suggest that the people are crooks in the reasons of service. Those terms might be enough to induce me to go there."

CAN CHANGE WORLD

PHENIX, Calif. (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said Monday night adolescents have the power to change the world, and he called on them to live the way of Christ. In a sermon prepared for an eight-day "crusade," he said: "Youth has been used to save and destroy nations. Student riots have overthrown governments. They have tremendous power."

Deport Prison Riot Leader To Canada

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Canadian fugitive, one of the costly and spectacular prison riot at Southern Michigan prison in Jackson in 1952 has been quietly released from prison.

Quite unreleased from prison, Jack Hyatt, known as Crazy Jack, was deported to Canada Friday, it was learned Monday.

Vern H.S. immigration agents took Hyatt to the border after his release and put him on a train to Leamington, Ont., with a one-way ticket.

Hyatt originally was sentenced in 1943 to 25 to 30 years for armed robbery. Following the prison riot, he was sentenced to 15 to 28 years for kidnapping and a guard, the term to be served concurrently.

His release came because of an automatic allowance given "good time."

Hyatt spent nearly eight years in solitary confinement after the second sentence was imposed.

Also in the earlier day at Marquette, Hyatt joined a group of convicts armed with knives that tried to kidnap then Governor G. Mennen Williams and use him as a hostage during an unsuccessful escape attempt. Williams now is assistant state secretary for African affairs.

Hyatt was not prosecuted for this incident.

Airport Copter In New York Lands in River

NEW YORK (AP) — A passenger helicopter with 23 persons aboard suttered an engine failure made in dusty heavy landing Monday in the East River. It stayed afloat and was towed to land.

The Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington said it received a report from the aircraft's operators that "there is no danger and no injuries to passengers."

The twin-engined helicopter took off from Newark Airport in mid-afternoon with 19 passengers and three crew members aboard. It made a five-minute flight to the Wall Street heliport on the East River.

As the helicopter prepared to land, one engine quit and the aircraft came down short of the landing area.

Four coast guard vessels and a fire department launch hurried to the scene and stood by while a police boat towed the helicopter to shore. Several ambulances were on hand there and passengers were taken to hospital for precautionary checkups.

The Boeing Vertion-107 helicopter is one of several that shuttle between the three major airports in the New York metropolitan area. The Boeing firm claims it is certified by federal authorities for emergency landings on water and will float indefinitely.

Business Briefs

OTTAWA (CP)— Department store sales dropped 13.7 per cent in the week ended July 7 from the corresponding 1961 period, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The decreases ranged from 22.2 per cent in Ontario to 1.5 per cent in Alberta. The figures were partly influenced by the fact that there was one more shopping day in 1962.

Steel ingot production rose 11 per cent in the week ended July 14 to 141,366 tons from 127,397 in the preceding week. Output in the corresponding 1961 period was 126,908 tons.

Cold storage holdings of meat amounted to 26,886,000 pounds at the beginning of July, compared with 27,139,000 a month earlier and 26,126,000 a year earlier. Lard holdings dropped to 4,443,000 pounds from 5,215,000 a month earlier.

May sales of radio sets rose to 67,130 units from 50,743 in the same month last year. Cumulative sales climbed to 21,286 units from 19,139 last year.

Shipments by manufacturers in May were valued at an estimated $3,215,000,000 or 7.3 per cent higher than a year ago. The revised April figure was $2,000,000,000 or 7.8 per cent lower than the May estimate. Shipments for the five-month period since Jan. 1 total $15,900,000,000 or 9.3 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Canadian imports by value were higher in most major commodities last February than a year earlier and the chief exception was in farm machinery and farm equipment. The bureau revised the previously-published value downward slightly at $447,824,000 or 13.4 per cent higher than the $395,179,000 record in February, 1961. The combined January-February imports total is $890,140,000 or 14.2 per cent higher than the comparable period of 1961.

Labor Seeks Legal Advice On Boycott

SASKATOON (CP) — A Saskatchewan Federation of Labor convention said Monday the federation is seeking legal advice on its proposed boycott of business which closed last Wednesday to allow employees to attend a mass rally in Regina.

Some businesses here and at many other points in the province closed July 11 to allow employees who wished to attend a rally sponsored by the Keep Our Doctors Committee to protest the CCF government's medical care insurance plan.

Fred MacLeland, SFL president, of Saskatoon, said that part of Saskatoon businesses that closed is almost complete but the federation wants legal advice before releasing it.

He said he believed a good percentage of the 26,000 persons affiliated with the federation and their families, would support the proposed boycott.

Mr. MacLeland added that the SFL does not fully approve of the government's medical care legislation but the federation is prepared to go along with it and seek changes by "proper methods."

He said doctors who withdrew normal services July 1 with implementation of the plan, and the people of Saskatchewan would give the plan a fair trial.

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Newspapermen covering police beats, and those of other law-enforcing agencies have, with many other people, heard the expression, "Ignorance of a law is no excuse for breaking it"—or words to that effect.

But it seems to me the promulgation—or the lack of it—of the latest water-safety edict of the Federal Department of Transport has given the "bad guys" the chance to toss the trivial expression back in the faces of those who use it.

The departmental ruling, which came into effect July 1st, states that all boats 16 feet or less in length with outboard motors of 10 horsepower or over, must carry plates stating the carrying capacity.

There is nothing wrong with the ruling. In fact, it is highly commendable, and should go a long way to reduce the number of boating accidents caused by overloading.

Boating, yachting, power-boating, in fact all water-craft and reveisnt activities, have noted a marked upsurgence in the past year or so. Commensurate-ly, accident rates have risen likewise.

Water-safety campaigns are being conducted by various organizations all over the country. The ability to swim is now regarded as a must by danger-conscious bodies. Parents, in increasing numbers are seeing to it that offspring are being taught to swim at a tender age. Organized camps for boys and girls stress this particular activity.

The only thing with which the Transport Department's new boat ruling can be faulted, is that it has not been publicized. At least not to any appreciable extent.

Whatever publicity was given the announcement of the new ruling was meagre, to say the least. If there were advertisements in the daily and weekly press then I failed to notice them. So did a swarm of motor boat owners.

In fact, several told me the first intimation they had of the ruling came when they were stopped by RCAF officers to see their plates. The situation is general in the district and apparently, the province. A large percentage of boat-owners around Toronto when interviewed by the press said they knew nothing of the ruling. Several Bay of Quinte owners told me the same thing.

And there is a severe punitive jolt attached to the non-ownership of the plates or plaques. If found "guilty" the boat owner is liable to a fine of $100 or a jail term not exceeding six months. That is a pretty stiff dose for justifiable "ignorance."

If you are the potential proud owner of a brand new 1962 power-craft then you have nothing to worry about. Your new boat will come equipped with the plate.

But to be on the safe side, and avoid any embarrassing situations with Mounties or other law-enforcing gentlemen, motor-boat owners are advised to get their plates right away. After all the law is the law, and while the Department of Transport has been decidedly lax in not properly bringing it to the public notice, it is "in the books."

The procedure is—if you own a boat 16 feet or under in length, and powered by a motor of 10 h.p. or more—to get in touch with the nearest customs office (there is one in the city), and get an application. A friend can pick it up for you if you can't make it yourself.

You will be sent a long, long form which you will fill out with the application. These will be sent in the enclosed self-addressed envelope to the Nautical Safety Branch Department of Transport, Ottawa, with the one dollar fee.

In the meantime if you are stopped by the Mounties and questioned—don't blow your top at the scarlet-jacketed boys. They are merely doing their duty and in no way responsible for laxity on the part of department officials in bringing the ruling to the public notice.

Cowan Wins Team Berth

TORONTO (CP) — Gary Cowan, 24 - year - old Canadian amateur golf champion from Kitchener Rockway, blazed a five-under-par 137 in the 36-hole Willingdon Cup trials to clinch a berth on the 1962 four-man Ontario team.

Cowan, ousted in the Ontario Amateur semi-finals by Bill Gardner of Toronto - Saturday, came back Monday with a two-under-par 69 in the morning round and a 68 in the afternoon 18 of the medal-play trials.

Rick Wamlock, who won his fifth Ontario Amateur title Saturday, shot 72-69—141 Monday to take third spot behind Phil Brownlee of Toronto Scarborough, Brownlee had 69-71—140.

Lou Mohner of Toronto recovered from a three-over-par 74 in the morning to shoot 69 in the final round and win fourth spot.

Jeff McGrath of Oshawa won the first of three alternate spots on the Willingdon team with a flight front here.

Ken Tarplee of Toronto Scarborough, Ont. Amateur champion, fired a 71-74—145 over the 6,393-yard course.

Other results included:

Hauser, Kitchener, 75-69—137

New York Yankees have the American League schedule working for them.

The Yankees own their appealing margin lead to a doubtance over the weaker clubs. They also have more games remaining with the lower three teams than their principal rivals for the No. 1 spot, Los Angeles Angels and Cleveland Indians, tied for second spot.

Against Boston Red Sox, Kansas City Athletics and Washington Senators, the last three teams in the standings, New York has a 17-4 won-lost record. Los Angeles is 25-11 and Cleveland 18-12.

New York has 33 games left with the also-rans. Los Angeles has 18 and Cleveland 24.

The Yankees used the best-the-week-lately formula Monday to push their lead to 3½ games, beating Kansas City 3-1. Los Angeles slipped back to a tie for second spot with idle Cleveland. Then Washington's Dan Rudolph threw a four-hitter, and beat the Angels and Ted Bowsfield of Victoria, B.C., 4-1, in the only other game scheduled.

The Yankee triumph was their eighth in 10 games with the Athletics this season. Two errors by second baseman Billy Consolo helped Ford's masterful pitching were the key factors as the Yanks expanded their lead to six games ahead of the season.

A Consolo miscue in the second inning paved the way to two unearned New York runs, while Ford's seventh shutout going into the ninth be-

Threatens Overhaul

Richards Mad at Colts

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Paul Richards is threatening a move for overhaul of his Houston Colts.

"We're not playing major league baseball," said the general manager of the National League club that lost 15 of its last 21 games.

Richards, speaking Monday of Sunday's split of a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs, said: "It was sickening the way we kicked them around."

The Colts committed five errors in the first game but won a 5-4 decision on Bob Aspromonte's ninth-inning single.

Richards announced a four-player reshuffle five minutes after the second game was over. He received pitcher Jim Umbricht and catcher Jim Campbell from the Oklahoma City farm club and optioned Dave Giusti and catcher Merritt Ranew to the Triple A farm club.

"I may brave 25 new players to look around here before long if we can find them," Richards said.

Ranew has been batting only .227, although it was generally accepted he has beaten out veteran Hal Smith as the No. 1 receiver.

Campbell has been hitting .333 in Triple A.

Leafs Drop Squeaker To Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For a while, pitcher Bob Smith of Columbus Jets was so hot against Atlanta Crackers in the International League that the Crackers couldn't have been blamed for leaving their bats in the race when they ran into him.

He started three times against Atlanta and had three shutouts. Smith started again Monday night and it appeared he was on his way for a fourth shutout as he recorded three runless innings.

But the Crackers drove him from the box six hits in the fourth and fifth innings and went on to a 7-4 victory.

Smith escaped the loss, however, which went to relief pitcher Bill Fischer, who served up eighth-inning homers to Angel Scull and Fred Hopke.

MISS CHANCE

Toronto Maple Leafs missed a chance to move up on the league leading Jacksonville Suns whose game at Richmond was rained out. The Leafs dropped an 11th inning decision to Rochester. Wings 3-2 when Danny Kravitz hit a home run.

Buffalo Bisons and Syracuse Chiefs also tangled in an extra-inning game which Buffalo won 4-1 in 12 frames.

The Columbus loss not only cracked Smith's shutout string but snapped a six-game victory streak for the Jets. Columbus jumped off to a 3-0 lead, slipped behind once but tied it 3-3 before Scull hit his first home run since joining Atlanta since mid-June and Hopke had his second of the year.

Each team scored a run in the Sixth inning at Rochester. Joe Durham put the Red Wings ahead for the third inning but Steve Demeter's homer for the Leafs tied it.

Toronto starter Cal Browning left after 10 innings for a pinch hitter and Ralph Houk who served the homer to Kravitz with one out in the 11th. It was the first Rochester hit since the fourth inning.

Syracuse pitcher Tom Belcher held the hard-hitting Bisons to six hits and one run for 11 innings, but the Bisons got three in the 12th, the last two scoring when John Green let a ball through in right field for an error.

Bob Locke went the first nine innings for Buffalo, then left for Bob Humphreys. Dick Ricketts pitched the last three frames and singled to start the winning rally.

Balding To Defend Millar

TORONTO (CP) — Defending champion Al Balding of Toronto will be on hand today for the qualifying round of the Millar Trophy tournament which goes at Uplands golf club.

Balding will take time out from the professional circuit in the United States to defend the championship he has won four times.

Among 96 professional golfers from throughout Ontario were scheduled to tee off today. As the four tournament days progresses the field will be cut to 72, 32 and halved until the final pair meet.

GREAT SEAPORT

Rotterdam since the Second World War has become the world's second - largest trade port, with New York first and London third.

Flash may football expert out of the woods these days and he'll tell you that the Eastern Conference this season has been pruned to three little contenders —Montreal Alouettes, Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Not necessarily in that order, but they are the powers.

Hardly anyone with the exception, of course, of coach Frank Clair, general manager George Terlep and other paid employees of the club—figured Ottawa Rough Riders will be on deck when the layoffs start next November.

Clair is the type who can come up with the unexpected, although the odds seem to be stacked against him this time.

He has lost end Bill Sowalski, back Gerry Nesbitt and he could lose a couple of first-string Canadians — defensive captain Gary Schreider and linebacker Ron Stewart.

Schreider and Stewart are expected to continue their law studies in Toronto next year. Neither has signed a Riders contract because the coach has said they'll play football on a full-time basis or not at all.

The Rough Riders play their first exhibition game against British Columbia Lions at Ottawa Thursday night and their fans apparently are not unduly alarmed.

TICKET SALES GOOD

Terlep has reported an advance season - ticket sale of 8,100, 100 more than at the same 1961 period and last year the Riders started out on the quarter to their Grey Cup championship.

The Alouettes, from gossip out of their training camp, could be the team to beat. They had the best defensive record last year, but the offence was gutted by defections, particularly from all regrets—has shopped around.

His big catch was quarter-back Sandy Stephens, 22 - year - old signal caller from the University of Minnesota and everybody's all-American quarter. He hasn't got offensive tackle Roger Kramer six - foot - five 280-pounder from Middlesex, Pennsylvania College; halfbacks Sam Fernandez, University of Miami, Florida; Bobby Lee Thompson, University of Arizona and a couple others.

Virtually all key men from 1961 team have been retained. The Als' first big test is at home Thursday night against Calgary Stampeders.

Coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton figures he has a stronger team and a faster backfield with better blocking than the Ticats team that lost in the Eastern final to Winnipeg Blue Bombers last year.

Runnels, Davis Are Top Hitters

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Runnels, a veteran of 12 big league seasons, and rookie Manny Jimenez are waging an interesting duel for the American League batting lead.

Runnels, of Boston Red Sox, increased his lead to seven points last week by collecting eight hits in 23 trips while Jimenez managed five hits in 19 attempts. Runnels gained one point to .341 and the Kansas City outfielder slumped five points to .334.

The figure include Sunday's games.

Tommy Davis of Los Angeles Dodgers held onto his slim margin in the National League. Davis remained at .353 within 6-for-17 showing while Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, last year's titleholder, zoomed eight points to .330 with nine hits in 25 at-bats.

Veteran Stan Musial of St. Louis advanced one place to third at .330, increasing his average six points with five hits in 21 trips.

Jim Gentile of Baltimore slammed three homers and moved into a challenging position behind Los Angeles' Leon Wagner, Gentile has 24 homers and Wagner leads the American League with 26. Roger Maris of New York Yankees and Norm Cash, Detroit are next with 23 apiece. Wagner also is in front in runs batted in with 68.

Willie Mays of San Francisco continues to pace the National League in homers with 23. Tommy Davis drives in five runs last week and lifted his leading total to 95.

Says Laver Will Not Turn Pro

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia received a secret assurance some weeks ago that Wimbledon champion Rod Laver would not turn professional this year, tennis writer Donald Lawrence wrote today.

Writing in the Melbourne newspaper The Age, Lawrence says the assurance was given by Australian Davis Cup captain-ly LTAA officials and Australian professional Frank Sedgman.

Lawrence quotes Sedgman, who returned from overseas Sunday, as saying: "We have offered Laver $85,000 on a two-year contract. He also told the LTAA not to worry about losing him for the Davis Cup challenge round because we do not want him until 1 is over."

Sedgman said he and Kramer can pay Tony Trabert had several long talks with Laver at London.

"There is no doubt he wants to turn," Sedgman was reported to have said. "But he wants to make sure he will get more money as a professional than he is getting now as an amateur."

The reference to Laver's earnings as an amateur was not explained.

Army May Throw Block

OTTAWA (CP)—The United States' draft board may throw a block into Ottawa Rough Riders plans to bolster their defensive football lineup with the second choice Dixon Edwards of Morgantown, W.Va.

The former Marshall College star left training camp Sunday on his way home where he will attempt to have his entire term with U.S. military service deferred until the football season is over, if his bid fails, Edwards, 22, will be in an army uniform later this month.

Harness Fans Like Longer Race

TORONTO (CP)—The decision of racing secretary Courtney A. Smith to stage the first 1¼-mile harness race in Old Woodbine's history turned out to be a hit with the crowd of 6,241 Monday night.

Smith who devised from the one-mile standard - bred normally crowded last summer by awarding 5% furlong events, came up with the notion last week of scheduling the more gruelling nine-furlong grind and will follow up Monday night's experiment with another 1¼-mile race on Wednesday night for 3 and 4 pacers.

The crowd was in an uproar throughout the long race down the stretch involving five horses.

At the end the four-year-old April Haven owned by Mi-Jean Farm of St. Catharines and driven by young Gary Campbell, had a head margin on a blanket of four paces.

Dr. John Findlay had Miss Golden, owned by the Golden Lee Farm of Montreal, in the place position, nearly in advance of Full Swing, owned by Miss Webster of Brantford and driven by Almer Holmes; County Lad owned by Garnet Kirkpatrick of Orillia and driven by Carmen Hall, and Joan's Commander from Dave Pinkney's Stratford stable with Harold Wellwood driving.

The first two horses were comparative outsiders in this quinella race setting a one-two payoff of $233.20. April Haven paid $10.50 on the winning end and Miss Golden was $17.50 for place.

Whip Cards, Four Games Back

Pirates Train Guns On Top Target

By JOE RICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roberto Clemente thought he should have been voted the National League's most valuable player two years ago when he helped Pittsburgh Pirates win the pennant by batting .314.

Pirate shortstop Dick Groat, who won the batting title with .325 got the award.

Clemente thought he should have received the MVP award last year when he led the league with a .351 batting average. But the Pirates finished third and Frank Robinson of the pennant - winning Cincinnati Reds gained the honor.

Clemente figures the only change he has to do with the award this year is to capture the batting title again and help Pittsburgh win the pennant. Robinson and the Pirates are making a determined bid for both.

With Clemente hitting safely in his 16th consecutive game and sizzling Pittsburgh Pirates gan coming through with a ground-shaking sweep of Los Angeles, defeated St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 Monday night to inch within four percentage points of the league-leading Los Angles Dodgers. It was Pittsburgh's 7th victory in their last 21 games.

GIANTS EDGE METS

The San Francisco San Francisco Giants edged New York Mets 3-2 to narrow the Dodgers' margin to two games, while Milwaukee Braves, behind the six-hit pitching of Tony Cloninger, blanked Cincinnati Reds 3-0.

Rain forced postponement of a Chicago Cub-Colt game scheduled at Houston's Colt Stadium and Philadelphia Phillies were not scheduled for action.

Clemente's 16-game, .429, four points behind pace - setting Robinson, drive included 30 hits. In the last month he has batted .430, hitting safely in all but three games. Groat, who is torrid but has kept the Pirates in the thick of the race.

Clemente's hit Monday night figured prominently in the Pirates' 5-3 victory over Cards. Roy Sieck of the Cards held a 3-1 lead when the Pirates batted in sixth with a walk and Clements singled.

Right - hack Stuart filed out, Bob Skinner walked and Logan singled to load the bases. Groat's his first extra-base hit of the season. The blast sombled Al McBean to register his fourth straight and 10th victory of the season.

Stan Musial of the Cards had two hits in three trips to the plate.

BLTS .345

Bob Garibaldi, San Francisco's $125,000 bi - weekly purchased on a ninth-inning rally by the Mets with one pitch to help the Giants win the rubber match of the three - game series.

Don Larsen, the second Giant pitcher, had walked the first two Mets in the 9th. Then Miller came in, retiring the next two batters to force a run-scoring single to Richie Ashburn, cutting the Giants' lead to 3-2.

Garibaldi, 29, a righthander who donned a Giant uniform for the first time last Sunday, replaced Miller and delivered Rod Kanehl to hit his first pitch to Willie Mays in centre field to end the game.

Jack Sanford gained his 11th victory for the Giants, making possible in the top of the ninth inning when pinch - runner Manny Mota scored on Bob Miller's second wild pitch of the inning. Starter Roger Craig was charged with his 12th defeat.

Home runs by Joe Adcock and Roy McMillan supported Hendley's masterful pitching which resulted in his ninth triumph for the Braves. Both homers — McMillan's came with one on—were at the expense of Joey Jay, who had beaten the Braves five straight times since traded to the Reds last year for McMillan. It was Jay's ninth defeat. He has won 13 games.

Moss Invited To Mosport

TORONTO (CP) — Stirling Moss has been invited as a "special guest" to the Canadian National sports car race meet at Mosport July 21, a spokesman for the sponsoring Canada Valley Car Club says.

Rod Thurgood of Brantford said Monday a cable was sent to Moss, who is recuperating in England from injuries suffered in a race this spring.

Thurgood said about 140 entries had been received for the meet. The feature event of the eighteen race meet, will be the 200 of the 2.4-mile Mosport circuit near Orono, about 35 miles east of Oshawa.

Remarkable Recovery

Ted Bowsfield Had Polio

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lefthander Ted Bowsfield of the Angeles Angels was warming up for an American League game against Boston Red Sox here May 30 when he made a frightening discovery.

Bowsfield, 25, Penticton; B.C., didn't start the game but there was no apparent cause for concern. It seemed to be just another sore arm.

Bowsfield explained the trouble in a interview Monday. He had polio.

The 6th naturally didn't say so, but there was a chance Bowsfield might never pitch again, even though he had only a mild form of the disease.

Bowsfield's left arm was so weak he couldn't lift a three-pound weight. The disease, doctors said, had caused a collapse of the muscles high in the back of his arm.

Dr. Robert Woods, the Angels' physician, said it might have been much worse if Bowsfield hadn't had Salk anti-pol shots.

He underwent electrical shock treatments but for a while they didn't appear to do much good. Bowsfield tried to play catch one night and couldn't throw the ball 20 feet.

"But my arm got a little stronger every day," he said. "Before long I was able to throw the ball from the outfield to the infield."

Ted, a six - foot - one, 190-pounder, didn't pitch again until June 20, when he started a game at Kansas City. He allowed the Athletics.

"I was scared to death," he said.

He felt much better before the game was over. He pitched six innings; allowed only one run and picked up his second victory in five decisions as the Angels won 5-1.

Bowsfield's recovery looked even more complete after his next few starts. He ran his winning streak to four games—beating New York Yankees twice in the process—before taking a loss Monday as the Angels were whipped," he said.

Win By 4-2 Count

Juniors Upset Joyces

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Rollins Juniors kept their playoffs hopes alive when they upset the league-leading Joyce Real Estate 4-2 at the Fairgrounds last night. It was Joyces' second defeat of the week. The win boosted the Juniors to within two points of the Bobcats, who tangle with Joyces in an eight o'clock fixture tonight. Rollins go to Trenton Wednesday and the Flyers play the Bobcats here Thursday.

The Juniors jumped into an early lead last night, scoring single runs in the first two innings and making it a six in the third. Joyces plating singletons in the fourth and seventh innings.

Rollins had pitcher Doug Eblin in hot water all night. He walked the first batter and Dugans followed with a double. A double play, the first of two that Joyces used to keep the score down in the early frames, eased the tension but Weston banged a two-bagger to drive in a run.

Kellar walked leading off the second and, scored after two were out on Locke's base hit. Eblin, third baseman Elliott's leading off and Kellar walked with two out. The lead runner was tried to score on a passed ball and he jarred the ball loose from catcher LeRoy Wannamaker. Kellar also came on in from second on the error to make it 4-0.

Batchelor got one back for Joyces in the fourth, singling and Joe's Pointer. Time 1:36.

and Wannamaker's fly out. He hit a bounding triple with two out in the sixth but died on third.

Joyces' final marker came when Robitaille misplayed Faulkner's low grounder to left field into a home run. The lowers got two on, via walks, in the eighth and Elliott hit a bullet over third but McGuire made a fine fielding grab of the game.

Sonny Holloway pitched sound ball and got over the distance to gain the victory. He struck out one, walked three and got excellent support.

Ellis stayed the route in defeat, giving up six hits in all. He struck out eight but also walked eight.

Pete Weston hit a double and single and Paul Gokos rapped a pair of singles to spark Rollins' key victory. Gary Dugans doubled and Rick Locke had a single.

Ted Batchelor tripled and singled for Joyces, while Bert Faulkner had a double and Terry Kellar a double.

Brighton Girls Defeat Belleville

Brighton Merchants exploded for seven runs in the sixth inning to defeat the Belleville Suncrorettes 9-1 in Bay of Quinte Women's softball league play at Brighton last night.

Each club scored once in the first inning and it stayed 1-1 until the sixth. Mary Slaught pitched four-hit ball for Brighton, fanning 13 and also slugged a home run.

S. Hill, M. Slaught, R. Evans, D. Sherman, J. Wright and D. Godeck had two hits apiece for Brighton. L. Peake had two hits for the Suncorettes with one each for S. Claus and J. MacDonald.

Belleville plays host to Picton Jets on the Parkdale diamond Wednesday evening at seven o'clock.

Saskatchewan City Councils Back Doctors

REGINA (CP) — The councils of Saskatchewan's 21 cities either support the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons or are neutral in the medical care controversy in the province.

The strongest stand was taken by the Yorkton council, at a regular meeting two days after the medical care plan was instituted it unanimously voted unconditional support of Saskatchewan doctors.

The Estevan city council voted in favor of the stand taken by the college and sent a telegram to Premier Lloyd asking that the medical care plan be suspended until agreement with the doctors can be reached.

The position of the North Battleford council was set out in a letter to a CCF party caucus in Regina.

SUGGESTS SUSPENSION

The letter said the government should suspend the medical care act and negotiate one acceptable to the doctors; it said, "we strongly oppose the present Medical Care Act," but endorsed some kind of prepaid medical care.

MAYOR STATES NEUTRAL

City council in Regina, with the exception of Mayor Henry Baker, urged the government to suspend the medical care plan and negotiate with doctors. Mayor Baker said he would remain neutral.

The Weyburn council asked the government to suspend the medical care plan until a satisfactory agreement is reached between doctors and government and urged immediate negotiations on the impasse. The Melville council endorsed the principle of universal medical insurance. One council member voted against the resolution.

Mayor W. R. Bailey blamed the impasse on what he said was the stubborness of Premier Lloyd and Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, president of the provincial college of Physicians and Surgeons. He called them "two arrogant gentlemen."

The Melville council also suggested a plebiscite might be held among the people of the province on the medical care question.

WANTS NEGOTIATIONS

In Swift Current, council asked immediate negotiations to end the doctor-government impasse and said if such were not possible the Medical Care Act should be suspended.

City councils in Weyburn, Moose Jaw, Lloydminster and Prince Albert are officially neutral on the medical care question.

The Weyburn council met with doctors and suggested they become employees of the city. But was turned down. The council sent a wire to the provincial government and the college urging it "deplores the threatened loss of doctors from this community and implores the College of Physicians and Surgeons and the provincial government to resolve their differences . . ."

Mayor C. B. Fysh of Moose Jaw said his city's council took an impartial stand so that aldermen would be available as mediators should a chance for them to act arise.

Lines of Jurisdiction Drawn Fine by Unions

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Turn on the wind machines," said the director as the actors stood shivering in the rain.

But who was to turn them on?

There was a brief meeting as the jurisdiction was decided. If the fans were electric and under 16 inches in width, they would be operated by members of one electricians' local, if more than 18 inches, by members of a local of a different electricians' union.

Or, if the fan is gasoline-driven, it is handled by the members of the prop men's local.

This shows how fine the lines of jurisdiction have been drawn in the motion picture industry. Virtually everyone but the bosses are unionized in the studio, and even the bosses have their own guild, the Screen Directors Guild.

Each studio deals with about 45 unions. Actual shooting is handled by members of 20 unions. Most are strong and jealous of their realm of influence.

Says one studio labor relations man: "I don't think there is any other industry in which the lines of demarcation for duties are so finely drawn."

A labor executive said:

"Stage crews could be cut 25 per cent if duties were not so rigidly enforced—that is, if an electrician would help move a set, etc. As it is, we have sets full of workers, some of whom actually work only a small percentage of the day.

"It's ridiculous to hire a plumber for all day just to turn on a faucet once."

Labor men argue that their members are craftsmen who have worked long and hard to establish their skills and that specialization provides efficiency. Even some of Hollywood film crews concede that they are the best in the world.

Union maker Fred Zinnemann, who rose from the ranks, complains: "You can't undo these unions, and nobody wants to. I can remember the years before the unions, of a crew used to work every Saturday until midnight on weekdays and

"But there is definitely featherbedding in the labor ranks."

Durelle Schmidt Fight Draw

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) Young Joey Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., and Peter Schmidt, a ringwise campaigner from Toronto, battled to a draw decision last night in their 12-round fight for the vacant Canadian welterweight boxing title.

Joey, cousin of onetime world light - heavyweight contender Yvon Durelle, scored well in the early rounds with a left hook, but suddenly appeared to tire, giving Schmidt the opportunity to rally.

Schmidt weighed 146½ to Durelle's 145½.

The welterweight crown was vacated last May by Ottawa's Gale Krzywy who quit the ring to devote more time to his job.

Schmidt was ranked the No. 3 contender for the title by the Canadian Boxing Federation. Durelle was rated third.

TO CUT DOLLAR DRAIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary McNamara ordered a Monday drive to slash Browncrass drain on the United States dollar by another $900,000,000 a year without cutting U.S. fighting power abroad. The aim is to reach the objective by 1950, with more than half of the $900,000,000 savings coming through reductions in spending overseas, most of which is done in Europe.

AT THE BELLE — Today and Wednesday — Elvis Presley sings five new songs, homesteads a strip of land in present day Florida, and routs a pair of 20th Century outlaws in "Follow That Dream", continuing today and Wednesday. The romantic comedy that is entertaining large audiences at the Belle Theatre is in Color by De Luxe and Panavision.

Astrological Forecast

Wednesday, July 18 — By SIDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — What you have promised is no longer something to consider for the "future". It is here now, today! Fulfillment of promises to others and to yourself of utmost importance.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) —Key is adherence to principle. No use trying to "get by". Face facts, issues squarely. This way you win through recognition, respect. You simply cannot bypass major issues.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —The more independent you are, the more self-satisfaction materializes. You cannot follow whims, desires, of others without undermining your own basic position.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) —You should make diplomatic attempt to settle financial dispute. Otherwise, there is trouble ahead. Be specific, but sympathetic. Let others know you are sincere and strong.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Social life could be higher. Today you should be extremely cautious. Take special care with regard to spending, rash promises, impulsive actions. Go slow but don't stop effort.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Stress on relations with fellow workers, those who perform services for you. Check details. Permit no excuse for misunderstanding, fairness, clarity.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — You could push, hurry, strain, but most benefit is derived from "quiet" knowledge. Be simple, self-opinion. You gain valuable allies by explaining position clearly, kindly.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) —Others watch your reactions carefully. Don't betray yourself, keep "poker face". Appear strong and you will be! This soon becomes crystal-clear. Think objectively.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Put ideas on paper. Visit friends. Enhance vacation or "relaxation" plans. Be "called the move". No time for sitting and brooding. Much in your favor if you look around!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Situation could appear "gloomy", but finances will straighten out in your favor. Know this, act with confidence. You'll achieve success very soon.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Cycle up, but what you make of it depends upon willingness to accept responsibility. Don't budge, impression you make on "superiors". Show your talent, imagination.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Be realistic. What you desire now and what exists may be poles apart. Bring them "together" by action based on knowledge and effort. Basic research helps fulfill ambitions.

If today is your birthday . . . much "pressure" is relieved by October. July represents "testing" period. Show that you are capable of coming up with new creative ideas, plans.

Cancer Tendencies: . . . Day when those who talk about "universal friendship" are called upon to produce the plan. Cycle up for Capricorn, Aquarius, Pisces.

28 Countries Sign Agreement Cutting Tariffs

GENEVA (Reuters)—Twenty-eight nations, including Canada Monday rounded off tariff negotiations involving an estimated $4,900,000,000 in concessions.

Government representatives signed the final act authenticating the results of the 1960-61 tariff conference under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

An "item by item" technique was the one generally used during the tariff conference. However, a new approach was contained in the offer of the European Common Market to reduce the common tariff by 20 per cent over a wide range of its imports if the community's negotiating partners were prepared to make a similar cut in their own tariffs.

The total number of concessions negotiated in the tariff conference as a whole was about 4,000.

A GATT communique said that the countries which took part in the round of negotiations are, in addition to Canada:

The United States, Austria, Britain, Belgium, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, the six nations of the Common Market, Finland, Haiti, India, Israel, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland.

Regier Resigns To Let Douglas Contest Seat

OTTAWA (CP) — Erhart Regier, newly-elected MP for Burnaby-Coquitlam resigned his British Columbia seat in the Commons Monday to make way for Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas to contest the constituency in a byelection.

Mr. Regier's move is to help Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the cabinet the questions of when the byelection will be held—at which Mr. Douglas intends to stand—and whether the government will call a general election.

Mr. Douglas was defeated in Regina constituency in the June 18 general election. His provincial election incumbent Ken More, Mr. Regier was re-elected in Burnaby-Coquitlam with a 5,000 majority.

The 46 - year - old Burnaby school teacher will become a party organizer, an NDP source said. But he is also expected to seek another seat in the Commons when the new electoral boundaries are has been in Parliament since 1958.

If the government decides on a byelection as soon as possible—as Prime Minister Diefenbaker has requested—the earliest day would be Sept. 4, the Tuesday, after Labor Day.

Home Operator Fined at Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Jean Catherine Hutchings, mother of children were found living in squalor Monday, has been assessed a total of $50 in fines and costs.

G. F. Hutchings, a sanitary inspector, told Magistrate P. J. Boisby that when he toured the home last month with a public health nurse he found 31 children and 10 adults crowded into 10 by 12 feet.

Mr. Hutchings testified some of the mattresses in the house were dirty and smelled of urine and there were pots of urine, human and cat excreta on the floors.

The magistrate said the children "were being neglected in a terrible fashion." He fined Mrs. Callahan $100 and $13 costs on a charge of illegally operating an unlicensed boarding home and $50 and $3 costs for failing to keep it clean.

The woman also faces a charge of neglecting eight children. The case will be heard Aug. 15.

RESETS REPEAGE DUE

OTTAWA (CP)—Target date for the arrival of the first of 100 Hong Kong refugees families to be admitted to Canada has been advanced to mid-August, the immigration department said Monday. The department said the expectation that the movement would start by Monday was not realized because of difficulties being encountered in locating eligible families of refugees from Communist China.

MACMILLAN

pointed minister of state at the Board of Trade, replacing Reginald Joseph, who last Friday was appointed to the ministry of housing and local government.

Lord Eglin Cromwell, 46, and Mrs. Jacobsen, 60, succeed Lord Dilhorne, who became joint parliamentary secretary to the ministries of agriculture, fisheries and food. Both predecessors in these offices were Lord Hailsham and William Vane.

Macmillan's axe also cut the number of women in the government to two from three when he removed Edith Pitt, parliamentary secretary to the health ministry, from the administration.

The second series of changes had been widely predicted.

PRESS HEADLINES

But they still made the top headlines in the British press this morning—with editorial writers commenting on the political sympathies of each person.

The Daily Telegraph, Conservative, sees the changes as "a surprising strengthening for men of intellect and independent judgment, men with minds of their own, capable of making their own mistakes."

The Daily Mail, Conservative, salutes Macmillan for "a high courage in political matters." It concedes the ruling party had "a lot to do, a lot to cure," but says "the rot had gone deep and called for major surgery." It warns Macmillan that the people "will be impatient for results."

"A sharp rebuff has been administered to merely routine competence and overdrawn administrative efficiency," says The Daily Telegraph, Conservative.

From his political opponents there were the expected comments that Macmillan himself should be the next to go.

"Macmillan's day is over and no Stalin-style purges of his old colleagues will save him," declared Liberal party leader Jo Grimond.

"The prime minister has now thrust enormous harm by his sad a Conservative peer, Lord Lambton, on a television program with prostitutes. 'If you get rid of your closest colleagues, there must be something wrong with leadership."

Missionary, Wife Slain In Somalia

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Merlin Grove, 33, of Markham, Ont., and his wife, 31, were killed in his wife seriously injured in Somalia, Africa, the U.S. Navy bill, secretary of the eastern Mennonite board of missions, said Monday.

Kraybill said the board headquarters at nearby Akron had received a cablegram from the Somalia health ministry where Grove and his wife were serving.

The wire, Kraybill added, stated the Groves were stabbed while registering a group of students for evening classes at the mission in Mogadiscio. Mrs. Grove was reported to have died in clo hospital with multiple stab wounds from the knife individual who killed her husband.

No reason for the assault was given in the wire.

LET THEM GO'

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—President Fidel Castro Monday night accused Cuba's middle class of supporting counter - revolutionary stories. He said Cuba's self-employed workers henceforth will enjoy fewer tax privileges. The "bourgeois" live in luxury, he charged, while the Yankees but their hopes are confounded . . . let them go to Miami."

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Shrinking Due In Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Tornado, Ont. (Special)—It was the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids without pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance. The secret is a new healing ointment" was reported and verified by doctors after thorough research observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual shrinkage took place. Moreover, this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough

Pay to Firms Talks by Mr. K. In Guardian

LONDON (Reuters)—The Soviet news agency Novosti today bought a 2½-page advertisement in the Manchester Guardian to promote Soviet Premier Khrushchev's speech to the World Peace Congress in Moscow last week.

The advertisement was headed "General and complete disarmament is a guarantee of peace and security for all nations," and gave the full text of Khrushchev's speech.

The Guardian commented on another page that the advertisement is the first of its kind to be published in the West.

"Soviet officials believe that the speech—which was reported in the ordinary way in The Guardian last Wednesday—is taking up more than a column of space—has not received the publicity it deserves," the Guardian said.

The advertisement was donated" by Novosti by arrangement with the Soviet Embassy in London.

The Guardian said the press agency "is effectively recommending which appears to have been ignored, to its readers in order to act more freely, especially abroad, than the official news agency Tass, which is in fact a state organ."

Trust Firms Ask Freedom In Investing

OTTAWA (CP) — The Trust Companies Association of Canada Monday asked more freedom in investment f r e e d o m — especially in stocks and bonds—for estates and trusts, subject to provincial laws.

There is a ring provincial statutes in general confine investments to fixed interest securities, the association told the royal commission on banking and finance, there could often be no hedge against inflation, which seemed likely to continue.

Describing the laws as "much too restrictive for modern investment standards," the association said they are applicable to the majority of the $8,000,000,000 in estates and trusts administered by trust and estate companies.

Most estates governed by provincial laws originated in the depression of the 1920s and were influenced by the fear of inflation noted. But it added there is a "well established trend for wills and trust documents to confer wider powers of investment powers.

In general, provincial legislation confined trustee investments to federal and provincial bonds, mortgages on real estate in municipalities, first mortgage bonds, loan company debentures and trust company guaranteed certificates.

DIED OF INJURIES

OTTAWA (CP) — Melbourne Ross, 60, a resident of nearby North, Gower, Ont., who was injured in a two-car accident a week ago, died in Montreal night in hospital here.

Leading Educationist Against Spending Huge Sums on New Colleges

By KEITH KINCAID

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP)—A leading Canadian educationist says future demands on universities can be met better by developing resources of small schools than by spending huge sums on new ones.

Dr. H. J. Somers, president of St. Francis Xavier University, maintains that new institutions can be created only at he risk of dangerously increasing pressure on the country's supply of education funds and faculty. The result would be to spread thinner than ever the number of available first-class professors.
